Deputy Police Chief and Commissary Slain at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Poland.—While several police officers were attempting to enter a house in the Dvorsky thoroughfare they were attacked by a band of men armed with revolvers and knives.

Two of the officers, a deputy chief of the secret police and a Deputy Commissary, were killed and two others were wounded.

TREASURER ROBBED.

Marengo County's Funds Stolen by Masked Men.

Marengo county's treasurer, Mr. Brasfield, was in his office at a late hour Friday night in the court house at Demopolis preparing his books and other things so as to be in readiness for court this week, and standing with his back turned to the door and did not hear the footsteps of any one approaching.

He turned to face three pistols pointed toward his head by three masked men, who commanded him to throw up his hands. The safe was open at the time and while two held him up the third proceeded to empty the safe of its contents. After getting all that they could, something like $5,000, with a pistol still held upon Mr. Brasfield they backed out of the court house with their boodle and that was the last thing seen or heard of them.

Mr. Brasfield immediately notified Sheriff Hasty and his deputies, who made every effort in their power to catch the thieves. Mr. Brasfield has held the office for the past eight years. The robbers are supposed to be white men.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Huntsville Man Committed a Double Crime Friday.

As she was in the act of laying her baby in bed at midnight Fleming Froman, of Dallas mills, near Huntsville, shot his wife, followed her as she ran into the yard, cut her throat and then inflicted fatal wounds upon himself. Neighbors heard the shots and rushed to the place, Froman meeting them at the gate. He stood there with his throat horribly gashed and told what he had done; then going back to the body of his wife he cut his throat again and fell dead beside her.

Crushed to Death.

Oscar Crauswell, a well known man, met a violent death Saturday at noon at one of the Tennessee company's mines. He was at work about a new piece of machinery and was in some manner caught and crushed to death. The unfortunate young man was but twenty-two years of age and had been married only two months. He had been with the Tennessee company since he was ten years of age.

Restored to Her Parents.

Lucy Cole, who was abandoned in Florence last fall by a tribe of wandering gypsies, has been identified positively as Laura Nation, who disappeared eight years ago from her home in Elwood, Kas., when she was three years old. The child was identified by birthmarks. Her parents live in St. Joseph, Mo. James W. Nation, who believes he has now found his long lost child, was in affluent circumstances when she disappeared eight years ago, but he has spent everything he possessed in a hitherto vain search for her and is now driving a delivery wagon in St. Joseph.

Damages for Blind Girl.

Miss Rosie Middleton, a blind girl of Phenix City, has received $10,500 damages from the Pennsylvania railroad, the result of injuries she received last December in a wreck.

Miss Middleton has been a teacher in a blind academy up north and last Christmas was traveling to a town near Philadelphia to visit relatives when her train was wrecked. The road gave her $10,500 voluntarily, this amount being agreed upon as reasonable.

At Elkhart, Ind., the rays of the sun focused through a gold fish jar, set fire to the clothing of a woman who was sleeping in a chair near an open window and the flames were extinguished only after she had been severely burned.

The government of the republic of Panama has indicated its desire to have $1,000,000 of the amount to be paid to that country on account of the canal purchase transmitted to J. P. Morgan & Co., their fiscal agents, at New York, the remaining $9,000,000 to await the arrival of the Panama minister in June.

Fatally Burned.

At Prattville while Mrs. Martha Hearn was standing before the fire her clothing took fire and before assistance could reach her all her clothing was burned off. The burn proved be so serious that she died. She was 72 years old.

A party of Guntersville people have chartered a steamboat for a trip to the St. Louis exposition. The steamer will leave Guntersville early this summer and will make a leisurely passage down the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee rivers. The boat will be well stocked with everything conducive to the comfort of the passengers.

Harris Dexter Not Guilty.

Harris E. Dexter, the fourteen-year-old Randolph boy who has been on trial in the Superior Court, at Dedham, Mass., on a charge of causing the death of his brother Parker, was found not guilty.

Dynamite Kills Two.

While thawing dynamite at the kitchen stove William Francis and his baby were killed at Owosso, Mich., and Mrs. Francis and two children badly hurt.

JAPANESE VICTORY

Russians Beaten in First Battle on Land.

After five days of fighting, largely with artillery, the first Japanese army, under General Kuroki, has forced a crossing of the Yalu river, and with an infantry charge, covering a frontage of four miles, drove the Russians from Chiu Tien Cheng and the heights opposite Wiju. The Japanese turned the left flank of the Russian position and swept away the new front interposed by the Russians.

The twelfth division of the Japanese army was chosen to make the first crossing of the Yalu. It began on Friday by driving the Russians from their position eight miles above Wiju, and the point selected for the crossing. This division constructed a bridge and Saturday morning began crossing. The entire division passed over.

The Japanese captured twenty-eight quick-firing guns, much ammunition, more than twenty officers and many non-commissioned officers and men as prisoners. It is reported that General Sazoitch and General Kashtolinsky were wounded. Our casualties number about 700 and their loss is more than 800 men.

The Russians were forced to abandon Antung. They burned the town and retreated.

The Russian report of the battle acknowledges defeat, but ascribes it to superior numbers and the aid of Japanese war ships.

Work of the Japanese.

The special commission appointed to inquire into the cause of the sinking of the battleship Petropavlovsk has established beyond a doubt the fact that the battleship struck a mine laid by the enemy within the radius of the customary evolutions of our fleet on the occasion of its sorties into the outer roadstead to meet the enemy.

Japan's Treatment of Prisoners.

The advanced position taken by the Japanese in the adoption of humane rules of warfare shown in a report to the state department from United States Minister Griscom at Tokio, in which he encloses a communication to himself from Baron Komura, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs. The ministers shows that Japan is the first country to give full effect to the elaborate code of laws governing war laid down by The Hague conference.

He announces that there has already been put into operation by the Japanese the rule of war regulating the dispatch of letters, money orders and valuables between the prisoners of war and their friends in their own country. The Japanese government also has ordered that such prisoners be supplied free with postal facilities, communication and means of receiving gifts. Also they are not subjected to any railway charges.

At Pekin it is declared that Russian officials are circulating a story accusing China of having made a secret treaty with Japan regarding the port of Amoy, and the province of Fu Kien and containing the statement that prominent Chinese and Japanese officials have left Shanghai for Amoy to arrange the preliminaries of the treaty. Chinese and Japanese officials unite in denying the accusation.

It is reported that a Russian submarine vessel has sunk a Japanese transport and sent 600 souls to the bottom.

A Russian loan aggregating $100,000,000 is soon to be offered to the world.

Two hundred war correspondents are now traveling with the Japanese army.

A rich gold find is reported from Mexico.

The police, in searching the room of Artal, the young student who several weeks ago attempted the assassination of Premier Maura at Barcelona, found letters from two Paterson, N. J., anarchists urging Artal to assassinate King Alfonso. The government intends to request their extradition.

At Countess Cassini's bazaar for the Russian Red Cross Society Miss Durand, daughter of the British ambassador, paid a hundred dollars for her portion of tea. In order that no misunderstanding should result Durand sent a hundred dollars to the Japanese minister for the Japanese Red Cross. Many contributors adopted Durand's plan and the Japanese legation received considerable money for this reason.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons, of Chicago, has sent a check for $50,000 to the Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla.

Saturday morning the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis was formally opened.

Our Exports.

Exports of manufactures still promise to exceed in the fiscal year 1904 those of any preceding year. The nine months' figures of the fiscal year, just announced by the department of commerce and labor, show a total of seventeen million dollars greater than the corresponding months of the fiscal year 1900, in which the exports of manufactures reached their highest figures.

MANY HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

Long Branch Express Hits a Florida Bound Flyer.

INJURED GET SLIGHT WOUNDS

Collision Due to Accident to Air Tube on Southern Train—Express Running Forty Miles an Hour Plowed Its Way Through Rear Coach—One Man Killed Outright.

Elizabeth, N. J.—In a rear-end collision, which occurred a short distance west of the Pennsylvania Railroad station here, when the Long Branch Express, heavily laden, ran into the rear of the Florida Special, one man was killed and twenty-seven persons were injured. Most of the injured received only slight wounds.

The collision was due to an accident to the Southern train, and could have been avoided, it is asserted, had the engineer of the Long Branch train heeded the signal, which was set for his direction. The Florida Express is composed of eight Pullman coaches. It had not gone far from the station in Jersey City when the air tube connecting the forward coach to the engine parted.

That caused the automatic air brakes to be applied at once to the train. The extra strain on the engine caused by the application of the brakes caused the coupling pin between the tender and the first car to break, and the engine darted ahead, while the cars stopped within a short distance.

The engineer at once applied the brakes to the locomotive, and as soon as he was able started back to pick up his train. He had just reached the coaches and was about to recouple them, when the accident occurred.

The Long Branch Express was making forty miles an hour at the curve when the fireman in the cab saw the stalled train ahead. He shouted to the engineer, who at once applied the brakes, but not soon enough to prevent the collision.

The engine struck the rear Pullman, the England, tearing its way through the coach almost to the forward end. The car was split in half and the parts fell to either side of the track. No one except a porter was in the car when the accident occurred, and though some of the passengers in the forward coaches received a severe shaking up, the injured were on the two forward cars of the Long Branch Express.

Dead: David Letts, fireman of the Long Branch Express; body taken to the Elizabeth morgue.

Injured: The Rev. Mr. Kelley, Asbury Park; concussion of the brain and internal injuries; taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital. Mrs. W. E. Armstrong, Long Branch, shock. Thomas Beatty, Long Branch, cut by glass. Mrs. E. H. Bennett, East Orange; back sprained. B. T. Benson, 30 Wall Street, New York City; teeth knocked out. Mrs. E. Blanchard, 280 Macon street, Brooklyn; back sprained. Mrs. Richard Bottigheimer, 22 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn; nose broken. James B. Brown, Asbury Park; leg broken. Mrs. W. L. Craig, Asbury Park; scalp wounds and cuts. George L. Crane, Long Branch; face cut. John F. Fontham, 58 West Ninety-ninth street, New York City; shock. Mrs. Emma Fergueson, Newark; sprains. H. O. Goldsmith, Wall Street Information Bureau; chest wounds. G. Guning, Asbury Park; nose and face wounds. Mrs. Margaret Garretson, Asbury Park; teeth knocked out and face cut. J. A. Jones, Birdsville; leg broken. Walter Hall, Red Bank; sprains. Miss L. A. Lane, Ocean Grove; sprains. P. M. Layman, New York City; side sprains. J. W. Laughlin, Belmar; head and face cut. Mrs. Alice Mumma, Harrisburg, Pa.; sprains. Mrs. A. M. McCraig, Eatontown; shock. Mrs. John G. Sexton, Long Branch; spine injured. Mrs. Sadie Smith, 338 East Fifty-eighth street, New York City; mouth cut. D. R. Van Brunt, West Spring Lake, N. J.; sprains. Miss B. M. Weber, Asbury Park, N. J.; face cut. W. H. Whitely, 57 Morton street, New York City; head cut. Mrs. Clarence Whiting, Red Bank; nose broken.

SHOTS AT SPANISH PREMIER.

An Organized Plot to Assassinate Senor Maura.

Madrid, Spain.—Premier Maura, who arrived here, was shot at, but was not wounded, while on his way here from the Balearic Islands.

The official report of the incident given out by the Minister of the Interior says:

"As the train was running between Alicante and San Vincente some persons fired and others threw stones. The gendarmes accompanying the train returned the fire. Neither the Premier nor any of the other passengers was hurt. Two arrests were made."

Later details show that the attempt on Senor Maura's life was an organized plot, in which between thirty and forty men armed with revolvers were concerned.

A regular fusillade was exchanged between the gendarmes accompanying the train and the miscreants. Many marks of bullets were found in the train afterward.

Drought Killing Cattle in Texas.

Cattle are dying by the hundreds on the ranches in West Texas for want of water and grass. The drought is the severest experienced in that section for many years. Thousands of head of cattle are too weak to be moved to more distant pastures, and they have been abandoned to die on the range.

Safe Blowers Cause $60,000 Fire.

The fire that destroyed the Art Study plant at Janesville, Wis., was caused by burglars blowing open the safe. The loss by fire was $60,000; insurance, $15,000. There was no money in the safe.

MISLEADING STATEMENTS.

"The facts are, as we learn from the treasurer, that every dollar that the county owes has been paid, except one thousand dollars that is not due until January 1, 1905, Judge Longshore stated to the Calera mass meeting that the taxes due last fall would put the county out of debt, and his statement has been verified."—Peoples Advocate.

Yes; but do the facts verify the statement?

Even the Advocate is a little mixed in its statements, for in one place it declares "the county is free from debt," and in another place admits that the county owes a thousand dollars. By what sort of juggling of words does the Advocate hope to harmonize the foregoing statements. It is very well aware of the fact that the county, only a few weeks ago (before the grand jury met), borrowed from an Ensley banker at least eight thousand dollars, and that it is due the first day of January, 1905. And a warrant for one thousand dollars outstanding on a bridge debt, and which is due January 1st, next, makes an indebtedness of $9,000. Will the Advocate dispute this?

Then, again; there is a discrepancy between the reports of the last two grand juries. The last grand jury says: "The indebtedness of the county of about $11,000 existing at the time of the report of the last grand jury was paid out of the taxes collected," The report makes no reference to the present condition of affairs except that "the county is out of funds" and must borrow money, and that, too, almost at the beginning of the year. Read the following excerpt from the report of the last grand jury prior to the present term:

"As best we can ascertain, the county's indebtedness for borrowed money and on outstanding warrants and of all kinds, is $17,425,89. but of this amount there is now on hand in the hands of the Columbiana Savings Bank about $1,600.00 of money borrowed by the county, which is not charged to the treasurer, but which is to be turned over to him to pay the necessary expenses of the present term of the court and other expenses. We have not estimated the expenses of this term of the court as any of the county's outstanding indebtedness, and we estimate that the greater portion of this fund will be required for such court expenses, and after they are paid the county will owe approximately $17,000.00 on all accounts. Of this indebtedness $11,000.00 is for borrowed money, borrowed at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, all of which has been used for county purposes, except the said sum of about $1,000 above mentioned, as we are informed, is to be used for paying the expenses of this term of the court."

Now what does the recent grand jury say in relation to this matter? The following is from its report:

"The indebtedness of the county or about $11,000.00 existing at the time of the report of the last grand jury was paid out of taxes collected. but the county is now out of funds * * * and it will be necessary for the county to borrow from $8,000.00 to $10,000 to meet current expenses."

There appears to be a discrepancy of about $6.000 between the two reports that is unaccounted for. And yet the Advocate would impress upon the taxpayers that the county is out of debt.

Notwithstanding the fact that the taxable valuation of property in Shelby county has increased nearly one million dollars in the past few years. yet the tax rate has nearly doubled itself under the administration of the populist leaders, the county is in debt and must borrow money.

Notwithstanding the fact that the present administration placed upon and collected (except from the railroads) from the taxpayers of the county an illegal and unlawful tax to help swell(?) the treasury, yet "the county is out of funds" and must borrow money. Not only must but has already done so.

The Advocate will have a hard time trying to make the taxpayers believe Shelby county is out of debt. The people know different, and so does the Advocate.

THINK ABOUT IT!

The Sentinel has never doubted that the rank and file of those who left the Democratic party to help make up the populist party, did so with honest purposes, heralding the conglomeration as a party of reform They complained of the burdens of government, and sought relief in something new. The ills complained of were national, and the discontented held to the assumption that relief would be found in a radical readjustment of the currency system; in governmental ownership and the operation of private property; in paternal warehouses; in federal interference with and supervision of local affairs and interests; in the surrender of local self-government in return for national pap. What an array of ideas for the demagogue to play upon, to juggle with, and from which to choose his slogans! The atmosphere was rent with "16 to 1," "government railroads," "warehouse receipts," and the like, and upon such issues, made lurid by the new-born statesmen, leaders of populism, here and there, went into local offices—the culmination of those luminous questions.

The "Klondike," various providences, in the way of tempering the sun and rains, and the ordering of supply and demand; the greater economy of consumers; the better methods of production; something—perhaps sheer exhaustion of the calamity howlers, pacified the great swell of discontent. The bubble which soared so airily with tinted theories and rainbow promises exploded and dissolved. The populist party was no more.

The heavy burdens of government come to the citizen in the shape of taxation. They grow heavier on account of greater expenditure, more oppressive from profligacy and misappropriation by public officers, and absolutely intolerable when laid unequally on the shoulders of the weaker. The people of Shelby county now carry these multiplied weights as their legacy from the late political turbulence. They realize this, and only await the opportunity to reinstall Democratic doctrines and methods.

One of the boasted achievements of the populist administration in this county, is the increased values of assessments. This has resulted, not so much from methods employed by county officials, as from natural development and actual enhancement of property values, noticeable thro'out the State, and the methods put in operation by State legislation, conceived and enacted by Democrats; the design of which was, and the result of which should have been, the lowering of the tax rate in direct proportion, and an equalization of the burden on all taxpayers alike. Doubling the assessed values ought to result in splitting the tax rate in half. A tax value of $4,500,000 should require a rate of only 20 cents on the hundred, under populist administration, and result in keeping money in the treasury, if, under Democratic administration, a value of $2,250,000 required a rate of only 40 cts. on the hundred to show regular balances; provided, of course, the same wisdom, care and executive ability prevailed.

But what are the results as we find them? Instead of a reduced rate, we find that, notwithstanding increased values, the rate of taxation is almost doubled and the burden thereby quadrupled. Instead of 20 cents, we have a 70 cents rate, and instead of a treasury balance we have a debt of thousands of dollars. At the same ratio, if the property values should enhance, or be pushed to $9,000,000, a tax rate of $1.00 on the hundred would be inadequate to keep the county debt from piling up; provided, of course, the same financiers remained in charge.

The pertinent inquiry arises then: Where does the increased revenue go? Is it upon the roads? The State Examiner. in his sworn report, says that something like $8,000 of money levied and collected for road purposes, and constituting a sacred fund, found its way illegally into the general fund. Is it upon the bridges? The records show that levies were made to pay for the same bridges twice, perhaps three times. And The Sentinel is advised that warrants issued against the "Bridge Fund" are still unpaid; that the "Bridge Fund" cannot be located, and that one of the most expensive bridges is yet unbuilt, for which the people have been twice specifically taxed.

Double Assessment!
Triple Levies!!
Quadruple Debt!!!

This is the record the present inefficient administration has made and must explain.

These are but a few of the things the taxpayers of the county should do some sober thinking about.

MORE DEMAGOGUERY.

"Some of the Democratic candidates were mighty loving to the country people before their primary election. but since that time they wont hardly speak to them on the streets; but if they were to get elected in November they would do worse than that, they would not ask you to dinner with them and would also disfranchise you from jury duty as they did once several years ago; keep your eyes on them, they will bare watching."—Advocate.

Of course they will "bare" watching, whatever that means. But just watch them reach goal in November before the enemy gets fairly started.

But the sentiment expressed in the above is so little; so intent to prejudice neighbor against neighbor; so flagrantly insulting to men, some of whom have lived in Shelby county all their lives, that it will have just the reverse effect desired by the Advocate. It is a reflection upon every man who was a candidate in the Democratic primary. Then, too, it is a little "amoosin'" to note how intensely hard up the Advocate is for matter to fill space. Prejudice pure and simple. And what is prejudice, pray? It is an opinion unsupported by reason. It is an Ishmaelite. Outside of its own circle it pays no compliments, scatters no sunshine, strews no flowers. It is dark, malevolent, malicious. It is a frost bringer to the heart; a cloud gatherer; a storm and dissension breeder. It is blind, deaf and stubborn. Its vocation is misrepresentation, its main argument hate when met with antagonism. It has no head and cannot think; no heart and cannot feel. Its decalogue is written in the slander heaped upon its victims. When a party organ resorts to or attempts to prejudice one class of men against another with the hope of winning, it is in a hard row of stumps. It is demagoguery of the most despicable kind.

The road law passed in 1898 empowered the Court of County Commissioners to "levy a special tax of not less than one-tenth or more than one-fifth of one per cent. on all taxable property, and it shall be kept separate from other funds." The foregoing quotation is from Section 17 of the special road law. The Constitution authorized only a levy of one-half of one per cent. for county purposes; but the present administration which prides itself upon its administrative record, ignorantly or wilfully proceeded to levy three-fifths of one-per cent. including the road tax. The taxpayers of the county, railroads excepted, had this tax to pay. The railroads contested the levy in the courts; the court held the levy to be unlawful and rendered a decision in favor of the railroads. The people paid the unlawful levy, and added to it were the costs of an expensive lawsuit. The railroads did not pay the tax. If the levy was made ignorantly the act in no way exculpates the present administration in levying an unlawful tax; if it was done wilfully the adminstration is unworthy the suffrage of the voters in the November election.

The present county administration levied an illegal tax upon the people of the county and made them pay it. The same levy was placed upon the railroads in this county and they refused to pay. The county through the present administration brought suit against the railroads; the court decided in favor of the railroads, holding the levy to have been an unlawful one. The other taxpayers of the county were made to pay this illegal tax. The Shelby Iron Company paid the tax under protest, and a part of it was afterward refunded the company. Was any of that illegally collected tax ever refunded to any of the farmers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, miners or mechanics of this county? Not a bit of it! Does the Advocate endorse this wholesale hold-up of the taxpayers of the county by the present administration?

A Shelby county man who has been in the counsels of the populist party in this county ever since it was born, says this is the last populist ticket that will ever go before the people of this county. He says a good many of the populist are going back to the Democratic party from whence they came, but that a greater portion of them will go to the Republican party. "Without a national organization," he says, "there is no use of a local populist party."

"Encouraging reports continue to come in from all over the county, the populists are gaining ground every day.',—Advocate.

Just keep whistling, brother; your waning strength and courage needs a lot of it. But along about the night of the November election your reports will not be so encouraging. You will then know, if you do not know it now, that your reports emanated from a "central office."

The county owes but one thousand dollars, says the Advocate. How about the eight thousand dollars borrowed from an Ensley banker a few weeks ago? If the statement of the Advocate be true, then the loan of a few weeks ago was not a loan but a gift.

REMOVE THE MACHINERY.

Wilsonville, Ala., April 30, '04.
Editor Sentinel, Columbiana.

Will you grant me space in your paper to say a word about the road machinary that is "stored" alongside the public road just east of Columbiana?

Why is it not removed from its present location. It is a menace to the safety of every person who drives by it. Only last Tuesday a terrible accident was narrowly averted at that place. A farmer was driving along the road when his team became badly frightened at this roads machinery, and but for the fact that two men on horseback, who were just behind the farmer's wagon, coming to the reseue the county would have had a big lawsuit on its hands.

I have heard that this machinery has been purchased by the county, and I have also heard this report disputed. Be that as it may, it looks a little strange that a concern which manufactures such costly machinery should leave it out in the weather to rust and rot away, unless there was some kind of an understanding with someone as to its future disposition. If it has been purchased by the county it looks very much like little care is being taken of county property.

But whether or not this machinery has been bought by the county, the county is liable for damages if any one gets hurt through a team that may become frightened at this machinery. I am told that the Commissioners have loaned a part of it to private parties; if the Commissioners control it far enough to loan it, why not exercise that control and have it removed from the public highway? As it is, every person who drives a team or rides a horse on that road is in danger of being seriously hurt if not fatally injured.

I write this in the interest of the traveling public, and especially so in the interest of those who travel the dirt road between Wilsonville and Columbiana. The machinery should be removed, whether it belongs to the county, or to the manufacturers; and it should be removed before a distressing accident discloses its ownership.

VERITAS.

BOWIE'S ADDRESS.

To the Editor of The Age-Herald.

I desire to express my high appreciation of the address by Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, member of congress from Alabama, before the Conference for Education in the South, recently held in your city.

There were many practical, eloquent and scholarly addresses delivered during the sittings of that conference, and comparisons will not be odious, but will only serve to elevate the conceptions and appreciation of all of them. The address by Prof. C. Alphonso Smith, professor of English in the University of North Carolina, from some points of view, deserves special mention. It was chaste, beautiful, scholarly and eloquent to a high degree—a gem with a magnificent setting.

But the best address, delivered on that occasion, for Alabama in her school interests and school work, because of its practical bearings on the question of free public schools, and its plain but startling facts, was that delivered by Mr. Bowie. It should have wide distribution. May I suggest that the State Superintendent of Education have it published in pamphlet form and scattered throughout the State as a means of educating the people on the important question of schools.

W. C. DENSON.

FROM BEAT 17.

Editor Sentinel, Columbiana:

I have been thinking for some time of writing you in relation to the political situation, and of the future outlook of the Democratic party in Beat 17 in the coming election, but owing to a complication of circumstances I have thus far been prevented. One reason—I have been confined to my room during the past several days with—what I term "bilious lagrippe," and while I am much improved, am still unable to resume duty.

During my sickness, to my great comfort, I have been honored with the presence of numerous friends who reside in this immediate vicinity. A number of these friends have heretofore opposed the Democratic party but there now seems to be a universal dissatfaction among the Populists of our beat as to the present leadership of their party, their past record and manipulation of the affairs in general. In consequence they now say while they did not go into the Democratic primary, yet they are highly pleased with our nominees, whom the majority say they intend to support in the coming election. These utterances being from the lips of reliable and honorable gentlemen came to me as a joy and an inspiration.

It is a great source of comfort to note the apparent daily increasing strength of the Democratic party, and to hear the numerous deserved complimentary remarks from the voters, heretofore associated with the opposition, concerning the nominees of the Democratic party.

Owing to my physical weakness, I will not undertake to say further at than this: with the true principles of Democracy, together with the influence of our nominees whose fitness for the positions they seek, and whose characters are irreproachable, will bring unto us unbounded success in the coming election. Yours truly.

Arlirs Kytle has a position with Jackson & Tinney near Sterrett.

The Advocate seems to think that there is great honor and much money in serving as a juror, from the way it howls about Pops not being allowed to sit on juries under a Democratic administration. The fact is the Democrats tried to secure competent jurors while the populists try to accommodate as many of their friends as possible.

We would not like for present jury commission to draw jurors to try a case for us. It tickled us when we read in The Sentinel that Judge Alston lectured the jury commission.

HONEST JOHN.

LYNCH.

Rev. J. D. Martin, of Centerville, preached an interesting sermon at Mt. Era Sunday night.

J. W. Shaw, of Weldon, was a welcome visitor in our community last week.

Quite a number of our people attended the Sunday School Association at Mt. Chapel and report a grand time.

John M Dye transacted business at Columbiana Monday.

R. J. Farr made a business trip to Columbiana, Friday.

Miss Nancy Dye left Monday for Redlawn where she has a music class.

Miss Clara Shaw, of Weldon, is here studying music.

There will be a Children's Day exercise at Mt. Era on the second Sunday in June.

A good warm rain and warm sunshine would be greatly appreciated by all.

Mrs. W. H. Farr visited relatives on Waxahatchie last week.

Hurrah for the Democratic nominees. The writer is personaly acquainted with each one of them, and will say they are all good, clean christian gentleman, well qualified to perfo m the duties of respective officers.

Success to Brother Whitaker and The Sentinel. Let all lend a helping hand toward making The Sentinel the best weekly in the State.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

J. F. Pope, of Wilsonville, was in town Monday.

J. M. Kifer, of Shelby, was a Columbiana visitor Tuesday.

L. M. Dyke went up to Birmingham Monday on a business mission.

Claude Jackson came down from Wilsonville Monday in his automobile.

Phillip Erlick was a visitor to Birmingham and Bessemer Tuesday.

Clarence Abbott, of Shelby, was in town last Sunday, visiting friends.

Quite a party of Columbiana people will visit the World's Fair next month.

The many friends of Rev. H. M. Milstead regret that he is again seriously ill.

Mayor W. B. Browne was a visitor to Talladega Tuesday and is expected home today.

Mrs. Olive Prescott, of Alpine, was in the city last week a guest of Miss Rossie Christian.

"A Pious Fraud" was presented to an appreciative audience in Shelby last Friday night.

J. L. McConaughy, of Montevallo was in town several days last week serving as a special juror.

A. H. Avery, secretary and treasurer of the Shelby Iron Company, was in town Tuesday.

Mrs F. M. Johnson, of Bessemer, is in Columbiana visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cromwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapman visited with relatives in Montevallo last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. H. E. Whitaker visited with her mother in Montevallo last week, returning to Columbiana Sunday.

Mrs. W. F. Davis, Mrs. Rider and children and Miss Davis visited in Montevallo Monday and Tuesday.

Prof. Hall, superintendent of the public schools at Shelby, was in Columbiana last Sunday visiting friends.

Oscar M. Lawley, of Birmingham was in Columbiana several days last week, visiting his brother, W. R. Lawley.

Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Acker were among those who drove over to Shelby last Friday night to see "A Pious Fraud."

Twenty-seven new subscribers have been added to our list within the past week. There is still room for a few more.

Large congregations attended both the morning and night service last Sunday to hear Rev. W. I. Sinnott preach.

Chapman Pitts, of Vincent, was in Columbiana the fore part of the week visiting at the home of his brother, Jno. S. Pitts.

May 21st. Paste the date in your hat. That is the day Captain Hobson is to speak in Columbiana. Mention it to your friends.

John S. Pitts is representative of Shelby Lodge, No. 50, K. of P. at the grand Lodge which is in session at Birmingham this week.

Deputy sheriff, Henry Norris was a visitor to Wilton last Sunday to see his son who is employed in the telegraph office at that place.

Judge J. L. Peters has purchased two lots on East College street, and will erect a handsome residence some time during the summer.

Miss Willie Rhodes, a compositor in The Sentinel office, went down to Montevallo last Thursday to visit her parents, returning Sunday.

A revival service will begin at the Methodist church in Columbiana on the fourth Sunday in May. Dr. Newman, of Talladega, will assist the pastor, Rev. G. T. Harris in the meeting. All are cordially invited to attend.

J. L. Martin has placed upon our table a copy of the New York Herald, bearing date of Saturday, April 15, 1865. The whole of the first page is devoted to details of the assassination of President Lincoln which occured at Ford's Theatre in in Washington the night of April 14, 1865. It is an interesting paper.

The good people of Montevallo, so we are informed by C. L. Meroney, are going to have a fine public school building. At a mass meeting held there last Friday it was decided to issue bonds to the amount of $2,500 with which to build one. The Sentinel congratulates our neighboring city.

It is a pleasure to The Sentinel to announce that Dr. F. M. Peterson, President of the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo, will deliver the Commencement sermon of the Columbiana Graded School in this city next Sunday. He is one of the most able ministers in Alabama,

Mrs. Simon Friedberger and children arrived from Catherine, Willcox county, last Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Friedberger will occupy the cottage just west of Friedberger's store. The good people of Columbiana will extend a most cordial welcome to Mrs. Friedberger.

The play, "Between Love and Riches," is soon to be produced by the Shelby dramatic club for the benefit of the public school of that place. The Sentinel learns that the play will also be produced in Columbiana. If so, our people should give them a good house.

Mrs. Clem Wentsworth, of Asheville, N. C., who was taken sick while visiting relatives in Bessemer some time ago, has been improving for the past few weeks and last Saturday was brought to this city and is now at the home of her father, J. T. Cromwell.

Mrs. C. W. O'Hara and daughter, Miss Ida, returned Monday from a visit with relatives in Douglasville, Ga. The visit was one of peculiar interest to Mrs. O'Hara for the visit was with relatives whom she had not seen in forty years.

The Columbiana base ball team met its Waterloo at Shelby last Friday. At the end of the ninth inning the score was a tie—eleven for each team. In the tenth inning Shelby made one run, while Columbiana failed to land.

Mrs. S. J. Hebson and Mrs. Susie Patterson, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Roberts a few days last week, departed Friday, the former to her home in Sylacauga, and the latter to Randolph to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Meroney, Miss Ethel McMath, Miss Ethel Farrington, L. N. Nabors and Louis Campbell, all of Montevallo, were guests of Mrs. M. E. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davis last Sunday.

Mayor W. B. Browne was fortunate in getting the dinner set which was given away by J. R. White last Monday. A little later on Mr. White will again give away one of these sets to some customer.

Friday, June 17th, is the day fixed for hanging Larkin Johnson, convicted of the murder of John Lawley near Montevallo in March of last year. His case has been appealed to the supreme court.

Revival services will begin at the Methodist church at Shelby on Monday after the second Sunday in May. Rev. K. N. Matthews, of Daviston, Ala., will assist the pastor in the meeting.

The Sentinel is requested to say that a special invitation is extended to the old confederate soldiers to come out and hear Captain Hobson at the Academy, this city, May 21st.

There isn't a better public school in Alabama, taking into consideration the size of the town, than is found in Columbiana. We have the goods to substantiate the statement.

Grover Liles who has been employed in the Tax Assessor's office for several months, is now in the office of Judge J. L. Peters and has taken up the study of law.

W. A. Johnson, one of the most genial traveling men on the road, and who at one time lived in Montevallo, made The Sentinel a pleasant call Tuesday.

Supt. J. B. Farrell informs The Sentinel that a great deal of interest is being manifested in redistricting the school districts of the county.

Miss Lillian Nelson, who has been visiting her sister in Memphis for some time past, returned home last Friday.

COMMENCEMENT

Columbiana Graded School, May 8-12, 1904.

SUNDAY morning, at 11 o'clock, in the Methodist church—Annual sermon, by Dr. F. M. Peterson, of Montevallo, Ala., President of Alabama Girls' Industrial School.
TUESDAY evening, 8 o'clock—Literary address by Col. E. P. Hogan, of Howard College, East Lake, Ala.
WEDNESDAY evening, 8 o'clock—Exercises by classes in Elocution and Physical Culture.
THURSDAY evening, 8 o'clock—Annual concert. Presentation and Delivery of Diplomas.
The public is cordially invited to attend all the exercises.

SPRIGHT DOWELL, Supt.

Commencement Program.

Following is the Commencement program of the Alabama Girls' Industrial School, Montevallo:

Sunday, May 15, 11 a. m.—Sermon Rev. Neal Anderson, Montgomery.

Sunday, May 15, 8 p. m.—Sermon before Y. W. C. A., Rev. Neal Anderson.

Monday, May 16,—Exhibit of Industrial Departments.

Monday, May 16, 10:30, a. m.—Address by Pres. C. C. Thach, Auburn.

Tuesday, May 17, 10:30, a. m.—Baccalaureate Address, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, Anniston. Graduating exercises.

The public is cordially invited to attend these exercises.

Francis M. Peterson,
President.

Shelby Springs Leased.

The Sentinel is informed that Shelby Springs, the delightful summer resort, has been leased by Northern gentlemen for a term of five years and that the place is to be fitted up in fine style. We understand the consideration of the lease is $7,500. The new hotel in course of construction is nearing completion.

There is no reason in the world why this beautiful place should not become one of the most popular of all summer resorts.

Will Build Brick Building.

J. H. Mason, the druggist, has purchased the lot adjoining the Columbiana Savings Bank, and early in the summer will erect a handsome two-story business house thereon. The first floor of the building will be devoted to his drug and pharmacy business, while the second floor will be cut up into offices.

The Sentinel has also heard rumors of another brick building to be built during the summer.

Captain Hobson to Lecture.

The hero of Santiago, Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, will lecture in the Academy, Columbiana, Saturday night, May 21st.

A cordial invitation is extended the people of our neighboring towns to come and hear the young Alabamian who made such an enviable reputation for heroism and daring during the Spanish-American war. Keep the date in your mind, May 21.

Partnership Formed.

Dr. W. P. Hamner, the dentist, has purchased an interest in the drug store of J. H. Mason, and the firm name hereafter will be J. H. Mason & Co.

Mr. Mason and Dr. Hamner are well known to the people of Shelby county, and they will at all times cater to the public through a stock of drugs that is down to date in every particular.

Judge A. H. Alston, who presided at the term of Circuit Court just closed in Columbiana, departed for his home in Clayton last Sunday.

Will Sessions, who is attending the Columbiana Graded School, visited with his parents near Montevallo last Saturday and Sunday.

SHELBY.

For the now closing season, we have had with us Sanders, Blackmore and Burton, and numerous other plays, some of which our people enjoyed, apparently to the limit of possibility, but the climax was reached when on last Friday night a goodly number of Shelby citizens' full of interest and enthusiasm, gathered in the "City Hall" and witnessed "A Pious Fraud," rendered by "Columbiana Local Troupe."

Time after time was the audience carried from the seriousness of love making into convulsions of laughter by the pranks of the would be aunt, acted so effectively by Mr. Grover Liles, who, in reality, was Lord Fencourt Baberly. S. Dowell and Will Lawley, college students and chums, proved that they were not at all inexperienced, and that perseverance will win. Their loved ones, Misses Edna Nelson and Gertrude Roberts, acting in accordance with their wishes, proved that woman is indeed a "help meet." Miss Esther Mason, the real aunt with her ward Miss Stella Powell, arrived just in time to prevent Sir Francis Chesney committing the "error of his life," proposing to the wrong girl!

Mr. J. B. Farrell, as Mr. Spettigue, shows how the report of a lady's millions will make men foolish, and when it is, at last, too late, he realizes the fact that he has been dished.

Master Percy Pitts showed his ability to sing as well as act. The play was good throughout, and was ably assisted by Mr. Whitaker's well rendered songs. Each character showed that talent was not lacking. Who knows but that Columbiana may yet produce a Joe Jefferson or a Viola Allen.

SIAH HALL.

MONTEVALLO.

Mrs. Parham, of Gainesville, Ala., is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. M. Peterson.

Miss Nannie Shivers left Tuesday for an extended visit with relatives in Waco, Tex. □

Among the visitors to the Conference for Education held in Birmingham last week were President Peterson, Prof. Moore, Misses Kennedy, Grogan, Fitts, Harwell, Callen, Wardlaw, Simpson, Bush and Mrs. Hudson, all of the A. G. I. S., also Misses Peterson and Winston, and Revs. Wheeler and Willis, and Mrs. J. L. McConaughy. A great treat is reported by all.

The Studiosis held its last meeting for the year at the Mulkey House on Monday, being entertained by the teachers who make their home there. Officers were elected for 1904-05 as follows: Mrs. J. W. Willis, President; Mrs. Mary C. Babb, Vice-President; Mrs. J. L. McConaughy, Sec.-Treas., and Miss Terrett, Director. The past year has been very pleasant and profitable, the time having been given to to a broad study of French Literature.

An enthusiastic meeting was held last Friday night in the Baptist church in the interest of a new public school building. The Mayor and the Council were requested by motion to take the matter under advisement and report on next Friday, May 6th, on probable cost of building, and the best means of raising necessary funds for its erection. It is hoped that a large crowd will attend the coming meeting and enter heartily into the discussions.

On Saturday evening, April 30th, a program of operatic selections was given by the Misses Sampey, Garrett and Jones, the young ladies who this year finish the course of vocal study in the Girls' School. They were assisted by a large chorus and orchestra. Mrs. Chase's efficiency as a teacher of the vocal art was never better demonstrated. The effort was an ambitious one, both as to solo and choral numbers, but was carried through with a degree of success which spoke volumes for the ability of the singers and the patience and thoroughness of the teacher. Miss Garrett was brilliant in the rendition of the two selections from Carmen, being both in voice and temperament admirably equipped for the richly colored music of Bizet. Miss Annie Laurie Jones was pleasing in the Jewel Song from Faust, but decidedly at her best in "Merce dilette" from the Sicilian Vespers which with her capable rendering proved one of the most delightful numbers of the evening. Miss Annie Dee Sampey sang the heavy numbers of the program and was good in all of them, but reached an artistic climax in the two grand selections from Wagner, Elsa's Dream from Lohengrin, and Elizabeth's Prayer from Tanhaeuser. There was not an uninteresting moment during the whole evening. The chorus was large and evenly trained. The orchestra played the different accompaniments like veterans.

Harpersville.

Some of our farmers had to replant their cotton.

Mrs. Dr. Prescott, of Winterboro, visited relatives here last week.

Walter Hardy, of below Sehna, who has been attending school here, has gone home.

Quite a number of our people attended the quarterly meeting at Calcis Saturday.

Miss Maggie Strock, who was a pupil in our school, has returned to her home in Verbena.

Mrs. Caroline Davis, living two miles north of town, has been very sick for several days, but is better at this writing.

Rev. A. S. Smith preached a very interesting sermon at the Baptist church Saturday, and Rev. Bently did the same Sunday.

John Prescott, of Verbena, another pupil of our school, went to Talladega county to visit his brother Saturday, but is expected to return and spend the summer here.

"Wild Bill," of the Advocate, was among the Democrats Saturday evening. If he would circulate more among the Democrats he would find them a better people than he imagines them to be, notwithstanding the teachings of the Advocate.

Never in the history of Harpersville was there ever such a crowd here as was on last Friday night to witness the closing exercises of the Harpersville High School. Long before the sun had hidden itself behind the western hills the people began coming, and before dark the Academy was overflowing and by 8 o'clock the school yard was full, and town full, all waiting for the exercises to begin. At 8 o'clock the curtain was thrown back, and the appearance of Professor Strock and Miss Stella Posey on the stage was evidence that "the time" had come. I shall not attempt to tell all that was done, if I did it would take up the entire space of The Sentinel this week, but will only say that all the pupils acquitted themselves nicely, evidence that they had been thoroughly trained. No a "hitch" or a "balk" marked the whole exercise. Near the close Rev. A. S. Smith, of Alexander City, was introduced to the large audience by Prof. Strock, and he made one of the best speeches on Education that it has ever been our privilege to hear; in fact, we have heard quite a number say that it was the best ever delivered at Harpersville. There were two prizes offered at the beginning of the session to the ones receiving the highest number of headmarks for spelling in two grades. Misses Mary Posey and Inice Goswick were the successful ones, and prizes were delivered by Rev. O. P. Bently in a few well chosen remarks. Then the last thing on the program was a pantomime "Home, Sweet Home," rendered by eleven girls. It was indeed beautiful and I dare say cannot be excelled. And as the town clock struck 12 the exercises of the Harpersville High School for the session 1903-4 closed. The school was a very harmonious one during the entire session, and if there has ever been any dissatisfaction in any way by either teacher, pupil or patron we have never heard of it. The school opened with 40 pupils and closed with 70, and it seemed that the longer it lasted it grew in strength.

The order Friday night was not as good as it should have been, but considering the vast crowd of people it did very well.

Talladega county, Coosa, Tallapoosa, Calhoun, Jefferson, Dallas, Chilton and St. Clair counties all had representatives here.

PETE.

VINCENT.

"Spring like" weather the past few days, which is a welcome guest.

Ross Johnson spent Sunday with homefolks at Childersburg.

Two gentlemen were here last week trying to organize a club for the purchase of lots in Oklahoma.

Flennoy Walker, Baggage Master on the Central spent Saturday night and a part of Sunday with friends here.

W. H. Kidd is in attendance at the Grand Lodge K. of P.'s, Birmingham this week.

Quite a number of our people attended the quarterly meeting of the Methodist church at Calcis Saturday, and report a most pleasant occasion, and the finest dinner ever set before hungry Methodists.

Mrs. Mollie Slocum, of Birmingham, is with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Kidd this week.

A large crowd of our young people attended the closing exercises of the Harpersville school Friday night, and those who were early enough to get a peep in were delighted with the evening's pleasure.

W. D. Haynes and wife, of Lineville are spending several days with their daughter, Mrs. J. H. Wilder.

Robert Fulenwilder, Esq., had the honor of "tieing the knot" for a young couple Sunday afternoon seated in a buggy near his residence; only a few passers-by being present. The contracting parties were J. R. Moore and Miss Callie Gowers. From whence they came we did not learn.

Prof. O. S. Landham, of Atmore, was in our city a few days recently, making glad the heart of one of our prettiest brown eyed girls. Watch for the cards a'er—ha! ha!

Miss Mamie Davis, while alighting from a wagon at Harpersville Friday night, received a painful injury to one of her feet, but we learn she is improving.

Warner Phillips has a position in Birmingham. Warner has a host of friends here who wish him unbounded success.

Let every person who has the interest of the S. school work at heart go to the next meeting at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon and put their shoulders to the wheel and give one long pull together for the furtherance of this laudable institution.

A vale of sadness was cast over this community about two weeks ago when the death angel removed from our midst Miss Amanda Blackerby, daughter of Mrs Amy Blackerby. She was only sick eleven days with pneumonia when her soul left its house of clay and went back to the God who gave it. Deceased was sixteen years old on March 29, last, and was a model christian girl, ever ready for deeds of kindness and love. Her devotion to her mother and brothers was wonderful. The remains attended by a number of friends here were carried to Vandiver for interment where funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Butts of the Baptist church. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family and may God's richest blessings rest on them.

The Odd Fellows held quite an interesting anniversary here Sunday. They met at the hall at 10:30 a. m. and marched to the M. E. Church where after the welcome address by R. P. Tucker; a very forceful and impressive sermon on the teaching and workings of the Order was delivered by the venerable D. Horn, of Talladega. Quite a number of visiting brothers were present from Childersburg and some from Sylacauga, Birmingham and probably other places. The church was filled to its capacity and all present seemed highly pleased with the good things they heard and no doubt the exercises will be a benefit to the local lodge here as well as the community generally.

"PE-RU-NA," A VALUABLE PREPARATION," WRITES DR. KEMBALL.

Most of the Ailments Peculiar to the Female Sex Are Due to Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

Rachael J. Kemball, M. D., 334 Virginia St., Buffalo, N. Y., is a graduate of the University of Buffalo, class 1884, and has been in the practice of medicine in that city since then. She writes as follows:

"My conviction, supported by experience, is that Peruna is a valuable preparation for all catarrhal affections. I have taken one bottle of Peruna myself and just feel fine. I shall continue to take it."--Rachael J. Kemball, M.D.

Peruna has cured thousands of cases of female weakness. As a rule, however, before Peruna is resorted to several other remedies have been tried in vain. A great many of the patients have taken local treatment, submitted themselves to surgical operations, and taken all sorts of doctor's stuff, without any result.

The reason of so many failures is the fact that diseases peculiar to the female sex are not commonly recognized as being caused by catarrh. These organs are lined by mucous membranes. Any mucous membrane is subject to catarrh.

Female Trouble Not Recognized as Catarrh.

Catarrh of one organ is exactly the same as catarrh of any other organ. What will cure catarrh of the head will also cure catarrh of the pelvic organs. Peruna cures these cases simply because it cures the catarrh.

Most of the women afflicted with pelvic diseases have no idea that their trouble is due to catarrh. The majority of the people think that catarrh is a disease confined to the head alone.

This is not true. Catarrh is liable to attack any organ of the body; throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, kidneys and especially the pelvic organs.

Many a woman has made this discovery after a long siege of useless treatment. She has made the discovery that her disease is catarrh, and that Peruna can be relied upon to cure catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

HOW DO ANIMALS COMMUNICATE?

Why Flocks of Birds, Droves of Beasts and Schools of Fish Act With a Common Impulse.

JOHN BURROUGHS
IN THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

CERTAIN things in animal life lead me to suspect that animals have some means of communication with one another, especially the gregarious animals, that is quite independent of what we mean by language. It is like an interchange or blending of subconscious states, and may be analogous to telepathy among human beings. Observe what a unit a flock of birds becomes when performing their evolutions in the air. They are not many, but one, turning and flashing in the sun with a unity and a precision that it would be hard to imitate. One may see a flock of shore birds that behave as one body; now they turn to the sun a sheet of silver; then, as their dark backs are presented to the beholder, they almost disappear against the shore or the clouds. It would seem as if they all shared in a communal mind or spirit, and that what one felt they all felt at the same instant.

In Jamaica I many times saw large schools of mullets fretting and breaking the surface of the water with what seemed to be the tips of their tails; a large area would be agitated and rippled by the backs or tails of a host of fishes. Then suddenly, while you looked, there would be one splash and every fish would dive. It was a multitude, again, acting as one body. Hundreds, thousands of tails slapped the water at the same instant and were gone.

When the passenger pigeons were numbered by millions, the enormous clams used to migrate from one part of the continent to another. I saw the last flight up the Hudson River valley in the spring of 1876. All day they streamed across the sky. One purpose seemed to animate every flock and every bird. It was as if all had orders to move to the same point. The pigeons came only when there was beechmast in the woods. How did they know we had had a beechnut year? It is true that a few straggling bands were usually seen some days in advance of the blue myriads; were these the scouts, and did they return with the news of the beech-nuts? If so, how did they communicate the intelligence and set the whole mighty army in motion?

"A COMMUNITY OF MIND."

The migrations among the four-footed animals that sometimes occur over a large part of the country—among the rats, the gray squirrels, the reindeer of the north—seem to be of a similar character. How does every individual come to share in the common purpose? An army of men attempting to move without leaders and without a written or spoken language becomes a disorganized mob. Not so the animals. There seems to be a community of mind among them in a sense that there is not among men. The pressure of great danger seems to develop in a degree this community of mind and feeling among men. Under strong excitement we revert more or less to the animal state, and are ruled by instinct. It may be well that telepathy—the power to project one's mental or emotional state so as to impress a friend at a distance—is a power which we have carried over from our remote animal ancestors. However this may be, it is certain that the sensitiveness of birds and quadrupeds to the condition of one another, their sense of a common danger, of food supplies, of the direction of home under all circumstances, point to the possession of a power which is only rudimentary to us.

Some observers explain these things on the theory that the flocks of birds have leaders, and that their surprising evolutions are guided by calls or signals from these leaders, too quick or too fine for our eyes or ears to catch. I suppose they would explain the movements of schools of fish and the simultaneous movements of a large number of wild animals on the same theory. I can not accept this explanation. It is harder for me to believe that a flock of birds has a code of calls or signals for all its evolutions—now right, now left, now mount, now swoop—which each individual understands on the instant, or that the hosts of wild pigeons had their captains and signals, that to believe that out of the flocking instinct there has grown some other instinct or faculty, less understood, but equally potent, that puts all the members of a flock in such complete rapport with one another that the purpose and the desire of one become the purpose and the desire of all. There is nothing in this state of things analogus to a military organization. The relation among the members of the flock is rather that of creatures sharing spontaneously the same subconscious or psychic state, and acted upon by the same hidden influence, in a way and to a degree that never occur among men.

The faculty or power by which animals find their way home over or across long stretches of country is quite as mysterious and incomprehensible to us as the spirit of the flock to which I refer. A hive of bees evidently has a collective purpose and plan that does not emanate from any single individual or group of individuals, and which is understood by all without outward communication.

Dodging the Tax Collector.

In the American citizen's attitude toward his debt to the State, at least so far as the rich are concerned, is perceived a steadily strengthening inclination to make fewer and less insistent demands upon himself. He discards the high sense of honor required by his social code and resorts to various devices, scarcely stopping short of downright perjury to dodge the tax collector.—Boston Advertiser.

BACHELOR VIEW OF REAL BEAUTY

Not Enough For Woman to Merely Keep Herself Pretty.

"The first duty of woman is to be beautiful."

The Crusty Bachelor knocked the ashes from his pipe and hastened to qualify this sweeping statement.

"Beauty," said he, "may mean absolutely different things in different persons. When I say that it is a woman's first duty to be beautiful, I mean it should be her chief aim to be good to look upon—and good to look upon in the sight of an intelligent, beauty-loving, clear-seeing eye.

"That," he continued, reaching for the tobacco jar and proceeding to transfer a bit of its golden brown contents to the bowl of his pipe, "that, I need not say, disqualifies the peach blonde, the too obviously pink-cheeked—in short, the made-up beauty. A clear-seeing eye detects artificiality at once, and—Bah!" finished the Crusty Bachelor contemptuously, giving a final deft pat to his tobacco and viciously striking a match. He drew a few gentle puffs and continued more mildly.

"A woman who is not good can never be pleasant to look upon. Those graces of mind and soul which make a woman good also make her beautiful. It is not the woman with faultless form and features alone who satisfies the eye of the thoughtful. She must also have a grace of expression and a gentleness of manner revealing beauty of character. And the woman who possesses this innate beauty may be outwardly lovely, though her features are irregular and her form not ideal.

"I say she may be but why," he went on impressively, "is she not? Because she spoils herself. Because she neglects herself. Because she is utterly careless and indifferent to the duty of making herself attractive."

Here he laid his pipe down and forgot it, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Because a woman is good, let her not suppose the world forgives her for wearing clothes that do not fit her. Because she thinks, let her not imagine she will be excused for a careless, ill-groomed coiffure. No woman on earth has an intellect so gigantic, or a character so heavenly, that she may neglect her personal appearance without bringing down on her head the righteous disapproval of every man condemned to look upon her. A cultivated mind and a charitable heart are rare and praiseworthy possessions, and blessed is that female who posssesses them. But they in no wise excuse her from making the most of her personal appearances."

The Crusty Bachelor picked up his pipe. It had gone out. He relighted it and puffed himself into a more peaceful state of mind.

"No woman has a right to be ugly," murmured he, as he watched the tiny rings of smoke curling ceilingward.

Powerful Man of Russia.

Among the most powerful men in Russia, in foreign as well as in domestic affairs, is M. De Plehwe, Minister of the Interior. When promoted to his present office he was head of the Police Department. To him perhaps more than to any other member of the Imperial Council is credited the steadiness with which Nicholas II. has pursued the greater Russian policy which has forced the present war after having raised the eagles of the Czar over Finland. Rightly or wrongly, De Plehwe has been charged with having been the agent who instigated the fearful massacre at Kishinef. He was prompt to deny, however, that either his imperial master or himself gave the nod of permission for the slaughter.

"Breaks" of the Bashful.

Male teachers in women's schools and colleges have a hard time, but when one happens to be bashful life is made miserable for him. Members of a certain class in one of the higher institutions for the education of women here are still laughing over two mistakes recently made by their youthful instructor. On his way to recitation one day he accidentally stepped on a girl's skirt. He made an effort to say "Pardon me," but instead blurted out "Promise me."

But worse came one day just as the teacher was dismissing his class. He wanted to talk with one of the girls about her work, and this was the request he made:

"Miss Blank, may I hold you for a while after class?"

A Joke on Georgia.

When Hoke Smith was Secretary of the Interior he was especially generous to Georgians in the matter of department clerkships. It was generally conceded that around the Patent, Pension and Land Office one could not throw a stick without hitting a Georgian. Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, had been trying to place one or two hoosier constituents, but had failed. One day the Senator came along whistling "Marching Through Georgia" and keeping step to the tune. "What are you doing that for?" asked Hoke Smith. "Just can't help it," said Senator Voorhees. "This is just like marching through Georgia to come through your department." He got the appointments that day.

Why the Bees Store Honey.

An Irish apiarist gives a novel idea in the following utterance: "We know that the microbes causing foul brood retain their vitality in honey for some time, but just how long we do not know. That the pores of Bacillus mesentericus will germinate after being steeped in honey for over a year, I have very great doubts, and if a few years' immersion in concentrated honey is fatal to them, we have a clew to the reason why bees store, and keep in store, large quantities of honey. If the microbes causing foul-brood could be exterminated, there would be no bee-keeping; the bees would not store honey enough to make it an object."

Cannon Ball Cheese.

In a cheese market of Holland one sees great piles of spherical objects resembling cannon balls. The men working about them, however, are not artillery officers, as might be supposed, but prosaic cheese merchants busy with their wares. The cheese is rounded into great balls for convenience in handling and tossing about or piled in triangular heaps, exactly like the deadly munition of war.

Has Spent Lifetime in Ministry.

Reverend Dr. Edwin Robie has been pastor of the Greenland, N. H., Congregational Church for fifty-two years and is still healthy and active in the work of the ministry. He is now seventy-three years old.

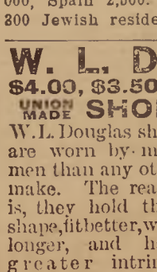
Since 1895 England has been involved in fourteen more or less serious wars. During the last nine years they have cost her $1,250,000,000, and during the same period she has spent about $2,000,000,000 more on the normal expenditures for buildings and maintaining war vessels, barracks and troops, etc.

Paul Dwight Moody, 24 years old, youngest son of the late Dwight Lyman Moody, seems inclined to follow in the footsteps of his father and become an evangelist. He is teacher of Bible study in Mount Hermon school for boys near Boston. He is also teaching English there. The young man is more tolerant of so-called liberal thought than was his distinguished father.

The leading Jap actor, Kawakami, was robbed of a diamond-studded watch, worth $1,000, a present from the czar of Russia, who took a liking to the Jap when the latter made a tour of the empire. Kawakami did not mind the loss much and was more astonished than overjoyed when, next day, he received back his watch, with a letter signed "Pickpocket." "Our guild has ordered me to return this infamous bauble," wrote the patriotic cutpurse. "We will not smudge ourselves with contraband from the enemy."

WOMEN'S WOES.

Much of women's daily woe is due to kidney trouble. Sick kidneys cause backache, languor, blind headaches, dizziness, insomnia and urinary troubles. To cure yourself you must cure the kidneys. Profit by the experiences of others who have been cured.



Mrs. William W. Brown, professional nurse, of 16 Jane St., Paterson, N. J., says: "I have not only seen much suffering and many deaths from kidney trouble, but I have suffered myself. At one time I thought I could not live. My back ached, there were frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and the kidney secretions were disordered. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first, and soon relieved me entirely of all the distressing and painful symptoms."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Brown will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price 50 cents per box.

Professor Haman, who recently made a rough census of the Jews of the world, concludes that there are now nearly 11,000,000 in Europe and 8,000,000 outside of Europe. The United States, he estimates, contains 1,000,000. In Europe Russia has 5,500,000, Austria-Hungary 1,860,000, Germany 568,000, Roumania 300,000, Great Britain 200,000, Turkey 120,000, Holland 97,000, France 77,000, Italy 50,000, Bulgaria 31,000, Switzerland 12,000, Greece 6,000, Servia 5,000, Denmark 4,000, Sweden 3,500, Belgium 3,000, Spain 2,500. Portugal has only 300 Jewish residents.

The letters of Miss Merkley, whose picture is printed above, and Miss Claussen, prove beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains throught the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, MISS MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Miss Claussen Saved from a Surgical Operation.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It seems to me that all the endorsements that I have read of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound do not express one-half of the virtue the great medicine really possesses. I know that it saved my life and I want to give the credit where it belongs. I suffered with ovarian trouble for five years, had three operations and spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicines but this did not cure me after all.

"However, what doctors and medicines failed to do, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Twenty bottles restored me to perfect health and I feel sure that had I known of its value before, and let the doctors alone, I would have been spared all the pain and expense that fruitless operations cost me. If the women who are suffering, and the doctors do not help them, will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they will not be disappointed with the results."—MISS CLARA M. CLAUSSEN, 1307 Penn St., Kansas City, Mo.

FRANCE ALSO SENDS IN A BILL.

Claim for Work Done at Panama Since the Appraisement of the Property.

The commission appointed by the Panama congress which has just adjourned at the capital of the new republic has started for the United States.

The object of the commission is to receive the remaining $9,000,000 from the United States government for land ceded under treaty and to confer with our experts over the project to place the monetary system of their country on a gold basis, practically identical with our own. If that is accomplished the coins and notes of the two countries will be interchangeable in the canal zone.

President Roosevelt has been informed that the Panama Canal Company is preparing to present a bill for something over $1,000,000 for work done by that corporation on the ditch since the appraisement by our commission a year or so ago.

RAIDS ON NEW YORK POOL ROOMS.

Western Union Will Not Lease Wire to Them Hereafter.

Simultaneous raids on twenty-two alleged New York pool rooms and pool room exchanges were made by the police. At many places the police had to batter down specially constructed iron and steel doors and to gain entrance through barred windows. Seventy persons were taken and many telephones and telegraph instruments were confiscated, besides a number of books and racing charts that were found in the rooms.

President Clowry, of the Western Union Telegraph company, said that the abolition of the company's racing department announced by him on Thursday is to be permanent. He also said that the company will not lease wires to pool rooms. The company's branch offices at the race tracks will be maintained for the transmission of such messages as may be offered in the ordinary course of business.

"We have stopped our racing news service absolutely all over the United States, and we are doing no business in that line. We can not refuse messages that are filed with us in the regular course of business, because they contain racing news. We have to accept them and transmit them as common carriers.

ALABAMA COTTON.

Continued Drought and Cold Weather Have Retarded Growth.

In a statement Commissioner of Agriculture Poole tells of crop conditions in a number of southern states, especially dwelling on cotton conditions. The report says:

"There has been an increase of 6 per cent in the acreage of cotton. While this increase has been set aside for cotton the acreage actually planted has not reached an average crop, owing to the protracted drought during the entire spring. The stands are generally the poorest for many years.

"Rains have fallen in middle and northeastern Alabama, but not sufficient for the needs of the crop. Southeast Alabama has received little, if any rain, and the crops are suffering. Bugs, of some description, a new and unnamed species, have attacked the crop in southeast Alabama, and are doing some damage."

The loss of life incurred by the sinking of the cruiser Yoshino included Captain Sayeki and Commander Hirowateri. Of the crew the number of those lost is unknown.

Those who went down with the battleship Hatsuse when she foundered were Commander Tsukamoto, Commander Viscount Niece and Commander Arimori. The Hatsuse was surely sunk by coming in contact with a submerged mine, and not by the attack of a submarine boat.

The report that the battleship Shikishime was damaged and the battleship Fuji sunk is denied.

The Japanese, numbering 20,000 men, came upon 32,000 Russians in a strong position on Monday, sixty miles west of Feng Wang Cheng. It being unwise to risk a battle, the Japanese retreated in good order and with great rapidity.

An unofficial Russian authority says a pitched battle was not fought, but rumor says there was considerable loss on both sides during the clashes with the Cossacks harassing the flanks of the Japanese. This division presumably was executing a reconnoissance. The pursuit was checked when the main body of the Japanese was rejoined.

This news apparently accounts for the withdrawal to an unknown destination of warships and transports from Tower Hill, ten miles north of Kai Chou, Liao Tung peninsula.

Admiral Togo reports that the battleship Hatsuse sank off Port Arthur as a result of having struck mechanical mines. Naval men believe the battleship was sunk by a Whitehead torpedo fired from one of the Russian destroyers. The fact that a flotilla of sixteen torpedo boat destroyers approached the Japanese vessel showed, they say, that the entrance of the harbor of Port Arthur is again open and what is left of the Russian fleet there is intact.

Advices received at the Japanese legation from Tokio confirming the Associated Press account of the sinking of the cruiser Loshino and the battleship Hatsuse state that after the Hatsuse had been struck by Russian mechanical mines, a Russian flotilla of sixteen torpedo boats and destroyers appeared, but were repulsed by the Japanese cruisers which saved 300 of the Hatsuse's crew, including Admiral Mashiba and Captain Nakao.

ALABAMA IS HONORED

By the Selection of Major Screws as President of the National Editorial Association.

On the world's fair grounds, St. Louis, the National Editorial Association held its annual sessions Thursday. Colonel Watterson and Homer Davenport were the speakers.

The following officers were elected: President, Major W. W. Screws, of Alabama; first vice president, W. W. Folsom, of Arkansas; second vice president, W. J. Kline, of New York; third vice president, H. B. Varner, of North Carolina; corresponding secretary, W. A. Ashbrook, of Ohio; recording secretary, J. W. Cochrum, of Indiana; treasurer, J. Irving Steele, of Pennsylvania.

After the delegates had presented the names of their respective executive committeemen for the ensuing year the convention adjourned to meet next year at Guthrie, Okla.

Sale Ratified.

A decree was handed down by Judge Clark in the United States court ratifying the sale of the Lenoir City, Tenn., plant of the Southern Car and Foundry Company to Moore & Schley, of New York city, for the sum of $60,000.

Harrison J. Barrett, on trial for conspiracy with General Tyner in the postoffice cases, said the greater part of the $40,000 he made the first two years after he left the government service came from publishers who contested the order of the postoffice department in excluding certain publications from the mails as second-class matter.

It is reported that seventy thousand Russians are marching to the relief of Port Arthur, and the Japanese are consequently hastening offensive preparations. Forty-five thousand troops have already been landed at Kin Chau, and Talien Wan, thus entirely investing Port Arthur. The Japanese advance lines are seven miles from the Russian batteries.

A call has been issued by President H. L. McKee, of the Mississippi Business Men's League, for the assembling of representatives of the commercial bodies of the state in annual session at Jackson on June 20th and 21st.

Thirteen new national banks were launched in the south during April.

Negro Lynched by Negroes.

Ed. Whitehead, a negro, was taken from the officer in whose charge he was and hanged to the limb of a tree by a mob of negroes at Seaboard, N. C. Little Mattie Stancil, colored, had been attacked by Whitehead.

Southern Peaches Promise Well.

The fruit outlook is generally promising, except for peaches in the more northerly sections. In the Southern States, however, a good crop of peaches is promised.

JAPANESE LOSE TWO SHIPS

One Battleship Sunk by Russian Mines, a Cruiser in Collision.

HEAVY BLOW TO MIKADO'S NAVY

Only 300 Men, Out of Crews of 1000 Men, Saved From Death in the Double Disasters Off Blocked Harbor—Battleship Was One of Latest Pattern—Happened Off Port Arthur.

London.—In the midst of its victorious career Japan's navy has sustained a most severe loss off Port Arthur, one of her greatest battleships, the Hatsuse, going down after striking a mine, and the powerful cruiser Yoshino sinking after a collision in a fog with the cruiser Kasuga.

Only ninety of the crew of 300 carried by the cruiser Yoshino and but 300 of the Hatsuse complement of 741 men were saved.

According to dispatches received from various war centres it would appear that the battleship Hatsuse fell victim to a Russian mine much in the same manner as the Japanese trapped and sank several Russian vessels.

After the Petropavlovsk was destroyed, with Admiral Makaroff, the Russians at Port Arthur attempted the same plan as the Japanese—that of sending out torpedo boats at night to place floating mines where the enemy had appeared a few hours before. Mines were especially planted off the Liau-Ti-Shan promontory, which was a favorable point from which Japanese armor clads bombarded Port Arthur.

It would appear that the Hatsuse struck one of these mines, was partly crippled, signalled for help, but almost instantly struck another mine and went down.

Vice-Admiral Togo in his official report to Tokio on the disaster to the Hatsuse and Yoshino says:

"A report from Rear Admiral Dewa says that the cruisers Kasuga and Yoshino collided during a fog off Port Arthur. The Yoshino sank, only ninety of her crew being saved.

"On the same day the battleship Hatsuse struck a Russian mine and sank."

Giving details of the disaster, Vice Admiral Togo says:

"At 14 minutes past 1 o'clock in the afternoon, in a deep fog off Port Arthur, the Kasuga rammed the Yoshino, sinking the latter in a few minutes. Ninety of her crew were saved.

"The same morning the Hatsuse while cruising off Port Arthur, covering the landing of the soldiers, struck a mine ten knots southeast of the harbor entrance. She signalled for help and instantly struck another mine. She sank in half an hour. Three hundred of her crew were saved by the torpedo boats."

JAPS DRIVEN BACK.

Advanced Guard is Defeated By the Cossacks.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—The following report has been received from Gen. Kouropatkin, the Russian Commander-in-Chief in the Far East:

"Liaoyang.—A party of Cossacks engaged a detachment of the Japanese advance guard in the mountainous district northward of Fengwangcheng. The fighting began at 8 a. m. and lasted until 2.30 in the afternoon. The Japanese were successively dislodged from four positions extending over twenty kilometres, and were pursued to Datiantsy, eighteen kilometres north of Fengwangcheng.

"Our loss was six Cossacks wounded, two horses killed and eight wounded.

"We found no trace of the enemy in the Tsaulioka Valley as far as the road leading to Changoulin Pass, twenty-five kilometres north of Fengwangcheng, or in the Aiho Valley from the Saimatsa-Kuantien road as far as Dountsianlintsa, an area of twenty kilometres.

"A squadron of Japanese cavalry which left Kuantien for Saimatsa repulsed one of our patrols at Schaogo, fifteen kilometres from Kuptien. The patrol retired without loss."

The General Staff attaches importance to this Russian success against the western wing of the Japanese advance, believing that they have outflanked a movement that was destined to circumvent Gen. Kouropatkin. The newspapers treat the engagement as a great victory. They say that the Russians made four bayonet charges against the Japanese.

LOSSES ON THE YALU.

The Japanese Buried After the Battle 1363 Russian Corpses.

Washington, D. C.—The Japanese legation has received a despatch giving an account of the Japanese losses in the battle of the Yalu River, and of the guns, munitions, etc., captured there. It says:

"Gen. Kuroki reports the exact number of casualties in the battle of the Yalu on the Japanese side as 218 killed, including five officers, and 783 wounded, including thirty-three officers. Thirteen hundred and sixty-three Russian corpses were buried by the Japanese forces and 613 Russian prisoners were taken. Guns and munitions of war captured consisted of twenty-one three-inch quick-firing field guns eight quick-firing machine guns, 1021 rifles, a number of horses and large quantities of ammunition, clothing, tents, etc. At Fengwangcheng quantities of ammunition, clothing and provisions were captured."

For Governor of Arkansas.

The Hon. Harry H. Myers, of Monroe, Ark., who led the ticket two years ago, was nominated for Governor by acclamation in the Republican convention at Little Rock. Four delegates to the National convention were instructed for Roosevelt.

Monument to Salisbury.

The House of Commons has asked King Edward to order a monument to be built in honor of Lord Salisbury in Westminster Abbey, at public expense.

SOCIAL FEUD IN CHICAGO

Woman Discovers Rival's Husband to Be an Ex-Convict.

Mrs. Springer, Rejected by the D. A. R., Blamed It on the Lawyer's Wife and Set Out to Get Even.

Chicago.—A feud between two ambitious women has exposed a skeleton long hidden in the family of Julius A. Coleman, a successful attorney and author of the Mechanics' Lien law of Illinois.

Mrs. Coleman, his wife, is the State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She is a brilliant woman with an interesting family. She has written a history of the American Constitution, which is published this week in St. Louis.

Mrs. Warren Springer applied for admission to the D. A. R. and was rejected. Then she began war on the Colemans.

Now disbarment proceedings have been taken against Mr. Coleman before the Supreme Court of this State. It is alleged that in 1881 Coleman was found guilty of an insurance swindle in Indiana and sentenced to the penitentiary. The Grievance Committee of the Chicago Bar Association brought the proceedings. The charge against him is "evasive omission" in not mentioning the Indiana trouble when he signed an affidavit of good moral character which obtained him license to practise law here. Charges of extortion also have been made in the disbarment proceedings.

Mrs. Springer is the wife of a prominent real estate operator. She has taken a leading part in women's club affairs for ten years, and is at present President of the Illinois Chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, an organization distinct from the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Springer had a double interest in finding out all she could about Coleman, because a suit which the attorney brought against her husband was over property that she had decided to present to the local chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution. After this suit had been won by Mr. Springer Attorney Coleman had him indicted for perjury, and it was then that Mrs. Springer assumed, in self-defense, as she avers, the role of detective.

Charles C. Gilbert, who has undertaken to defend Coleman, says: "It is true that Mr. Coleman was convicted of crime in Evansville in 1881, but he was sick and could not defend himself. He was brought into court on a stretcher. He never went to the penitentiary, for he fled to foreign lands, and later returned and obtained a pardon. There has been no effort to conceal the conviction."

Coleman was accused of inducing a man named Richardson to insure his life for $20,000 and disappear. Coleman escaped from the prison hospital. Mrs. Coleman nursed her husband through his trial, and when he escaped she supported her young family by her own endeavors.

Mrs. Springer collected all the evidence and obtained certified copies of the court records. Then began the movement to expose and disbar Coleman. He is now a man of middle age.

Mrs. Springer says: "This trouble grew out of my gift to the Daughters of the Revolution of the ground at Nos. 175-189 West Polk street for use as a playground and workshop for poor children. We knew nothing whatever of Coleman's past until a woman, a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. Coleman is Regent, came to my house and informed me that Mr. Coleman was an ex-convict. She said that other facts could be had at Evansville. We collected the facts."

FOR A MENTAL SHOCK—$40,000.

Bay State Supreme Court Sustains Verdict Against New Haven Road.

Boston, Mass.—A verdict of $40,000 against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, given to Frank J. Cashin, of Springfield, by a lower court for mental injury resulting from an accident, was sustained by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

The plaintiff was the victim of a collision at Avon, Mass., in which six persons were killed and about forty injured. It was contended that Mr. Cashin sustained a serious mental shock which has resulted in melancholia.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR $3 THEFT.

'Twas Oliver's Third Offence and Judge Takes Advantage of the Statute.

Mason, Mich.—Lewis Oliver, who with Frederick Lesarge, stole $3 and two hats from a butcher shop, has been sent to the Marquette prison for life by Judge Wist. It was Oliver's third offence for burglary.

Judge Wist says that the statute provides that where a prisoner has been twice sentenced for felony and is again arrested he may be sentenced for life. He says a life sentence is not made mandatory, but he believes that in this case it is justified.

Knockout Blow to Poolrooms.

The most powerful blow ever dealt to the poolrooms of New York City was struck when the police in several precincts descended simultaneously on twenty-two suspected pool-rooms in Manhattan, arresting seventy prisoners and seizing 352 telephones, fifteen telegraph instruments and a large collection of racing charts and other gambling paraphernalia.

Wisconsin For Wall.

The Wisconsin Democratic convention, at Milwaukee, instructed for Edward C. Wall for President after a bitter fight by the Hearst men. Hearst's followers from two districts bolted, but the adoption of the unit rule nullified their action.

Stanley Interred.

The body of Sir Henry M. Stanley was buried in the churchyard of Pirbright, Surrey, England, after a funeral service in Westminster Abbey.

SOUGHT THE CZAR'S LIFE

When Arrested Girl Had Bomb in Her Possession.

Miss Merezhevsky Had Seat on Grand Stand During Spring Review—Admitted Intention to Hurl Missile.

Breslau, Prussia.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Breslau Zeitung reports that the authorities detected and thwarted a plot to attack the Emperor with a bomb during the spring parade in St. Petersburg.

The Emperor always reviews the parade on horseback, taking a position before and slightly to one side of the pavilion from which the Empress and Grand Duchesses view the pageant. The municipality erects a grand stand, tickets to which are sold publicly, the names and addresses of the buyers being noted.

As persons in the loges or front rows could easily throw an object to the place where the Emperor stands, the authorities naturally reserve the right of cancelling the sales of tickets, if the buyers are not known to be absolutely trustworthy, and they subject the occupants of the grand stand to the closest scrutiny.

Just before the Emperor arrived on the parade ground, it was noticed that Miss Merezhevsky, daughter of Prof. Merezhevsky, a leading Russian psychiatriast and Privy Councilor, who occupied one of the loges nearest the pavilion, was nervous and excited. Risking a scandal should their suspicions prove to be unfounded, the authorities ordered her arrest, which was effected unobtrusively.

A search disclosed a skillfully constructed bomb concealed in her clothing. The girl did not deny her intention of hurling the missile at the Emperor, but refused to give any other information.

Miss Merezhevsky has been an attendant at the courses in the women's university. It is rumored that she has been hanged, and her aged father is completely prostrated.

DYING HE SHIELDS MURDERER.

Florist, Stabbed With Knife, Says He Was Injured by Falling On Glass.

Philadelphia, Pa.—George F. Kreuger, a florist of Narberth, is dead at his home, having been murdered, although in his dying breath he declared that he had been injured by falling on glass in the greenhouse.

He told this story, it is believed, either to protect his old mother from the notoriety that would follow were he to have told of the murder, or else he protected some one who stabbed him.

Kreuger went to one of his greenhouses to attend to some flowers. A short while later he returned to the house fatally stabbed and dying. An examination of his wounds showed that they had been made by a sharp knife.

A DESTRUCTIVE STORM.

500,000 Banana Trees Destroyed in Central America.

New Orleans.—The steamer Anselm, from Puerto Cortez, brings the news of destructive storms on the Central American coast, particularly the coast of Honduras, entailing the destruction of 500,000 banana trees and a loss of over $250,000. The worst sufferers were American fruit growers who recently purchased lands in Honduras. Probaly 500,000 full grown trees, with fruit hanging on them, were destroyed. British Honduras has also suffered in all branches of agriculture from the storms and unprecedented cold weather and heavy rains.

EATEN BY CANNIBALS.

Fate of Five Men Who Visited South Sea Islands.

Vancouver, B. C.—Mail advices on the Australian steamer Miowera stated that five men were killed and eaten by cannibals of the Admiralty Islands in the South Sea. The British warship Condor was sent to the scene and set fire to the village where the cannibals lived. The Condor threatened to annihilate the village if it did not hand over the cannibals. This was done and they were shot.

Ends All Poolroom Service.

The Western Union Telegraph Company, New York City, through its executive committee, ordered the discontinuance of the collection and distribution over its wires throughout the United States of racetrack reports. This action was understood to have followed a consultation of Morris K. Jesup, Jacob H. Schiff, Senator Depew and other Western Union directors with George J. Gould, whose views were in harmony with theirs.

Insane Patient Scalds Another.

While William V. Cleveland, a patient at the Central Insane Hospital at Indianapolis, Ind., was being bathed by an attendant and another patient the attendant left the room. The insane assistant then put Cleveland in the bath tub, turned on the hot water and scalded him to death.

May Advertise on "Old Glory."

The Court of Appeals, Albany, N. Y., in the case of Jacob McPike, of New York City, declared unconstitutional that portion of the flag law enacted by the Legislature of 1903, which prohibits the use of the American flag or any representation of it for advertising purposes.

White Hair Worth $3000.

In Part VIII. of the Supreme Court of New York City a jury awarded a verdict of $3000 to Mrs. Lena Henschel, who sued the city of New York for $25,000 damages for injuries received from a fall on a broken sidewalk. Mrs. Henschel claimed that as a result of the accident her hair turned white in a night. Her husband, Moses Henschel, also sued the city, claiming damages for the loss of his wife's services and for physician's bills. He was awarded a verdict of $1500.

LABOR WORLD.

Three hundred union cigar makers at Chicago went on strike for higher wages.

There is not a granite cutter in the United States who works longer than eight hours a day.

Idle miners at Madisonville, Ky., threaten trouble because non-union men have taken their places.

The strike of 100 carders and back boys threw out of work, at Pawtucket, R. I, over 500 other employes.

Owing to wage differences, 250 bakers went on strike in Cleveland, reducing the bread output one-half.

Hundreds of striking bookbindery employes in Chicago returned to work without gaining any concessions as to the closed shop.

Failure of the Joint Scale Committee to reach an agreement at Zanesville, Ohio, caused a strike of 2500 coal miners in sub-district No. 6.

Eight hundred bookbinders went on strike in Chicago, and a general cessation of work was threatened if non-union laborers were employed.

Unusually rapid progress is being made with the wage schedules by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers at Cleveland.

General Superintendent Hedley, of the "L" roads, in New York City, declared the plan to place two motormen in the cab of each "L" train unsafe.

The lake strike and discriminating freight rates completely tied up traffic on the Erie Canal, and boat-owners feared their business this season would be ruined.

At the request of the President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, the Central Federated Union, of New York, appointed a committee of three to take steps to bring about the annulment of the Western Union's charter on the ground that it furnished wires for poolrooms.

The old common law principle that a wife may not testify against her husband in criminal proceedings is now reversed in Massachusetts by the supreme court's interpretation of the statute. Hereafter a wife may testify against her husband if she wishes to and she need not if she doesn't wish to, regardless of her husband's objection or his consent.

A JAPANESE THEATRE.

A Queer Place, According to the Notions of Occidentals.

A Japanese theatre is a very curious affair, both inside and outside. Blood-curdling posters in flaming colors usually adorn the entrance, and scores of gaudy little Chinese lanterns are hung about to make it look attractive. The Japanese, however, do not need much enticing. They are a nation of merrymakers, and the theatre is one of the chief sources of their amusement.

Japanese drama is rather a lengthy affair. A play usually starts at about 10 in the morning and goes on until midnight with intervals, of course, between acts. Theatregoers make up parties to attend the play, and prepare luncheon baskets as though they were going out for a picnic. Thus they are able to have their meals with the same regularity as they can at home.

The theatre is not very luxuriantly furnished. The pit, the favorite part of the house, is merely a collection of bare wooden seats. The boxes are desolate little places furnished with stools. The ventilation is usually very bad, and, as smoking is allowed, the theatre positively reeks with tobacco fumes by the time the play is in full swing. Two curious customs prevail in Japanese theatres. The female portion of the audience invariably sits apart from the men, and for the payment of a small sum you are permitted to stand and watch the performance regardless of the annoyance to those seated behind.

The stage itself has some peculiarities, too. At both ends a platform projects out into the auditorium, and whenever a person is represented as starting on or returning from a journey, the actor always makes use of this projection. The stage is fixed on rollers, so that when a change of scene is necessary, the whole, actors included, can be turned bodily round. Women do not act upon the stage; any female part that occurs is played by a man specially trained for that purpose. When actors are delivering their speeches attendants lighten up their faces by means of candles fastened upon long bamboo sticks.

When the play commences the audience is called to attention by the rapping of a little mallet. Besides the actors proper there are other persons concealed above the stage, who sing the chorus, accompanied by the samlson. The noise these people make is enough to deafen the foreigner, but the Jap sems to find immense pleasure in the din and discord. As the actors warm to their work the noise increases, and the house has all the appearance of a pandemonium. The players leap and bound about the stage, and give such ear-piercing yells as would make a red Indian's heart turn green with envy. This continues until the first act is over. However much the spectators may have approved or disapproved of the acting they remain quite passive, as it is not the custom in Japanese theatres to shout or clap the hands.

During the interval luncheon baskets are brought out, and the people regale themselves upon such delicacies as eggs, fruit, and rice cakes. The afternoon section of the performance passes away in just such a hubbub as did that of the morning. Another interval—this time for tea—and servants from neighboring tea houses appear and bring round tea, rice, eggs and sweetmeats for the consumption of the hungry audience. When the curtain goes up on the last instalment of the play the spectators are again all attention, and rarely take their eyes off the actors or do anything else save puff away at their eternal pipes.

About midnight all is over, and the audience pour out into the street delighted with its day's pleasure, albeit the next morning may find it with a splitting headache as the inevitable penalty. The plays that find most favor among Japanese theatregoers are such as contain much melodramatic incident. Historical plays dealing with the ancient days of the Japanese empire are also very popular and draw big audiences to the playhouses. —Tit-Bits.

Bird Life in Hawaii.

From some of the open pastures rises the song of the skylark, which was imported from New Zealand; skylarks increase in number, but not very quickly. The voice of the Chinese turtle dove—the mourning dove, it is called—is heard in the land quite near to the valley homes; also the upward whirr of the Mongolian and the Japanese pheasant. Grouse and quail — were there until lately, but the latter have now betaken themselves to heights of 6,000 to 7,000 feet, whither the marauding mongoose cannot follow them. I asked a young niece of my own who lately left Honolulu what birds visited their grounds three miles up the valley road, and she tells me, "Java sparrows, rice birds and those squawking mynahs.

The last eat up all our young figs and grapes, unless we throw the tennis nets over them. The natives call the mynah, manu ai pilau—that is, 'bird who eats filth.'" He does some good, then, as well as ill.

That watching of birds which is essential to a knowledge of their life history has indeed been impossible to most visitors to Hawaii. And now that annexation is giving an impetus to the development of the country's resources, the inevitable destruction of its forests, even if the birds themselves do not perish with the trees that sheltered and fed them, is driving them up to still more inaccessible heights and wooded depths between the sharp volcanic peaks, which will baffle the hardiest climber.

Phillips, the great Irish orator, once said, "Any party or organization that seeks supremacy by prejudicing the minds of the people, is a menace to good government, and when such a state of affairs shall have come to a nation or a country anarchy will reign supreme" No truer words were ever spoken, and the people of any community should study the meaning of the great orator.

If this is a fact it clearly shows that they were incompetent, and yet the same crowd has been nominated, who will no doubt do worse. What has The Sentinel to say about it? You explain this to the voters of Shelby county?—Advocate.

It will be noted that in the above, nothing appears that would throw any light upon the question as to whom the Advocate has reference, —that is: what Democratic county officer was paid $25.00 every year more than the law allowed, and which illegal payment "was never discontinued until the present administration came in."

The court house officials, who direct the course of the Advocate, would prefer to make the charge in this dark, sinister way, and get the benefit of it, without giving those whom they seek to injure an opportunity to answer, but through the assistance of those who are acquainted with the law and the facts The Sentinel has been able to learn that the matter referred to was the payment by the Commissioners' Court to the Tax Assessors who preceded the present populist Tax Assessor, $125.00 per year for making the Land Book, while he, the populist Assessor has been paid $100.00. The Advocate calls on The Sentinel to "explain this to the voters of Shelby county."

Brother, this needs no explanation. The one thing that is needed is for the court house advisers of the Advocate to know the law, or if they do know, to be honest and fair enough to state it as it is, and not make an effort to mislead and prejudice the people in this way. Such a course is gross deception, and will not win. If the court house advisers of the Advocate will read Section 3963 of the Code they will find that the compensation of the Tax Assessor for making the Land Book is fixed in counties whose population exceeds 20,000 and does not exceed 30,000, at "not more than $100." This law was passed in February, 1897. This was the first law ever passed fixing definitely the compensation of Tax Assessor for this work. Prior to the passage of this Act the Court of County Commissioners allowed the Assessor such reasonable compensation for making this book as, in their judgment, was just and fair. This compensation was fixed by them at $125.00. J. H. Hammond, a Democrat, during his term of four years, was allowed $125.00. W. H. Kidd, who was a populist, and who preceded Mr. Hammond, was allowed $125.00. Mr. Kidd, so we are informed, is a brother-in-law to the present populist Assessor, (and we are pleased to state in this connection, that Mr. Kidd is now one of the strongest and most staunch Democrats in Beat 16.) This compensation was allowed until the law of 1897 went into effect which provides that "not more than $100.00" should be paid. The Commissioners' Court at its July term, 1897, conforming to the new law, allowed Mr. Pitts $100.00. Does the Advocate say this was wrong? The compensation of $125 was first allowed W. H. Kidd when the Commissioners' Court was composed of Cobb, Probate Judge, a Democrat; and McClusky, Davis, Johnson and Dykes, Commissioners, all populists. The said court and of the same same political complexion, allowed $125 to Mr. Hammond, and it was continued to be allowed until as stated above. The court composed of four populist Commissioners and D. R. McMillan as Probate Judge, allowed Mr. Pitts $100.

The Advocate says "the same crowd has been nominated, who will no doubt do worse." If the Advocate refers to the same Commissioners, then we disclaim that the Democrats never thought of nominating them. If it refers to D. R. McMillan, then The Sentinel replies that McMillan, when elected in November, will plumb the law just as was done when Mr. Pitts was paid $100 in 1897.

The Advocate tries to make a mountain of offense out of the above, and in its frantic attempt brings about its own undoing. And when it "asserts" that under Democratic administration a county officer, a Democrat, or any other man, was paid $25,00 more every year than the law allowed, it makes an absolutely false statement, for prior to 1897 there was no law fixing compensation to the Assessor for making the Land Book. Compensation was left to the discretion of the Commissioners prior to 1897.

This is just one more instance where the Advocate, the populist leaders and court house advisers of the populist organ attempt to willfully and premeditatedly deceive the people of this county.

Brother, you're "it" again.

PARTY ORGANIZATION.

From time immemorial the Democratic party has delegated powers and authority to committees and entrusted to them the duty of devising and directing the policies and plans of its campaigns. It is only by this means that an organization is preserved, and that issues can be properly and rationally presented. With these facts in view, The Sentinel in a recent issue cautioned the members of the Democratic party to refrain from signing a petition, emanating from the opposition, recommending a joint discussion with the populite-Republican speakers, until the proposition had been considered by the Executive Committee.

It is not to be wondered at that the party with whom the idea originated, should be displeased at any impediment offered to his shaping the policy of the Democratic party, and planning the manner of campaign it shall wage; but he may be sure that the Democratic party cannot be bossed by one man, and he an enemy; however artfully he may plan, or through whatever medium he may choose.

The Sentinel is sponsor for its utterances and statements, and in making them will take care of itself, as it has ever done, without placing any responsibility upon the party to defend it.

We would remind the Advocate that false denial of facts, and slippery evasions of the truth, are the flimsiest shields of defense and the most devious avenues of escape, ever employed or sought by the guilty. Sooner or later, the one is battered down, and flight is interrupted by the meshes of the other. The Sentinel will repeat and reiterate its blows until the true facts of maladministration of affairs in this county are fully revealed to its taxpayers and patriotic citizens Blatant denunciation, unblushing effrontery, vehement denials and unscrupulous demagoguery, delivered from and exhibited on the stump, will, no doubt, stir up and inflame old time prejudices (the stock in trade of the opposition) and tend to blind eyes and judgment of those susceptible to such influences; but The Sentinel believes that the Democratic party, and its nominees, are capable of reaching the calm, reasonable and reflective judgment of men, who are to decide the issues, in a better, more sensible and more agreeable way, and that this election is not to be won by excess of bombast to be indulged in by our friend, the enemy.

We have only to add, that in assuming to rely upon supposed disaffection of "Democrats in the lower end of the county," the Advocate indulges a forlorn hope that will never be realized. Loyalty and fidelity are watchwords to the Democracy of that end of the county, among whom republico-populism is but a horrible memory.

The two or three bosses of the one time populst party bossed it out of existence, its members became tired of the disgustingly rapacious greed of these self-same bosses, until now they stand almost alone, gasping their last gasp and reaching out for some straw upon which to lay hold with the hope of saving themselves from being drawn down into oblivion by the undertow of public opinion.

Unlawful levy and collection of taxes is a special forte of the populist administration, and the people be durned.

Protection at Home for Widows and Orphans.

There is being organized, with Columbiana as headquarters, a Shelby county division of the Mutual Life Industrial Association of Georgia.

Dr. W. S. DuBose is named as President of this division, W. L. Farley, cashier of the Columbiana Savings Bank, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. C. T. Acker, medical director. The object of this association is to insure the lives of men and women by mutual co-operation. Each division when full consists of one thousand members and is responsible only for assessments from losses within its own division. The cost is exceedingly small [about one-fifth that of old line companies] but an investigation of the plan will readily convince you that it is absolutely safe and reliable. Since all funds are kept in the local bank there can be no delay in the settlement of claims.

The plan, in fact, is one of insurance at actual cost. A plan which can be easily understood and appreciated by our home people. 35-2

Henry Chapman has recently purchased from Henry Milner a residence lot on east College street; consideration, $200.

There are services at the Methodist church every morning this week at 10 oclock. Women's prayer meeting at the house of some member at 4 o'clock p. m., and men's prayer service at 6:30 p. m. Services at the church every night at 8:15.

Mrs. C. W. O'Hara received a telegram last night announcing the death of her sister, Mrs. Hale, at Saginaw. Rev. and Mrs. O'Hara went to Saginaw this morning to attend the funeral. The sympathy of friends is extended to the bereaved relatives.

"Start any kind of an old yarn—just any old thing, so the minds of the people will be kept away from the fact that we have taxed them two and three times for bridges that have not been built, and for goodness sake try to explain away the unlawful tax levy we have placed upon them." Strain from what the opposition bosses are singing.

There is a little story brewing in which ex-Confederate veterans will have considerable interest.

The populist candidates and leaders (in the one you will find the other) are hard pushed. The little camp meetings being held at night are really consolation societies.

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C., News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. This remedy is for sale by Bandy Drug Co.

One of the greatest blessings a modest man can wish for is good, reliable set of bowels. If you are not the happy possessor of such an outfit you can greatly improve the efficiency of those you have by the judicious use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are pleasant to take and agreeable in effect. For sale by J. W. Bandy Drug Co.

Ladies and Children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups and cathartic pills are especially fond of Little Early Risers. ☞Call at the Columbiana Milliner Shop and see the special line of Embroideries and Shirt Waist goods

The new livery stable of E. W. Burt is as nicely equipped as any stable in this section of Alabama.

I. S. Chancellor and son, of Creswell, were in town several days last week attending county court.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the protracted meeting now in progress at the Methodist church.

☞Have you seen the delicious crystalized fruits, fine chocolates and cream candies at J. R. White's?

Hon. E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo was in town last Friday and Saturday. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call.

J. C. Mooney, of near Wilsonville, called at this office last Friday and ordered The Sentinel sent to his address.

Hon. W. B. Browne was in attendance as a delegate at the Democratic State Convention in Montgomery yesterday.

☞Beautiful picture hats! Have you seen them? New shapes coming in every day, at the Columbiana Milliner Shop.

Mrs. C. W O'Hara, who has been visiting a sister at Saginaw for the past ten days or two weeks, returned home last Sunday.

Hon. A. C. Sturdivant and John T. Hall, two of the Shelby Iron Co's excellent employes, were in Columbiana last Friday.

A premature explosion of dynamite at the Aldrich mine one day last week, killed a negro and seriously injured a white man.

☞J. R. White will give away to one of his customers on July 1st a beautiful Dinner Set. Call for your coupons.

The county executive committee of the Republican party meets in Calera next Saturday to plug up the holes left in the so-called populist ticket.

L. N. Handley, a prominent merchant of Huntsville, was in town last Friday. He was on his way home from a business trip down into Texas, and stopped over here one day.

C. C. DuBose was in Montevallo the fore part of this week.

Miss Ida Lyons, of Calera, is in the city a guest of Mrs. Weaver.

Dr. W. S. DuBose was in Wilsonville, Tuesday, on professional business.

A little child of J. J. Haynes was taken seriously ill Tuesday, but she is reported better today.

Misses Myrtle and Willie Chapman, of Montevallo, are in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapman.

Mrs. T. P. Lane, who has been visiting her parents in Birmingham for the past ten days, returned home Monday, Mr. Lane meeting her in Calera with a carriage.

☞Kansas City Beef, Fresh Sausage, Cream Cheese, Hams kept on ice and always fresh at J. R. White's. Leave your orders with him.

Misses Mamie and Mildred Meroney, the pretty little daughters of C. L. Meroney, of Montevallo, are in the city visiting Mrs. W. F. Davis, at the home of Mrs. M. E. Parker.

The Sentinel has received a souvenir postal card from Hon, J. T. Leeper, who is touring Europe. The card was mailed in Berlin on May 5th. He expects to write The Sentinel at length soon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Bowdon, of Calera, were in town last Friday. Mr. Bowdon was a witness in county court, and Mrs. Bowdon came up to spend the day with her mother, Mrs. T. M. Wilson.

☞Fresh groceries of every kind always on hand at J. R. White's. Remember, they are guaranteed to be fresh or your money refunded.

A. P. Longshore, jr., and Miss Annie Longshore are in Marion this week attending the Commencement exercises at the Judson. Their sister, Miss Lallage Longshore, finishes at the Judson this week.

R. E. Bowdon, the lime manufacturer of Hardyville, accompanied by his stenographer, Miss Jones were in town last Friday on business connected with the county court. They were pleasant callers on The Sentinel.

Miss Lallee Tice, a teacher in the Girls' School at Montevallo, is in the city a guest at the home of Rev. W. I. Sinnott. The friends of Miss Tice in Columbiana are glad to know that she has been retained as one of the teachers for next year.

Harry Roberts has gone to Bessemer where he has signed with the New Decatur ball team for a series of games, the first to be played in Bessemer this week. Mr. Roberts is the best semi-professional ball player in this section of Alabama, and had several offers before he decided in favor of New Decatur.

The entertainment given at the College Hall last Thursday night by Miss Georgia Ray MacMillan, dramatic reader, was attended by a small audience. However, those who were present enjoyed a delightful hour and a half with this entertaining little woman. Miss MacMillan is best in juvenile characters, and they are true to life. It is regretted that the audience was so small, and it is hoped that she may return to Columbiana at some future time when she will doubtless be greeted with more people.

The writer had the pleasure of seeing the new patent tire shrinker which J. T. Barnett & Sons have recently added to the equipment of their blacksmith shop, operate last Friday, and it is surprising what excellent work it does, the extra labor saved, and no injury to felloe or tire. It will shrink a tire without removing it from the wheel, and the work is completed before you could remove the tire from the wheel to heat it over a fire in the old way. Go round to their shop and see it; it's a big little machine.

Mell Wilson is now an employe in the store of J. R. White.

L. M. Dyke, of Collinsville, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon for a few days' stay.

R. L. Hill, bookkeeper for R. E. Bowdon at Keysone, was in Columbiana yesterday on business. Mr. Hill is a very pleasant man to meet and a conversation with him is enjoyable.

Mrs. E. W. Burt met with a very painful accident Tuesday. In alighting from the bus, in which she and several others had been enjoying a ride, she slipped and fell to the ground, dislocating one of her knee joints. Dr. Acker was called and reduced the dislocation, but it will be some time before Mrs. Burt will be able to walk. Her numerous friends regret her misfortune, and sincerely trust that nothing of a series nature will develop from the injured limb.

The Columbiana ball team went down to Montevallo, Monday, and played a game of ball with the team at that place. Both teams did good work, three innings having been played before either team landed a run. At the close of the game the score stood 5 to 1 in favor of Columbiana. The home team speak very highly of the treatment given them by the Montevallo team and the people in our sister town. It is hoped a return game will be played here in the near future.

Commencement exercises of the Montgomery High School for Girls occur this week, and one of Columbiana's young women will finish there. We refer to Miss Margaret Browne, the accomplished daughter of Hon. and Mrs. W. B. Browne. On Tuesday, Mrs. Browne, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Myra and son, Chester, went to Montgomery, and they were followed on Wednesday by Mr. Browne, who was also in attendance at the Democratic State Convention in Montgomery. They expect to return today.

A large audience greeted Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson in the College Hall last Saturday night many coming from Wilsonville, Shelby, and other points in the county. The subject of Captain Hobson's lecture was a great navy for the United States—one that could whip the world if neccessary. While all who heard him do not agree with him in his theory, yet all enjoyed his talk, and he was frequently applauded. A little impromptu reception was given him after the lecture, and many shook hands with the brave and eloquent young Alabamian. He went from here to Livingston and Sumpter where he was to make addresses before the schools of those places.

Have you taken a policy with the Shelby county division of the Mutual Life Industrial Association of Georgia It is the cheapest, safest and best insurance offered today. It only cost the policy holders of Georgia last year $5.45 on $1,000. See

The following people will compose a party of pleasure seekers to the World's Fair, leaving Columbiana on the morning of June 13th.

Mrs. D. R. McMillan, Mrs. Henry Milner, Miss Esther Mason, Roy Lester, Columbiana; Mrs. Gordon DuBose, Ensley; Mrs. John Ferguson, Birmingham; Miss Kittie Averyt, Shelby; Miss Stella Powell, Childersburg; Miss Lillie Crosby and Roger Crosby, Stockton.

The party will be in charge of Rev. W. I. Sinnott who will look after the baggage, see that none of the party get lost or step off a street car backwards. With pleasant weather at hand, a nice time is coming to the above party while on the trip.

J. S. Steele visited friends and relatives in Birmingham Saturday and Sunday.

Frank Wyatt, of Spring Creek, visited his sister, Mrs. W. W. Prestridge, Sunday.

Mrs. M. P. Bowdon, who has been visiting her sons, Robert and Will, has returned to her home in Calera.

Edgar Holcombe, of Calera, visited his sister, Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, over Sunday.

Mrs. W. P. Bowdon is down at Calera for a few weeks.

Miss Mamie Jones, stenographer at this place, was taken suddenly ill Sunday, but is better.

Miss Callie Jones, of Saginaw, is visiting her daughter, Miss Mamie, for a few days.

Insurance agents are thicker than fleas around here these days.

J. Ross Hannahan, of Birmingham, visited here last week.

W. P. Bowdon and Mrs. Wm, Oates visited with Mrs. W. P. Bowdon at Calera, Saturday, returning Sunday.

Wilsonville.

Mr. Trost, of Childersberg, spent Sunday with friends here.

L. M. Stevenson, Supt. of Education of Randolph county, C. H. Stevenson, editor of the Roanoke Leader, and Dr. A. W. Stevenson, of Roanoke, visited relatives here this week.

Miss Mary Armstrong, of Livingston, is a guest of Miss Perdie Holland.

Miss Annie Wilson returned last week from Montevallo where she had been attending school.

Messrs. C. T. Weldon and E. J. Pope attended "Hero Hobson's" lecture in your town Saturday.

Mrs. M. Hutchings, of Kentucky, is visiting her daughter, Mrs J. B. Boyer, at her home "The Oaks."

W. J. Weldon has recovered from his recent illness, much to the delight of his friends.

Mrs. Harding after a two weeks' visit with relatives here, returned home to Nashville Saturday.

Rev. H. M. Stevenson, pastor of First Methodist church at Alexander City, preached an eloquent sermon to a large and attentive congregation last Wednesday night.

Mrs. Porter and children, Jacksonville, are visiting Mrs. McGowan

The many friends of L. B. Riddle are pleased to see him out again after his spell of sickness.

We are sorry to learn that Geo. W. Taylor is quite sick, and we hope for him a speedy recovery.

Wilsonville is preparing to have quite an extensive brick yard in operation soon. Let the good work of building brick buildings go on.

H. E. Smith has sold his interest in the mercantile business to Mess. Riddle. While we regret to give up Mr. Smith as a merchant, we welcome Messrs. Riddle, and bespeak for the new firm a continued prosperous business. The style of the new firm now is Pennington Riddle & Co.

The First Methodist church at Wilsonville was a scene of brilliancy last Thursday eve, when the wedding of Miss Kate Hamilton and Mr. William R. Jordan occurred. Handsome decorations of evergreens, roses and lilies emphasized the beauty of the edifice; and ivy, too, was trailed about the organ, in front of which the heavier green of the potted plants made a rich setting for the bridal party during the ceremony. The church being already filled, the bridal party entered to the strains of a wedding march, and soft music accompanied the solemn marriage ceremony, Rev. H. M. Stevenson, assisted by Dr. Branscomb, officiating. The ushers, Misses Lizzie Hamilton and Annie Boyer, entered first when the wedding march, by Miss Helen Boyer, was played. Following came the bride leaning on the arm of her sister, Miss Mabel Hamilton, and the groom with the best man, Mr. H. O. Stevenson. The bride's loveliness and grace of her stately bearing was emphasized by the elegance of her wedding gown; her flowers were lilies and ferns. Not merely her beauty, but womanly charms and intellect have made her many friends here; and their regret is more pronounced that her marriage meant her departure for Roanoke, to live. Mr. Jordan is a young man of fine character and business qualifications, highly esteemed by all who know him, and we predict for them a happy future, Honest John.

Harpersville.

Dry weather.

Cotton chopping in full blast.

There is not a vacant dwelling house at Harpersville.

J. J. Burks runs his corn mill here every Saturday.

Emmet Ray and wife, of Ensley, visited G. M. D. Ray's family last week.

Dr. Lane, of North Alabama, has been visiting his brother here on Broad street.

We still insist on nominating Gorman for President, and then electing him.

There has been a literary society organized at the Academy. May it be successful.

E. V. Caldwell and M. W. Borum were in Columbiana a day or two last week, courting.

Renfro Martin and wife have gone to spend a while with the good people at Calcis.

There will be children services at the Methodist church next Sunday by the Sunday school.

Miss Minnie Florey has returned home from South Alabama where she has been visiting her sister.

Rev. Mr. ONeal filled his regular appointments at the Methodist church Sunday morning and night.

Water is getting low up here, and if it don't rain soon some of our people will have to haul their water.

A gentleman who attended the County Court from here last week, remarked: "Why, the County Court is a big thing as the Circuit Court was ten or twelve years ago." Yes, sirree; Shelby county is growing. Can't you see her expanding? Just think; court twelve weeks a year.

This is a glorious county to live in. Lands are good, health good, schools are good, and by the way politics are going to be better. So come on brother and buy a farm. Cast your lot among us, and if you are posed to do what is right, you will a hearty welcome find; but if you are not inclined that way, you had better stay where you are.

There will be a spelling match at the Academy Saturday night by the Harpersville Literary Society, an organization which has recently formed here by our town talent. It is said and true, too, that large oaks from little acorns grow, and large streams from little fountains flow. So it is with Harpersville Literary Society, and no doubt much and lasting good will result from it.

Mr. Editor: At the request of your correspondent, "Pete," I have written you these few locals, hoping that they may find a place in your paper, and not a grave in that abominable waste basket. So I bid you good-bye until another time.

"Jake."

U. S. SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA

Recommends Pe-ru-na

For Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

Ex-Senator M. C. Butler.

Catarrh of the Stomach is Generally Called Dyspepsia--Something to Produce Artificial Digestion is Generally Taken.

Hence, Pepsin, Pancreatin and a Host of Other Digestive Remedies Has Been Invented.

These Remedies Do Not Reach the Seat of the Difficulty, Which is Really Catarrh.

EX. U. S. Senator M. C. Butler from South Carolina was Senator from that State for two terms. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., from Washington, D. C., says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."--M. C. Butler.

The only rational way to cure dyspepsia is to remove the catarrh. Peruna cures catarrh. Peruna does not produce artificial digestion. It cures catarrh and leaves the stomach to perform digestion in a natural way. This is vastly better and safer than resorting to artificial methods or narcotics.

Peruna has cured more cases of dyspepsia than all other remedies combined, simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If catarrh is located in the head, Peruna cures it. If catarrh has fastened itself in the throat or bronchial tubes, Peruna cures it. When catarrh becomes settled in the stomach, Peruna cures it, as well in this location as in any other.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Perunia is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

WOMAN IN MEDICINE.

THE RESPONSIBLE POSITIONS SHE NOW HOLDS.

Cases of Prejudice Against Women Practitioners Excite Comment — Proof of Their Rarity—The Advance In England—India Absorbs Hundreds of Women.

The last report of the United States Commissioner of Education gave the number of women studying medicine in this country as 1,219. The number seems insignificant compared with the 25,538 men medical students reported, and in consideration of the growing regard in which women doctors are held. It may be said that the last remnant of prejudice against them has vanished in the United States, and, with occasional exceptions, in England. The case of Dr. Ethel Vernon occupied a good deal of space in the London papers recently, showing the rareness of prejudice there. Dr. Vernon was appointed to fill a vacancy in the staff of the Western Dispensary, Westminster, but her appointment was cancelled at the end of six weeks because the honorary consulting surgeon, a man of high standing in the profession, resigned rather than serve with a woman. It was frankly admitted that Dr. Vernon's qualifications were higher than the man's whose name had been proposed for the appointment, that she was very popular with the rest of the staff and with the patients, and the Board of Governors came in for considerable criticism from medical men. The consulting surgeon's triumph was voted an altogether unenviable one.

In an article written by Dr. Helen McMurchy of Toronto, Canada, in American Medicine, tribute is paid to the courtesy shown by many men doctors from the beginning. "It is not to be forgotten that if women have learned the art of healing, man have taught it to them, in the first instance, at least. Many medical men did this willingly and cheerfully, some did it con amore, with a generous enthusiasm." A notable instance given is the founding of the London School of Medicine for Women. In 1869 five women applied for admission to the medical college of the University of Edinboro, and regulations were passed permitting them to enter. The Senatus Academicus, however, refused to arrange for the instruction of the women, asserting that the University Court had exceeded its legal power in admitting them. The five women brought action against the university, but lost on appeal. They then went to London, where they found a friend in one of the prominent physicians then in practice, Dr. Anstie. He was not only a distinguished practitioner and writer, but possessed great personal influence. In his house was held a private meeting, at which was founded the first medical school for women in Great Britain. Dr. Anstie had drawn so many eminent men and women to the meeting that the success of the movement was assured, and within a few weeks the school was started, with twenty-three students and a remarkable staff of instructors. Before the first class had finished its course hospital instruction in the Royal Free Hospital was secured for women, and the University of London decided to admit to its medical examinations and degrees.

The school has now 200 students, and its graduates have taken thir share of honors both in England and abroad. India absorbs the majority of English women doctors. The Lady Dufferin fund enables thousands of poor women to avail themselves of medical aid, and many women doctors are needed in this practice alone. Several native rulers, as for instance the enlightened Nizam of Hyderabad, have established hospitals for women in their states, and are glad to get English women doctors to serve in them. There are in all 247 hospitals, dispensaries, etc., in India, entirely under the charge of women. A woman doctor, Mrs. Stewart-Dcacon, has recently been appointed Government officer of health for the Gold Coast Colony, Africa, a position which involves the inspection of a number of towns. Assistant medical officers in the Quarantine Departments at Port Said and Suez are women. In plague duty in India and at the South African concentration camps women doctors are employed, and one of these. Dr. Alice Cathorn, who had charge of the General Plague Hospital at Poona, has recently been given the Kaiser-i-Hind medal for public service. At least three English women physicians have been thus honored. "It should be remembered," writes Dr. MacMurchy, "that much of the distinction and success of English women physicians is due to the fact that they and their friends founded the New Hospital, officered entirely by women, and that the work done by the doctors there in advanced surgery, medicine, clinical teaching, and the various departments of specialitsts' work showed that these higher walks of medicine were not beyond them."

In Great Britain, as in America, women physicians serve as medical officers on charity boards, in insane asylums, etc. The general post-office has for years employed Dr. Edith Shove to look after the health of the women clerks. As inspectors of boarded-out children, resident doctors at children's institutions and general health supervisors in girls' schools they are greatly in demand.

On the Continent the woman doctor is slowly but steadily pushing her way. Four hundred and six women are studing medicine in Germany, but their position is rather difficult, as they are only allowed to attend lectures under humiliating conditions. In 1901 two women passed the state examination for medical practitioners in Freiburg, Baden, and are said to be the first to be admitted to the profession in Germany.

In Russia, on the other hand, many women practitioners hold Government appointments. The Poor Law Service, the County and City Medical Service, and the Municipal Ambulance Service all have women on their staff. Eighty-five women are practising medicine in France. In Austria women began to study medicine in 1897 and within a year fifty women were registered as students. In Italy there are about twenty women doctors. One of them, it is said, is physician to the queen. In Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Switzerland, and the Slav countries the labors of medical women have received approbation and reward. There are several successfully practising in Turkey, Egypt, Persia, and the East. An English woman is reported to be court physician in Corea.

Of the opportunities offered to women in medicine on this side of the Atlantic it is hardly necessary to speak at length. It is not difficult for a woman to obtain a first-class medical education either in the United States or in Canada. The examinations and degrees of all Canadian universities are open to women, and the Woman's Medical College at Toronto has been available since 1883.

The number of appointments open to American women is large, and is constantly increasing. In Massachusetts as far back as 1884 a state enactment made the appointment of women as assistant physicians in insane asylums mandatory. New York state provides many places for women physicians. Until recently no city hospital admitted women internes, but since Gouverneur took the lead others will undoubtedly follow. The work of Dr. Emily Dunning has been highly spoken of at Gouverneur, where she has served nearly two years. She took her turn at ambulance duty, and performed many difficult and not altogether agreeable emergency district operations on the streets; the Gouverneur district including a part of the town noted for its casualities.

There are close to eighty names of women physicians in the business directory of New York. In the Greater city there must be several hundred women in practice.—New York Post.

OFF FOR THE FRONT.

The Leavetakings of Russian Soldiers and of Those of the Mikado.

Before leaving for the seat of war both the Japanese officers and men attend a special service, with the object of appealing for the success of their arms.

It is considered a great honor for the emperor to instruct officers who are commanded to go to a holy place, which he appoints. The religious beliefs of the Japanese people are divided into two heads—the Shinto and the Buddhist—and the former means literally "the way of the gods." Apostles of this creed believe that if they perform a valiant deed in the service of their country they will after death become gods, and thus the officers who usually attend the Kashi Ko Dora pray that strength may be given them to do something heroic.

In Shinto, Japan is held to be the country of the gods, and the emperor to be the direct descendant and actual representative of the Sun Goddess. In it there also seems to be mixed up a system of hero worship, many renowned warriors and other persons of ancient days being exalted into demigods; it thus tends to increase the feeling of reverence for the dead.

Throughout the country the Shinto shrines are constructed in very simple style, and are, as a rule, made out of white wood, unadorned by brilliant coloring as in Buddhist temples, and roofed with thatch.

Japanese private soldiers go to the Shokonsha to pray, and the ceremony consists of supplications that they may do their duty, while at the end three hearty cheers are given for the emperor. The streets on such occasions are crowded with the soldiers' swethearts, waiting to bid them goodby, and as their modesty is generally a barrier to a final embrace, the parting takes the form of a low bow and a final wave of the hand.

Russian officers and soldiers under orders of the front attend a service before they leave to pray for the ultimate success of their arms. Special prayers are read; the one most generally used is, "Blessed be God, holy and immortal. Have mercy upon us. Our cause is a just one; therefore let us all pray to the Lord that He may strengthen our arms in order that we may gain a victory over our enemies, with all their wiles. May we be imbued with great courage to overthrow our enemies, and may God open their eyes to the importance of peace."

The service is not a lengthy one, rarely lasting more than 20 minutes. Frequently, before setting out for the Far East, Russian priests sprinkle the soldiers with holy water, and many believe that the rite renders them invulnerable, or at least goes far to protect them from the enemy's bullets. —London Daily Mail.

Llexieff, Viceroy of Russia.

Admiral Alexieff first comes into prominence in the years following the China-Japanese war of 10 years ago, when Japan invaded and effectively occupied southern Manchuria, including the Liao-tung peninsula, vividly called in Chinese, "The Regent's Sword." Japan demanded from China the whole of Manchuria, as well as Formosa and the adjacent Pescadores islands, and a heavy cash indemnity. China consented to the cession of southern Manchuria and Formosa, but asked for a remission of a part of the cash. Then Russia came into the story with Germany on the one arm and France on the other. Japan was forced off the Asian mainland, but took a large payment from China in lieu of Manchuria, with a Russian guarantee for its liquidation. At that point, with the signing of the Shimonoseki treaty, the present quarrel in the Far East began. Japan's thwarted hopes turned to steady hatred of Russia, and a desire to be revenged, soon or late. She at once began to take measures for that revenge, and faced the problem with thoroughness and imaginative breadth. Japan arranged to have built in England, as first among naval powers, four of the heaviest and strongest battleships the world had yet seen, with two somewhat smaller ones, and six powerful armored cruisers. Russia saw that these preparations were aimed at her, and began to build up a Pacific fleet. Admiral Alexieff first comes into the world's history as commander of Russia's fleet in the Far Eastern waters.—Charles Johnston, in Harper's Weekly.

THE PROSAIC AGE.

If dairymaids wore diamonds,
And shepherds evening dress;
If "sweetly scented roses"
Resembled watercress;
If thrushes ceased to "warble,"
And skies to "smile in blue;"
If meadows discontinued
Whatever 't is they do;

If "bounding ocean billows"
Should "sweep no more the sands;"
If all the "moonlit evenings"
Were in receivers' hands;
If larks grew pessimistic,
And every "summer breeze"
Should join a labor union,
And rhyme no more with "trees;"

If all the "sturdy peasants"
Had derby hats and canes,
And every "lovely landscape"
Were packed with railway trains;
If "timid deer" the sidewalks
Of Broadway should elect,
And nightingales use language
Which parrots now affect;

If "gentle lambs" attacked you
With murderous intent;
If pigeons came and bit you,
As "through the land you went;"
If "rosy dawns" grew scarcer,
And "blushing girls" extinct—
Ah, me! poetic fancies
No longer would be inked.

—Harvard Lampoon.

"Oh, no," replied the Russian. "I used to be the official taster in a breakfast food factory."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The Causes of Cynicism.

Cynicism is never a native quality of the mind. It always has its birth in some unhappy experience. The young man finds that the girl who has gathered up for him all the harmony and melody of earth rings hollow at the test, and he drops his lyrical language and becomes cynical of women. The citizen of Boston has naturally grown cynical of newspapers. The candidate for public office who has been definitely retired to private life by being "knifed" at the polls distrusts party politics. A man publishes a novel and thenceforth is cynical of the publishers of novels. Yet these misfortunes have their salutary aspect. The disappointed lover, generalizing bitterly upon the sex, is not always implacable. A cooler judgment tempers and restores his passion, gives it another object and so guides him to a safer if less gusty and emotional love. The citizen of Boston, the betrayed candidate, the blighted young novelist, all have for their condition, even though they know it not, a valuable compensation, for the very event that has brought them to this pass of reasonable cynicism has stirred their indignation—yes, in spite of their seeming inertness, indignation is now smoldering.—Arthur Stanwood Pier, in Atlantic Monthly.

Women's Losses in Rochester Fire.

The terrible conflagration which laid low the main part of the dry goods section of the city brought crushing losses to a large number of women engaged in various lines of business. In no other district would the fire have such a chance to work mischief for this alert, industrious part of the community, and pitful indeed is the condition today of the dressmakers, music teachers, manicurists, pattern makers and workers in embroidery and art work, etc., who saw their plants, extensive and successful, or small and struggling, wiped out of existence. The result of years of hard work and patient thought and planning, the accumulation of books relating to special lines of work, of costly tools, all went, and the future lies full of perplexity and trouble for even the bravest and most hopeful among the losers.—Rochester Union.

Much has been heard of the efficacy of the Japanese explosive projectiles. The powder used is the invention of a Japanese. He claims that with regard to explosive force, the powder stands next to blasting gelatin and on a much higher level than dynamite or guncotton. A handful exploded on an iron plate one and one-half inches thick forces a hole through the plate. At a special test made two years ago, a six-inch shell loaded with guncotton made a hole a little larger than its own diameter in the target and burst with trifling effect in the backing of coal. A shell charged with Shimose powder tore an aperture three feet in diameter. The composition is handled with the greatest safety, and it costs only about one half of guncotton.

Ancient time-keeping has received new light from two remarkable stones lately unearthed by the German explorers on the site of the old Ionic port of Miletus. These stones are the remains of calendars, of which one is shown to date from 109 A. D. The year was divided into twelve zodiacal signs, and against each month the motion of the remaining signs was given with a note predicting the weather. On the left side were thirty holes, a wooden peg being moved forward one hole each day, thus giving the astronomical date. This new find has made clear the meaning of parapegma, or peg calendar, a name by which other stones have been rather mysteriously known.

Baroness Burdett-Coutts on April 21st celebrated her ninetieth birthday and received hundreds of telegrams, messages and presents. An amusing incident of the birthday was the arrival of a very small lady with her nurse, who left a bouquet, inscribed, "From the youngest baroness to the oldest baroness in England." It was an offering from the Lady Clifton, who departed, accompanied by her nurse, with an air as of a duty well done. The tiny, four-year-old peeress was to have sat next the Baroness Burdett-Coutts at the coronation, when her stern guardians decided that she was too young to be present.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works recently completed its shipment of twenty-four locomotives ordered by the Japanese government. The engines were taken apart and placed in boxes and framework and then placed in box cars so they could not be seen from the outside, the Japanese government and the Baldwins being anxious to keep the matter a secret. The engines are intended for use in Korea on the Seoul-Kobe railroad. American mechanics will set up the engines.

President Roosevelt's campaign hat has been petrified and is now in the hands of railroad officials at Omaha, Neb. After the campaign of 1900 the hat was secured by officials of the Burlington road, who sent it to the mineral springs at Thermopolis, Wy. There the hat remained for several months in a hot spring and was coated with the mineral solution found in the water. It now weighs 15 pounds and is a stone hat in fact.

According to an Oklahoma newspaper the health of Geronimo, the famous old Apache chief, is still good, although he is very aged. His home is ten miles from Lawton, yet he usually walks to and from the place to do his trading. He is quite often asked to give an exhibition of his skill as a marksman with the bow. This he readily consents to do, provided a nickel is made the target and it is to become his own in case he hits it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

TIRED, SUFFERING WOMEN.

Women run down and endure daily tortures through neglecting the kidneys. Kidney backache makes housework a burden; rest is impossible; sleep fitful; appetite gives out and you are tired all the time. Can't be well until the kidneys are well. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, which have restored thousands of suffering women to health and vigor.

Mrs. William Wallace, of 18 Capitol street, Concord, N. H., says: "I was in the early stages of Bright's Disease, and were it not for Doan's Kidney Pills I would not be living to-day. Pain in the back was so intense that at night I had to get out of bed until the paroxysm of pain passed away. I was languid and tired and hadn't the strength to lift a kettle of water. I could not work, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me, and two boxes absolutely cured me."

One of the important news centers of London is the inner lobby of the house of commons. No newspaper man has access to that place unless he is entitled to a seat in the press gallery—a rare privilege. Not all London journals have representatives in the reporters' gallery. Alfred Harmsworth had to buy a Scotch newspaper, with a time-honored title to a gallery seat, to get a representative of his widely circulated Daily Mail in the gallery and inner lobby.

The burning of the Alexandrian library was the greatest literary loss the world ever sustained. This consisted of two large buildings, one of which was said to contain 400,000 volumes, the other 300,000 volumes. The former building was accidentally burned, but the latter, after being enriched, was robbed of its valuable store of manuscripts by the Caliph Ornan, who distributed them among the furnaces of the Alexandrian baths, to be destroyed by fire.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., JUNE 2, 1904. VOL. 29. NO. 40

PARKER IS ENDORSED

By the Democrats of Alabama for the Presidential Nomination.

AN UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATION

Is Sent to St. Louis—Mallory, Rhodes, Russell and Richardson Chosen.

Parker Indorsed.

Five hundred and nine democrats of Alabama forming the state convention were called to order Wednesday noon by State Committee Chairman H. S. D. Mallory in the auditorium of the Montgomery city hall.

He announced as temporary chairman H. B. Gray, of Jefferson, and for temporary secretaries Mr. W. W. Brandon, of Tuscaloosa, and R. E. L. Neil, of Selma.

The committee on permanent organization reported, offering the name of C. C. Whitson, of Talladega, for permanent chairman and W. W. Brandon and R. E. L. Neil, of Dallas, as permanent secretaries.

The resolutions adopted declare Judge Alton B. Parker an acceptable candidate for the presidential nomination.

The delegation is not instructed, but the convention provided that they shall vote as a unit according to the will of a majority of the delegation.

Major W. W. Screws, of Montgomery, withdrew his name as a candidate for delegate at large. He said that he believed that it was to the best interest of the party that he come down and when that was the case he never hesitated. There were cries of "stay in the race."

The first ballot for delegates at large resulted: Rhodes, 379; Russell, 486; Mallory, 497; Richardson, 334; Sanford, 154; Screws, 187. Rhodes, Russell, Mallory and Richardson were declared elected.

The electors and alternates selected are as follows:

First District—Elector, E. B. McCarty, Marengo; alternate, C. J. Coulter, Washington.

Second District—Elector, S. C. Jackson, Baldwin; alternate, N. R. Leigh, Escambia.

Third District—Elector, E. L. Blue, Bullock; alternate, Thomas J. Carlisle, Coffee.

Fourth District—Elector, W. B. Brown, Shelby; alternate, W. L. McCaa, Calhoun.

Fifth District—Elector, J. W. Overton, Randolph; alternate, George A. Smith, Elmore.

Sixth District—Elector, W. C. Davis, Walker; alternate, A. M. Willett, Pickens.

Seventh District—Elector, J. R. Rosson, Cullman; W. J. Boykin, Etowah.

Eighth District—Elector, W. B. Bankhead, Madison; alternate, C. M. Sherrod, Lawrence.

Ninth District—Elector, G. W. Darden, Blount; alternate, O. A. Lane, Jefferson.

Selection of electors at large was taken up. Taylor, of Mobile, nominated Richmond P. Hobson. Samford, of Pike, was named by Congressman Clayton and Long, of Walker, by State Auditor Sowell. They received the following vote on call of counties: Hobson, 391; Long, 260; Samford, 365.

Inge of Mobile, Whiteside of Calhoun, Burnett of Conecuh, and Lynn of Morgan, were named alternates.

Foster Elsbery, of Geneva, and C. P. Walker, of Conecuh, were named alternate electors at large.

Delegate Powell, of Butler, offered an amendment that the word "white" be inserted before the word population in the platform relating to representation. A motion to table carried, 350 to 146.

As a testimonial to the honesty of postoffice clerks, a single dollar bearing a 2-cent stamp on one side and an address on the other was received in the Huntsville postoffice from the postoffice at Manila, P. Insane Juror Drawn Twice.

The trial of Shug Huffman for the murder of Deputy Marshal Holsonback, was abrutly ended by one of the jurors developing symptoms of insanity.

Juror Caine during the trial requested an audience with the judge and told Judge Jones that two of the jurors had conspired to kill him. Caine was immediately examined, pronounced incompetent and a mistrial was entered. Huffman's former trial was interrupted eighteen months ago in the same manner.

It is again reported that the Acre territory dispute between Brazil and Peru has been settled.

Alabama Prisoners.

Between sixteen and seventeen hundred tons of coal are now being mined a day by the convicts of Alabama at Pratt Mines and Flat Top.

This brings to the treasury about $1,000 every twenty-four hours and represents an income to the state from seven hundred men at these two mines of $26,000 a month or $312,000 a year.

Birmingham is to have two new Catholic churches.

THE PLATFORM.

As It Was Adopted by the Convention.

Resolved, That, having full confidence in the wisdom of the national convention of the democratic party to be held in St. Louis and its ability to adopt a sound platform based on the time-honored principles of the party upon which all can unite and win a sure victory in November, we hereby remit to that convention all questions relating to national affairs.

Resolved further, That we do, however, emphatically protest against the methods of the present chief executive of the United States in defying the laws of the land in setting up his diseretion in opposition to explicit provision of national statutes and arrogating to himself legislative functions. We condemn imperialism in either the executive or legislative departments of the government, and especially condemn the flagrant usurpation of power to which this country has been treated in recent years and the corruption and extravagance of the present national republican administration.

Resolved further, That, while this convention does not instruct the delegation from Alabama to the coming national convention to be held at St. Louis as to the candidates for whom its vote shall be cast at such convention, but prefers to leave the delegation free to cast its vote therefor as a unit, as a majority thereof may then decide with the lights then before them, yet we, the democrats of Alabama, in convention assembled, considering the situation as it is now before us, do hereby declare that, recognizing his eminent fitness for the place and his exalted character as a man, we believe Judge Alton Brooks Parker, of New York, is the most available and acceptable candidate of our party for the presidency and that the sentiment of the democracy of this state is favorable to his nomination.

Resolved further, That the vote of the Alabama delegation to the coming national democratic convention to be held at St. Louis be cast as a unit as may be decided by a majority thereof on all questions submitted to the convention.

Resolved further, That the last legislature has adopted an honest and satisfactory primary and general election law and has also carried into effect the various provisions of the new constitution, thereby fully redeeming all pledges of our party and preserving white supremacy by lawful and constitutional methods.

Resolved further, That the state executive committee is instructed to fix the representation for all future conventions on a basis of a population of the next preceding federal census allowing one delegate for each 3,000 population and one for each majority or fraction thereof.

ACQUITTED.

J. Perry Greene, Accused of Embezzlement, Declared Not Guilty.

One ballot only was taken by the jury which tried J. Perry Greene at Columbus, Ga. Mr. Greene, who was formerly of Birmingham, is one of the most prominent young men of the city. A charge of embezzlement was brought by President John F. Weathers, of the Columbus Showcase Company, for whom Mr. Greene had worked as bookkeeper during 1903, it being alleged that he took $1,300 of the company's money and then made the books balance by making false entries.

The defense was sensational, Greene charging that President Weathers himself had been systematically robbing the company, and that he tried to make a scapegoat of the bookkeeper. Greene talked to the jury an hour and a half and made a dramatic assertion of his innocence and an equally dramatic accusation of President Weathers, who sat a few feet from him.

Dalny Evacuated.

BURNED TO DEATH,

But There are Suspicious Circumstances Attendant.

A special from Paines, Miss., says: "Jerome Bufford, a merchant, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his place of business. A peculiar feature of the case, and one which has aroused suspicion of foul play, was the finding of a bag of silver coin and some valuable papers of Bufford's near the site of the store."

Railway earnings thus far reported for May, fall 3.7 short of the same time last year.

Will be Dedicated June 7th.

Tuesday, June 7th, has been designed as the time for dedicating the Alabama exhibit in the mines building, including the statue of Vulcan. A program is being arranged. It is intended to have the Colossus christened by a young lady from Alabama with proper ceremony, and it is expected that a large number of Alabamians will be present.

Faunsdale's new bank building is nearing completion.

ON TO PORT ARTHUR

The Japanese Propose to Make a Combined Military and Naval Attack upon It.

JAPS CAPTURE RUSSIAN SCOUTS.

There Have Been Small Engagements Japan Accused of Using Floating Mines.

The main object of the Japanese campaign has been Port Arthur and once that fortress is in their hands, unless an exceedingly favorable opportunity offers to attack Kuropatkin, the Japanese plan is simply to make their tenure secure and force the Russian commander to assume the offense. Moreover, there is information to the effect that the Japanese propose to storm Port Arthur with the briefest possible delay, after having first closed the harbor to render the egress of the Russian ships impossible at the last moment, thus forcing the Russians to destroy them without subjecting the Japanese to the inevitable losses which must occur if the Russian squadron gets out for a last fight before going to the bottom. The previous repeated efforts of the Japanese to "cork" the harbor have been as much with the view of this ultimate situation as for protecting landings.

The admiralty denies the report of the loss of two Russian torpedo destroyers, while laying mines which destroyed the battleship Hatsuse.

A naval attache of Russia declares that the Japanese used "driving mines" bunching them to drift below the surface and thus causing the loss of the Russian battleship Petropavolovsk.

A typhoon prevails, which hinders the Japanese from landing operations and heavy rains are spoiling the roads.

The Russians, it is reported, have captured a Japanese convoy.

The Russians have abandoned Chen-Ko-Chen-Pau, Huang-Shan and Liu-sent east of Chen-shrdluetaoinshrdlnu Shu-Tun. No Russians have been sent east of Chen-Ko-Chen-Pau.

General Nakamuras' detachment, who occupied Liao-Shu-Tun Friday, captured four Russian guns.

DISPATCHES INTERCEPTED

Show Heavy Russian Losses Never Before Known.

Correspondence intercepted by the Japanese at the blockade of Port Arthur give the information that some Russian torpedo boat destroyers have been sunk by mines outside of Port Arthur, as well as details of the placing by the Russians of the mines which effected the destruction of the Japanese battleship Hatsuse on May 15th.

Commander Honda, who commanded the fireship Totomi in the successful sealing of Port Arthur, and the entire crew of the Totomi were deafened by their experience. The explosions and awful cannonade ruptured the tymphanums of their ears.

Kansas River Up.

At Topeka, Kans., the Kaw river is eighteen feet above low water mark. The run of driftwood has been very heavy and the Rock Island railroad people were busy dislodging the accumulation at their bridge with dynamite. Notwithstanding these efforts the greater portion of the false work of this bridge, which is being reconstructed, went out making the bridge unsafe for traffic. The street railway bridge also was knocked out of alignment, making the passage of cars impossible.

Crazed by rheumatic pains, Gustav Rolburg, of Chicago, 72 years old, endeavored to amputate his foot to relieve himself of pain. As the old man sat on the floor in his home and began his operation, his wife, helpless from paralysis, looked on from her chair within a few feet of him. Her screams attracted two policemen, who took the knife from Rolburg.

IROQUOIS THEATER

Denied a Permit to Rebuild by Commissioner Williams.

City Building Commissioner Williams Friday formally refused to grant a permit for reconstruction of the Iroquois theater in Chicago, in which hundreds of people perished by fire. Attorney Levy Mayer, counsel for the owners of the theatrical building, declared that the city will be forced by legal steps to issue the permit.

In Bessemer a number of robberies have taken place recently and in no case so far has any clew been left as to the identity of the thieves.

Fasted 57 Days.

Mrs. Rutherford, the woman who fasted fifty-seven days at her home near Getup, Ala., has recovered consciousness and is eating with an excellent appetite. Her condition had attracted great attention and as she was unconscious and nothing could be done for her, her death was expected soon. Mrs. Rutherford quietly awakened, her jaws relaxed and the first thing she called for was something to eat.

IS IT UNCONSTITUTIONAL?

The Lusk School Redistricting Bill Is So Declared.

It is stated that the Lusk redistricting bill is unconstitutional because the house passed one bill and the senate another.

The bill was passed by the house and went to the senate. The judiciary committee of the senate made a number of amendments and in addition to this amendments were added upon the floor. The amended bill was then passed by the senate and went back to the house. The bill was referred by the house to a conference committee and on the last night of the session this conference committee reported, recommending that the senate recede from two of its amendments. These amendments referred to the eighteenth circuit and the change of Morgan county from one circuit to another. This was the only report made and it was passed by the house. Thus the bill passed by the house and the bill passed by the senate were different.

Another source of information, says the conference report—or rather the report signed by a majority of the conference committee—also passed the senate. This majority report was signed by one member of the conference committee on the part of the senate and all three of the conferees on the part of the house. Two of the senate conferees submitted a minority report, which was voted down.

If the constitutionality of the bill is attacked as indicated, it is said that the question will be raised whether this majority report was a conference in the parliamentary acceptation of the term.

4600 COTTON BALES BURNED.

Fire in Montgomery Causes Loss of $380,000.

Fire in the Alabama Cotton and Storage Company, known as the Atlanta Compress Company, at Montgomery Sunday destroyed the building and 4600 bales of cotton. The loss on the cotton is $280,000 and the loss on the building $100,000. Insurance on the building was $65,000 and the cotton is practically covered.

It is not known how the fire started. Two weeks ago there were twice as many bales in the warehouse.

The blaze originated in the cordage department and spread rapidly. Between the plant proper and the warehouse, where was stored 4600 bales of cotton, was a parapet wall twenty feet high, built for fire protection. The flames leaped this wall and the warehouse was ignited. A strong wind was blowing at the time.

FIVE TO SEVEN PER CENT INCREASE

In Cotton Acreage Reported From Tennessee Valley.

A review of the condition of cotton in the Tennessee valley shows that the crop is two or three weeks late and that the season so far has been the most unfavorable in years. To begin with the weather at planting time and for two or three weeks thereafter was too cold. After warm weather set in there was no rain and the whole section is suffering from the drouth.

It is estimated that the increase in cotton acreage is from 5 to 7 per cent, as compared with last year. Cultivation is complete and the labor at hand is sufficient for the purpose.

Parsonage and Church Burned.

Fire at New Decatur Sunday night destroyed the parsonage of the Westminster Presbyterian church, causing a loss of $1,500. The church was also damaged to fully the same amount. The loss is partially covered by insurance. A negro servant turned a coal oil lamp over, which caused the blaze.

Accidental Shot Proved Fatal.

L. D. DeShazo, a grocer of Irondale, died from the effects of a rifle shot which he received Saturday afternoon. The man was shot in the stomach. Saturday afternoon DeShazo was moving his rifle and it was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the stomach and ranging upward.

Killed His Wife While Drunk.

T. W. Walton, a prominent farmer living seven miles north of Jackson, Miss., shot and killed his wife. No motive is known, but the murderer was badly intoxicated. He is in jail.

Impaled on a Picket.

Joseph J. Vaiden, seven years of age, met death in a horrible maner at Montgomery. He fell while attempting to walk a fence, striking his right temple on one of the steel pickets and driving it to the base of his brain.

There are still 40 per cent of the exhibits intended for the St. Louis exposition not yet in place.

Lost Both Feet.

It is reported that Cous Webb, a white boy 16 years old, while attempting to catch a Frisco freight train passing through Cordova, had both of his feet cut off and one leg broken. The accident may prove fatal.

Professor A. B. Warwick, of Luray Va., is coming to Huntsville this week to establish a female academy. Efforts will be made to organize a company and build a first class school.

A WEEVIL DESTROYER

Quest by the Department of Agriculture Seems to Have Met wtih Success

FEEDS ON THE COTTON PEST.

Botanist Discovers an Ant in Guatemala Which is an Effective Enemy of the Cotton Pest.

The department of agriculture announces that an ant has been found in Guatemala that is an effective enemy of the boll weevil. It will be immediately introduced into the cotton states. The greatest significance is attached to the discovery, which was made by O. F. Cook, the botanist in charge of tropical agricultural investigations of the bureau of plant industry. Cabled instructions have been sent to him to report immediately to the department what assistance he needs in the way of men or money. During a trip through Central Asia last year Mr. Cook discovered a cotton grown by Indians which gave indications of being immune from the boll weevil, and on orders from the department he later began an investigation in certain points in Guatemala and Mexico.

Mr. Cook's investigations have been in more or less accessible regions in the province of Alta Vera Paz, Guatemala. The weevils are present there, but the investigations show they are unquestionably kept in check by the presence of an active enemy in the shape of a large reddish brown ant, which is attracted to the cotton by the food which it secures from sets of floral nectaries. Mr. Cook's investigations show that these ants spread themselves over a field of cotton, four or five to a plant, and that they are constantly engaged in the destruction of the boll weevils. Mr. Cook reports that the adroit and business-like way in which the weevil is disposed of seems to prove beyond a question that the ant is by structure and instinct especially equipped for the work of destruction, and is, in short, the true explanation of the fact that the cotton is successfully cultivated by the Indians of Alta Vera Paz in spite of the presence of the boll weevil.

The ant is able to protect itself against frost, since it excavates a nest three or more feet into the ground. Several have survived confinement for twelve days without food. Although cotton seems to be especially adapted to attract the ant by means of its numerous necessaries, the insect is not, like some of the members of its class, confined to a single plant or to a single kind of prey. It attacks and destroys insects of every order, even centipedes. On the other hand, it does not do the least injury to the cotton, or to any other plant, so far as has been ascertained, and it can be handled with impunity.

TOW BOAT EXPLODED

And Thirteen Persons Were Torn to Pieces—Others Fatally Injured.

The tow boat Fred Wilson, belonging to the Monongahela Coal and Coke Company, of Pittsburg, blew up at 3:30 o'clock near Louisville, Ky., and thirteen persons were killed, among them being Captain Price and Mate Sykes. One passenger, who is said to be a Pittsburg millionaire, is reported among the dead.

The cause of the accident is not known. The boat had just put about to back a tow into a landing place when the explosion occurred.

There were thirty-three persons on the vessel at the time and only seven were uninjured

Of the injured one has since died. The force of the explosion was so great that it shattered windows and awakened the occupants of houses in Louisville, four miles from the scene.

HALF A MILLION DOLLAR FIRE

Visited the Wholesale District of New Orleans Sunday.

At New Orleans Sunday fire caused by electric light wires did about half a million dollars damage. The Louis P. Rice saddle factory, Comon and Mazazine streets; the Simonds Manufacturing Company and the Meig, Brady and Lincoln woodenware establishments were destroyed and others damaged.

The fire was in the heart of the wholesale district and was stopped short of two oil companies and several big drug establishments. Insurance $350,000.

The Pearl River Lumber Company, of Mississippi has provided a movable Y. M. C. A. building which can be lifted, like the other camp buildings, by great cranes onto flat cars and transported to the different points where the men are cutting.

In a report issued by the department of agriculture the physiologist in charge of the plant-breeding laboratory estimates that the production of long staple upland cotton in the United States in 1903 reached nearly 105,000 bales.

BOB WHITE

Declared a Valuable Bird by the Department of Agriculture.

Orinthologists of the department of agriculture have been making an investigation of the economic value of the Bob White, as a result of which it is now announced that that bird is probably the most useful and abundant of species on the farm. Field observations, experiments and examinations show that it consumes large quantities of weed seeds and destroys many of the worst insect pests with which farmers contend, and it does not injure grain, fruit or any other crop.

It is figured that from September 1 to April 30 annually in Virginia alone the total consumption of weed seed by Bob White amounts to 573 tons. Some of the pests which it habitually destroys, the report says, are the Mexican cotton boll weevil, the Chinese bug and the Rocky mountain locust.

CLAIMS AGAINST PANAMA.

Country Has Money to Pay Them and Many Are Filed.

All the claims which for one thing or another have been piling up in the state department for the last twenty years against the governments of Colombia and Panama promise to be brought out at an early date and presented for payment, the Panama treasury now being full.

A representative of L. Schepp & Co., the millionaire cocoanut dealers of New York, called at the department and presented a claim for $200,000. One of their vessels containing a cargo of cocoanuts was seized by the Colombian government in 1896 and detained so long that the fruit was spoiled. Captain J. L. Pearcy, of Nashville, Tenn., who was consul at Panama at that time, has filed with the department a statement bearing out the complaint of the claimants.

WALKER ON PANAMA.

Favors Nicaragua—Another Panama Treaty Necessary.

"I still believe," said Captain Walker, "that the Nicaragua route for an interocean canal is the only feasible one, that it can be built in less time and operated at less expense than a canal at Panama; if, in fact, a Panama canal can be built. In order to build this canal," continued Captain Walker, "it will be necessary for a new or additional treaty with Panama to be made in order that there may be included in the zone of operations the entire watershed of the Chagres river, and in all probability of all other rivers which have their source outside of the ten mile zone. The diversion of the waters of the Chagres is necessary in order that it may be ascertained whether a safe, impermeable foundation may be built for the dam at Bohio.

SHIMOSE POWDER.

It is a Terrific Explosive and the Japanese Possess the Secret.

Reports received from the far east dwell at length on the terrific power of the Japanese Shimose powder, the nature of which is an absolute secret. It is not used to propel the shot, but for bursting the charge of the army and navy shell. The result of the explosion has astounded the United States army observers. The heaviest armor-piercing shell with its small cavity is rent into countless thousands of sharp fragments which are hurled through the air with such force that they tear through the sides of an iron ship as would a projectile from a mechine gun. The Russian warships Variag and Korietz were found to be riddled deck and sides by fragments of these shells.

Col. Christopher C. Sheets Dead.

Colonel C. C. Sheets was found dead in bed at Decatur Friday morning. He had been in bad health for some time and had been unable to walk for several months. Colonel Sheats was a noted character of Alabama.

He was one of the members of the secession convention who voted against Alabama going out of the union. He was raised in Winston county and at one time was United States minister to Denmark. He was, shortly after the war, elected governor of the state, but was counted out.

Formerly he owned valuable property, but died a pauper. One of the handsomest residences in Decatur was his, but he willed it to his wife, who recently died and who obtained a divorce from him some time ago.

At Nashville, Tenn, a $100,000 chewing gum factory is to be built. At other points in the state new enterprises are proposed as follows: Chattanooga, $10,000 medicine factory; Knoxville, distillery, $30,000 coal company; Cornersville, $10,000 phosphate mining company; Lebanon, planing mill; Pulaski, hub factory; Glenraven, flour mill.

New industries for Alabama are: Huntsville, $150,000 oil mill and fertilizer factory; Evergreen, fertilizer factory, hardwood factory; Demopolis, laundry; Gadsden, $60,000 mining company.

The West Blocton High school closed for the term with a concert. This school has been run for a period of nine months, absolutely free to all patrons.

B. C. Crawford has been appointed postmaster at Maplesville, Chilton county, vice William F. Foster, removed.

BREVITIES BY WIRE.

Vulcan stands 56 feet in his sandals, and is the largest cast statue in the world. The one next in size is the cast bronze statue of Buddha in Tokio, Japan, which is 52 feet high and was built about one thousand years ago. The record shows that ten years were consumed in the building of the great Buddha, while it required only seven months to achieve the Birmingham colossus from the time the artist began his work to the completion of the statue in the mines building at St. Louis.

The annual meeting of the lot owners of the public cemetery of Cullman will be held at Kullman's hall on May 30th for the purpose of electing trustees. It is claimed that the present trustees received something like $900 from their predecessors; about $300 has been added to the treasury since. It is claimed that all this has been spent and an inlebtedness of $100 incurred. All this has created dissatisfaction and the reckoning will be demanded.

The catalogue of the Alabama Polytechnic institute for 1903 has been issued. The total enrollment for the year is 480, which is considerably the largest in the history of the college. Ten states and three foreign countries, Cuba, Nicaragua, British Honduras, and fifty-six counties in Alabama are represented. The total number of volumes in the library is over 18,000. Twelve scholarships averaging $150 apiece have been established by the alumni society.

Carload shipments of building paper have begun from Ensley, which mark another epoch in the industrial development of the city. The Barrett Manufacturing Company, which has been constructing a plant for the past eight months for the manufacture of roofing felt and building paper, have begun operations and are already shipping the product of the plant to various points in the country.

Under the annual readjustment of postmasters' salaries these changes in Alabama are announced: Increase, Demopolis, $1,800 to $1,900; Evergreen, $1,500 to $1,600; Florence, $2,100 to $2,200; Fort Payne, $1,000 to $1,100; Gadsden, $2,000 to $2,300; Greenville, $1,600 to $1,700; Jackson, $1,100 to $1,200; Jacksonville, $1,200 to $1,400; Lafayette, $1,200 to $1,300.

Unknown parties attempted to wreck the thirteen automobiles of the Birmingham Motor Club on the first tour Saturday evening on the Mount Pinson road by placing heavy rails across the road in a dark place where the road curved. A car driven by Dr. J. T. Harwell ran into the obstruction and was badly damaged. No one was hurt, however.

The contract for the building of the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian Association at Birmingham was let to Allen J. Krebs & Company for $17,805. Work is to begin at once and it is hoped the structure will be completed by the end of the summer. This contract is only for roughing in, as the total cost will be $25,000.

The house journal is considerably larger than that of the previous session of the legislature. It numbers upward of 2,400 pages, while the journal of the previous session contains only 2,000 pages. The increase is due to the constitutional requirements as to notice and proof accompanying bills of a local nature.

Another confederate veteran has put forward the claim that he is the youngest survivor of the confederate army. W. E. Clutts, of Cluttsville, Madison county, enlisted in Company K, Forty-ninth Alabama, on November 15th, 1861, at the age of thirteen years and four months.

The final exercises of the Marion military institute last Thursday closed the most successful session in the history of the institution. The enrollment shows an increase of 25 per cent over last session and the attendance at finals 30 per cent.

The board of examiners of the state educational department has ruled that teachers holding unexpired third grade certificates may inclose such certificate in applying for second grade papers and have it relieve them of taking over the examinations of the third grade.

S. M. Howry has been appointed postmaster at Oxford.

Will Harkins shot and killed a negro named Willis Brewer in the mines of the Corona Coal and Iron Company at Corona. Mr. Harkins went to Jasper and surrendered himself to Sheriff Jack Moore. He was released on bond of $2,000. He claims self-defense.

A telephone line from Gadsden to Chattanooga and all eastern points, following the line of the Alabama Great Southern road, had been approved and work will commence soon. The new line will be rushed to early completion.

The postoffice at Kennedy was entered by burglars and about $75 worth of stamps were taken. There was no money left in the office.

The supreme court is in session for consideration of cases from the seventh division, composed of the counties of Calhoun, Cherokee, Clay, Cleburne, DeKalb, Etowah, Randolph, Shelby, St. Clair and Talladega.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad expects to run through trains from Birmingham, Bessemer and Ensley to Gadsden just as soon as the Altoona branch of the Louisville and Nashville is completed.

Under populist administration the tax rate has nearly doubled in a few years.

The Methodist General Conference has again declared against card playing and dancing.

The populist administration should put two or three more unlawful tax levies upon the people of Shelby county.

The action of the Postmasters' Convention in Calera last Saturday does not please any great number of the rank and file Republicans.

The hyphenated baby was born at Calera last Saturday, but the Democrats will see that it is decently buried next November, for all time to come.

The best thing that could happen to this country would be a race suicide among the English sparrows. Of all the pestiferous things on the face of the earth they are it.

The Montgomery Advertiser seems to have the Birmingham Ledger in the nine hole. The insincerity of the Ledger on the delegates question is shown up in pretty good shape.

Put another illegal levy upon the people of Shelby county so the present administration can have a little more grease with which to run the county, and the people be durned.

Bryan says it will depend on who the Democrats nominate at their convention whether he will support him or not. Bryan should be the last man in the world to bolt the ticket.

Tax the people for road purposes, and then make an unlawful use of the money. That is a part of the record of the populist administration. It is a matter of record that such is the case.

The Postmasters' Convention, held in Calera last Saturday, filled up the gaps left in the populist ticket by nominating black and tan Republican candidates. The nomination is all they will get.

The populist administration spent about $700 of the people's money to pay freight upon and make an experimental demonstration with the good roads machinery. That was a Democratic trick, too, was it?

The property values in Shelby county have increased nearly one-half in the past few years, but notwithstanding this fact the tax rate has almost doubled. Under Democratic administrations the rate was only four mills, but the populists have pushed the rate up to seven mills.

Some postmasters of Shelby county dominated the so-called Republican convention held in Calera last Saturday. The distributors of Uncle Sam's mail in this county, a part of them at least, are apparently in the saddle now, but the people will take pleasure in unhorsing them next November.

Col. E. L. Russell, of Mobile, Col. R. N. Rhodes, of Birmingham, Col. H. S. D. Mallory, of Selma, and Judge William Richardson, of Huntsville, are the four delegates at large to the National Democratic Convention, named by the State Convention in Montgomery last week. The delegation goes to St. Louis uninstructed as to choice, but are instructed to vote as a unit. Two delegates from each congressional district were also named the Fourth district being represented by A. L. McLeod, of Dallas county, and F. B. Johnson, of Talladega. The elector of this district is Hon. W. B. Browne, of Columbiana, alternate W. L. McCaa, of Calhoun county. While the delegation to St Louis is unins ructed, yet the sentiment of the convention was for Parker. A game cock was adopted as the emblem of the Democratic party in Alabama, above which are to be the words, "White Supremacy," and underneath, the words "For the Right."

Senator Matt S. Quay, of Pennsylvania, died at his home in Beavers, Penn., last Saturday, from the effects of an attack of gastritis. The deceased man was one of the leaders of the Republican party, and the hold he had upon the Republicans of his State was a remarkable one. He had held public office at the hands of the people of his State for more than half a century.

SPECIAL TAXES, "NERVE," AND "GREASE."

The power of taxation, of all the powers given to the government is the most liable to be abused. The more "nerve" the powers-that-be can muster, the greater the abuse heaped upon the people. Notwithstanding for the past four years the tax gatherers have failed to collect from the railroads and other big corporations the special taxes, levied by virtue of the "nerve" of the present administration, they have had the "nerve" to extort it from we ordinary mortals —from YOU.

The trouble began in 1900, when, under the special road law, which stated in plain terms that the special tax therein authorized should be a part of that authorized by the Constitution to be levied for county purposes (which was one-half of one per cent, on the value of property), the present administration, notwithstanding this plain limitation, by sheer "nerve" levied a combined general and special road tax of three fifths of one per cent., or ten cents on the hundred dollars in excess of the constitutional limit. The railroads, and some others of the big corporations, declined to pay the excess, or paid under protest, litigated with the county, and won. There was no rebate to YOU, who, unsuspecting, paid without legal protest. This was an exhibition of "nerve" on the part of the present administration, for which you paid ten cents on the hundred dollars of your property, while the railroads saw the show complimentary, or on a "greasy" pass.

In 1901 we had the second exhibition of "nerve," but with a new feature. Like all second performances, "an entirely new programme" was advertised, and the administration said, with a great deal of nerve, that, in addition to a general tax of three mills, and special road tax of 2 mills —making the constitutional limit— "it is furthur ordered that a special tax of one mill on each dollar's worth of taxable property be, and the same is hereby levied, to build bridges and causeways in said county." We are aware that the constitution authorized the levy of special taxes, in addition to one-half of one per cent, for the purpose of paying debts created for building bridges; but it has nothing to say of "causeways" as a favored object; and hence it appears that if the "Democratic railroad attorneys" had mopped the administration all over with "grease," it would not have slid more easily into the hole. Again the railroads and other corporations resisted; but the "nerve" pulled another ten cents on the hundred dollars out of YOUR pockets, just the same.

In 1902, the programme was again varied. We were assessed 30 cents on the hundred dollars for county purposes, 20 cents for road purposes, and 10 cents on the hundred dollars to build certain particular bridges, of certain particular values, namely: one at Laney's Ford, across Cahaba River, to cost $3,300.00; one across Camp Branch, on Calera Road, to cost $228.00; one approach to the Iron Bridge over Waxahatchie, at Shrader's Ford, to cost $240.00, and Bridge across Yellow Leaf Creek, on Harpersville Road, to cost $150.00 and Bridge near Wilton, on Montevallo and Wilton Road, to cost $300.00 and one across Buck Creek, near Pelham, to cost $150.00, and to build in conjunction with Jefferson County, a bridge across Little Cahaba River, near its mouth, to cost $3,200.00. It did not appear that any debts had been created, or contracts let for such bridges, and hence the "nerve" ran up against the third refusal of the railroads and big corporations: but the administration brought another ten cents on the hundred dollars out of YOUR pants, the same as if it had been "greased."

There was the usual change of programme for 1903. We are given fifty cents on the hundred dollars for County purposes, NOTHING for roads, and twenty cents on the hundred dollars "to build balance on Steel Bridge on Cahaba River, at Laney's Ford, $3,250.00 (by which it seems that $50.00 of the money raised from the levy of the previous year was generously expended toward the object for which it had been collected); Steel Bridge across Cahaba River, at Parker's Mill, $2,800.00 (this is a mythical bridge); Bridge across Beaver Dam Creek, on Montevallo Road, $200.00; Bridge across Yellow Leaf Creek, on Morgan Mill Road, $360.00; Bridge across Spring Creek, on R. F. D. No. 1, $200.00; Bridge across Back Creek at Helena, $150.00; Bridge across Yellow Leaf Creek on Pumpkin Swamp Road, known as Walden Bridge, $200.00; Bridge across Beeswax Creek, on Montgomery Road, $280.00; Bridge across Four Mile Creek, near Blue Springs Church, $100.00."

These bridges, it seems, except the one at Laney's Ford, upon which we are informed that there was a slight (?) balance due, were all in the air, supported only by the "nerve" of the administration, when the levy was made. So the railroads and big corporations again failed to respond to the "nerve" of the administration. Yet, YOU, poor taxpayer, came across with a double dose of "nerve" tonic, and plunked down your twenty cents on the hundred dollars.

Records, my dear Advocate; not mere assertions.

To summarize: The railroads, and other protesting corporations, have, during the four years, saved to themselves, 50 cents on the hundred dollars, and YOU have been held up for a like amount—enough to have paid an entire year's tax, for all purposes, under Democratic administration, with some to spare. Verily, it is not in "nerve" that the present administration is lacking; but in justice, fairness, and good common sense. It was Vanderbilt who had nerve to exclaim: "The people be damned!" and it is this same species of "nerve" the present County administration displays, and glories in.

THE POPULIST RECORD.

Misleads the People.

The Sentinel says the Democrats when they were in power made the railroads pay their road taxes. The fact are the Democrats never collected any road tax at all, and they never did anything else in the interest of the people.—Advocate

This is another willful misrepresentation on the part of the Advocate. The Sentinel has never said the Democrats made the railroads pay the road taxes. It has said, and reiterates, that the Democrats collected all the taxes levied against the railroads. This is another little story like the one the Advocate tells about the Democratic administrations paying a county officer $25.00 more than the law allowed. The fact of the matter is; not until the legislature of 1898-9 was there a law made for collectiong a road tax which was after the Democrats had gone out of power. The populist administration then fixed an unlawful levy upon the taxpayers and made them pay it, the railroads excepted. The courts said the levy was illegal therefore the railroads did not pay it. The Sentinel claims, and the tax books will substantiate the assertion, that all taxes levied against the railroads under Democratic administration were paid without any litigation. The populists, however, tried to compel the railroads to pay an unlawful levy they had placed upon the taxpayers of the county by bringing suit in the courts; a decision was given in favor of the railroads and the taxpayers had a big bill of costs to pay, the result of this experimental administration of the populists. Thus the taxpayers of Shelby county (the railroads excepted) had not only to pay illegal tax levies administered by the populists, but must foot the bill of a lawsuit instituted by the populist administration that said administration had no idea whatever could be collected. The Sentinel repeats: the Democratic administrations collected all taxes levied against the railroads, and without litigation, while on the other hand the populists have failed in every instance to collect the illegal levies placed upon the railroads, but which the other taxpayers of the county had to pay. That's the kind of fair dealing the populist administation has given the taxpayers of this county. Great, isn't it?

What the Populists Did.

Contrary to expressed law the populist administration mulcted (deprived or took away) more than $7,000 from the road fund of Shelby county, and used it for other purposes contrary to law. Read what Section 17 of the road law approved in December, 1898, says;

"Be it further enacted, That the Court of County Commissioners of said counties shall levy a special tax of not less than one-tenth, or more than one-fifth of one per cent. on all taxable property of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties, to be assessed and collected as other taxes, and when paid into the treasury, it shall be kept separate from other funds and used only for the purpose indicated in this act, which special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the Constitution for county purposes."

The Sentinel charges that the populist administration, with brazen usurpation of law, transferred more than $7,000 from the road fund and used is for other purposes than is prescribed by law for its use. What was the result: Last October when the grand jury made its report there was found in the road fund only $2.09, when there should have been nearly $8,000, State Examiner Gorman's report on the condition of Shelby county at that time goes into that mater fully, and it shows up the popalist administration in a very unenviable light. The people of Shelby county are taxed for road purposes, and the law expressly says the money thus raised shall be kept separate and apart from other funds, and used ONLY for that purpose. But the populist administration over-rides the law, puts its hands into the road fund (the pockets of the people) and takes therefrom more than $7,000 and applies it to paying debts contracted by its extravagance. State Examiner Gorman said Treasurer Carden owed Shelby county more than $7,000. Who is to pay it? The county treasurer, or must the people of the county again be assessed to replace in the road fund $7,000 unlawfully taken therefrom by the populist administration? It's a debt the county owes, and a debt brought about by the populist leaders who have shown in the above transaction that law cuts no figure with them. Do the taxpayers like that kind of administration of affairs? This is not just an "assertion" of The Sentinel, but is a matter of law and record. And yet, notwithstanding such a high-handed proceeding as mulcting the taxpayers of the money in the road fund, and for which they were especially taxed, and which statutory law says shall be used for no other purpose, the populist administration says it is proud of its record. Well, that pride will take a fall in November which will jar the vertebrae of the whole caboodle. And it will be administered by a people whose confidence has been most outrageously abused. A Democratic David, behind whom stand the people of Shelby county, will interpret the handwriting now on the wall, and in which is read the doom of an administration that has proven itself so incompetent and unworthy, and which has the effrontery to say it is proud of what it has done.

—o—

A Little More History.

In 1901, a tax of one mill on each dollar's worth of taxable property was levied to build "bridges and causeways" in Shelby county. Here's an opportunity for the taxpayers to do a little more figuring.

In 1902, the Commissioners' court decided it had best specify what particular bridges the levy of 1902 was for. Among others is the following (extract from Commissioners' minutes):

"One at Caney's Ford across Cahaba River, to cost $3,300 * * * and to build in conjunction with Jefferson county, a bridge across the Little Cahaba River, near its mouth, to cost $3,200."

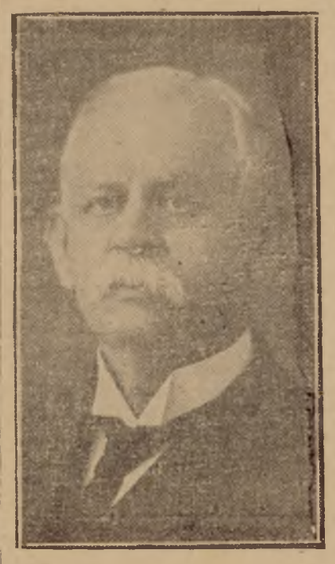
Some of the money from the levy must have gone the way of the bridge fund, for when we come down to 1903, we find the following (extract from Commissioners' minutes):

"* * * and that a levy of 2 mills on each dollar's worth of taxable property be and same is hereby levied to build the following bridges: BALANCE on steel bridge across Cahaba River at Laney's Ford $2,250.00; steel bridge across Cahaba River at Parker's Mill, $2,800.00."

Here are two levies aggregating $5,050.00 to pay for a bridge which the order making the levy says "to cost $3,300." One of the Commissioners informs The Sentinel that to the original cost of $3,300 was added about $800 with which to build approaches to the bridge, making a total cost of about $4,100. To pay this amount the taxpayers of Shelby county have coughed up $6,550. The records show it, and the figures prove it. In 1902 there is a levy of $3,300 for the Laney's Ford bridge across the Cahaba river, and in 1903 there is another levy of $3,250 for the same bridge a total of $6,550 for a bridge the cost of which, according to the minutes, was but $3,300.

Is it any wonder, in the light of such transactions as the above, that the tax rate in Shelby county is nearly double what it was under Democratic administrations, and that too, with an increase of nearly one-half in the taxable values in the county?

Illegal tax levies, double tax rate, unlawful use of the money in the road fund. That's a record for you. Do you like it?



Major W. W. Screws.

At the annual meeting of the National Editorial Association in St. Louis last month, W. W. Screws was elected its president.

Major William Wallace Screws, President of The Advertiser Company and Editor-in-Chief of the Montgomery Advertiser, has been associated with that paper continuously since the close of the war between the States. Major Screws was born Feb. 24, 1839, in Barbour county, Ala. He was educated at the school in the village of Glennville, then Barbour, now Russell county, where he spent his life until he was 19 years of age. January 1st, 1858, Major Screws came to Montgomery to become a student in the law office of Watts, Judge and Jackson, and in the summer of 1859 he was admitted to the bar. He entered upon the practice of his profession with fair prospects of success, and was doing moderately well when the war broke out and during the next four years he was a soldier in the Confederate Army. He went with the first troops to Pensacola, Florida, and participated with them in the capture of the navy yard and forts except Fort Pickens. Afterwards he was connected with Hilliard's Legion. The infantry battalion of the Legion was thrown into the 59th and 60th regiment. In the former he was first lieutenant of Company E and was with his command in Virginia at the Appomattox surrender. Returning to Montgomery with the expectation of re-entering the practice of law, Major Screws was given a position on the editorial staff of The Advertiser. He has been constantly associated with that paper ever since, being part of the time sole owner. In 1878 and again in 1880 Major Screws was elected Secretary of State of Alabama. He declined to serve longer on the completion of his second term, although he could have easily secured the nomination without opposition. Major Screws has served as postmaster of Montgomery. He was one of the organizers of the Alabama Press Association and has served as president of that organization. Major Screws is in vigorous body and mental health. He still labors daily and incessantly on his editorial work, with which one-half of his life has been identified. He is sincere in his convictions, strong in his attachments and stands by his friends under any and all circumstances.

From Kingdon.

Some of the populists in this neck of the woods say that Judge McMillan had a special invitation to Bay Springs, but could not face what he had told on the crowd that is in office. The fact of the matter is, the populists advertised a joint discussion, when they knew that no arrangement had been made for a joint discussion.

The people who have the best interests of the county at heart do not want a recurrence of the scene that took place at Wilsonville some years ago when knives and pistols were drawn, and friend was arrayed against friend due to the teaching of the populist speakers.

It has been said that every one in the Kingdom neighborhood was going to vote for Longshore. That is the biggest mistake the pops here have ever made, for there are as good Democrats in the Kingdom neighborhood as there are anywhere in the county, But we are not doing any boasting—that is about all the pops can do.

I would like to ask by whom and by what authority was the freight paid on the good roads machinery? Who paid the Columbiana boys for their work while giving the said machinery a trial? Who paid for the coal that was used? Who paid for the work that was done on the 6th day of August, 1903? And above all, who made and signed the contract by which that road machinery was brought to Shelby county? These are some of the things that Judge Longshore has not told the taxpayers about.

The pops in office are sorely disappointed because the negro has been disfranchised, for before that was done they could take a box of cheroots and get two or three dozen negro votes. But now it is different.

The Democratic candidates are all good men, and especially so is D. R. McMillan, whom I know in person? The Democratic ticket will be elected next fall, and the Kingdom neighborhood will help to swell the majority.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

Rev. W. H. Sturdivant, of Bamford, was in town over Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Williams, of Shelby, were in town a few hours last Monday.

A little daughter of Prof. and Mrs. S. Dowell has been quite sick for several days.

The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call. Friday, from J. W. Garris, of Shelby.

J.S.Pitts and H.M.Norris attended the Republican convention in Calera last Saturday.

C. C. DuBose, after a week's work on the road writing insurance, came home last Saturday.

Pleas Shaw, of Montevallo, was in town Friday night on a mission connected with politics.

Miss Rossar Christian visited with relatives and friends in Shelby last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. E. W. Burt, who was seriously injured one day last week, is reported as getting along nicely.

J. R. White was quite sick the fore part of this week, and was confined to his room for several days.

Capt. J. W. Johnston has been on the sick list for several days this week, but is better today.

Will, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Milner, who was very ill several days last week, is about well again.

The heavens opened and the rain descended in copious showers last Monday. It was a fine rain, and was needed.

George Mason, who is now on the road for a wholesale house, was in town over Sunday visiting with his family.

Mrs. I. W. Bailey returned to her home in Calera last Sunday after a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Weaver.

Before returning home from the World's Fair, Mrs. D. R. McMillan will visit with friends in Illinois for a short time.

Miss Eva, daughter of Mrs. A. F. Thompson and who has been very ill for some time, is reported as being much better.

Mrs. W. C. Williams, of Shelby, and Miss Loma Williams, of Woodlawn, were in Columbiana last Sunday visiting relatives.

Prof. S. J. Strock, who was at the head of Harpersville's excellent high school during the past session, was in town last Saturday.

Mrs. Max Lefkovits and little son returned from Bessemer last Friday, where they had been making a short visit with relatives

The all day singing at Summer Hill church last Sunday was well attended, and a delightful time is reported by those who were present.

H. Pearson, of Farmers, was in town last Friday, and left an hundred cents in The Sentinel's missionary box for another year's subscription.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lefkovits has been quite sick for several days. However, he is reported as being better at this writing.

Quite a number from Columbiana attended the closing of the Shelby High School last Friday night. The program was an interesting one.

Postmaster Abercrombie attended the meeting of Republicans in Calera last Saturday. He is chairman of the Republican Executive Committee.

Miles Lawley, of Dogwood, was in town last Monday conferring with Supt. of Education; John B. Farrell, in relation to a school district in his neighborhood.

Miss Josephine Skaggs, a teacher in Macon, Ga., college died a few days ago, and the remains were brought to Talladega for burial. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. Jas. L. McConnaughy, of Montevallo.

J. T. Elliott, a farmer from near Montevallo, was in town last Thursday. Before leaving for his home he ordered The Sentinel sent to his address.

Much needed showers of rain fell Sunday night and Monday. The Sentinel learns that the south end of the county had a good rain at the same time.

J. O. Dorough, the populist nominee for county superintendent, was in town last Saturday on his way to Calera to attend the meeting of the Republican executive committee.

An epidemic of measles which has had Shelby in its clutches for some time past, is about ended, and for which the people of that prosperous town are correspondingly thankful.

Frank A. Church, who is in the employed of R. E. Bowdon at the Keystone Lime Works, was in town last Saturday. Mr. Church says he has a fine stand of cotton on his farm near Wilsonville.

A contractor by the name of Bynum, of Montgomery, was in Columbiana last Saturday to confer with the county officials in relation to the building of a new jail which is contemplated being built.

Hon. T. P. Johnson, mayor of Sylacauga, and E. D. Smith, of the same town, were in Columbiana last Friday. Mayor Johnson, was elected a delegate from this district to the Democratic national convention.

The people of Columbiana will be interested in knowing that H. E. Reynolds, of Centerville, formerly a resident of this city, is one of the delegates to the national Democratic convention from the Ninth district. He was elected without any opposition.

There came to the home of A. J. Johnson, in the Beeswax neighborhood, last Sunday, a 16-pound laddie who is just the image of his daddy. Mother and child are getting along nicely, and the father will recover his equilibrium in time. Congratulations.

Miss Lallage Longshore, who graduated from the Judson at Marion last week, has returned home. Miss Longshore is the accomplished daughter of Judge Longshore, and she is being congratulated on having finished with honors the course at the Judson.

Dr. Newman, who was assisting Rev. G. T. Harris in the protracted meeting at the Methodist church last week, was called home on Friday by illness in his family. Dr. Newman is one of those men whom all love after having once met him, and the sermons he preached were just what one would expect from so able a minister and good man.

A. J. Blackerby, a prominet farmer from near Weldon, was in town last Thursday, and while here honored The Sentinel with a call. He ordered this paper sent to his address, and paid a neat compliment to its neat appearance. Mr. Blackerby is just recovering from the effects of a broken leg and has to depend somewhat upon a cane in his walk.

Mrs. W. B. Browne and son Chester returned from Montgomery last Sunday, where they had been attending the commencement exercises of the Girls' High School of that city, and from which Miss Margaret Browne graduated last week with class honors. Miss Browne and sister, Miss Myra, will visit in Montgomery for a while before returning home.

Among those from Columbiana who attended the closing exercises of the Shelby High School last Friday night were W. W. Wallace, O. O. Bird and the Misses Fallaw and Quigley, Oscar Lawley and Miss Etta Robertson, Lon Nelson and the Misses Edna and Verna Hallmark, Ollie Tinney, Joe Page, Henry Robertson and George Campbell. They report a delightful time, and the program a most interesting one.

O. W. Cary, who was well known to the people of Shelby county, died in Brown's Infirmary, Birmingham, last Friday, and was buried in Montevallo last Saturday afternoon. The deceased was a native of Shelby county, we are told, and has lived in Montevallo most of his life time. He was about fifty years of age. His death was due to Bright's Disease. He was taken to Birmingham a few weeks ago, and an operation was performed upon him to see if he could be relieved. He did not survive the operation, and died as stated above. The sympathy of all is extended to his widow in her bereavement.

A fine vein of coal has been found on the farm of Capt. J. W. Johnston, and experts say it is equal to the famous Montevallo coal. The vein is said to be eight feet thick. Captain Johnston expects to visit the farm in a few days and says he will bring back samples of the black diamonds. He expects to make arrangements for developing the property some time during the summer. The coal discovery is just a half mile from the Southern railway.

Rev. Joseph Dunglinson, of Talladega, was in the city over Sunday and for several days this week. He preached at the Methodist church last Sunday morning one of the best sermons ever preached in Columbiana. He was here to preach a trial sermon with a view to accepting a call from the Presbyterian congregation of this city. He left a most favorable impression with all who heard him and it is to be hoped that he will become a resident of our town. He has gone to Calera to stay for a few days, and from there he will go to Montevallo, preaching there next Sunday.

Harry Roberts, who is playing ball with the Twin Decatur team, won the first game he played by a score of 8 to 1 against Bessemer. The Age-Herald, in an account of the game, refers to Mr. Roberts as "little Harry Roberts, the auburn haired Talladegian, was the star." We seriously object to Harry being called a Talladega boy for the simple reason that he is a Columbiana boy. "He was cool during all stages of the game," says the Age-Herald, "and was the same deliberate Harry when the last man for the Marvels filed out, as when he pitched the first ball. He let the Marvels down with five hits, most of these being mere scratches." All Columbiana people are interested in Harry's success as a ball player, and The Sentinel believes he will be heard from with some of the big league teams one of these times.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Haynes, who have been visiting their son; J. J. Haynes, for the past ten days, left last Thursday for Oxford where they will visit with relatives for a short time before returning to their home in Lineville. Mr. Haynes, sen., is seventy-four years old, but is strong and vigorous in his old age. The Sentinel acknowledges a very pleasant call from him during his stay here, and we enjoyed very much the little incidents he told of life in Alabama during the war. Mr. Haynes is an old ex-Confederate soldier, and was in General Wheeler's command.

A young man by the name of De. Shazo, whose parents live in Montevallo, was accidentally shot in Birmingham last Sunday and he is in a serious condition. There are fears that he will not recover. The Sentinel did not learn the particulars of the accident.

Jas. Milstead, who has been visiting his father, Rev. H. M. Milstead, for a short time, departed for his home in St. Louis Tuesday morning. Mr. Milstead is in the employ of a railroad company in that city, has a good situation and is drawing a good salary.

The particulars of a trouble into which a man of this county has gotten himself came to The Sentinel a day or two ago; but the trouble is enough for his family without publicity, and The Sentinel does not care to add to their grief.

The rain of last Monday was worth thousands of dollars to the farmers of Shelby county. Vegetation was getting into a sorry condition, and could not have withstood the drouth much longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Erlick will leave for St. Louis next Satuday night, joining an excursion party on the L. & N. as it passes through Calera. They will be gone about ten days.

The game of ball between the local fans and Creek Indians, of the Indian Territory, has been called off.

Oscar Lawley, of Birmingham, is spending a few days in town with his brother, Will R. Lawley.

Quite a number of Columbiana people are figuring on going to the World's Fair this month and next.

The Sentinel learns that a wedding is sceduled for Columbiana in the near future.

Have you taken a policy with the Shelby county division of the Mutual Life Industrial Association of Georgia It is the cheapest, safest and best insurance offered today. It only cost the policy holders of Georgia last year $5 45 on $1,000. See

Vincent.

Lige McGraw, a well known old negro, died here a few days ago.

W. H. Kidd was a visitor at Commencement exercises of the Judson Institute last week.

Miss Hattie Davis recently returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Rawls, in Columbus.

Quite a number of our people attended the Baptist Rally at Macedonia church Sunday.

Rev. C. C. O'Neal, pastor of the Methodist church, spent several days in our midst last week.

Miss Nellie Kidd, who has been teaching in Pratt City High School, returned home last week.

Oscar McGraw and James Kidd, jr., are expected home from the University of Alabama this week.

Miss Ola Jennings, who is working at Easonville this season, visited home folks the first of the week.

Miss Edna Oden, of Childersburg, spent several days in our midst, the guest of Miss Marhna McGraw.

Miss Zada Davis attended the Commencement at the Central Female College, Tuscaloosa, last week.

Miss Minnie Reynolds, of Goodwater, was an attendent on the closing exercies of the Vincent High school.

Dr. E. P. Chandler was very much on the sick list last week, but we are pleased to note that he is convalescent.

Mrs. W. A. Brown, of Sylacauga, spent several days with home folks here, and took in the closing exercises of the school.

T. W. Elliott, of Easonville visited his father's family last week and was also one of the pleased spectators at the school exercises.

Mrs J. S. Pitts and Mrs. Henry Milner, of Columbiana, were among those attending the Commencement last week. Come again, ladies.

Misses Arnie Kidd, Emma and Hattie Bentley returned last Friday from Marion where they had been attending the Judson Institute this year.

Work has begun on the new school building again, and it is sincerely hoped that it will be completed ready for occupancy by the next session of our school.

Rev. O. P. Bentley, J. S. Falkner, J. M. Mundine, Misses Opal and Mary Kidd attended the session of the Coosa River Baptist Sunday School convention held with Winterboro church, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and report a most delightful time. The next convention is to be held with the Vincent Sunday School.

The closing exercises of the Vincent High School has again evidenced the fact that we have some of the finest talent to be found anywhere in this beloved land of ours. It would require too much space and patience of your many readers to give a synopsis of the entire program of three nights. The first night (Monday) was given to the primary department, and it goes without saying that it was the best primary entertainment ever given here. The little folks did their part well. Tuesday night the Intermediate grade highly entertained the large audience assembled with dialogues and recitations. Then Wednesday night came the climax, when the pupils of the High School department held the hundreds of eager listeners, first spell-bound, then into rapturous applause and laughter. Every speech, declamation and dialogues was so very good that it would be difficult to determine just what was best. It would do credit to any town or city, and much of it would no for a traveling troup to put before the most fastidious audience. "Try It On," "The Peake Sisters," "The Texas Mother-in-Law," were among the best features. Words of praise for the excellent entertainment are heard on every hand, and the success of it is attributed to our proficient teachers, Prof. B. R. Richardson, Miss Kate Gormaf and Miss Zada Davis, as well as Miss Lula Reynolds who has been in charge of the music department. A stirring speech by Mayor A. W. Tucker on the new school building preceded the last night's entertainment.
"JOHN BILLIE."

Wilsonville.

L. B. Riddle went down to Calera Sunday.

A. G. Weldon, of Shelby, visited relatives here Sunday.

A new box has been made for the town well, also a new water trough.

C. J. Porter and family, of Jacksonville, are the guests of Mrs. McGowan.

F. E. Mason attended the Republican convention at Calera Saturday.

Mrs. L. B. Riddle visited relatives at Longview the latter part of the week.

Mrs. W. J. Tinney, of near Sterrett, visited relatives here the first of the week.

Leon Pope returned last week from Marion where he has been attending the M. M. I.

Amos Elliott and James Millstead, of your city, visited in town a short time Sunday.

F. M. Wilkins went down to Columbiana, Sunday, attracted by a fair face of course.

Talliaferro Taylor, of your city, is attending the bedside of his brother who is very sick here.

We have to mail our communications on Monday, so we can't get much news after Sunday.

R. N. Wilson is unable to work on account of a miss-stroke with a post adze, which made an ugly cut on his leg.

Neil Arnold and family, of Coosa county, are visiting Mrs. Arnold's parents Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Kimbrough.

J. M. Ray has his brickyard in operation. We are informed that the brick are to be used to build another brick store for J. F. Pope.

After being sick two weeks, we are again able to write. A fair friend of ours sent in the excellent letter last week; we would be glad to leave off any time for her to write.

E. Williamson, who has been agent and operator here for some time, has been promoted and is now agent at Talladega, and F. M. Wilkins, who has been agent at Gallion for some time, is again our agent here.

Why don't the good people in and around town meet and clean off the cemetery? Saplings are fifteen feet high, and bushes and briars are so thick that you can scarcely pass through. The present condition shows but little respect for the dead.

Why can't the town of Wilsonville have a decent school house? The dilapidated old building now is a disgrace to the town and a reproacher to the school. If the citizens only knew it, the best investment they can make for immediate returns is a good school building. Lack of accommodation is the only reason why this is not the best school in the county.

At a recent meeting of the city council, Prof. John W. Tumlin, of Edwardsville, was elected principal of the school here for the ensuing year, and Miss Maude Cornelius was re-elected as intermediate teacher. Prof. Tumlin is no stranger to us, having been employed here for some time as book-keeper for J. C. Jackson & Sons, which position he resigned two years ago to accept the principalship of the Edwardsville High School.

The Advocate a week or two ago, said the Commissioner's Court which made the illegal tax levy was composed of two Democrats and two Populists, an assertion which we dispute. Evidently the editors' recollection is bad and we will refresh thier memory a little. The fact is, the court was composed of three Populists, one Democrat and one Republican, and if he still can't remember we can name the members who composed the court. HONEST JOHN.

A Quiet Wedding.

Mr. S. L. Appleman and Mrs. Alice F. Thompson were married in Columbiana, Tuesday afternoon at 5:30, by the bedside of the bride's sick daughter, the Rev. G. T. Harris, officiating.

The bride is one of the most charming and deserving women in the Sunny Southland, and the friends she has in this city are legion.

Mr. Appleman is a stock farmer of Indiana, also representative of the Southern Historical Association, Atlanta, Ga.

The best wishes of all our people go with Mr. Appleman and the noble woman he has won for a wife. Mrs. Appleman will remain in Columbiana until the recovery of her little daughter.

MRS. EVA BARTHO, 133 East 12th St., New York City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years with leucorrhea and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am to-day in perfect health and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Lartmore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Belva Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who indorse Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:

"Several times during the past two years o rmore my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep."—Helen Rolof.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, writes as follows:

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman to-day."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when wearied or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

It is no longer a question as to whether Peruna can be relied on to cure all such cases. During the many years in which Peruna has been put to test in all forms and stages of acute and chronic catarrh no one year has put this remedy to greater test than the past year.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. EPISODES THAT ENLIVEN :: THE AUCTION ROOMS ::

WHY, good morning, my dear."

"Oh, good morning. Am I late? I've simply been rushed to death ever since breakfast."

"No. They haven't begun yet. You haven't missed a thing."

"Have you seen anything good this morning?"

"Oh, simply loads! A perfect dream of a highboy and a love of an old English cream and sugar set. Sheffield, you know. I think they almost match that pot I got in New Orleans six years ago."

"Why, how lovely. Oh, there's Mrs. Smithers."

"Yes, and yesterday she bid over me and took the Chippendale desk I've been waiting for ever since the sale began. I think it was rude of her."

"Perfectly horrid. I always did think she—why, how do you do, Mrs. Smithers? How well you are looking. I'm so glad to see you."

The three ladies kiss. That is always a sign that hostilities are imminent.

"Good gracious! There's that man again. He's a perfect brute. I'm not going to bid against him again. He simply waits till he knows I've reached my limit, and then he bids fifty cents more."

"Why don't you complain to the auctioneer?"

"I believe I will. Oh, just look at that old copper pot! Isn't it a dear?"

"A perfect love. I wonder if we have time to walk through again before the auction begins?"

"Yes, but we mustn't miss getting front seats. What are you looking for this morning, Mrs. Smithers?"

"Oh, nothing in particular. I just thought I'd drop in and see if I could pick up anything good. I believe I'll go back and sit down."

"I'm sure she's found something fine and has got the auctioneer to put it up. Let's hurry back."

"Ladies, the first thing I shall sell this morning is this fine specimen of old English ware. It was picked up by one of our agents in the County of Suffolk and originally came from one of the stately old homes of the English aristocracy. How much am I bid? One dollar? Do I hear two? If I see a hand raised I shall take it as a bid. Thank you, Mrs. Smithers. Two dollars? Two dollars for this beautiful specimen of early English ware from one of the stately seats of the British aristocracy? Why, ladies, it's as if you handed me a fifty cent piece and I handed you back a dollar. Two dollars! Two dollars, once. And a half, Mrs. Cary? And a half! Two and a half, once, two and a half, twice, two and a——, three. Thank you, Mrs. Smithers."

"There! I told you she was trying to play some underhand trick. And it's just what I needed to fill my set. Would you go any higher?"

"Oh, I think it's a perfect love. I believe I'd go $4."

"Mrs. Smithers bids $3 for this rare piece of pottery from the stately home of a belted earl. She bids $3. Do I hear the four? Mrs. Cary raises her hand. Mrs. Cary bids $4. Are you all through? Third and last call. S—s—. Thank you, Mr. Carter. Mr. Carter bids four and a half. Once, twice, three times. Sold to Mr. Carter for four and a half dollars."

"Oh, Mrs. Carey, I'm so sorry you didn't get that piece. You wanted it so badly."

"Oh, not at all. That's way I didn't go any higher, my dear."

"Any way, now that I look at it closely, I don't believe it's genuine, anyhow."

"Why, neither do I. It's a horrid shape, too. What do you suppose anybody could do with a thing like that? But isn't it just like a man?"

"Yes. They are so pigheaded."

"The next thing I shall offer for sale, ladies and gentlemen, is this exquisite highboy. It is a rare bit of colonial workmanship. Its original owner was one of the proud old Pilgrim Fathers, of Massachusetts. I have no doubt that this highboy was once among the household goods of Elder William Brewster. I am almost sure that it came over in the Mayflower. Why, ladies, the possession of this exquisite highboy is quite sufficient to qualify one for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution. And how much am I bid for this antique relic of old Puritan days in merry New England? Mr. Carter bids $10. Ten——"

"I think it's a horrid old piece, don't you? But if that man wants it let's all bid against him and pay him up for taking that beautiful old English set."

"Oh, good! Let's all do!"

"Mr. Carter bids $10. Do I hear the $20? Thank you. Mrs. Cary bids $20 for this unique and interesting specimen of the furniture of our forefathers. Twenty dollars! Twenty dollars! Mr. Carter bids twenty-five. Twenty-five! Twenty-five! Mrs. Smithers raises her hand. Mrs. Smithers bids thirty. Thirty dollars! Forty from Mr. Carter! Thank you, sir. Forty dollars, once, forty dollars, twice, forty——"

"Thank you, Mrs. Cary. Mrs. Cary bids $45. Forty-five, once, forty-five, twice, forty-five, three times—and sold to Mrs. Cary for $45."

"Oh, what on earth shall I do? I wouldn't have the thing for the world, and besides, I've spent twice my allowance already."

"Get up and let the man have it."

"Since the gentleman who bid against me seems so much disappointed, I'm willing to withdraw my bid and let him have it."

"Mr. Carter says he couldn't think of being so rude, Mrs. Cary. He is quite content that you should have it."

"Mrs. Smithers, you take it. Your house is so much large than mine."

"Oh, no! You keep it, my dear. I'm sure it's a good piece. I guess I won't wait any longer. Good morning."

"Good morning, my dear—the wretch! I honestly believe she is glad that I got it. And I paid three prices for it, too. I wish I could make her take the old thing."

"Just look at that man. I actually believe he is smiling."

"Did you ever see such a horrid looking person?"

"A perfectly brutal face."

"What shall I do with that old highboy? It's really a good piece, after all, though. Don't you think you could use it, my dear? It would look so well in your dining-room."

"I'm afraid not. I have to deny myself a great many things, you know. And, any how, I couldn't think of taking it away from you, dear."

"Well, I just thought your dining-room looked a trifle bare, that's all. There! That Carter man is going out. The very idea of his sitting there and letting us have that highboy, when he knew perfectly well that I was just bidding against him as a joke!"—Chicago Tribune.

SPECIALISTS IN ARCHITECTURE.

A Class of Workers Having Great Fame in England and Less Here.

Specialization has made great strides in the profession of architecture. Time was when a single architect with skilled assistants planned and designed buildings from cellar to roof, consulting an architectural engineer, perhaps, if the work was of such size and form as to involve serious engineering problems.

Then came the era of architectural firms. One member of such a firm would be specially skilled as a designer, the artist of the combination; another acquainted with materials and methods of construction, so that he was able to superintend the work of the contractors; a third good at specifications or perhaps specially rich in friends and able to deal with clients

Architectural firms in which men of various gifts participate are still numerous, but specialization has developed independent architects who are consulted by many firms upon special problems. There are men who do little or nothing but write specifications and others who are employed by many of their fellow architects in preparing the colored drawings intended to make unimaginative clients see how a building will look when completed. Architectural engineering is more than ever a profession in itself.

Meanwhile the architectural draughtsman has also had his development. English architects are surprised to find how large a share of important work in the offices of New York architects is left in the hands of so-called draughtsmen. These are often carefully educated young architects who hope sooner or later to set up independently or get into some established firm as junior partners. In some cases a draughtsman develops into a sort of managing clerk, just as some law clerks become the executive officers of important law firms.

Other draughtsmen are prized for the taste and skill in decorative design. Such men are sometimes employed to do a large part of a competitive design submitted for important buildings, public or private. However little the employing architect may have advised in this work, he and not the designer gets the credit, and the prize if it is successful.

New York has few such architects as have attracted special attention in England by methods unusual in this country. The English architects in question are men who work largely alone, having no partners and employing few draughtsmen. They do not seek to create a great business, but are content to build comparatively few houses. They do, however, place their individual mark not only upon the general design of the houses they build, but upon every detail. This method of work makes it impossible that they should intrust to hired draughtsmen a great variety of details such as in this country is done by draughtsmen.

This architect works almost purely as an artist, with jealous care that nothing shall go out from his office that he is not ready to father in all its important details.

Such architects do not earn great incomes, for the comparatively small volume of the business makes that impossible, but their fees for individual houses are relatively large, and only the well to do can employ them. Their work is known all over the British Isles and even in this country. The few American architects who work in this fashion attract less attention than like men in England.—New York Sun.

The Country Newspaper.

"The country newspaper is the most useful of all the agencies which stamp the impress of progress upon villages and inland cities. Without the aid of local newspapers towns are, as a rule, thriftless and dead. It is common for all great men to speak with contempt of local newspapers, but the village newspaper makes more great men out of less material—more bricks without straw—than any other factor in politics, and is the ladder on which men climb to local distinction as the beginning of wider fame. The advent of the local newspaper has always dated the increased thrift of the community The local newspaper is the life of the locality, and the measure of its support, as a rule, measures the advancement of people."—Niles (Mich.) Daily Star.

Strange Blooming of Flowers.

Last September a large part of the village of La Chausee-sur-Marne, France, was destroyed by fire and neighboring orchards were scorched. A month later many pear trees, the branches of which had been scorched, began to flower and were soon covered with blossoms as in the month of May. The same thing occurred with some lilac bushes that had been exposed to the heat of the conflagration without being seriously burned, and a few plum trees also broke into bloom. It was remarked that all the plants thus stimulated by the fire belonged to species which are accustomed to form their next year's buds in the month of August. These buds, feeling the fire, burst forth as if their destined time had come.—Youth's Companion.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS.

All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance nowadays in our public schools and seminaries.

Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honor; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality,—often it is never recovered.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more.—Lillie E. Sinclair, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago Ill."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life; with it she can go through with courage and safety the work she must accomplish, and fortify her physical well being so that her future life may be insured against sickness and suffering.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

There is an island in Puget sound, not more than half a mile across, which is populated with cats. The cats number thousands, and the strangest thing is that they are all black. Every evening a boat load of fishermen land on the island and lay out a seine a quarter of a mile long. They pull it in with never less than a ton of fish, but next morning these fish are gone. The cats devour them all. These cats have been placed here by men who are supplying the market with women's muffs. Once a year there is a great round-up, and several thousand pussies lose their lives.

THEY ARE STILL BUYING PIANOS

From the Frank G. Fite Stock of Pianos, Organs and Music Boxes.

BOUGHT BY THE E. E. FORBES PIANO COMPANY

One Hundred Dollars Saved on a Piano Even After Paying Freight.

The E. E. Forbes Piano sale continues to be a success not only so far as Birmingham is concerned, but throughout the state. The newspapers in every part of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi have printed the news of the big purchase and the result has been that people from all over the South have written regarding the Pianos in this sale. What stamps the sale as a genuine money saver is the fact that seventy-five of these inquiries have resulted in sales. People have found upon receipt of our letters that the different makes of Pianos and the prices at which we offer them is generally about $100 less than the same Piano would cost in their home town after they have paid the freight from Birmingham. We made this statement in an advertisement last week and a "Doubting Thomas" in the south of the state went over to the freight office and ascertained the rate on Pianos and was honest enough to confess that on the Piano he wanted he could save even a little more than $100, besides paying the freight.

The people from various parts of the state can buy just as cheap as if they lived in Birmingham, as each Piano is plainly marked, and there are so many represented in this sale that there is little likelihood of any one wanting a certain make Piano without getting it. The great point of the sale is, that there are so many makes represented and all of them Pianos of national reputation. There is also represented in the sale a lot of new Pianos just received from the various factories. We contract for a very large number of Pianos the first of each year, so many to be taken each month, in order to get the extra additional large discount for buying large quantities, and as these Pianos have to be sold, we are naturally obliged to sell them at about $75 or $100 less than regular prices on account of the low prices that we are offering on similar instruments which we bought from the Frank G. Fite Piano Co.

If you contemplate buying a Piano within twelve months it will pay you to avail yourself of the present sale prices. It is not necessary to pay the entire amount at once, but a small cash payment and the rest on our easy long time payment system enables you to have the Piano now and pay for it during the latter part of the year and next spring.

If you are near any one of our Four Stores you will find some of these Pianos in each store, and you can see for yourself just how big bargains they are.

RUSSIAN VESSEL LOST

Something of the Military Operations by Both Armies in the Peninsula.

RED CROSS FUNDS ARE MISSING.

Japanese Fleet at Port Arthur is Surprised and Four Vessels are Sunk.

It is persistently reported that the Port Arthur squadron made a sortie shortly before dawn Saturday, with the torpedo boat destroyers leading, and found the Japanese fleet quite unsuspecting the presence of hostile warships, with the result that four of the Japanese ships were sunk during the attack.

The rumor is not given credence in some circles, for it is not believed Russian vessels are coaled.

The Russian gunboat Giliak was torpedoed and destroyed at Port Arthur Saturday.

Four thousand Russians belonging to General Stakelberg's brigade on May 31 attacked 1,500 Japanese occupying a position five miles south of Wafangtien. The Russians were repulsed, losing 200 killed and 400 wounded. The Japanese lost more than 100 killed.

General Kuroki has been suffering from a mild attack of typhus fever, but he has now recovered. The general belief is that General Kuropatkin will not advance to the relief of Port Arthur. In any case orders to do so have not yet been transmitted.

England has obtained from Japan in behalf of Russia assurances that the Japanese will not destroy seals in Bering sea during the war.

The Russians are printing a newspaper in Chinese at Mukden for the purpose of influencing the natives. The latest copy says that the Japanese attempted to float a second loan in America for $3,750,000, but were coldly rejected. Other contents of the paper explain that the Russian loss in the Yalu battle was due to the preponderance of the Japanese cavalry, and also says that the Russians will soon dictate peace terms in London, and that the leading Japanese statesmen will be reduced to ricksha coolies.

RIOT AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Bull Fight Was Stopped and Mob Burned the Building.

Incensed over their disappointment to see a genuine bull fight which the authorities had ordered stopped, a riot was started in an arena near the World's fair grounds by a crowd of 2500 men and boys, who were unable to get their money back, and the building was burned to the ground. Four men were placed under arrest charged with the destruction of property. The crowd thinking these men were connected with the show made an attempt to mob them, and in their encounter with the deputy sheriffs a number were roughly handled and some received scalp wounds. The building cost $25,000. It is a total loss with no insurance.

Lost a Hand.

Jim Hickson, a young railroad man of Pratt City, met with an accident which resulted in the loss of his right hand and other injuries. The young man was assisting in the switching of a train of loaded coal cars. In attempting to apply the brakes he lost his balance and fell between the cars to the ground. His body was caught underneath the moving train and dragged some distance before the engine could be brought to a stop. The other trainmen who witnessed the accident hastened to the unfortunate young man's rescue expecting to find only his mangled and lifeless body. They were surprised to find him alive and conscious. The right hand was so badly crushed as to necessitate amputation.

Killed by Falling Rock.

Wint E. Robison, a white miner in the employ of the Vulcan Coal Company, was fatally injured Saturday in the mine at Coal City. He was the victim of a loosened rock.

Robison had started through a crosscut in the mine to do some blasting and sat down to rest a few minutes. While in a sitting posture a rock jarred loose by dynamite a few hours before fell, striking Robison on the right leg and mashing him against the wall. His leg was broken and his back was injured, besides other internal injuries that hastened his death.

The Atlantic Coast line has under consideration extensive terminal improvements at Jacksonville, Fla., which will provide for the heavy traffic in phosphate, naval stores and lumber, which the company handles at that point.

Commercial failures in the United States during the month of May were 997 in number and $9,817,998 in amount of defaulted liabilities, which compares with 943 bankruptcies involving $12,314,206 in the corresponding month last year. Manufacturing failures numbered 245 against 217 a year ago.

Record admissions to the world's fair for the week ending Saturday, June 4th, aggregate 378,146. Last week showed the heaviest attendance of any at the fair.

MONTGOMERY JEWELER.

William Ludicus Committed Suicide Last Thursday.

Soaked in blood, with decomposition well advanced, the body of William Ludicus, a well-to-do Montgomery citizen, was discovered in his room. He killed himself with a pistol last Thursday afternoon. He was a dwarf being only a little over three feet tall.

Swarms of flies were passing in and out of the room through a back window and the transom, and nearly all that part of the building was permeated with a horrible odor. These caused the investigation that led to the discovery of the tragedy.

Thursday afternoon was heard a report like a pistol shot, but it was concluded it was only a torpedo on the tracks of the street car line near by.

He shot himself in the right temple, the ball entering into his brain.

Indications were profuse that the unfortunate man struggled considerably after the shot was fired. The most thorough investigation failed to reveal anything in the way of note or message explaining the deed. He amassed a fortune, on which he has lived for some time. His property consists of real estate and bank stock, much of the latter being in the Merchants' and Planters'-Farley National of Montgomery.

No reason can be conceived for the deed of self-destruction. Mr. Ludicus was cheerful when last seen on Thursday, and no one remembers that he seemed other than his usual self, either as the result of mental distress or the use of stimulant.

STABBING AT GIRARD.

Young Man Lacked Surgical Attention for Fifteen Hours.

In Girard Charles Edwards, a 19-year-old boy, was dangerously and possibly fatally stabbed. It is claimed that Reid Ballard, aged 15, did the cutting, and R. F. Jones, aged 16, held Edwards so the other could stab him. The two boys were arrested and placed in jail. Edwards claims that quite a number of young men attacked him. It was stated that the young man could not obtain medical assistance, the doctors refusing to go to the house for fear they would be summoned before court as witnesses, thus entailing loss of time.

A physician was secured for Edwards this afternoon, fifteen hours after he was cut, and he is now receiving medical attention.

JUDGE RANDOLPH BACK.

Supposed to be in Montgomery—Baggage is There.

It is reported that Frank Randolph, defaulting probate judge of Montgomery county, is in Montgomery somewhere, but he can not be located. Several trunks are at the depot marked "F. C. R." with baggage bill for them marked F. C. Randolph. Every place where he is likely to go has been searched, but he can not be found.

Randolph left Alabama in 1895, having been discovered short many thousands of dollars. He went to South America and in Honduras shot and killed a man, for which he was sent up for life. On strong efforts of United States officials he was pardoned. The state recovered money lost to it by entering suit for a legacy left by Randolph's uncle in Philadelphia. Mrs. Randolph recently entered suit for divorce, which is now pending.

William Tommie, formerly of Hokes Bluff, Etowah county, became involved in a row with his landlord, a Mr. Wills, when they came to blows several times during the day. At night when the men reached home the trouble was renewed, whereupon Red Tommie, a brother of William Tommie, knocked Mr. Wills down, who jumped up and shot at Red, the bullet plowing its way through his hair. Wills then shot at William Tommie, striking him in a vital point. After being shot Tommie ran into the house and secured a gun, and coming out fired at Wills and missed him. Tommie fell to the ground and expired without saying a word. Wills escaped to the woods and is still at large. Mr. Wills had returned home only a short while ago from the asylum.

Dead by Her Own Hand.

Miss Pearl Morgan, an attractive young lady of Alabama City, aged 19, committed suicide by taking an overdose of morphine.

All efforts to save her life failed, No cause is known for her rash act. She purchased the morphine Friday. She leaves a father and several brothers and sisters.

The 1904 meeting of the Alabama Educational Association is scheduled for June 14, 15 and 16 at Tuscaloosa. It will be the twenty-third annual session.

Murray Declines Kentucky Bishopric.

Rev. John G. Murray, former rector of the Church of the Advent of Birmingham and now rector of St. Michael's and All Angels' church of Baltimore, Md., has declined the bishopric of Kentucky to which he was recently elected by the diocesan council of that state.

Because of bad health Mrs. Stonewall Jackson will not be able to attend the United Confederate Veterans reunion at Nashville.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE

Sends Fifteen Colorado Miners to Their Doom. Reign of Terror Existing.

300 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE IN IT.

Exploded Under Station Where the Men Were Awaiting Train to Their Homes.

Fifteen men were killed by the explosion of an infernal machine at the railroad station in Independence, Colo., and several others were seriously injured. Eleven men were killed outright and one died later from his wounds. All the killed and injured with the exception of two men were non-union miners employed on the night shift of the Findley mine. The men had quit work at 2 a. m. and were waiting to board a suburban train on the Florence and Cripple Creek railroad and return to their homes in Cripple Creek and Victor.

Just after the engineer of the approaching train blew his whistle an explosion occurred underneath the station platform, on and near which twenty-six men were gathered. The platform was wrecked and a hole 20 feet in circumference and about as deep was torn in the ground.

Some of the bodies dropped into the pit made by the explosion, but pieces of flesh were found on buildings 500 feet away and blood stains covered every foot within a radius of fifty feet. The force of the explosion was felt throughout the camp, and the crash awakened everybody.

Amputation has been performed upon a number of the wounded, but it is almost certain that several of them will die.

A majority of the dead and wounded were single men, but had families living in the district.

The infernal machine with which the work was done consisted of a quantity of dynamite, estimated at 100 to 300 pounds, a loaded revolver and a wire attached to the trigger. The wire ran from under he station to the cribbing of the Delmonico property, about 400 feet away, where its end was fastened to a chair. The dynamite was placed close to the muzzle of the revolver which was discharged by pulling the wire when the engineer blew his whistle. The ball from the revolver exploded the dynamite.

A man was seen running down the hill from the Delmonico after the explosion. The troops who were ordered out were so stationed as to keep people from passing over the path taken by this man, and bloodhounds were sent for the purpose of trailing the assassin.

The Western Federation of Miners will investigate the outrage and have sent men to the district to make a thorough investigation of the affair and to spare no one in its report.

Armed men throng the streets and conflicts are hourly occurrences. Militiamen are marching hither and thither, making arrests by wholesale. A number of union miners have been placed in the military bull pen. City and county officials have been compelled to resign their offices because of their reputed sympathy.

As near as can be estimated twenty-two are dead and a score or more injured.

A company of militiamen was marched past union headquarters, pursuing their search, and they were fired upon, according to reports from men concealed in union hall. The soldiers stormed the building and from last accounts seven unionists were shot dead in their tracks.

Victor hardware dealers have been ordered not to sell firearms to miners.

STATUTE ATTACKED.

Concerning the New Judicial Districts of Alabama.

A bill of exceptions in the case of Minerva Walker, who, at Huntsville, was convicted of the murder of Constable Russell and sentenced to imprisonment for life, has been filed. The defense takes an appeal on the grounds that the bill creating the new judicial circuits of Alabama was not adopted by the legislature in accordance with the constitution, and that trial by the court of the sixteenth circuit was irregular and illegal. The matter will be thoroughly tested in the supreme court, and upon the final decision rests the fate of the new judicial districts in Alabama.

Tuscaloosa Store Burned.

The store of Price & Hassell, at the Alabama Great Southern depot in Tuscaloosa, was destroyed by fire Monday. The Sanders cotton mill, near by, was saved after hard work. The stock of goods was insured for $1,500. The origin of the fire seems to be a mystery.

Commercial failures in the United States during the month of May were 997 in number and $9,817,998 in amount of defaulted liabilities, which compares with 943 bankruptcies involving $12,314,206 in the corresponding month last year. Manufacturing failures numbered 245 against 217 a year ago.

Murray Declines Kentucky Bishopric.

Rev. John G. Murray, former rector of the Church of the Advent of Birmingham and now rector of St. Michael's and All Angels' church of Baltimore, Md., has declined the bishopric of Kentucky to which he was recently elected by the diocesan council of that state.

Because of bad health Mrs. Stonewall Jackson will not be able to attend the United Confederate Veterans reunion at Nashville.

NOT SUCH A TERROR.

Boll Weevil Ant Said by Texans to be Common Insect.

The department of agriculture has been advised that Dr. Cook, who has discovered in Gautemala an ant that is a fierce enemy of the boll weevil, has started by the overland route from Guatemala for the cotton fields, carrying colonies of ants with which experiments will be made in the weevil ravaged sections. If these experiments prove as successful as is expected by the department, the ant colonies will be imported in a wholesale manner. Dr. L. O. Howard, the chief entomologist of the department, has received from his experts in Texas regarding the reported discovery in Beaucar county of an ant that destroys the weevil.

The report says that the ant mentioned is the common Texas ant and nothing unusual has been developed by the investigation into the matter. It suggests that the weevils had been feeding and depositing eggs on the plants left over from last season and that many of the femals which died and fell to the ground were eaten by the ants, and adds that as the extreme dry weather has reduced the number of plant lice on the cotton, the ants thus deprived of their natural food merely took advantage of the opportunity to feed on the weevils.

MERRIMAC'S ENGINEER

Dies at Cambridgeport, Mass., of Bright's Disease.

George F. Phillips, who won renown as engineer of the collier Merrimac, sunk by Hobson at the mouth of Santiago harbor, died in Cambridgeport, Miss.

Phillips enlisted in the navy as a machinist at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. When Hobson called for volunteers to sink the collier Phillips offered his services. He remained at the engine of the Merrimac and at great personal danger reversed his engines under a storm of shells, then opened the sea valves, flooded the ship and made his way to the deck while the vessel was sinking. After the war Phillips was transferred to Philippine waters.

His death was due to Bright's disease. He was taken ill in Galveston last March and came north. A mother and two sisters survive him.

A WOMAN'S BODY

Found Floating in the Tennessee River Below Knoxville.

The decomposed, dismembered body of a woman was taken from the Tennessee river near Knoxville, parts of the body having been found in three different places, two miles apart.

The police are inclined to think that the body had been placed in the river by medical stuaents. They claim the bones are sawed too well for any person other than a medical student. People in the up-river section are not satisfied with this theory, however, and are keeping a watch to see if anybody will come for the boat which was found drifting near the bank.

Another Farm Located.

One of the demonstration farms authorized by the government for the state of Mississippi will be located at Ridgeland, in Madison county, about eight miles north of Jackson, and arrangements will be made to get the farm in preparation for the various fall crops on which the government intends to make demonstrations of methods of culture.

The department has authorized four of these farms for Mississippi. The first of the number was located near Wiggins, in Harrison county, several weeks ago, a large tract of land having been donated, and the third will go to Panola county, near Courtland. The fourth has not been decided upon, but will be located in the delta.

These farms are not experiment stations, but are intended to demonstrate the best methods of cultivating crops, which have been found to be profitable by agriculturists in the employment of the government.

System Applied to Robbery.

John Culverhouse, a negro porter at the Louisville and Nashville depot at Minter, was locked up on the charge of burglary. The agent at Minter has been missing small sums of money for over a year and every trap to catch the guilty party failed until recently. Mr. Jack Dilburn, a merchant of the place, concealed himself in the depot while Agent Lee went to dinner. The agent had hardly gotten out of sight when a key was thrust in the lock and Culverhouse entered the door. He walked to the safe, quickly worked the combination and took $1.75 out of the drawer. Just as he was closing the drawer Mr. Dilburn covered him with a revolver.

The negro would never take but a small amount of the money that was in the drawer, and the agent for a long time thought he was making errors in change.

TEN MEN KILLED

By an Explosion at the Plant of the Corning Distillery Company at Peoria, Ill.

WHISKEY FLOODED THE STREETS

Three Thousand Cattle Were Burned to Death as Fire Spread to Adjoining Stock Pens.

Ten men were killed, a score injured, 30,000 barrels of whiskey destroyed and 3,000 cattle burned to death as the result of an explosion at the plant of the Corning Distillery Company, said to be the largest in the world, at Peoria, Ill., Saturday.

The immense ware house in which the explosion occurred was destroyed, and three other buildings were gutted by flames. The property loss is over $1,000,000. It is thought that the death list will be increased.

This is the third catastrophe in less than a year to overtake the distillery.

The ten men were buried beneath the ruins by the explosion and burned to death. Six others were seriously injured.

It is believed that all the government men escaped.

The ware house where the first explosion occurred was an eleven-story frame structure, covered with corrugated iron. Two other explosions followed in rapid succession, but their cause has not been determined.

The ware house was 100 by 200 feet and contained 30,000 barrels of spirits. Another ware house containing the cistern room was a three-story brick building 100 by 200 feet. It contained in the neighborhood of 52,000 gallons of spirits. In the two fermenting rooms, which were 100 by 180 feet, were eighteen tubs with a capacity of 1,000 bushels of mash each. They were all filled and contained about 5,000 gallons of spirits each. All this went up in flames, and added to the general loss.

The fire spread to the stock yards, where a dozen large cattle barns, filled with cattle, were burned. The loss to the stock yards is $250,000.

Critics Give Up Port Arthur.

Leading military authorities expect the early fall of Port Arthur, and view this as a most serious if not irreparable blow to Russia, the present condition of Port Arthur being compared to that of Metz and Sedan during the Franco-Prussian war. It is pointed out that General Kuropatkin is making the same fatal mistake in regard to Port Arthur's ability to resist that the French made in connection with Metz. The military critics disapprove of Kuropatkin's policy of non-resistance.

The advance guard of 14,000 men under General Stakelburg, sent by General Kuropatkin, to the relief of Port Arthur, has reached the entrance to the Liao Tung peninsula and the bulk of the army is following.

Merchants from the south complain that the Japanese are not paying for supplies taken by them, as they did in the early stages of the war, and assert that they are even ill treated and insulted when they ask for money.

Salaries Increased.

These changes in salaries of Alabama postmasters were announced: Increased, Roanoke, Sheffield, Talladega, Thomasville and Wetumpka $100 each. Decrease, Uniontown from $1,400 to $1,300. James M. Sandlin has been appointed postmaster at Wilburn, Cullman county, vice John G. Sandlin, resigned.

Corner Stone Laid.

The corner stone of the new federal building was laid at Greenville, Tenn., Saturday. The ceremonies were conducted by the Masons. Judge H. H. Ingersoll, of Knoxville, delivered an oration. The building when completed will cost $110,000.

SECOND SUICIDE

Resulting from Derangement Because of the Baltimore Fire.

Peyton Wyeth, of Philadelphia, an insurance man, said to be temporarily unemployed because of losses incurred in the Baltimore fire by the company for which he was assistant manager, committed suicide in Brooklyn by taking cyanide of potassium.

Killed by Heavy Timber.

While superintending the unloading of a boiler from a flat car, Mr. T. C. Rogers, of Talladega, was hit in the head by a heavy timber, which fractured his skull and from which he died.

Match Heads in Water.

Miss Lula Geary, about 21 years of age, who until recently has been employed at the Bemis cotton mill at Jackson, Tenn., attempted to take her own life. She mixed a number of match heads in water and drank the decoction. She has been in a critical condition and it is uncertain yet whether she will recover. In a note which she wrote she says she is tired of life.

COTTON ACREAGE

Is Increased Nearly 10 Per Cent—Condition of the Crop is Good.

The chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture estimates the total area planted in cotton in the United States this season at 31,730,371 acres, an increase of 2,823,016 acres, or of 9.8 per cent upon the acreage planted last year.

The average condition of the growing crop on May 26th was 83, as compared with 74.1 on May 26, 1903, and a ten-year average of 85.8.

The percentage of increase in acreage in different states is:

Georgia, 7.1; Florida, 10.7; Alabama, 9.0; Mississippi, 10.5; Louisiana, 13.5; Texas, 7.1; Tennessee, 11.5.

The condition of the crop by states on May 26th was as follows:

Georgia, 78; Florida, 88; Alabama, 80; Mississippi, 85; Louisiana, 86; Texas, 84; Tennessee, 85.

TORNADO IN OKLAHOMA.

One Killed, Several Injured and Property Damaged.

A tornado in the Kiowa and Comanche nations, Okla. T., has demolished a great number of residences and business houses at numerous small towns and laid waste dozens of farms. One person is known to have been killed and about a dozen are believed to have been injured, one fatally. It is reported that the towns of Chattanooga and Faxons, small places, have been entirely wiped out.

Wires are down and details are lacking. The town of Helen also is said to have been completely destroyed.

A rain storm prevailed first, five inches of water falling, washing out crops and ruining many farms. This was followed by a heavy hail storm. A peculiar climatic condition followed. The atmosphere became stifling and then there was a deluge of rain, accompanied by a gale which developed rapidly into a tornado.

GUILTY ON THREE COUNTS.

Assistant Postmaster Fined in Three Cases and Confesses in Another.

Charles F. Pieper, formerly assistant postmaster at Choctaw, Ala., and at the time of his arrest postmaster at Carlton, against whom the federal grand jury returned eight indictments for violation of postal laws in connection with securing mail contracts and postoffice funds, was convicted in the United States circuit court on three counts of forgery and fined $100 in each case. The punishment also carries imprisonment. On Thursday Pieper pleaded guilty to the embezzlement of $12.75 of postal funds, and was fined $25 and costs. There remain four indictments to be tried.

FRISCO HELD RESPONSIBLE.

For Death of Clark, Who Was Killed by Jeff Van Horn.

As the result of the first suit of its kind ever brought in the state of Alabama, so far as is known, H. J. Martin, administrator of the estate of Bud Clarke, of Cordova, obtained judgment for $5,000 against the Frisco railroad for damages for the death of Clarke, who was thrown from a passenger train of that road on September 2, 1903, by Jeff Vanhorn, and died a few days later. The judge charged the jury that the passenger, Clarke, who was killed, was entitled to the protection of the conductor and the conductor, under a statute, is vested with regular police powers in preserving order on board of trains.

Farmer Kills Himself.

Seaborn Watts, a well-to-do farmer of Cedar Bluff, Cherokee county, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with a pistol.

It is supposed he was mentally deranged, as he has been showing signs of insanity for years.

Sensational Elopement.

A sensation has been created in Dallas by the elopement of J. L. Phillips, a married man, and Miss Horton, a popular young lady of the village. The couple have been gone a week, but it was not known until today that they were together in St. Louis.

Fatal Railroad Wreck.

By a head-on collision of two Missouri Pacific passenger trains near Mastin, twenty-two miles south of Kansas City, one person was killed and nineteen injured, most of the latter being passengers.

The trains were behind their schedule, and were trying to make up time. No. 36 had orders to take a siding at Mastin, but had not reached that station, and was met on a culvert, a mile beyond Mastin, by the flyer. Both engines were demolished.

The music teachers of Alabama will meet in Birmingham June 14th and 15th for the purpose of organizing a state music teachers' association.

Killed While Hunting.

A dispatch from Rising Fawn, Ga., states that James Rogers, a young man 21 years old and well known in Birmingham, was accidentally killed while hunting. Rogers' gun was accidentally discharged and the entire load entered his stomach.

Memphis, Tenn., will entertain the next convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

TALLADEGA CHAUTAUQUA

Is Now a Thing of the Past—Will Not Try It Again.

The trustees of the Alabama chautauqua have determined not to attempt to hold any session this year. After a careful canvass of the business men of the city it was ascertained that many would not contribute, or purchase tickets, only 71 tickets at $5 each being sold. It is not likely that any further attempt will be made to hold it in the future, but the building will probably be taken down and sold. It has been conducted for ten years by voluntary subscriptions, and no salaries have been paid to any of its officials.

Wants Ships Called Off.

Although no oficial intimation on the subject has been given, it is understood that France would view favorably the withdrawal of some of the American warships now at Tangier. Their presence has had the effect of attracting ships of the Italian and British. According to the French view, if a local agitation occurred ships might land forces to preserve order, and this would have the effect of discrediting France's influence in Morocco. The American officials say that the United States warships will be promptly withdrawn if France undertakes the entire burden of securing the release of Ion Perdicaris.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Huntsville and Ensley schools closed Friday.

No. 5 mine, at Pratt City, where the fire occurred last week, is expected to resume operations this week.

Quite a number of Alabamians will attend the dedication of the Alabama exhibit at St. Louis.

The Pennsylvania railroad system has the greatest mileage of any—10,556.

Birmingham stenographers have formed a mutual benefit association. They will establish, among other things, a library.

Several Alabama chiefs of police have gone to St. Louis to attend the national convention of their association.

Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, has decided not to appoint the uniform school book commission until some time during the fall or winter.

Jacksonville, Fla., again headed the list in bank clearings last week, her reported increase being 129.4 per cent. Birmingham gained 8.7 per cent. The heaviest decrease was Macon, Ga., at 47.1 per cent.

Warren C. McClure has been elected captain of the Columbus, Miss., Rifles, vice B. A. Lincoln, elected major of the Second battalion.

There are 5,971 school teachers in Alabama and the average salary of the white teachers is only $22 a month.

Reports from northern Alabama say that interest in fruit is growing rapidly. Many large orders for fruit trees have been placed and the number of strawberry farms is largely increased.

On Thursday, at Birmingham, the adjourned session of the Alabama synod will be held, and it is expected that the location of the Presbyterian college will be decided.

The report of the killing of Sam Thockmorton by the cars at Alabama City is denied. It was another man who has not been identified.

Pink Livingston, a Jasper negro, was among those who attempted to escape from the jail at Trinidad, Colo., Saturday. He is now en route to Alabama, where he will be tried for highway robbery.

It is said that Pell City is the only town in the state that is named after a man who was rich and since became poor. George H. Pell was once the president of the East and West railroad.

A dispatch from Tokio says that Field Marshal Yamagata has been appointed commander-in-chief of all the forces in the field. He is expected to proceed to the Liao Tung district shortly.

Orders were issued by several eastern cotton mill managers instructing agents to curtail production on account of the depression in the textile industry. Many mills in southern and central New England have been running on short time all the spring, and at present about 50,000 operatives are affected.

The Japanese plan of campaign is regarded at Mukden as having now been definitely disclosed. They occupy the Liao Tung peninsula in three divisions with a line of communication by the coast to their position at Feng Wang Cheng.

The body of Frank Hornbuckle, who shot Luverna Dalton and killed himself in Anniston, was interred in Maple Hill cemetery, Huntsville. There was no burial service and few mourners. Hornbuckle was a member of two secret fraternal societies, but neither of them participated in the funeral. Hornbuckle's wife is said to have sacrificed almost her last dollar to bring his body home for burial.

With six furnaces in operation, one of which was out of blast for four days, the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company manufactured during the month of May 36,418 tons of iron—a record breaker.

At Florence, T. D. Saxton, a young white man from Wayne county, Tennessee, was arrested, charged with assault to commit murder. He sued out a writ of habeas corpus, but before the case was tried consented to return without requisition.

This is the time of year when the chigger makes his presence felt at picnic parties.

There is every reason to believe that Democrats will have a majority in the next house.

The Alabama synod in session in Birmingham to-day will locate the proposed Presbyterian college.

In the explosion at Peoria, Ill., last Saturday, 3,000 cattle were killed and 30,000 barrels of whisky destroy

A terrfic tornado swept through the central part of Oklahoma last Saturday, and a great many people were injured.

With numerous illegal tax levies it seems utterly impossible for the populist administration to pull the county out of the hole.

The Republicans are still looking for a man to play second fiddle to Roosevelt, but every man thus far approached seems kind o' scary.

High waters are playing havoc in the western States. The awful flood through Kansas and Nebrska of a year ago is likely to be repeated this year.

The appointment of Cortelyou as chairman of the Republican national campaign has brought a storm of protest about the ears of Roosevelt. It is claimed that the new chairman is too much of a novice in political matters to be given so important a position, The President seems to be having rather a rocky time of it.

Congressman Bowie is getting to be greatly in demand at commencement exercies in the State schools. His address before the Girl's School at Montevallo is said to have been one of the best ever delivered in the State along educational lines. This was followed by another able address at the State University commencement.

There is considerable talk just now as to who would be the next Senator from Alabama in case a vacancy should occur in the upper house of congress. Prominent men all over the State are being mentioned in this connection, and The Sentinel believes that Hon. John B. Knox would be the man. He is among the strongest men in the State—a ready debater, a lawyer of recognized ability and authority. A leader of Democracy in Alabama, his counsel, based upon knowledge of men and affairs, is always sought after in matters political, and seldom, if ever, is his judgment at fault,

"HOLY, OH HOLY, ART THOU!"

The Advocate says that when McMillan was Probate Judge there were times when there was not money enough in the treasury to pay the jurors' fees. That is pretty bad, but not quite so bad as since Longshore has been Probate Judge there have been times when there was not money enough to pay the little measley warrants of the Commissioners when they came to the meetings of the court, and that they had to get private parties to discount them. One of the Commissioners is quoted as saying, and, by the way, he is a member of the present court, that he hoped the time would come when Shelby county would have money enough in the treasury to pay the Commissioners for their work. And by the same token the Commissioner who made the remark is not a Democrat. Would you like to have his name, my boy?

NEW KIND OF "TAX."

The Advocate says The Sentinel will have to get down to "brass tax" and argue the issues before the people. Say, my boy what kind of a tax are you going to spring upon the people now? We have had all kinds of tax sprung upon us, including several of the illegal kind, but it seems there is to be another—"brass tax."

George F. Phillips, one of the crew under command of Captain Hobson which sunk the collier Merrimac in the mouth of Santiago harbor, died at his home in Cambridge, Mass., last Sunday night.

INSULT, DID YOU SAY?

"We do not believe that the populist of Shelby county are carpet-baggers, nor do we believe that the principles advocated by the populist are those which embody the corruption and rottenness of carpetbagism and reconstruction."—Advocate.

The editor of The Sentinel has never yet so far forgotten his self respect as to call any man a carpet-bagger who has ever affiliated with the one time populist party, and the Advocate strains its elastic conscience when it tries to leave that impression.

Boss rule, prejudice and force brought the carpet-bagger upon the Southern people, and made the reconstruction period in the South an infamous blot upon a nation whose government proclaims to the world that all men shall have equal rights and privileges. The Sentinel repeats that boss rule dominates what is left of the one time populist party in Shelby county, and that the chief argument of these selfsame bosses is prejudice, and of a double extract grade. We repeat that this is the kind of doctrine that put upon the people of the South the carpet-bagger and brought about a period of reconstruction which was a menace to the home of every Southern man. Another little plate of prejudice is dished up in the following from the Advocate:

"The above from the pen of a man who never shared the hardships and toils of the Southern men, does not come with good grace."

The Sentinel man admits he does not know personally of the hardships Southern men endured during war times and its after effects—he was born in the North after the war was over. Just the same, he has a too high regard for the Southern people, a too high regard for their traditions, a too high regard for their loyalty to their dead heroes and devotion to their living heroes, to so far forget himself as to defame their sacred dead and insult the living by saying "Jeff Davis ought to have been hung." We leave that kind of expressions for others to utter. Would the Advocate like to have an explanation of the above?

The expression was uttered in Columbiana recently, and not by a Democrat, either. Does the Advocate approve of it?

"ITS OWN AUTHORITY."

"The populist smasher continues to grumble and growl about road machinery, and asks by what authority the Commissioners court paid the freight. That is easy. The court is its own authority."—Advocate.

Thank, you. We were under the impression that State laws governed the actions of Commissioners' Courts.

Upon its own authority, then, it set aside a State law and misappropriated nearly $8,000 out of the road fund of Shelby county. Of course this must be true, for the Advocate says "the court is its own authority."

Upon its own authority, then, the Court must have set aside State law when it levied upon the people of Shelby county time and again an illegal tax, and collected from all—but the railroads. Of course this must be true, for the levies were made, and according to the Advocate "the Court is its own authority."

In November the people of this county will tell the present administration to step aside, for they will elect an administration which will not trample upon the laws of the State; one that will not grant special privileges to big corporations and the common people be durned.

The people will also remember that the mouthpiece of the populist administration says "the court is its own authority," even to the extent of making all the taxpayers, except the railroads, pay an unlawful and illegal tax. If that isn't a rank abuse of their authority(?) then we are off.

THE VERIEST ROT.

"There are many Democrats in Columbiana today who says the men in the Populist party are not fit to sit down to the table to eat with, and still some of these very same Democrats who say that, will love the populist people nearly to death when they come to town to get them to vote for them. Populist, how does that strike you?—Advocate.

Such a conglomeration of prejudicial rot is seldom found in a newspaper that claims to have any prestige with its readers. It is just such stuff that the populist leaders rely upon for a re-election next November. They can only hope to win by prejudicing man against man, neighbor against neighbor and friend against friend. Strife, dissension and hate are the only products of prejudice.

POPULIST FAIRY TALE.

"Yes, it may be true that the Democratic voters did vote for men of their choice, but it has been currently reported that some of these votes were counted for another man."—Advocate.

Yes, it is "currently reported" by the Advocate, but it reports so many things that are visionary and dreamy that it shakes the risibilities of those who read them. That kind of stuff, my boy, will cut no ice with people who have no dust of prejudice in their eyes. We challenge the Advocate to prove an assertion that is a reflection upon every man who was a judge or a clerk in the Democratic primary. The "asserts" of the Advocate smack of the almanac joke variety.

Last Friday was the birthday of Jefferson Davis, the great Confederate leader, and in all the cities of the South, and in many of the smaller towns, appropriate services were held in honor of his memory. The Birmingham News, in speaking of the President of the Confederacy, says:

"As the mists clear away the character of Jefferson Davis grows more impressive. Never had man greater responsibility, and never may it be said with truth did man attempt to discharge it more unselfishly or with greater ability. His courage was undaunted, and he bore with dignified resignation the decrees of fate. He was intellectual, patriotic and passionately devoted to the South and therefore it is mete that today the South should reverence the memory of a son so great and true."

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic party met in the court house last Wednesday afternoon, every beat in the county being represented.

Prof. C. H. Florey was elected temporary chairman, and announced that the election of a permanent chairman was in order.

Committeeman J. F. Averyt put in nomination the name of Hon. E. S. Lyman, and the nomination was received with applause. Mr. Lyman not being present in the meeting, and the committee having no information as to his wishes in the matter, he was unanimously elected subject to his approval, and J. F. Averyt was appointed a committee to notify him of his election.

R. E. Bowdon was re-elected secretary of the committee, and he makes a good one, too.

Chairman Florey then informed the committee that he had received a communication from the opposition in the way of a challenge to a joint debate, which he read. After giving the matter due consideration, it was decided to accept the challenge, and a committee composed of E. S. Lyman, W. B. Browne, W. R. Oliver, J. F. Averyt and J. F. Pope was appointed to meet a like number from the opposition and arrange for, make rules governing the joint canvass, decide upon time and places and speakers.

After appointing several other committees the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one, each member of the committee bringing cheering news from his section of the county.

"SPECIAL PRIVILEGES."

In the matter of taxation in Shelby county, the railroads seem to have been accorded special privileges by the populist administration.

The Constitution of Alabama says: "The property of private corporations associations and individuals of this State shall forever be taxed at the same rate."

Democratic administrations, in twenty years of power in this county, levied the same rate upon all alike, and the railroads paid the same rate as the people, because all tax levies under Democratic administration were legally levied, and their legality was never questioned. Under populist administrations the people have complainingly paid the special road and bridge taxes, because they could not afford to contest them, while the railroads legally evade them in the courts. The result is the same as if the tax was levied against the common people and not against the rail roads. The plain English, as well as the constitutional denunciation of such an action is, that it is "usurpation and oppression." All this from the populist administration which at all times poses as the champion of the common people; an administration that is traitorous in that it would have the common people believe it is their defender and champion, and yet mulcts them of their honest dollars through an uulawful tax levy. And yet, despite all this unfair, unjust, unlawful and outrageous action the populist administration says it is proud of it! Proud of the fact that it illegally and unlawfully filched from the pockets of the common people of Shelby county thousands of dollars! Shades of the departed!

Vincent.

John Kidd, jr., is on a visit to relatives in your city.

Miss Balma Chandler spent Sunday in Birmingham with friends.

Dr. A. E. McGraw paid Birmingham and Columbiana visit last week.

Masters Solon, Jabe and Lawrence McGraw, of Falkville, are with their grandparents.

We are sorry to note that J. H. Wilde is sick at this writing, but hope for him a speedy recovery.

W. B. Freeze spent part of last week in Talladega with his sister, Mrs. Cloninger, who is very ill.

S. M. Mundine is on a visit to his friends and former place of business at Ridersville and Centreville.

Mrs. A. C. Wilder and children are visiting relatives at Oxford, and while away will visit her old home in Clay.

Young Mr. Ham, of Fayetteville, was a visitor to our city Sunday. One of our Judson girls was all smiles.

The smiling face of Oscar McGraw, who has been attending the State University, is seen on our streets again.

A fishing party came out from Birmingham, Monday, and the members are enjoying an outing on Coosa river.

Misses Hattie Davis, Hattie Samuel and Marianna McGraw spent Sunday in Childersburg, the guests of Miss Edna Oden.

Prof B. R. Richardson, who has had charge of the Vincet High School, left for Deatsville for his home last week. He carries the best wishes of many friends with him.

Miss Lou Reynolds, who has had charge of the music department of our school just closed, left Friday. Miss Lou is well up in music, and carries with her the best wishes of a host of friends.

The Baptist Sunday school will have a children's day exercise the third Sunday night. An interesting programme is being prepared, and an enjoyable evening is assured all who attend.

We omitted saying last week that another Democrat had located in Vincent. At present he is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Blankenship. "Coot" is wearing a broad smile now-a-days

Our clever depot agent, Mrs. M. L. Kidd, is off duty taking a much deeded rest and recreation. W. F. Johnson, the former night operator, is acting agent during her absence, while a Mr. Newman is holding down the keys at night.

Quite a number of our young people, chaperoned by Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Bentley and W. H. Kidd, enjoyed a fish-fry on the river last Thursday. They report a most delightful time. G. C. Pitts, of Columbiana, and Leon Pope, of Wilsonville, were among those from a distance attending.

When the sober, honest thinking people read the misleading and prejudice breeding statements in the Advocate it gives them, as "Rufus Sanders" use to say, "a coming appetite to go out on the back porch and spit." The voters of this county are thinking for themselves, and will not be led astray by the old time harangue of the bosses of the populist party. The voters of this county are waking up to the awful condition into which we have been plunged by the present administration.

The last issue of The Sentinel shows up some startling facts along this line, which the voters are going to remember in November. No wonder we are in a finacial crisis when funds raised by an illegal tax have not been applied to the purpose for which they were assessed. The handwriting is on the wall, and he who WILL look may read. Count on beat 16 putting her seal of condemnation upon such an administration of affairs on election day. "JOHN BILLIE."

Every argument of the populist administration in its own defense is sharpened upon the grindstone of deception and prejudicial hatred.

Great Men of the South.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

The remark was recently made in Columbiana and by a Southern man, too, that the South had never produced any great men. With your indulgence I would like to prompt that man's memory.

In the first place, this nation has never produced a greater man than Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, and who gave his all in defense of a cause, which he with millions of other people, thought was right. He was a national figure, and dearly beloved by every true and loyal Southron.

No nation in the world can point to a greater man than Gen. Robert E. Lee, "the idol of the South," and whose memory the whole nation reveres and respects.

Major-General George Washington Custis Lee, in 1871 succeeded his father, the great Robert E. Lee, as President of Washington and Lee University, and who is now president emeritus.

Brig-Gen. Francis T. Nichols, is chief justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana.

Brig-Gen Roger A. Pryor, who recently retired from the supreme bench of New York, is another notable Southern character.

Fitz Hugh Lee, after serving as Governor of Virginia for four years, was sent to Cuba as consul-general by Cleveland, and was retained in the same high office by McKinley. After the Spanish-American war he was made Governor of Havana, and in 1901 retired from the regular army with the rank of Major General.

Senator John T. Morgan, a Tennessean by birth, but an Alabamian by adoption, one of the ablest men in the United States Senate and an acc pted authority on Constitutional law. He has been in the Senate for 27 years.

Senator Edmond Winston Pettus, the oldest man in the United States Senate, is recognized in that body as a man of ability and learning. He is an ex-Confederate soldier and a veteran of the Mexican war.

Senator William Brimage, of Tennessee, has held every high office within the gift of Tennessee people. In 1903 he refused to occupy the Governor's chair "while Tennessee needs her soldier sons."

No nobler character ever lived than General John B. Gordon who lies beneath a new made grave over in Georgia.

Lieut-Gen. Alexander P. Stewart, a brave Confederate soldier, before the war was a professor at Cumberland and Nashville Universities, and after the war served twelve years as Chancellor of the University of Mississippi. He is now 82 years old, and as a historian is acknowldeged to be among the best in this country.

I might go on and mention such men as Clay, Calhoun and a number of others who were productions of the South, but will just add that the "Father of His Country" was a Southern man.

The Columbiana man who has so little opinion of the great men of the South should rub up his menory, or dispense with his prejudice. VERITAS.

LYNCH.

J. H. Page and Walter Richardson, of Columbiana, passed through here last Saturday.

Mrs. S. A. Farr and son J. Harford, made a trip to Columbiana Friday.

G. W. Dye still continues in feeble health. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

J. O. Thomas, of Calvary, passed through here Saturday.

Quite a number of our people attended the singing at Dargin last Sunday.

C. B. Davis transacted business at Columbiana Saturday.

Mrs. Addie Hinton and daughter, Miss Bessie, of Birmingham, visited relatives here Saturday.

Eugene Bentley and family, of Pelham, were down here Saturday.

Well, the variegated, hyphenated and conglomerated ticket has at last been completed. It is one of the laws of nature that a body can occupy but one position of space at the same time. I understand why a body could change positions, but I fail to understand why a person can be a populist and a Republican at the same time, except for the sake of a little pie. There is no principle involved, but it is just "get there," and it seems to be get there honestly, if one can, but if not honestly, get there anyhow. When the ides of November have rolled around the Democratic candidate for coroner will hold an inquest over the remains of the defunct opposition, and will decide that its death was caused by anaemia, general debility, a deficiency of nutritious blood, in short it will have died for want of life. MARION.

Wilsonville.

C. T. Weldon left Monday for Birmingham.

W. A. Parker, of your city was in town Tuesday.

L. B. Riddle and family spent Sunday on Fourmile.

Miss Purnie Pope is visiting friends in South Alabama.

Miss Olive Densler in in Cincinnati studying music.

Johnnie Gwin, of Maplesville, visited home folks Sunday.

W. E. Strickland, of Shelby, visited home-folks Sunday.

W. W. Wingard's friends are glad to see him out again.

Mrs. Iris Taylor visited her parents on Fourmile Sunday.

G. E. Weldon made a business trip to Birmingham last week.

Miss Lizzie Phillips, of Sylacauga, is visiting Mrs. G. W. McGowan.

Archie Dalsheino, of Columbus, Ga., visited friends here the first of the week.

Miss Judson Kilpatrick, of South Alabama, spent a few days with friends here last week.

Why don't more of our people attend the prayer meetings on Wednesday nights? Now is a good time to make new resolutions.

"Honest John," you are right; we ought to clean the weeds out of our graveyard. So let us set apart a day to clean and decorate the graves of our loved ones, some of which are sadly neglected. XX.

Resolutions of Respect.

BY SYRACUSE LODGE K. OF P, WILSONVILLE.

Whereas, It has pleased the Grand Chancellor of the Universe; the Father of the children of man; to call from this world of sorrow and disappointment, the spirit of George W. Taylor, (on May 31, 1904), our beloved brother, neighbor and friend, and transplant it in the courts above, to forever bask in the glorious sunlight of the blessed Saviour, and

Whereas, We recognize that our loss of him is his eternal gain; be it therefore

Resolved, 1st. That we bow with humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well for those who love and fear Him.

2nd. That we will forever cherish his memory, emulate his virtues and strive to be as faithful to our order as he was in health.

3rd. That we will endeavor, by the help of God, to so live as christians and brothers of our order to meet him in the glorious beyond, where there will be no more parting.

4th. That a copy of these resolutionn be sent to this family, and be spread upon the minutes of our order.

J. B. BOYER,
J. H. PENNINGTON,
W. J WELDON,
Committee.

June 5, 1904.

Wilsonville, Ala., June 3, 1904.

To the Ladies who furnished the floral designs:

In behalf of Syracuse Lodge, No. 195, Knights of Pythias, of Wilsonville, Ala., we desire to extend to you our many, many thanks and highest appreciation for the floral decorations you so artistically arranged for the grave of our deceased brother, George W. Taylor.

The Book of Law with the sword crossed diagonally thereon was typical of the Rank under which we were conducting the funeral, and recalled the confidence in which we held our brother.

The F. C. B. in emblematic colors reminded us of the Friendship, Charity and Benevolence, the corner stone of our order, and filled our hearts with pride to know that we had been faithful in extending these virtues to our deceased brother in his illness, and to the family in their sorrow.

The skillful and symbolic arrangement appealed to every Pythian heart, and we assure you that they were more highly appreciated than we are able to express.

Sincerely yours.
E. WILLIAMSON,
H. E. SMITH,
W. J. WELDON,
Committee.

A Card of Thanks.

We desire through the columns of your desirable paper to express our heart-felt thanks to the people of Wilsonville and community, who were so faithful and kind to us and my dear husband in his last illness. Our prayer is, that God may abundantly bless each one. Most respectfully.

MRS. GEO. W. TAYLOR AND DAUGHTER.
Wilsonville, Ala., June 6.

STERRETT.

The white winged angels came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Skinner on May 21 1904, and bore away the spirit of their babe, Velar Leone This little flower came into the home January 12th, 1904, and great was the tie that bound it to father and mother's heart. But as the all wise Father doeth all things well, they should realize that heaven is richer and earth poorer and thus resign themselves to God's will. The bereaved parents have the profound sympathy of their many friends.

When we see a precious blossom,
That we tended with such care,
Rudely taken from our bosom,
How our aching hearts despair,
Round it's little grave we linger,
Till the setting sun is low;
Feeling all our hopes have perished
With the flower we cherished so.

A FRIEND.

A Card of Thanks.

We desire to return our most sincere thanks to the good people of Sterrett, also Mrs. Gilmer, of Jugtown, for their kindness to us during the illness and death of our darling babe. We can not reward you but pray that God will abundantly bless you and grant you many days on earth.

MR. AND MRS. SKINNER.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

Columbiana ought to have a cotton seed oil mill.

The Commissioners' Court has been in session this week.

Dr. Morgan, of Shelby Springs, was in town last Saturday.

The genial G. E. Abbott, of Shelby, was in town last Monday.

Dr. A. H. Horton, of Weldon, was in town Monday a few hours.

Judge D. R. McMillan has been on the sick list for several days.

State Senator W. R. Oliver, of Calera, was in town last Monday.

Shelby was visited with a heavy rain and hail storm last Monday.

Mrs. Robert Carter, of Shelby, was visiting friends here last Monday.

Another play is being talked of for the benefit of the public school piano fund.

Uncle Ben Cardwell, of near Shelby was a pleasant caller on The Sentinel last Saturday.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott preached two excellent sermons at the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

W. E. Lester was in town last Monday. He reports the crop outlook in Beat 8 as being fine.

Harry Roberts has not lost a game of ball in the eleven he has pitched with the Twin Decaturs.

Dr. McGraw, of Vincent, was in the city over Sunday visiting his daughter, Mrs. John S. Pitts.

Notwithstanding the extremely dry weather, farmers report crops as being in a very good condition.

George Mason came in off the road the latter part of last week and visited with his family over Sunday.

Mrs. A. L. Christian visited her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Williams, in Shelby two or three days last week.

Shelby Springs is a Mecca for a good many of our young people every Sunday. It is a delightful place to go.

Last Saturday was the hottest day of the season, but was great for the crops which are somewhat backward.

Attorney W. W. Wallace visited with his mother in Klein over Sunday, returning to Columbiana Monday.

Mrs. Mansfield, who has been visiting relatives in Opelika for several days, returned to Columbiana last Sunday.

Mrs. I. W. Edwards is seriously ill at the home of Mrs. M. E. Mason. She is reported as being some better today.

Hon. E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo, was in town last Monday on legal business. The Sentinel acknowledges a short call.

J. F. Averyt, of Shelby, was among those who attended the Democratic committee meeting in Columbiana last Wednesday.

Miss Maude Bell, of Lineville, will arrive in the city the latter part of the week for a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. J. Haynes.

Good stock, good work at fair prices are the inducements offered by our job department. Are you interested? If so, give us a trial order.

Dr. J. H. Ligon, of Heflin, was in the city several days last week visiting his sister, Mrs. G. T. Harris. He returned home last Sunday.

M. L. Almon, a substantial farmer from near Wilsonville, was in town Monday, and while here renewed his subscription to The Sentinel.

Mr. Posey tells The Sentinel that his section of the county received a fine rain last Sunday, and that crops will now grow faster than ever.

Dr. E. G. Givhan, of Montevallo, was in town a few hours last Monday. The doctor will take unto himself a wife one week from this evening.

Professor Florey, of Harpersville, was in town on Wednesday of last week, and was elected temporary chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee.

J. S. Falkner, the next tax assessor of Shelby county, was in town Wednesday and Thursday of last week. He is book-keeper of J. H. Wilder & Bro., of Vincent.

Columbiana should have a Commercial Club, or some other organization that would take steps to advertise the advantages of our town and county. What say you?

Deliver us from the man who says: "Say, did you know it was just a little warm?" That man should have about sixty days on the street, and where there is no shade.

Miss Lillian Crosby and Roger Crosby, of Stockton, are in the city guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Milner. They came here to join the party which leaves for the World's Fair next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. McMahan, of Shelby Springs, were in town last Saturday. Mr. McMahan informs The Sentinel that there are a number of visitors now at that pretty little summer resort.

John S. Pitts went to Rome last Saturday, returning Monday, accompanied by his sisters, Misses Clara and Zemma Pitts, who have been attending Shorter College for the past session.

A Masonic conference, to continue through three days, is to be held in Columbiana during the last week in this month. Among the prominent men who will be present is Governor Cunningham who is to deliver an address.

Miss Rossar Christian went up to Bessemer Tuesday for a visit with friends for a few weeks. Miss Christian is to be maid of honor at the marriage of John Upshaw and Miss Alice Sanders, both of whom are well known here and at Shelby.

Henry Milner and Mrs. M. E. Mason visited the family of Rev. G. J. Mason at Talladega Springs last Thursday and Friday. Mr. Milner says the crops through the parts of Coosa, Talladega and Shelby counties that he passed over are looking fine.

When away from home say a good word for your town. It costs you nothing, and it might be the means of bringing some worthy enterprise to town, or some good citizen. Every man should be a walking encyclopedia in the interest of Columbiana.

H. S. Latham, of Montevallo, was in the city Saturday and Sunday visiting relatives. Mr. Latham may locate in Columbiana and go into business. He is a man of considerable wealth, is a good citizen and The Sentinel would like to see him locate here.

Columbiana's second ball team got a black eye at Shelby last Friday. The result of a game of ball over there between the second nines of the two places was 23 to 8 in favor of the Shelby boys. The Columbiana boys intend to have another try at them in the near future.

Rev. G. T. Harris informs The Sentinel that his protracted meeting will begin at Shelby on Saturday before the third Sunday of this month. He will be assisted in the meeting by Presiding Elder Branscomb and Rev. K. N. Matthews. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these meetings.

Walter DeShazo, whom The Sentinel mentioned as having been accidentally shot in Birmingham a week ago last Sunday, died from the effects of his wounds a few days later. His parents live in Montevallo, and the sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended them in their bereavement.

Married on May 29th, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Thomas Weldon, by Hosea Pearson, Esq., Mr. Wiley Harris, of Shelby, and Miss Gena Weldon, of Spring Creek. The marriage was a very quiet affair, only a few intimate friends being present. The Sentinel joins their many friends in wishing them a long life of unalloyed happiness.

A little white-winged missive has reached us in which Dr. and Mrs. Francis Marion Peterson announce the approaching marriage of their daughter Miss Lena Farham, to Dr. Edgar Gilmore Givhan, which will take place at Montevallo, Ala., on the evening of June 15, 1904, at six o'clock The bride to be is a stately blonde and a beautiful young woman, and has many friends who will be interested in the announcement which has been made. Dr. Givhan is a well known physician, a man of fine character and integrity, and he is to be congratulated on having won one of Alabama's most beautiful young women. The Sentinel extends congratulations in advance of the happy event.

Rev. and Mrs. C. W. O'Hara and daughter, Miss Ida, will leave in a few days for Texas where they will visit with relatives until about the first of August. Rev. Mr. O'Hara has not been real well for some weeks, and his many friends trust his vacation will bring him back to Columbiana in his usual vigorous health His son Walter will have charge of the L. & N. office during the father's absence.

Commissioner R. B. Posey, of Harpersville, came in Monday to attend a meeting of the Commissioners' Court. He brought to The Sentinel a sample of fine wheat from the field of D. W. Goswick, a farmer living near Harpersville, the heads of which average ten inches in length. It is of a Tennessee variety, and Mr. Goswick has a large field of it

J. B. Pitts has left a sample of very fine wheat at The Sentinel office, taken from an acre patch he has raised this year. The heads are long and large, and the grain plump and firm. There is no reason why plenty of wheat should not be raised in Alabama. Mr. Pitts is very proud of his patch, and he has reason to be.

J. P. Pearson, who spent several days on his farm near Bridgeton, last week, says he has the finest stand of cotton this year he ever saw. And from present prospects will make more cotton to the acre than he ever made before. Similar reports come from a good many farmers in that section of the county,

The Sentinel has received a card from Phillip Erlick who is in St. Louis asking that The Sentinel be sent to him this week. The home paper is always better than a letter to those who are away from home.

Rev. J. W. O'Hara, who has been preaching at Wylam, has accepted a call to the Clayton Street Baptist church in Montgomery. He is a son of Rev. C. W. O'Hara of this city and is well known here.

H. C. Fulton, of Gurnee, attended the Democratic committee meeting in Columbiana, last week, and The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from him. He also orders this paper sent to his address.

Attorney J. J. Haynes and his Sunday school class enjoyed a delightful day at Shelby Springs last Tuesday. Mr. Haynes is looking several years younger, and think he will go again.

Of Interest to Teachers.

The Board of Examiners of the State Educational department has ruled that teachers holding unexpired third grade certificates may enclose such certificate in applying for second grade papers, and have it relieve them of taking over the examinations of the third grade. In other words, holders of third grade authority may secure second grade papers by enclosing unexpired third grade certificates and passing successfully the examinations on geography, grammar, arithmetic, Alabama and United States history.

This is a ruling that the board of examiners have had in view for some time and the most liberal that can be made and adhere to the law. It has been the practice and law all along that holders of second grade papers, unexpired, of course, may enclose certificates and be relieved of passing on the studies of the second and third sections. This new arrangement makes it much easier for those who are seeking second grade papers and at the same time does not abate the requirements of the law.

"Little Japan."

We have just received a copy of a new song and chorus called "Little Japan" written by J. T. Rider. This is said to be a great sensational hit, sung by all the principal singers in theatrical productions and on the vaudeville stage. This song is now being sung to three and four encores nightly all over the country.

Upon receipt of 25 cents in postage stamps, a copy of this beautiful song will be mailed to any address in the United States by the Theatrical Music Supply Co., No. 46 West 29th street New York.

For Sale.

Mrs. S. L. Appleman, who expects to leave Columbiana soon, will dispose of her household goods at a bargain. Some of this furniture was purchased new but a short time ago Call at her home.

Also has a Jersey cow, fresh a few weeks ago, for sale.

LOST.

The undersigned lost an umbrella last Saturday, June 4th, between Dogwood and Maylene, engraved upon the handle of which is the name "Kate." Will reward finder by communicating with me at Montevallo.

HARPERSVILLE.

E. E. Cardwell, jr., visited Columbiana Monday.

Don't forget the Society meeting Saturday night, and be sure to come.

A nice rain fell here Sunday evening accompanied by a heavy wind.

Our blind musicians, Will and Joe Darling, are visiting an uncle in Mississippi.

Jim Kidd, who has been attending the State University, returned home last week.

Mrs. Dr. Lane, of North Alabama, is visiting Dr Lane's family on Broad street.

W. H. Kidd and daughter, Miss Mary, of Vincent, attended preaching here Sunday.

J. R. Beavers and family, of Birmingham, are visiting Mrs. M. W. Wallace and family.

Rev. Mr. Brashier, a young Baptist preacher, of Creswell, came up to hear Mr. Bentley Sunday.

Miss Janie Wallace, who has been teaching school in the Birmingham district, returned home last week.

Mr. Wilson, of the firm of Wilson Bros., of Birmingham, spent Saturday in the city with his friend, George East.

Rev. Mr. Bentley was accompanied here last Saturday by his two charming daughters Misses Emma and Hattie.

Tommie Martin is holding down the books and commissary for Davis & Blankenship at their saw mill near Columbiana.

Misses Maude and Gertrude Prescott, of Verbena, spent a part of last week with their uncle, S. J. Strock, on South side.

Peddler Norris, of Columbiana, was in our community last week with a trunk full of goods and a wagon full of politics of the populist kind.

Since it has been discovered that brown ants destroy the boll weevil, the question arises: is the Agricultural Department going to furnish the farmers with these ants in case they are needed?

C. C. Elliott and family, of near Vincent, Spent Sunday in the city with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Martin spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives on Kelly's Creek.

The exercises at the Methodist church Sunday were well attended, and the entertainment was quite a success.

Mrs. Caldwell and son, Sam attended the Baptist Sunday School Convention at Winterboro last Saturday and Sunday as delegates from the Sunday School here.

Mr. Hammonds has the brag cow of the valley. Since last September he has sold $85 worth of milk and butter from her, besides furnishing his table where there is six in number.

Professor Strock, R. B. Posey and John Prescott attended the Baptist rally at Macedonia church, nine miles north of here last Sunday and report a big time. There was fine preaching, good singing, a large crowd, a big dinner and dust to beat creation.

We spent a very pleasant day last Sunday at Macedonia Baptist church in the northern part of this county. This was our old stamping ground when a boy, and we were glad indeed to visit this old sacred spot again. But what changes have taken place since those old times; changes in many ways. The old church house has been torn down, and a new one built and furnished with a good organ and stoves. The church has been nicely painted on the outside, and I was told it would be finished on the inside very soon. This was all nice, indeed, and we are proud of it, but what shall I say of the people who used to worship there? Sad, sad, very sad; most of them are gone; some are dead and have crossed over the great beyond; others have moved away, and some were too feeble to attend, and most all were new faces. Then, too, those heralds of the cross who then preached so earnestly and faithfully—Revs. Collins, Kidd and Wilks—are all dead but not forgotten, and their place is being filled by Rev. Mr. Reeves, a young minister who graduated from Howard last week. He seems to be very popular with all the people, and is doing good work. Rev. W. B. Crumpton preached an excellent sermon at 11 o'clock, and in the evening short talks were made by Revs. Crumpton, Reeves, Clifton and Funderburg. What shall I say about the singing; to be short, it was the best I ever heard. The choir at that church and at Rehoboth Methodist church are always together on such occasions, and I venture the assertion that they cannot be excelled. For fear that you may think I am writing a denominational letter I had better close, and will only add that we are glad that we went, and to those people up there who showed us so much courtesy, we extend our profoundest thanks, and may they live long and their church continue to bloom as a rose, is the wish of JAKE.

DR. WOOLLEY'S

OPIUM & WHISKY ANTIDOTE

Will cure permanently at your own home.

Mr. T. M. Brown, of DeQueen, Ark., says: "Over seven years ago I was cured of the opium habit by your medicine, and have continued in the very best of health since."

Mr. W. M. Tunstall, of Lovingston, Va., says: "I am glad to say that I firmly believe that I am entirely and permanently cured of the Drink Habit, as I have never even so much as wanted a drink in any form since I took your eradicator, now 18 months ago. It was the best money I ever invested."

Mrs. Virginia Townsend, of Shreveport, La., writes: "No more opium. I have taken no other remedy than yours, and I make no mistake when I say that my health is better now than it ever was in my life, and I owe it to you and your remedy. It has been twelve years since I was cured by your treatment."

Dr. Woolley has thousands of such testimonials, with permission to use them. A treatment with so many recommendations from Physicians and cured patients must be good.

Dr. Woolley's Antidote has imitators, (as all good articles have)—perhaps you have tried some of them, but there is nothing like Woolley's. It has stood the test of thirty years. No man or woman who uses opium or whiskey in any form, or who has friends so afflicted, should hesitate to write to

THE CROPS.

Spring Wheat and Cotton Are Reported Doing Nicely.

The weekly summary of crop conditions issued by the weather bureau says:

The temperature of the week ending May 30th was favorable in all districts and especially to the eastward of the Mississippi river and of the gulf states.

A geneal improvement is indicated in the southern states, where the corn crop is largely laid by, having reached the earing stage in the west gulf states.

A general improvement in the condition of winter wheat is indicated in the principal wheat states. Harvest is in progress in the southern states. Early sown spring wheat is growing nicely and the general outlook for this crop in the spring wheat region is promising.

Nearly all reports respecting oats indicate that this crop has made very favorable progress.

Although cotton continues small, a general improvement in its condition is reported. The least favorable reports are received from Georgia, Florida and portions of South Carolina, where drought continues. Lice are not so generally reported in the central and eastern districts as in the previous week except in Georgia, but boll weevils continue to increase in the southwest and central cotton counties of Texas.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

A MAGIC LILY.

Here is a trick which you will find very interesting: Make a lily of colored tissue paper about a central stem consisting of a very thin metal tube, wound about with green tissue paper, one of whose ends should project a little beyond the petals of the flower, while the other end is to be held in the operator's mouth about a foot from the lily.

Next get a little ball of elder pith, or cork, run a very thin, flexible wire through its centre and attach two very small artificial butterflies of bright tissue paper to the ends of the wire. Place the ball directly over the tip of the metallic stem and blow a long, steady blast through the tube. If your pith ball is well centred over the air current a very surprising thing will happen. The ball will remain suspended in the invisible current of air about an inch above the lily, while the butterflies dancing about it look exactly as if alive and just about to alight upon the lily.

If you construct the flower as explained above and learn how to blow steadily so that the butterflies will show to their best advantage, you will find the magic lily will afford you a great deal of amusement in the mystification of your friends.

BOBBY'S BARGAIN.

Henry and Bobby, ages eight and ten respectively, were little boys who thought and had tendencies. In consequence of which, at times, they were a source of great embarrassment to their mother. Bobby, in particular, had the money-making propensity. He sayed his pennies religiously, and his eye was keen for a bargain.

One evening at dinner their father had as a guest a gentleman who was a great horseman. The boys listened attentively to the conversation for awhile, then Bobby opened fire with:

"Say, Mr. Smith, can you buy a horse for a hundred dollars?"

"Yes, Bobby," said Mr. Smith, "you can."

"Can you get one for fifty dollars?"

"Yes."

"For twenty-five dollars?"

"Yes."

"For ten dollars?"

"Yes."

"For seven dollars?"

"Perhaps."

"Seven dollars, really?" said Bobby wonderingly. "Would the horse be awfully fast?"

"Well," said Mr. Smith, smiling, "you would not be likely to get a Lou Dillon or a Dan Patch, but the creature might be able to pull a plow."

Bobby thought for a moment; then, "But, Mr. Smith, could a horse you paid seven dollars for have a colt?"

"Possibly," said Mr. Smith gravely.

"I have seven dollars in the bank," continued Bobby; "I guess I'll get a horse. For if a seven dollar horse could have a colt, and that colt have a colt, and that colt have a——"

Bobby's mother and father and Mr. Smith became seriously interested in the salad; the youthful Henry began to fidget; the embryo stock farm continued to grow—"and that colt have a colt, and that colt have a colt, and that colt have a colt, and that colt——"

Henry could stand it no longer. Turning to Bobby, he remarked in a tone of impatience, "Say, as soon as you think you have the worth of your money would you mind passing the bread?"—Lippincott's.

INVISIBLE INK.

Boys and girls who like to play clever tricks should learn how to make invisible ink, as it is very useful in many tricks.

This ink can be prepared in several ways, one of the best being as follows: Obtain two bottles, each of which will contain about one ounce. Label these 1 and 2, respectively, so that there can be no mistake. No. 1 contains a solution of iron sulphate, and No. 2 a solution of gallic acid. Now, No. 1 is the ink and No. 2 the developer. Take a clean pen, preferably a quill, and dip it into the bottle labeled No. 1, and write or draw on a piece of white paper allowing this to dry. The writing or drawing will be quite invisible, but as soon as it is sponged over with the solution in the bottle labeled No. 2, the writing or drawing will appear in deep, black character, or outline, as the case may be.

Another form of invisible ink, which requires a different treatment for developing, is a solution of very dilute sulphuric acid. Heat is necessary in this case to render the writing visible, and, consequently, it is more difficult to introduce it into a conjuring trick.

HOW TO TAKE A DOG PICTURE.

Those who have made good snapshots of dogs in the open or have taken fair pictures of pet and master or mistress under the light may think it a simple matter, but it is not quite so easy as it seems.

Few understand how to pose a dog so as to get the good points of the various breeds of dogs. In this lies the secret of getting good dog pictures. The handling of the lens and use of light may help greatly, but the artistic point lies in taking the photograph of the good points in the dog, as, for instance, if you were taking a picture of a Boston terrier you would try to get his short head and stub nose, of which its owners are so proud.

Talking to dogs is the best way to get their attention when you want a picture. One dog the writer knows will look alert immediately and be ready for his picture if asked to take a walk.

PICTURE PUZZLE.

THE WISHING GIFT.

A young man was apprenticed to a joiner, and after serving his time the master joiner gave him a wishing gift. It was a table which would spread itself at command. The young man stopped at an inn and the innkeeper became very much interested in the table, and his wife thought of how useful such a table would be to an innkeeper. That night the innkeeper exchanged the table for another one, and the joiner departed, not knowing the deception until later.

Where is the innkeeper?

THE WORLD'S UMBRELLA.

Little Elizabeth is so queer,
She thinks that when it's raining here
'Tis raining all the world about,
And no little children can go out.

And when I tell her the earth is round,
She says that then all this our ground
Is just a great umbrella wide,
Which keeps the drops from the other side.

C. D. Stone, in St. Nicholas.

Decline of the Graceful Courtesy.

"There never was a time when people were more lacking in grace," said a dancing master.

"A hostess nowadays," he added, crowds her drawing room or ballroom with a large number of 'undesirables'—that is, people with no pretence to what is vulgarly called a stylish manner. The hostess is not to blame; circumstances compel her to invite these people. But at one time a hostess paid as much attention to her guests' accomplishments in deportment as their character before inviting them to her house.

"At a private dance how seldom one sees a girl make a graceful courtesy to her partner! Usually she does no more than nod in a way that looks shockingly familiar. As for the men—well, a quarter of a century ago one saw more masculine grace at a clerks' or shop assistants' 'Cinderella' than our best bred men are capable of to-day! But, after the example of the girls, who can wonder at it?"

FARM AND GARDEN

Ornamenting Grounds.

Don't feel that the farm life must be all grind and that every foot of soil must produce a money crop or something that may be used on the home table. Use some of the liberal space you are fortunate in possessing to beautify the rest. Cover the bare veranda with vines, in the shade of which you and yours may rest a while. One dollar will buy enough vines of such hardy kinds as Begonia, Honeysuckles and American ivy to shade the house from one end to the other in a few years. Then give up some of the door yard to a few hardy shrubs, or better still, set a mass of them in the corner next the roadside. A few oranmental trees, choosing those best suited to your climate, will add wonderfully to the appearance of the farm in a few years, and you will not miss the few dollars they cost. Do these things and do them this spring, so as to have the benefit of them the sooner.

Shade for Poultry.

Whether the fowls must spend their time this summer on the range or in partial confinement, having only a yard in which to run, shade is necessary to their successful growth. To say that shade cannot be provided is nonsense. There may be no trees that can be utilized, it is true, but every one can plant some vine or even corn near enough to the poultry-yard fence where it will cast shade, or erect a cheap lumber shed, so arranged that its roof will supply shade during a portion of the day, and one end the rest of the warm hours, leaving it open on two sides at least for a proper circulation of air.

A similar structure, or several of them, can be erected on the range if the fowls must not be permitted in the orchard for any reason. Then, remember that during the warm days of summer, clean, fresh water in abundance is also essential, no matter where the fowls and chicks are running. Think of these things now and get them ready, so that when the warm days come, the fowls will not need to suffer for even a single day.

Autumn Colts.

Some men have a horror of having a colt come in cold weather. I don't think the weather has so much to do with the poor stunted colts as the feed. Where these stunted colts are found you will find the small dish with a small quantity of grain in it. The farmer concludes the mare has nothing to do all winter but just suckle that colt, and consequently does not need much grain. Here let me give the new beginner a word of warning. Be sparing of the oats for the first ten days after foaling. After the colt is an hour or two old give the mare a nice warm bran mash, say, one gallon of bran, and for one week after that give no grain of any kind. Then try one pint twice a day and gradually increase the ration so that when the colt is two and a half weeks old the mare will be at full feed. But to go back to the small dish with the small quantity. To my mind the proper measure to go by is the capacity of the stomach. By carefully watching your animal you will find out what amount it will do best on, and that is the best measure obtainable. Good hay and oats are not all that is required for the mare and foal. A bin of crushed oats, with an equal part of bran, should be the mainstay while the colt is suckling, and it should be fed four or five times a day. When the foal is four or five weeks old a box should be placed in the stall with the mare, but out of her reach and on a level with the colt's breast, into which a handful of dry oats can be thrown. The colt will soon begin to nibble at them. When fairly started to eat, a little bran may be added, and as the colt grows older, say, at two months old, substitute crushed oats for whole ones. I will leave the foal eating crushed oats and bran at two months old, and will tell of future treatment at another time.—T. E., in American Culivator.

Pruning Peach Trees.

Of all the orchard trees, the peach stands in greatest need of regular and severe pruning. If left unpruned, the trees make a good growth while young and produce a few crops of fruit. Each year, however, the fruit is farther removed from the trunk of the tree, the wood becomes weaker, the twigs near the body of the tree die, leaving long, straggling, weak limbs which bear fruit only at their very extremities, are liable to break when heavily loaded, and do not shade and protect the trunk of the tree. The gathering of the fruit from these high limbs is expensive and the fruit itself is of inferior quality.

The object in pruning is to keep the tree low, compact in form, with new fruiting wood as near the trunk of the tree as possible.

Under normal conditions when peach trees have passed the winter safely, and promise to produce a crop of fruit, they should be pruned each winter by cutting back the main limbs, so as to leave one-half or two-thirds of the new growth.

When the fruit buds have been winter killed, the opportunity may be seized to cut back the main limbs more severely, thus securing more compact trees, and avoiding the formation of long, straggling limbs which the trees have a tendency to form if they are not cut back.

The amount of cutting back depends upon the extent to which the trees have been injured.

If only the fruit buds have been killed and the wood of the tree is uninjured, trees of compact form, if they have been annually pruned, should have their main limbs shortened, so as to leave only a few inches of the new wood. If, however, the limbs are getting long and straggling they may be cut back into two and even three-year-old wood. Before severe cutting is done the grower should be certain that there are not enough buds left to produce fruit. The peach sets such an abundant quantity of fruit buds that if a small percentage of them has escaped injury there may be still enough to produce a paying crop of fruit.

Good Management.

Great care should be taken in selecting the right kind of a brood sow, and in breeding to the right kind of a male, as a great deal depends upon starting right in anything we undertake. About 15 days previous to farrowing, the sow should be fed a ration of mill feed and oats, and should have plenty of salt ashes and slack coal, where she could help herself at any time. Three or four days before farrowing she should be put in a farrowing pen with just enough good bright wheat straw for her bed. When the little porkers arrive great care should be taken with them until all are perfectly dry, as at this time many farmers lose a great many of their pigs. The sow should then be left alone for 24 hours, except to give her a drink of good pure water, about 12 hours afterward. She should then be fed a mixed diet of mill feed and ground oats. She should be fed lightly at first increasing each day, until about three weeks, when she should have full feed. At three or four weeks old the pigs should be fed some sweet milk, wtih corn meal or shorts. At first they eat a small amount, but soon learn to like it and will run to their trough and scramble to see which can get the most.

Their trough should be where the mother cannot eat with them. They should be given just what they will clean up two or three times daily. The sow should have some corn to keep up animal heat. Also the run of a good clover pasture. The pigs will begin to crack corn at the age of three or four weeks. The feeding place should be at least 100 yards, from the bed in order that they get plenty of exercise as this is very essential to the health of the hog.

Some farmers wean their pigs at from six to 10 weeks old. But we prefer to let the mother wean them which she does in good time. We use a good grade sow and a thoroughbred male. My husband has taken your valuable paper for eight years and we have been benefited by it much.—Mrs. E. A. N. in Indiana Farmer.

Farm Notes.

Apple trees will not flourish near a black walnut.

Now, let's not get into a fright lest our neighbor gets ahead of us in the spring work; he may be in too big a hurry and yet will get left.

Grinding grain and mixing it with cut hay is of benefit, since the animals spend more time in chewing the food and reducing it to a more favorable form for digestion.

A hedge fence of osage orange that is open at the bottom can sometimes be made "hog tight" by cutting a few of the lower branches half through and bending them down into the gaps.

Three things to keep well oiled—the wheelbarrow, the clock wheels and the grindstone. Three things to keep always ready for instant use—the ax, the gun and the lantern.—Dash.

Let us make up our minds that come what may, we will remember how much better off we are than many other folks. This is a first rate salve for all bruises that ever will come to us.

There have been several thousands of patents issued on churns, and "the best" churn is yet open for invention, though there are good churns made. The work of producing good butter does not depend wholly on the churn. The proper temperature for churning, the ripening of the cream, and the mode of handling the churn when the work is being performed, are matters which affect the quality of the butter.

South American Catacombs.

The cemeteries prevalent throughout South and Central America consist of a wall eight to ten feet thick, honeycombed with niches for the reception of coffins, and surrounding a plot of land which is never used for burial purposes and is usually in a neglected condition. The cemetery is run by the municipal authorities and the niches are rented. The payment required upon the sealing of one of these holes in the wall insure an undisturbed resting place from that time, according to the particular custom of the locality, then an annual rental must be paid for a period of twenty-five years, at the end of which time the tenant gets a title in perpetuity. But how few ever find a last resting place in one of these niches is shown by the fact that, despite the tremendous increase in population since it was built two or three centuries ago, the cemetery at Havana has never been enlarged, and there are always plenty of vacancies. Upon default of payment of the rental, the bones are raked out of the niche and it is ready for the next occupant. The bones are placed in one corner of the cemetery, and there, at least, they lie undisturbed through the passing years as the pile constantly grows larger.

Pedicuring an Elephant.

The tools for trimming elephant's feet are a carpenter's drawknife and a rasp for the soles and a horseshoer's knife and sandpaper for the toe nails. The operator places a beer keg or a strong box behind one huge hind foot, lightly prods the thick ankle with his elephant hook and commands the beast to "Hold up!" Up comes the mighty foot, slowly and heavily, but obediently as the velvety paw of a kitten. The fot is rested on the box or the keg, where it remains while the expert works on it much as a horseshoer pares the hoof of a horse. Great slivers of the horny sole are sliced off until it is cut nearly to proper thickness, when the rasp is used to smooth off. Similarly the toe nails are treated with the knife and the sandpaper, while the big patient stands with swinging trunk and an occasional wag of an ear, too full of satisfaction for utterance. When the turn of the forefoot comes, the great beast is made to lie down on its side and the hoofs are propped up and treated.—McClure's.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., JUNE 16, 1904. VOL. 29.--NO. 42

EUROPE NOW PICKS JAPAN

Faith of the Continent in Russia's Supremacy Shaken.

PEACE FEELING IN THE AIR

The Success of the Japanese Arms Was No Surprise to England, However—Possibility That the Czar May Abdicate—Rumors of Russian Uprisings—Internal Troubles of the Empire.

London, Eng.—Japan's unbroken and overwhelming success is producing some curious effects on European opinion. Continental sympathies have been largely pro-Russian and were coupled until very recently with the conviction that the war would soon demonstrate the military superiority of Russian arms.

It was especially feared in financial circles that such a disillusionment as was afforded by the storming of the heights of Nanshan would demoralize France and cause a serious collapse on the bourses. The real effect has been curiously different. The completeness of the Russian disaster seems to have created the impression that peace is not far off.

Europe has apparently suddenly jumped to the conclusion that Russia, rather than carry on a useless war, will sue for terms. The reversal of opinion throughout the Continent seems almost universal among ordinary observers.

Nor is much sympathy wasted upon Russia. Her prestige has well nigh vanished and with it has gone that mingled awe and respect which constituted her greatness in European eyes.

English and American opinion was prepared for Japan's sudden leap into equality with any master of arms known to the modern world. To Europe the revelation has come as an utter surprise. It is strange that this momentous event is accepted almost without resentment and without apprehension, despite Russia's studied attempts in anticipation to arouse fear of Yellow Peril among Western nations. Admiral Togo's earlier naval successes caused more serious disturbance than this decisive display of his countrymen's supremacy in the art of war.

Nowhere outside of Russia is credit for this marvelous achievement at Kinchau stinted or questioned. It is even conceded by most military authorities that the Japanese succeeded where the best European troops would have flinched and failed.

When it comes to a question of early peace diplomatic opinion is not in accord with that of general observers. It is expected that General Kouropatkin will be crushed, or, at best, driven in demoralized retreat to Harbin.

Diplomatists are convinced, however, that Russia cannot under those circumstances seek peace. It is argued that the only means by which such a result could be reached would be by arbitrary act of the Czar, and such a move would probably be followed by his abdication, voluntary or coerced.

Evidence accumulates of a grave revolutionary spirit throughout Russia. The war has not served to pacify or unite the country, and a national disaster does not arouse patriotism, although for that matter the masses are quite ignorant of the extent of the humiliation of Russian arms.

It is impossible, however, to perceive any chance of success of violent uprisings. All the troops sent to the front continue to be from reservists whose time has expired and who have been recalled to the colors. The regular troops are retained in European Russia for use in any revolutionary movement. They are so distributed that nowhere is there any personal sympathy between the rank and file and the population of the district where they are stationed. An unarmed populace, no matter how desperately rebellious, is utterly helpless in such circumstances.

Nevertheless wholesale secret condemnations, executions and disappearances continue until there is a veritable reign of terror in many districts.

SOUTHERN VETERAN HANGED.

8000 Petitions in Behalf of Aged Murderer of No Avail.

Paragould, Ark.—Mart V. Vowell, an aged white man and a Confederate veteran, was hanged here for the murder of W. F. Lovejoy. The town was filled with people from adjoining towns and counties.

In May Governor Davis considered a petition signed by 1200 residents of Clay and Greene counties, asking a commutation of the sentence, and at the same time another petition was received bearing 1500 signatures.

The Governor steadily refused to interfere, though numerous delegations waited on him. It is said that 342 messages were received in one day from Confederate camps, requesting Governor Davis to commute the sentence.

Cowboys' Long Ride.

Stockmen in New Mexico have offered a purse of $1500 for a race of cowboys from Albequerque to the World's Fair at St. Louis. F. H. Leyland, a veteran cavalryman, and William Closson, cowboy, are arranging details of the ride. It has been decided to have relays at short distances to obviate the charge of cruelty to animals. The distance is 1180 miles.

KNOX SUCCESSOR TO QUAY

The Attorney-General is Appointed Senator From Pennsylvania.

Governor Pennypacker Announced That He Will Not Call the Legislature in Extra Session.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Governor Pennypacker appointed Attorney-General Philander C. Knox a Senator of the United States from Pennsylvania to succeed the late M. S. Quay. Governor Pennypacker announced that he will not call the Legislature in extra session. This means that the appointment of Mr. Knox is for the unexpired term, ending March 4, 1905.

Philadelphia. — Attorney-General Knox, who was selected by the Republican State leaders to succeed M. S. Quay in the United States Senate, in an interview said:

"My retirement from the Cabinet will in no way affect the policy of the administration. Mr. Roosevelt will experience no difficulty in selecting a man who will continue to represent the principles he stands for and carry out the national policy as set down by him.

"I cannot conceive how my retirement as Attorney-General will affect the presidential campaign. I have no fear that the action of the leaders of the Republican party of Pennsylvania in deciding to present my name for the Senatorship will be made a campaign issue. One individual cannot injure the chances of President Roosevelt.

"I did not give the slightest thought to the Senatorship until I was asked if I would agree to accept it if it were tendered to me. I replied that if my name was viewed with favor by the party throughout the State I would consider it a high honor to succeed Senator Quay."

Asked if he would immediately resign his Cabinet position, Mr. Knox said:

"I have no reason to as yet. My actions will be guided by after developments."

MRS. ELIAS SET FREE.

Negress Discharged After Aged Accuser Fails to Substantiate Charges.

New York City.—As a surprising climax to a series of incidents full of surprises that had taken place since the name of Hannah Elias first was mentioned in connection with the murder of Andrew H. Green, came the discharge of the negress on the charge of having extorted almost $700,000 from John R. Platt. She left the court-room of Magistrate Ommen, sitting in Special Sessions, a free woman, the prosecution having been dropped on request of Acting District Attorney Rand. After examining the old complainant and Lyman E. Warren, his lawyer, Mr. Rand said the prosecution had no evidence on which to sustain the charge of extortion.

The spectacle presented on the witness stand by the venerable John R. Platt, wealthy merchant, former Union soldier and one-time president of the Volunteer Firemen of this city, was one of the most pitiable ever witnessed in a courtroom. Infirm, his mind almost a blank, his figure bent, his head drooping listlessly, he was forced to tell of his relations with the Elias woman.

As step by step, his life was unfolded by the questions of the prosecuting attorney, a flash of intelligence would light up his face now and then, and his answer would be coherent. But most of the time his mind was a blank, and all the prodding of his questioner could not rekindle the dying embers of his failing memory.

After her release the Elias woman was served with the order of arrest in the civil suit brought by Mr. Platt to recover the money she has got out of him. She immediately gave $20,000 bail and was released. She went to her handsome house in Central Park West, a mob chasing her carriage for blocks.

UNION MINERS DEPORTED.

Cost of Strikes in Colorado is Estimated at $23,036,000.

Colorado Springs, Col.—Acting under the orders of Adjutant-General Sherman Bell, of the State National Guard, a special train was made up in the Short Line yards at Victor for the deportation of seventy-five union miners. They were marched to the train between heavy lines of military and deputies. Fully 1000 persons had collected to see the men placed on board. Among the spectators were wives and sisters, fathers and mothers of the deported men, and the scenes were affecting. Mothers, sisters and sweethearts cried good-bye and tried to push through the lines for a parting handshake.

No attempt was made to unload the men here, arrangements having previously been made to send them to the Kansas State line over the Santa Fe Railroad because of protests made against taking them to Pueblo or Denver and leaving them there.

The train stopped long enough at this place to give the soldiers time to eat. The deported men had rations of beans and bread on board.

Sixty men confined in the Cripple Creek bull-pen were taken to the county jail, and charges of murder were placed against them.

The cost of the various strikes in Colorado during the last sixteen months is estimated at $23,036,000. Of this amount the State had to pay $636,000 for maintaining troops in the field.

BATTLE WITH UNION MINERS

Troop Under General Bell Ambushed Near Victor, Col.

ONE STRIKER KILLED, 14 TAKEN

Adjutant-General, in Command Under Martial Law, Takes 150 Men to Dunnville—Miners There Had Planned to Descend on Victor—Twenty Minutes of Uphill Fighting Scatters the Miners.

Victor, Col.—Militiamen and deputies fought a pitched battle with union miners at Dunnville, about sixteen miles from Cripple Creek. One miner, John Carley, was killed, and fourteen were captured. Several who escaped arrest were wounded.

The party, numbering in all about 150 men, left in a special train, intending, if possible, to take into custody all the miners who had retreated to the hills about Dunnville. Reports had reached Adjutant-General Sherman Bell, who is here to enforce martial law, that these men intended to come to Victor and endeavor to release the 150 prisoners in the armory.

The train carried them within a few miles of the place where the miners were encamped, arriving about 3 o'clock. The trail leading to the camp passes through a deep canon, and just as the soldiers were entering this the shooting commenced.

The strikers were stationed at the top of the walls on either side of the canon and shot down at the soldiers. The range was awkward, and it is probably due to this fact that there were no casualties at the time. The soldiers fired a few shots in return, but seeing the disadvantage of their position quickly retreated.

Once out of range they separated into two squads. Advancing, they succeeded, after a hard climb, in reaching the top of the walls of the canon.

The strikers slowly retreated, dodging behind rocks and trees and keeping up a running fire. The soldiers pursued the same tactics, although they were at a disadvantage, as the climb was long and steep. Once at the top, however, they pressed the strikers hard.

They shot to kill, and the first one to fall was John Carley, who was shot through the heart with a Krag-Jorgensen bullet. Carley, in the retreat, was running from his hiding place behind a rock to the shelter of a tree some distance away when he was killed.

Carley's death seemed to demoralize the strikers and they ran in every direction. The soldiers gave chase and succeeded in capturing fourteen.

General Bell estimates that fully thirty-five men were in the ambushing party. Of this number fourteen were captured.

The soldiers and deputies captured three guns, the rest being carried away by those of the party in ambush who escaped in the hills. The troops searched the vicinity for two hours, but could find no more men.

The train with General Bell's party, the prisoners and Carley's body returned to Cripple Creek shortly before 7 o'clock p. m.

A second battle took place early the same evening at Big Bull Hill, two miles east of Victor.

Seven soldiers went out on horseback to arrest union miners and found them intrenched. The men refused to surrender and the soldiers opened fire, more than 200 shots being exchanged. The smoke from the guns could be seen from Victor through powerful glasses.

The miners opened fire on the soldiers as soon as they saw them coming up the hill. No one was wounded. Seven men were captured by the guards and taken to Cripple Creek.

U. S. MARINES IN MOROCCO.

First Show of American Force in Africa Since Decatur's Time.

Washington, D. C.—United States marines were landed at Tangier.

It was the first display of American force in Africa since Stephen Decatur, just 100 years ago, whipped the Barbary pirates into submission.

Admiral Chadwick cabled to the Navy Department:

"I have placed a guard at the Belgian Legation, having been asked to do so by our Consul-General here."

It is presumed here that the Belgian Legation is on the outskirts of the city and exposed to native raids.

CAPTAIN WILDE A SUICIDE.

Army Officer in California Puts a Bullet Through Heart.

San Francisco.—Captain Frederick S. Wilde, U. S. A., committed suicide at Angel Island by shooting himself through the heart. A telephone message was received from the island, but it gave no details.

Wilde left several farewell messages, one addressed to the wife of Captain John Madden. Mrs. Madden recently came into prominence through the court-martialling of Lieutenant Robichon for his alleged conduct toward her.

Mormon Bishop Killed.

J. B. Ashcroft, of Fruitland, N. M., a Bishop of the Mormon Church, was accidentally killed while blasting rock in the construction of an irrigating ditch for the Navajo Indians near Fruitland. He was knocked from a cliff by a falling rock, death resulting instantly.

Father and Five Children Drown.

Alfred Lee and his five children, of Muskogee, Indian Territory, were drowned while trying to cross a small stream near the Arkansas River. Lee and the children were in a wagon which was turned over in fifteen feet of water.

Cut in Wages Postponed.

Cotton goods manufacturers in Fall River, Mass., decided to postpone indefinitely the proposed cut of ten per cent in the wages of employes.

HANNAH ELIAS ARRESTED

Woman Who Wheedled $685,000 Out of Aged New Yorker Jailed.

With Axes and Crowbars the Doors of Her Mansion in Fashionable District Are Smashed in by Police.

New York City.—The arrest of Hannah Elias, the negro adventuress, in a criminal proceeding, which has been talked of ever since the aged John R. Platt brought suit to recover $685,000 that he says she obtained from him by blackmail, was finally decided upon and effected about midnight. Her lawyer, who had waited at the house at 236 Central Park West until 10.30 o'clock, had been gone about half an hour when the battering down of her front door began. Before the door yielded she had time to dress herself, but she hadn't done it, and she kept the detectives waiting for a long time before she was finally put into a cab and driven to Police Headquarters.

Four detectives and two policemen battered at the heavy oak vestibule door for almost half an hour before it yielded. It then took but a few minutes to force the inner door, the upper half of which was glass. Pushing inside the police lighted the gas on the first floor, but found no one there. A baby's cries could be heard from an upper floor.

Dashing up the stairs the detectives found Mrs. Elias, not much excited. She bade them wait until she had dressed herself suitably for a night in a Police Headquarters cell, and the police waited. A servant said that the baby whose cries had been heard was the child of Mrs. Elias.

The midnight storming of the octoroon's castle followed a long conference held at the house of John R. Platt, at 1 East Fifty-fourth street. Assistant District Attorney Lord, Magistrate Ommen, Mr. Platt and his lawyer, Lyman E. Warren, were concerned in this conference. An attempt was previously made to get Platt to swear to a warrant charging the negress with extortion, but he halted.

District Attorney Jerome declared that unless Platt swore to a complaint upon which a warrant could be based he would make public all his information regarding the case, and also what he had heard of an attempt to effect a settlement at half price or some other discount.

At 8.50 o'clock p. m. Assistant District Attorney Lord and Magistrate Ommen met Lawyer Warren at the Plaza Hotel and the three went to Platt's house. The octogenarian was in bed asleep, but he was awakened. A complaint had been drawn up setting forth the allegations in the case. All that was lacking was Platt's signature.

It was 10.10 o'clock p. m. before Platt finally agreed to swear to the complaint and then not without much persuasion.

MILES M'DONNELL KILLED.

Man Who Killed Price in New York City Shot by R. E. Preusser.

Albany, N. Y.—Richard E. P. Preusser, of the bucketshop firm of Preusser & Co., shot Miles McDonnell dead at 1 o'clock a. m. in his room in the Hotel Ten Eyck. They had been together all day drinking. McDonnell was from Boston. Originally he was from New York City, where a few years ago he shot George Price, a fellow gambler, to death.

Preusser was taken to the Second precinct station house and was locked up. He refused to discuss the matter afterward.

The shooting of McDonnell occurred in his room after he and Preusser had a quarrel in the grill room of the hotel. After the quarrel Preusser went to his broker's office and procured the pistol with which the crime was committed.

He then went back to the Hotel Ten Eyck, and with the pistol in his hand asked for the number of McDonnell's room. Shortly afterward the clerk heard a pistol shot and it was found that Preusser had gone to McDonnell's room.

R. E. BOWDON, Secretary. Chairman Pro Tem.

A great hue and cry has been raised by the populist leaders that they wanted a joint discussion. The Democrats called the bluff, and from recent developments it appears the populist leaders are not so eager for a joint discussion as they would have the people believe.

The Sentinel charges that the populist administration has knowingly and willfully levied illegal taxes upon the people of Shelby county, and has collected these illegal levies. It made these illegal levies in one, two, three order, and that, too, after the court had declared them illegal. Gee whiz!

The Alabama Press Association will leave Bessemer on the morning of July 1st for a trip to St. Louis—the annual outing of the association. Through the efforts of a special committee, of which Jacob Pepperman, of Montgomery, is chairman, a rate of $5.00 has been secured for bona fide members of the association.

The courts said the road tax levied by the populist administration was unlawful, therefore the railroads did not pay it, but the populist administration made the poor man pay it, and did it, too, after the courts said the levy was an unlawful one. That is the populist leaders conception of justice and equity. "Special privileges to the few, but crack to the many"

Beginning with the year 1900, the railroads have refused to pay the special taxes levied by the populist administration: the road and the bridge tax. The courts have said the railroads were justified in their refusal to pay the illegal tax, and thus the burdens on the common people of the county have been doubled by the action of the present administration.

The Advocate says that Democratic administrations in Shelby county paid a county officer $25 more every year than the law allowed, and that the practice was not stopped until the present administration came into power. The Advocate knew at the time it made the statement that its utterance was absolutely false. But deception seems to be its stock in trade in this campaign.

Nashville belongs to the old Confederate soldiers, and the people of that city are giving the visitors a big time at their annual re-union. But a few more years and all the old Confederate veterans will have answered roll call for the last time, and in their declining years it is only mete that every comfort and honored attention should be shown them. Many of them who are attending the re-union this year will never live to attend another. May their week at Nashville be one only of pleasure and profit to them

PREJUDICE ITS ONLY ARGUMENT.

The Sentinel has had a great deal to say about the Advocate trying to prejudice the people. Is the reference to carpet baggers and reconstructionist by the Sentinel not intended to prejudice the people? Is not that a stinch in the nostrels of every law abiding citizen? If The Sentinel is sincere in writing such stuff as this, then the insult grows into the most torpid and malignant form. What manner of man is he who will thrust such an insult into the faces of citizens who were reared in our midst and whose fathers fought bled and died in defense of their country, and in rebellion to such principles as carpet baggism and reconstruction. Take the citizens of Shelby county and test them and take the author of the insulting paragraph and compare their records along this line. By what authority does the Sentinel charge the Populist of being carpet baggers and reconstructionist. Does it come from the pen of a man whose lot has ever been cast among the citizens of this great Southland of ours. The soul of every true citizen burns with feeling of regret that such words are even conceived in the bosom of any of our citizens, to say nothing of their production and publication Shame on the party whose mouth piece has no more regard and such utter disrespect for its fellow man than to thrust such insults as this. Let the day soon come, and yea, we believe it at hand when the enlightened public places its seal of condemnation upon such rot.—Advocate.

The above load of billingsgate is a fair specimen of the argument used by the triumvirate who fill the columns of the Advocate week after week. Through prejudice alone they hope to pull into line men who permit, often, their passions to guide them, instead of the judgment deduced from sober thought. First this triumvirate would try to prejudice the people of the county against each other; array friend against friend, neighbor against neighbor; cause dissension and strife among those who have grown from boyhood to manhood in the same neighborhood, and have brought about strained relations and bitter feelings between those who have heretofore lived in peace and harmony. Through the Advocate they have called some of the most prominent and reputable citizens of Shelby county ballot-box stuffers, thieves, rascals—men who would rob the people, deprive them of their rights and liberties, in fact, do anything but that which is just, honest and right. That their most used weapon, and the one in which they put the most reliance is prejudice The Sentinel will prove from the columns of the Advocate. In its issue of March 31st, may be found the following:

"One of the strangest things in the world is to see a Democrat who helped cheat the populist out of their offices, going around almost loving them to death now. Its enough to make the Gods laugh."

In another place in the same issue you will find the following defamation of the Book of Books:

"Read the prayer of Esaw In this issue and go to the primary on April 9th and vote against men who will practice fraud in elections or elsewhere."

"Esaw" is good, and the writer is evidently a close reader of the Good Book. Here is still another specimen of its argument:

"There are many Democrats in Columbiana today who says the men in the populist party are not fit to sit down to the table to eat with, and still some of these very same Democrats who say that, will love the populist people nearly to death when they come to town to get them to vote for them. Populist, how does that strike you?"

In another issue the diatribe still goes on in the following:

"Populist should remember that the Democratic candidates who are pleading for their support are the very same men who only a few years ago ignored you as citizens almost and would stoop to the most foul means to defeat the will of the people."

And the following in another issue is along the same line:

"Some of the Democratic candidates are loving the dear people to death now, but after the election they won't even speak to you on the streets."

In another issue it advances like argument in the following:

"The voters of Shelby county know that if the Democrats ever get into office again in this county that they will disfranchise them from jury duty, and still make them pay their tax and tell them to stay at home and work, that they dont need them to help run the courts, that is the history of the Democratic party in Shelby county."

And from the material of prejudice is drawn the following:

"The Democratic party of Shelby county has a load of fraud and corruption to carry that will defeat every candidate on their ticket. The honest voters of Shelby county will not endorse a party with such a record."

In the above every man who votes the Democratic ticket is called a dishonest voter.

And here is another extract that is extremely virulent, and the writer evidently went the limit:

"The populist are called scallawags, rosum chewers and hillbillies. They are not regarded as the best people, says The Sentinel."

And the editor of The Sentinel says that the man who penned the above in reference to The Sentinel tells an absolute falsehood.

There is no defense of the present maladministration of the county's affairs, but each issue of the populist organ is given over to frantic appeals to the prejudices and passions of men.

There is no defense of the action of the Commissioners' Court in levying an illegal tax upon the people time and again and collecting it.

No defense comes from the populist administration as to why the tax rate in this county should be 70 cents on the hundred, when other counties of equal taxable values are as low as 40 cents on the hundred.

No defense comes from the populist administration as to why the people of Shelby county have been taxed for bridges which have never been built.

No explanation comes from the populist administration as to why the people of Shelby county should be taxed time and again for bridges which have never been contracted for

No defense comes from the populist leaders why the people should be illegally taxed time and again and made to pay the unlawful tax, and the railroads refuse to pay and are protected by the courts in their refusal

No defense is made or explanation given as to why any of the above wrongs have been perpetrated upon the people of Shelby county, but instead, week after week the populist organ reeks with its prejudicial expressions with the intent of creating strife and contention, and the hope of its bosses again riding into office upon the wreckage of good fellowship that would exist in this county but for the appeals to passion and prejudice.

In another issue of the Advocate will be found the following, which is intended to array the people, some of them, against The Sentinel, and the Democratic ticket, and we are glad that the expression was made as it gives us an opportunity to say a few things to the old soldiers of Shelby county. The Advocate says:

"Two thirds of the old Confederate soldiers are populist, and we imagine that they will see that The Sentinel and its candidates get a black eye at the November election. The man or newspaper that tries to put these men alongside of the carpet-baggers and reconstructionist will receive the stamp of their disapproval."

The Sentinel has never yet called any man either a carpet bagger or a reconstructionist, but it has said, and repeats, that prejudice was what put the yoke of reconstruction upon the people of the South, and that the populist leaders of Shelby county are using their utmost endeavors to prejudice the people of this county one against the other, and for no other reason than that they may reap personal benefit. If they can succeed in prejudicing the minds of the people, they hope to ride into office upon the wreckage left in their pathway.

The Sentinel has never offered an insult to any Confederate soldier, either by thought, inference or assertion, as the Advocate says. But the old soldiers of this county have been flagrantly insulted by one who is using every means in his power to have the hyphenated ticket elected; is asking the old Confederate soldiers of this county to support its nominees, and yet the greatest insult that could be offered to a Confederate soldier was offered by this man when he said within the past few weeks, that "Jeff Davis ought to have been hung." And this man, too, is one of the few who is helping to shape the course of the populist-Republican ticket in Shelby county. He is a leader among the Republicans of this county, and is one of the advisory board of the Populist-Republican party. He is a representative of the party who placed upon the people of the South the reconstruction period; gave to the Southern States negro domination, and threw around the home of every man a menace to himself and the purity of his family. That is the kind of influence that is being brought to bear—an influence, which, if successful, will be an endorsement of Republican principles and doctrine. The Sentinel believes the old Confederate soldiers of Shelby county will resent the imputation and insult offered the dead leader of the Southern Confederacy. Respect for the dead, if nothing else, should prevent the expression of such utterances. It comes with a mighty poor grace for the Advocate to say The Sentinel has offered an insult to the Confederate soldiers of this county, and to place before the people a distortion of words and meaning of a competitor, building a false construction that only the elastic consciences of its triumvirate of editorial writers could conceive.

Prejudice, deception and illegal tax levies are the principal planks in the platform of the populist leaders, and their record in the administration of county affairs substantiate it. What a platform to ask the people of any county to endorse!

The poor man with a little home—and in many instances he is a common laborer—is held up by the Commissioners' Court for illegally levied taxes, and made to pay them. The railroads escape this tax because they are able to carry it to the courts and get justice. The farmer, the merchant, the miner, the doctor, the day laborer is compelled to pay this illegal tax because he is not able to carry it into the courts. The Circuit Court of Shelby county has held the tax levy was illegal and unlawful, and yet in the face of this decision the Commissioners' Court crack it to the people. On top of this great injustice the taxpayers must foot a big bill of costs contracted in the suit with the railroads. And the populist administration is proud of its record. Shades of the departed!

J. Tom Heflin, recently nominated to succeed the late lamented Chas. W. Thompson in congress from the Fifth District, was hissed down in the Democratic State Convention when he offered an insult to that grand old man Major W. W. Screws. The latter was battling for the cause of Democracy when Heflin was in his swaddling clothes, and the hissing the Fifth District representative got was deserved. We venture the assertion had the episode occurred before the primary Heflin would have gone down into oblivion. Respect for the old white-haired patriarch, if nothing else, should have prevented Heflin from making an ass of himself.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

The Montgomery Advertiser's correspondent from Opelika says:

"The Commissioners' Court has reduced the rate of county taxation in Lee county from 50 cents on the $100 to 40 cents on the $100. The total taxable valuation of property in Lee in 1903 was $4,872,592. The action of the Commissioners' Court will result in saving the taxpayers in Lee county about $2500 annually. Lee is is in a good condition financially.

What a difference between Lee and Shelby counties. There the taxes have been reduced, thus relieving the taxpayers of Lee county to the extent of $2,500 each year, while in Shelby the tax rate has been above the limit, and the county in debt, and it seems with the numerous illegal tax levies placed upon our people by the populist administration the county cannot get of debt. With about the same taxable valuation in Lee as in Shelby, possible a little more in Lee, the tax rate for county purposes has been reduced to 40 cents on the $100. This is the rate that held in this county under Democratic administrations, and the taxable valuation was then much less than it is now.

Under populist administration instead of the tax rate decreasing as the taxable values increase, and which in all justice to the taxpayers should be the case, the tax rate has increased until now it is almost double what it was under Democratic administrations. That is the kind of a business administration Shelby county has at the present time. What do the taxpayers of the county think of it? Is such an administration of the county's affairs any incentive to capital to invest here, when the tax rate increases as property values increase? The Sentinel says no, and we do not believe the voters of Shelby county will endorse at the polls next November any such a record. But the populist leaders are down on their honkers with a please, oh, please, elect us again so that we can continue to draw fat salaries at your expense, and by way of diversion we'll just put another illegal levy or two upon you.

Mrs. Lula Lanham, of Selma, was visiting friends in Montevallo a few days last week.

Misses Millie and Nannie Randall are visiting with relatives in Birmingham for a short time.

Geo. W. Shriner has gone to the World's Fair for a short time, and while away will isit relatives at Cuba, Missouri.

J. W. Bandy and Dr. Lacey left Saturday night for St. Louis to see the sights of the World's Fair for a few days.

Frank T. Corbett, who has been visiting the family of Mrs. Annie Vandegrift for several weeks, will return to Memphis in a few days.

Morgan Bros. Mercantile Co. and C. L. Meroney & Co. have recently put in cash registers—both machines being of the very best make.

No one is allowed to loaf upon our streets now after 8:30 at night, and if they do the town marshal has instructions to arrest the guilty parties.

Mrs. L. H. Lyman and daughter, Miss Hattie, have gone to St. Augustine, Fla., where they will spend a part of the summer with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Latham have returned to Montevallo from Talladega, where Mr. Latham has been prescription clerk for the Hicks Drug Co.

L. N. Nabors, who has been visiting relatives in Birmingham for a short time, has returned home and is again behind the counters at Meroney & Co's.

Dr. J. W. Acker, who has not been in very good health for some time, is improving, and his numerous friends hope that he will soon regain his former good health.

Miss Kate Sampey, a teacher in the Girls' School here, has organized a big music class in Montevallo. Miss Sampey is very popular among our towns people, and we are glad she is to remain with us this summer.

New buildings are being added to the Girls' School here, the campus is being improved and other needed improvements are being made. There is every indication that the coming session will be as large in point of attendance, if not larger, than the one just closed.

Mrs. E. C. Chase, who has been teacher of vocal in the Girls' School here for the past three years, will not teach this year, and has gone to her former home in Chicago. Mrs. Chase, during her residence here, has made many friends among our people, and all regret that she was not retained on the faculty.

Dr. E G Givhan and Miss Lena Peterson will be married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in this city at 6 o'clock, and will leave on the night train for Gulfport, Miss., where they go to visit the doctor's mother for a few weeks. The best wishes of all our people will go with the happy pair. The bride is the second daughter of Dr. F. M. Peterson, president of the Girls' Industrial School.

Masonic Conference.

To the Masons of Shelby County:

The second regular semi-annual meeting of the Shelby County Masonic Conference, A. F. & A. M., will be held in Columbiana beginning Wednesday, June 29th, at 3:30 o'clock, p. m.

All Masons in the county, in good and regular standing in their respective lodges, are not only cordially invited, but earnestly solicited to attend this conference. Every effort is being made by the members of the conference to make its work supply a long felt want in the order. There will be several special features of this meeting of the conference which will readily commend themselves to every Mason. Among which will be the presence of Bro. A. M. Scott, Grand State Lecturer, who will be with us from the beginning to the close of the Conference. He will be engaged the greater part of the time exemplifying the work, and all Masons who have ever witnessed this venerable and distinguished Mason thus engaged, can fully appreciate what this means, and the grand opportunity that will be afforded the Masons of the county to obtain light in the mysteries of our grand order.

All of the lodges in the county have been invited to have present at the Conference, on Thursday, June 30th, as early as 10:30 o'clock, a. m., their officers-elect, in order that they may be jointly installed. The installation will be public, and will be conducted by Grand Lecturer Scott.

One of the most pleasant and profiable features of the occasion will be a Masonic address to be delivered by Governor R. M. Cunningham, Past Grand Master, on Thursday, June 30th, at 2 o'clock. This address will be public, and will be delivered in the court house. Everybody is invited to hear this distinguished Alabamian.

All Masons in attendance at the Conference will be entertained, and the Secretaries of the various lodges are requested to send to me the names of all who will attend in order that homes may be provided.

P. D. LEE, Secretary. D. R. McMILLAN, W. M.

NOTICE

Of Registrars Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of Section 8 of "An Act to further regulate elections in the State of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "The Board of Registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least 20 day's notice of the time when, and the place in the precinct where, they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each precinct, and by advertisement once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county.

Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by law, that the Board of Registrars for the county of Shelby, will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose aforesaid:

LYNCH.

W. J. Weldon, of Weldon, was here last Thursday.

John M. Dye and sister, Miss Ola, were at Columbiana shopping last week.

Rev. G E. Sampley filled his regular appointment at Mt. Era last Sunday.

Miles Jones, of Adamsville, is visiting relatives here.

Frank Harless and family, of Dargin, visited here last Sunday.

Tom Farr, H. C. Farrell and Robert Evans, of Calvary, attended church services here Sunday.

Horace Jonss, of Adamsville, is visiting relatives here. He, it will be remembered, has lost both legs caused by a disease of the bones, and both limbes had to be amputated. He is a pitable object of mercy, having recently lost his father by death, he is now fatherless and motherless. It is the duty of the people to help him.

Married at the residence of the bride's father, G. W. Dye, on Sunday last, Miss Ola Dye to Mr. John E. Roach. Wesley Ozley, J. P., officiating. The attendants were Frank Garrett and Miss Nancy Dye, J. W. Nalsh and Miss Roxie Roach. The bridal party attended church, after which a reception was given at the residence of G. W. Dye. In the evening a reception was held at the residence of the groom's father, J. W. Roach. May their joys be many and their sorrow few is the wish of their many friends. Mr. Roach is noted for his habits of character and industry, while the bride is a lovely girl and an accomplished musician.

Miss Robbie Wallace, of Elton, was the guest of Miss Emma Weldon Sunday.

F. M. Wilkins and E. S. Kytle visited the fair srx in your town Sunday afternoon.

Work on the Christian church is progressing slowly on account of some of the material not being on hand. The frame work is up, and came near being wrecked on Monday of last week by a wind storm.

Rumor says that ere most of your readers get this, one of Columbiana's fair daughters will change her name for that of a popular young man here,

I. G. Gwin left Sunday for Brierfield to serve as relief operator for a short while.

Will somebody tell us what has become of the line fence which the Commissioners were building around the stock law district.

Give us a little more space and we will have our cemetery cleaned off yet. Its present condition would indicate that the attention of our citizens is so much engrossed in earning the allmighty dallar, and that they have no time to time think of anything else, and scarcely a memory of their loved ones sleeping beneath the briars and bushes in the silent city of the dead. It is disgusting to visitors and an eye sore to the town. Lets clear it off.

HONEST JOHN.

T. J. Martin and T. G. Florey spent last Saturday in the growing and booming town of Calcis.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gardner living at Pratt City was buried here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Borum spent Monday out in the country, and are perfectly delighted with what they saw and heard, especially the sweet singing birds.

Our people up here regardless of politics are terribly wrought up over the saying of a Columbiana man that Jeff Davis ought to have been hung, and some have gone so far as to say that it would not be well for this 2x4 politician to talk that way in their presence as he would not find it very pleasant.

Mrs. M. E. Bates, a very estimable lady, died very unexpectly at her home at Creswell last Thursday night and, was buried here Friday evening. Rev. O. P. Bentley conducting the burial service. She leaves several children, grandchildren, friends and acquaintances to mourn her loss. To the bereaved ones we extend our sympathy.

If the people who sleep in our cemetery here could awake one time, rise up and look around they would be astonished about how their people cared for them, and all would ask where is my father, mother, brother, sister and friend, have they all forgotten us, and have they forgotten too that they must some day sleep in this briary, grassy and bushy spot. Gentlemen of Harpersville, Vincent and Creswell and those who are interested, let us meet and clean off this sacred spot and show to our fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers children that we have not forgotten them. We have some tombstones and monuments here to mark our dead, but they can't be seen by the traveling public as they are so badly hidden with bushes and briars which is a disgrace to any civilized people. Now let us set a day to clean off this graveyard, and let everybody come and help, and those that can't come, send some one in your place, and if you can't send some one, send the money to a friend and ask him to get some one in your place. Now, if you can't and won't do nothing suggested for this much needed want please let it be known to the Commissioners court and they will try and find you a boarding place at the County Poor House, presided over by Jim Finley and in the town of Columbiana, provided you are a worthy character and can't help yourself and want the county to help you.

Miss Lillie May Liles, who has been attending school at Ashville, N. C. for the past year, has returned home for the summer vacation.

Miss Maude Bell, of Lineville, Ala., and Mrs. A. E. Bartlett of Talladega, Ala , are in the city visiting their sister Mrs. John J. Haynes.

The editor of The Sentinel was in Birmingham yesterday to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Alabama Press Association, of which he is a member.

☞All 50 cent preparations at 40 cents at J. H. Mason's drugstore.

The third Quarterly Conference of Columbiana circuit will be held at Shelby on next Saturday and Sunday. Rev. L. C. Branscomb, the Presiding Elder, will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Farley entertained a number of young people on Monday night with a flinch party. Delicious refreshments were served, and a delightful time is reported.

Nolan Barnett has erected a grand stand at the ball ground, and now ball games can be the more thoroughly enjoyed by lovers of the game, in that they can get a good seat in the shade for a small sum.

Harry Roberts, who is playing ball with the Twin Decaturs this season, was at home several days last week. The Sentinel makes the prediction that Harry will be a pitcher in the Southern League within the next two years.

Miss Alma Finley, who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Vassar, for a week, returned to her home in Calera last Tuesday. Miss Finley graduated from the Tuscaloosa Female College two weeks ago, and in a few weeks will go to Birmingham to take a post graduate course in a business college.

The large saw mill of C. L. O'Neil the lime manufacturer whose plant is north of Calera, was destroyed by fire last Sunday. A large amount of prepared material for making up barrels was also destroyed. The Sentinel has not learned the origin of the fire, nor Mr. O'Neil's loss.

Mr. Xavier Breneman and Miss Dona Louise Coshatt were married at the home of the bride's parents near Aldrich. on the 12th day of June, 1904, the Rev. W. H. Sturdivant performing the ceremony. The Sentinel joins the many friends of these young people in wishing them a happy and prosperous life.

At a meeting of the town council last Monday it was decided to place a license upon the business men of Columbiana for the purpose of paying the salary of a night watchman. Heretofore the watchman has been paid by private subscription, but not all had subscribed to the fund, therefore the council decided to fix a license for this purpose, and all will help to bear the expense of a night watchman.

☞All Dollar preparations 80 cents at J. H. Mason & Co's drugstore.

J. S. Jackson has recently sent to D. C. Glenn, from Hubbard City Tex., several specimen of boll weevil, the pestiferous little insect that is so damaging to cotton. The wonderful vitality of the insect is shown in the fact that these specimen received by Mr. Glenn had been kept in a bottle for twenty-one days before they were mailed to him, and were alive when placed in the envelop. They were dead, however, when they arrived here. Quite a number of people have called at Mr. Glenn's store to see the insect which has caused cotton growers so much trouble.

While battling with fire near her home Monday morning, "Aunt Mel" Harkins, a worthy old negro woman, was burned so seriously that she lived but a few hours. Her clothing caught fire, and before she could be rescued she was burned from the top of her head to her feet. She was one of the old negroes of ante-bellum days, and was highly regarded because of her goodness of heart. Upon being notified of her death Judge John G. Caldwell, of Birmingham, telegraphed that a nice casket be purchased and that she be buried at his expense, "Aunt Mel" having at one time been his old black mammy.

Benjamin F. Weaver, 28 years old, son of Squire Elias Weaver, living near Wilsonville, died at the home of his uncle, George Weaver, early Monday morning. The day previous he had gone to the home of his uncle for a short visit. After dinner he was taken suddenly ill, and continued to grow worse until Monday morning, when death came. The funeral and interment occured Monday afternoon at the Crawford graveyard, and was largely attended by those who had known the young man in his lifetime. The deceased was an examplary young man, and his death is sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends. He was a brother of G. W. Weaver who is in the employ of the Columbiana Mercantile Co.

A warmly contested game of ball was played in Columbiana last Friday between the first nines of this city and Shelby. Up to the beginning of the fifth inning it looked very much like Columbiana was up against it, but the home team took an extra hitch in its ball clothes and played ball from that to the finish, the result being 8 to 7 in favor of Columbiana. A characteristic of the games of ball between these two teams is the prevailing good humor, and the game of last Friday was no exception to the rule. A large crowd was present from Shelby and Columbiana, and the friends of each team vied with each other in rooting for their favorites. The batteries were Tinney and Albright for the home team, and Webb and Averyt for the visitors. Tom Tinney pitched the game of his life. H. D. Latham umpired the game.

THE KEYSTONE LIME COMPANY'S PLANT

Shelby County Enterprise That Is a Credit to the State of Alabama.

The editor of The Sentinel and his wife visited Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, at Keystone, last Saturday and Sunday, and we never spent a more enjoyable time in a life time.

In 1899, Mr. Bowdon purchased what is known as the Keystone Lime Company, and in the five years that he has been at the head of this great enterprise he has brought it up from the most primitive way of manufacturing lime to the most modern methods. In 1899 the output of the kilns was about 80 barrels a day, and now the output is 600 barrels, and by July 15th, this year, the output will be just double what it is now, or 1,200 barrels per day. From the time Mr. Bowdon purchased the kilns he began making improvements on the plant, realizing as he did the splendid location, the abundance and superiority of the lime rock, the superb and exhaustless supply of water and timber. As he was able, and the demand for the Keystone lime demanded, he added new kilns until to-day he has five kilns in full operation, and by July 15th four more will be finished, built of the finest steel casing and fire brick lining. The kilns are of the continuous burning kind, and the new ones to be opened are equipped with automatic dump thus minimizing the cost and labor to manipulate them.

Among other improvements is the addition of a cooperage plant for the manufacture of barrels which represents an outlay of $5,000, and is the most complete of any plant of the kind in the South. The barrels are built by machinery—beginning with the log and ending with one of the best and prettiest barrels ever put upon the market, and because of the cooperage employed in the packing of the lime it demands a ready sale, and the plant has orders now that it will take months to fill. The barrels are not only substantial but are very attractive in appearance.

There is an inexhaustible supply of the finest limestone to be found anywhere in the South, and that it is almost pure the analysis shows—being 99.65 per cent. The quarry is only about 500 feet from the kilns; the stone is quarried with steam and electric appliances, is loaded upon cars drawn by cable with steam power.

In 1899 when Mr. Bowdon purchased the kilns it required but fifteen employes to operate them; to day there are 155 employes, and the pay roll is between $4000 and $5000 psr month. The company has erected for the use of its employes about eighty little cottages, and all of them are occupied. One church has already been built by the negro employes and another is in course construction. There is also a neat school house. The employes are sober and industrious, drunkenness being a very rare occurrence, and a habit the management will not tolerate among its labor.

Some time ago the plant was capitalized for $55,000 for the purpose of making the improvements necessary to the manufacture of the lime which had so rapidly grown into popular favor, and its entire output is now taken by the Carolina Portland Cement Co., of Charleston, S. C., which is the financial backer of the plant. Other improvements are now being contemplated, and while at the present time the Keystone Lime Company has the reputation of being the finest plant in the South, yet because of the increasing demand for the lime, orders for which the present capacity is incapable of filling, other improvements are to be made.

The great success to which the Keystone Lime Company has attained is due to the personal efforts of R. E. Bowdon, who is superintendent of the works, and in whom the Company has the fullest confidence as to his management, judgment and ability, and upon whom the success of the plant largely depends. Mr. Bowdon is a young man in years, being not yet out of his twenties, and his successful career as a manufacturer of lime is phenominal. But a few years ago he was a clerk in a commissary at a small salary; today he is superintendent of one of the most successful and best known enterprises in all the South. He is unceasing in his efforts to build up the business, is a worker himself, and demands from every employe value received for the wage paid. He is unusually successful in the management of the employes of the plant, and that he is just and fair in his treatment of them is evidenced in the fact that he has never had any friction or trouble with his men. He is an enthusiast in his business, and takes delight in having everything pertaining to the works in first-class order. He has a pride in his success and has a right to be, for it has come to him through hard labor.

The Keystone Lime Company is a credit not only to Shelby county but to the whole South as well, and this great plant owes its success largely to the individual offorts of Mr. Bowdon, its Superintendent. He is a Shelby county boy, and his success is a fair illustration of what pluck, energy and indomitable will to excel will do.

Our visit with him was a most delightful one, and the hospitality dispensed at his home by himself and wife are characteristics of true Southern people. His every effort is ably seconded by his estimable wife, and with such environments success only could come.

A Quiet Wedding.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nelson in this city, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lillian Nelson, to Mr. Floyed Wilkins, of Wilsonville, the Rev. G. F. Harris, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating.

The wedding was a quiet one, only relatives and a few intimate friends being present. The decorations of the parlor in which the ceremony was performed were beautiful indeed, and the scene was a pretty one.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, the young people presented themselves before the man of God and in the presence of that small gathering of witnesses pledged anew their vows, and consecrated their future lives each to the other so long as both shall live. Directly after the ceremony the young couple, whose future has been so beautifully blended in love, drove to Calera, boarding the L & N. train at that place and have gone to Ashville, Ala., for a visit with relatives of the groom.

The bride is one of Columbiana's most lovely girls; sweet in disposition, kind and considerate of the wishes of those with whom she comes in contact she has drawn to her a host of friends. She was costumed in a pretty going away gown of blue voille and carried sweet pea blossoms.

The groom is agent for the Southern Railway at Wilsonville; is a young man of integrity and high character, and he is to be congratulated upon having won so lovely a young woman for a bride. He was attired in the usual conventional black.

The newly wedded pair will make their home in Wilsonville, and The Sentinel blends its best wishes with those of their large circle of friends that their anticipations of wedded life may be realized to fullest extent.

DIED.

On June 9th, at the home of its parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Nelson, their infant child, aged eight months.

This sweet little bud of promise was soon transplanted from its native soil to the garden of Paradise where no noxious weeds will mar its growth; where no sin can contaminate; where it will be reared and nutured by gentle angels in a pure atmosphere of love.

Parents, we know that your hearts are sore over your loss, and we tender you our heartfelt sympathy. Remember, our ways are not God's ways. Here, we see through a glass darkly, but in the light of Eternity, when we see face to face, we will recognize the great beauty of God's plans and purposes. Here below, we can only bow in humble submission and say "Thy will be done."

Of Interest to Teachers.

The Board of Examiners of the State Educational department has ruled that teachers holding unexpired third grade certificates may enclose such certificate in applying for second grade papers, and have it relieve them of taking over the examinations of the third grade. In other words, holders of third grade authority may secure second grade papers by enclosing unexpired third grade certificates and passing successfully the examinations on geography, grammar, arithmetic, Alabama and United States history.

This is a ruling that the board of examiners have had in view for some time and the most liberal that can be made and adhere to the law. It has been the practice and law all along that holders of second grade papers, unexpired, of course, may enclose certificates and be relieved of passing on the studies of the second and third sections. This new arrangement makes it much easier for those who are seeking second grade papers and at the same time does not abate the requirements of the law.

Helping the kidneys is helping the whole body, for it is the kidneys that remove the poisons and waste from the body. Learning this simple lesson has made many sick men and women well.

Judge A. J. Felter, of 318 So. E St., San Bernardino, Calif., says: "For 18 years my kidneys were not performing their functions properly. There was some backache, and the kidney secretions were profuse, containing also considerable sediment. Finally the doctors said I had diabetes. Doan's Kidney Pills wrought a great change in my condition, and now I sleep and feel well again."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Judge Felter will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price 50 cents per box.

A French scientist has made some observations as to the behavior of different wild animals at sea, says the Westminster Gazette. The polar bear, he says, is the only one that takes to the sea, and is quite jolly when aboard ship. All others resent a trip on water and vociferously give vent to their feelings until sea-sickness brings silence. The tiger suffers most of all. He whines, his eyes water continually and he rubs his stomach with his paws. Horses are very bad sailors and often perish on a sea voyage. Oxen are heroic in their attempts not to give way to sickness. Elephants do not like the sea, but they are amenable to medical treatment.

The engineers who have studied the effects of fire in tall buildings in Baltimore seem to agree that iron and steel should not be intermingled in the frame of a building. Cast iron after heating and cooling shows a permanent expansion, while under similar conditions steel will return to its original dimensions. Baltimore's steel skeleton buildings resisted the fire, while cast iron buildings lay in shattered ruins. One towering steel building, although gutted from top to bottom, was found to be plumb and the skeleton in such perfect condition that the building could be refinished and occupied again.

The czar has given a commission in the Daghestan cavalry to Prince Napoleon Murat, great grandson of Napoleon's marshal, the stable boy whom Napoleon made king of Naples. He resigned, to accept this place, a lieutenancy in the Ninth Cuirassiers of the French army, in which service he won great honor in Madagascar. His grandmother was Caroline Fraser, of Philadelphia, who was governess in the family of Joseph Bonaparte when he lived in Bordentown, N. J., and afterwards married Lucien Murat. His mother, the wife of Achille Murat, was a Mingrelian princess.

A scientist has discovered that electricity may be substituted for sleep. Instead of throwing away seven or eight hours in bed every night all that a person need to do is to take a heavy charge of electricity, which is administered to the brain by a special apparatus. He has a blinding sensation, followed by numbness, but this soon passes away and he emerges fresh as if just awaked from deep and uninterrupted slumber.

At Huntsville a warrant charging forgery has been sworn out against Lena Johnson, alias Nellie Smith, a young woman of attractive appearance, who claims to be from Knoxville. The woman tried to borrow a sum of money from a bank on a forged note. She has disappeared since, leaving no trace behind her.

The population of Berlin verges on 2,000,000; that of Paris is about 2,750,000.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did." — MISS GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association. — $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all.

VETERANS' REUNION

The Fourteenth Annual Meeting Opened Tuesday in the City of Rocks.

OLD SOLDIERS IN NASHVILLE.

Abbey Fund Reaches $206,000—The South in History—Movement for Library.

Old veterans, delegates and visitors throng Nashville. Special trains arrived every hour until Monday midnight from every direction.

There are delegations present from Missouri and as far north as Montana. The Pat Clebourne division of the Texas veterans, with headquarters at Waco, arrived, but the five other Texas special trains are less fortunate, they having been delayed by a washout near Pine Bluff.

The battle abbey committee met. The report of the committee shows that the treasurer has in his hands nearly $106,000 in cash. In addition thereto there is the gift of the city of Richmond, $50,000; subscriptions collectable, $10,000; balance due from Charles B. Rouss, $40,000. This latter amount is payable at any time. This makes the total money available for the erection of the abbey $206,000 The committee is trying to raise $300,000, but the work can begin any time now with the money in hand. The exact date for the inauguration of the work, however, has not been decided.

The committee states that more funds will be raised as soon as possible to establish a complete library of American and especially southern history which will become a part of the abbey. Numerous portraits and statues of southern soldiers which have been presented from time to time by southern women will find a resting place in the abbey.

The historical committee, of which General Clement A. Evans, of Georgia, is chairman, will submit a report setting forth the congratulations of the committee to the south on the reforms made in the histories in which the south is now much more fairly treated by authors than formerly. This committee will also report on the battle flag matter, which has agitated the veterans for several years. The committee is of the opinion that the battle flag is square with cross lines from corner to corner. The contention of many has been that the flag was oblong instead of square.

General Lee, commander in chief, received a letter from General Joseph Wheeler expressing his regrets at not being able to attend the Nashville reunion. General Wheeler said he had hoped to lend his voice in an effort to urge special exertions by the veterans in hunting up war rosters and records to be printed as permanent archives.

For the first time since its organization, the Sons of Veterans will meet with the veterans. The sons will have all the privileges of the floor and a voice in the proceedings. The veterans hope by this close relation to perpetuate their organization and put the sons in a position to acquire the proper spirit.

The movement for a permanent meeting place has its friends as well as opponents, and it is not thought that the matter will crystalize into action at this year's reunion.

Can Not Attend.

Among those who will not attend the confederate veterans' reunion is General John H. Reagan, of Texas, former postmaster general of the confederacy. In a letter to General Lee, General Reagan says:

"I have to express my sincere regret that I shall be unable to attend the reunion once more to extend greetings and congratulations with the brave and patriotic old confederate veterans. God bless them and you. One of the reasons why I can not attend is that I am preparing the manuscript of a book, one of the purposes of which is to demonstrate by conclusive proof that the war between the states was forced on the south by the revolutionary and unconstitutional policy of the republican party, and that our people were not rebels and traitors, but patriots defending their rights, and only demanding obedience to the constitution and laws for the protection of their rights."

While stooping over a spring to get a cup of water in Mount Calvary cemetery Sergeant Andrew N. Davis, of the police, accidentally dropped his revolver. The weapon was discharged, the bullet entering Davis' breast and killing him instantly. His eleven-year-old daughter was by the officer's side at the time, and his aged mother was but a short distance away.

In Georgia.

The following named projected businesses will soon be in operation:

Atlanta—$25,000 medicine factory.

Carrollton—$45,000 water works, electric light plant and sewerage system.

Cordele—$6,000 cotton gin.

Savannah—$25,000 cooperage plant; fertilizer factory.

Mississippi reports the following new enterprises:

Askew—$10,000 lumber company.

Booneville—Electric light plant; telephone system.

Darling—$250,000 land company.

Greenville—$20,000 stone works.

Hattiesburg—$25,000 cracker factory.

Jackson—Spoke factory; barrel factory; $250,000 fertilizer factory.

Mendenhall—$25,000 gin and manufacturing company.

Tupelo—$150,000 fertilizer factory.

DAMAGE OF PLANT ENEMIES

During 1903 Was Considerable—Department of Agriculture Report.

The destruction wrought on crops by the countless plant enemies throughout the country is revealed by the report issued by the department of agriculture on "plant disease in 1903."

It shows that the coffee leaf blight has accidentally been introduced in Porto Rico and measures are being taken to stamp it out. The tomato blight has practically ruined the tomato crop of Porto Rico. A potato rot has caused the loss of nearly the entire potato crop.

The cotton root rot in Texas prevailed to a greater extent than for many years, the loss being estimated at about $2,000,000.

Anthranaose has been generally prevalent from North Carolina to Georgia and locally injurious, especially to sea island cotton in south Georgia. Wilt seems to spread slowly and now occurs in limited areas in North Carolina and South Carolina, is widely prevalent in south Georgia and southeastern Alabama, in connection with the root rot. Rust occurred as usual on the poorer soils and was unusually severe in Texas.

Lays It to Socialism.

General Bell has given out a statement concerning his action in deporting strikers from Cripple Creek and the cause leading up to the same. He attributed the recent troubles growing out of the miners' strike and the strike itself to the socialistic element in the Western Federation of Miners, who, he says, captured the federation at the Ogden convention two years ago. He declares the federation has made unionism a secondary consideration and that the organization, root and branch, is being made a vehicle for the promotion of socialism. General Bell made the following statement for publication:

"I have indisputable evidence in my possession which will lead to the conviction of a number of union men for the murder of the men who were killed in the Independence depot explosion. We have between thirty-five and forty men in the bull pen who will swing for this crime. We are only waiting to capture two or three more men before we tell what our evidence is. There will be no hesitation in acting."

SHOT GOING HOME FROM CHURCH

Young Man Says He Did It Accidentally, But Escapes.

Miss Anna Jones, of Wichita, Kans., while returning from church services, was shot and killed by some one in the party who was firing a revolver for fun. William Ward immediately after the girl was shot, exclaimed that he had shot her accidentally, but before officers arrived to arrest him he fled and has not yet been apprehended.

Ward is said to have been barely acquainted with the young woman and there seems to have been no motive for intentional shooting. The attempt of Ward to escape arrest is taken by the authorities as the only circumstance pointing to his guilt.

Woman May Hang.

Remarkable efforts are being made to prevent the hanging of Mrs. Alma Valentine, at Hankanset, N. J., next week for murder. The board of pardons already has refused to interfere and before starting for Chicago to attend the republican national convention, Governor Murphy signed the death warrant. Only two women have been executed in the history of New Jersey and opposition to the hanging has developed on that account. Efforts are now being made by her counsel to secure a reprieve from Acting Governor Wakelee so that the case may again be presented to the board of pardons.

Had Plenty of Money.

Unconscious, with $13,800 in cash fastened in a belt around his waist, a man whose name was later discovered to be Henry Butterman, was found in a Chicago boarding house in which gas was escaping from an open jet. Butterman was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital. Upon searching at the hospital for a clew to his identity the brothers uncovered $2,800 in gold and $11,000 in paper money tucked away in a leather belt. Butterman is said to be an agent for a Milwaukee publishing house. The escape of gas is attributed to an accident.

May Go to Turkey.

One more of the American men-of-war now assembled in Mediterranean waters, it is possible, after their service at Tangier is concluded, may go as far east as Turkey. The United States is aiming to secure for certain institutions and missions in Turkey the same privileges that the government of that country grants to the missionary and educational institutions of other countries.

A mistake of a grocer in filling a customer's jug with gasoline when vinegar was asked for resulted in an explosion at a home in Kansas City and caused the death of one person and injury to three others.

From Waugekan, Ill., we learn that the Warner Sugar Refining Co., whose great glucose establishment was destroyed by explosion some months ago, has now rebuilt the large establishment.

The Russian battleship Czarovitch, which was damaged by a Japanese torpedo at the beginning of the war, has been repaired at Port Arthur and is now ready for action. The sea outside the port is thickly strewn with Russian and Japanese mines, and is a constant menace to navigation.

For the first time in the history of Princeton university a layman delivered the baccalaureate address, the honor being conferred on President Woodrow Wilson at the request of the students. In the academic procession was Former President Cleveland.

THE OLD GIG.

Beyond the crumbling stable wall
Here in this sunny afternoon,
Where weaving spiders rise and fall
And crickets chirp their ceaseless tune,
I spy the outlines of a wheel
And thrashing through the foliage maze,
The clinging brambles soon reveal—
The quaint old gig of by-gone days.

Oh, faithful gig of time ago
Your tires totter and careen;
And through your shafts the grasses grow;
Like harness are the brambles green;
But once again you 're off to town
Behind old Lucy's saucy heels,
And I (in dream) barefooted brown
Climb up behind your creaking wheels.

Queen Sells Butter.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has gone into the dairy business, and is now making money by selling milk and butter. Her first step in this direction was when she induced her husband, Prince Henry, to buy several cows, which were placed on the rich lands surrounding the castle of Loo. The cows prospered exceedingly, and the Queen was so well pleased with the success of her experiment that she instructed the managers of her estates to make a tour of the stock farms and purchase the best animals that could be obtained in Holland. This they did, and sent the herd to the castle at Loo. A dairy was established in connection with the royal estate, and now butter and milk are sold in large quantities from the Queen's establishment. She herself devotes considerable time to directing and inspecting the work of the dairy, and it has become her most absorbing hobby. She determined that the dairy should not only be self-supporting but profitable, and she is now realizing a neat little sum for pin money from it every month.

Bells and Thunderstorms.

An instance of the absurdity of some of the notions held by our ancestors was the notion that the ringing of the church bells had a counteracting effect in a thunderstorm. It was supposed that the vibration of the air caused by the movement of the bells resulted in the dissipation of the electric fluid in the air. The belief was so common at one time that the bells were rung as soon as signs of an approaching thunderstorm were seen. Science now holds a contrary opinion. Not only does the sound have no possible effect on the air, but the vibration caused by the sound of a bell upon a cloud charged with electricity may cause it to discharge its contents upon the ringer of the bell in the church tower.

World's Smallest Monarchy.

The sovereign who reigns over the smallest monarchy in the world is the king of Cocos, a group of islands near Sumatra. These islands were discovered about 300 years ago by the captain of the Keeling, but were comparatively little known till 1825, when Mr. Ross, an Englishman, visited them, was struck by their beauty, and took up his abode there. It is his grandson, M. George Ross, who now holds the sway over the Cocos.—New York Tribune.

CATARRH IS THE CAUSE OF MOST KIDNEY DISEASES.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH.

Samuel R. Sprecher, Junior Beadle Court Angelina 3422, I. O. O. F., 205 New High St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes:

"I came here a few years ago suffering with catarrh of the kidneys, in search of health. I thought the climate would cure me, but found I was mistaken. But what the climate could not do Peruna could and did do. Seven weeks' trial convinced me that I had the right medicine, and I was then a well man. I know of at least twenty friends and members of the lodge to which I belong who have been cured of catarrh, bladder and kidney trouble through the use of Peruna, and it has a host of friends in this city."—SAMUEL R. SPRECHER.

Captain James L. Dempsey, Captain 2nd Precinct Troy Police Force, writes from 198 Ferry St., Troy, N. Y., as follows.

"From my personal experience with Peruna I am satisfied it is a very fine remedy for catarrhal affections, whether of the head, lungs, stomach or pelvic organs. It cures colds quickly, and a few doses taken after undue exposure prevents illness.

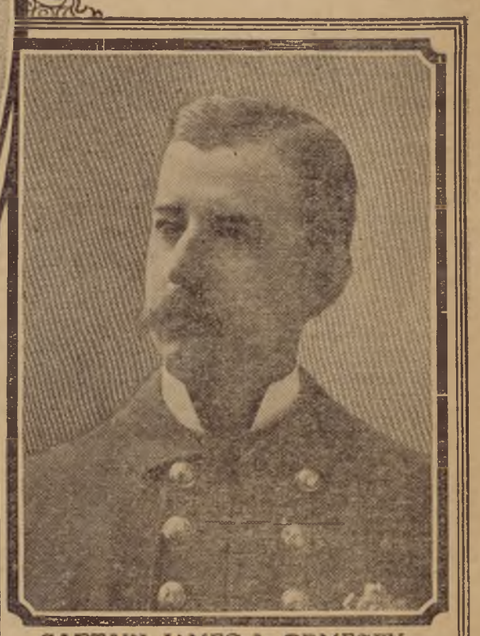
"Some of the patrolmen under me have also found great relief from Peruna. It has cured chronic cases of kidney and bladder troubles, restored men suffering from indigestion and rheumatism, and I am fully persuaded that it is an honest, reliable medicine, hence, I fully endorse and recommend it."

—JAMES L. DEMPSEY.

Officer A. C. Swanson writes from 607 Harrison St., Council Bluffs, Ia., as follows:

"As my duties compelled me to be out in all kinds of weather I contracted a severe cold from time to time, which settled in the kidneys, causing severe pains and trouble in the pelvic organs.

"I am now like a new man, am in splendid health and give all praise to Peruna."—A. C. Swanson.



CAPTAIN JAMES L. DEMPSEY.

Catarrh of the Kidneys a Common Disease---Kidney Trouble Often Fails to Be Regarded as Catarrh by Physicians.

Catarrh of the kidneys is very common indeed. It is a pity this fact is not better known to the physicians as well as the people.

People have kidney disease. They take some diuretic, honing to get better. They never once think of catarrh. Kidney disease and catarrh are seldom associated in the minds of the people, and, alas, it is not very often associated in the minds of the physicians. Too few physicians recognize catarrh of the kidneys. They doctor for something else. They try this remedy and that remedy. The trouble may be catarrh all the time. A few bottles of Peruna would cure them.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of the Kidney Trouble.

Peruna strikes at the very centre of the difficulty, by eradicating the catarrh from the kidneys. Catarrh is the cause of kidney difficulty. Remove the cause and you remove the effect. With unerring accuracy Peruna goes right to the spot. The kidneys are soon doing their work with perfect regularity.

Thousands of Testimonials.

Thousands of testimonials from people who have had kidney disease which had gone beyond the control of the physician are received by Dr. Hartman every year, giving Peruna the whole praise for marvelous cures.

Pe-ru-na Cures Kidney Disease.

Peruna cures kidney disease. The reason it cures kidney disease is because it cures catarrh. Catarrh of the kidneys is the cause of most kidney disease. Peruna cures catarrh wherever it happens to be located. It rarely fails.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

It is estimated that the factory at Longmont, Colo., cans more peas than any other in the world. The factory has been enlarged so that its capacity is 16,000 cans an hour, which exceeds all records, so far as known.

Frans Borich, a Noremberg artist, is dead. German papers say he was the inventor of the picture postal card. His first cards appeared in 1872, but as early as 1868 German brewers were advertising their beer by pictures and mottoes on cards, which they sent to prospective customers. Those are the earliest known specimens.

The present trip of the Liberty bell to St. Louis is the seventh time it has been out of Independence hall, Philadelphia, since it was first installed there in 1753. The first time it was removed was in 1777 when it was taken to Allentown, Pa., to prevent it falling into the hands of the British. There it remained until the British evacuated Philadelphia. All of its other journeys were for exhibition purposes, and included trips to New Orleans in 1885, to Chicago in 1893, to Atlanta in 1895, to Charleston in 1902 and to Boston in 1903.

According to Export, a German geographical paper, there are 7,642,650 Chinese livng out of Chna—as many as the total populaton of iSweden and Norway. America has comparatively few of them—only 272,829, a few less than the little British island od Hongkong alone boasts. The Philippines, where the Chinese are already a problem, have only 80,000 of them.

A new cavern, rivaling in beauty the one at Luray, and Weir's cave and the Cave of Fountains, at Shendun, Va., has been discovered in Shenandoah county, Virginia, near Woodstock. As yet the cavern has not been explored, but the portion that has been visited is filled with the most beautiful lime stone formations and contains large chambers.

One of the flat housetops of Morocco girls may often be seen flying kites which they believe will give an augury of their fortune. In Japan only thirty years ago all gentlewomen were trained in the use of the sword and lance. Some Japanese women refused to weep over their dead because it was considered disloyal to the mikado to weep for those who had the honor to die fighting for him.

If all the skies were sunshine,
Our faces would be fain
To feel once more upon them
The cooling splash of rain.

If all the world were music,
Our hearts would often long
For one sweet strain of silence,
To break the endless song.

If life were always merry,
Our souls would seek relief,
And rest from weary laughter

THE HAUNTED CHAMBER.

By Emma Garrison Jones.

"There it is, girls; there's Chesholm Manor. You can just catch the tips of the grim, gray turrets over the gloomy fir hills off to the left there."

We all leaned forward, and followed with eager eyes Miss Tresham's pointing finger.

There it was, dimly defined beyond the black firs, in the weird old county of Cornwall.

Miss Treshman shook her pretty head, with its abundant bronze tresses in a melancholy way.

"The most uncanny old place, girls," she said, "a second 'Moated Grange,' for all the world. I always dread our annual visit, though I certainly love godpapa very dearly; but it is such a weird old place. And, girls, there is a haunted chamber, too!"

"A haunted chamber, Beatrix?" we all cried, in a breath.

"A veritable haunted chamber—the 'crimson chamber,' they call it, and it is the grandest room in the house; yet I've never seen it but once in my whole life. I can't bear to go near it. I remember dimly how vast, and grand, and dark it looked, all aglow with crimson and gold. And oh! girls, such an awful legend connected with it. Mrs. Sinnot, the housekeeper, told it to me herself."

"Trixie, dear, tell us!"

"I can't tell it, as Mrs. Sinnott did, but I'll do my best: Centuries ago, in the time of the very first Chesholms—and they came down from the Norman chiefs, you know, ever so long ago—there was a brave knight, Sir Geoffrey Chesholm, I think they called him. He was a great soldier, and the bravest, handsomest man in all England. He wooed and won, so the story runs, a lovely Scandinavian girl, with eyes like stars and tresses of golden hair that reached to her knees. He married her, and brought her home to Chesholm Manor, and the crimson room was their bridal chamber.

"Well, a week after they came home to the manor Sir Geoffrey was called away. He parted from his lovely bride with great reluctance, and many tender caresses, for he was excessively fond of her.

"Owing to some circumstances, which I do not remember, he returned much sooner than he had anticipated, and reaching the manor one stormy midnight he let himself in with his night key, and hurried to the chamber of his bride, thinking to find her in bed and asleep.

"But lo! when he reached the crimson room he found it in a glitter of wax lights, and on opening the door he saw his young wife all arrayed in her best robes, with diamonds in her golden hair and on her white throat; and a feast was spread out, wines and fruits and other dainties. And who do you suppose this fair, false creature had to keep her company? An old lover, who had been Sir Geoffrey's rival.

"Well, he killed her then and there, and his rival, too, and concealed their bodies in the secret passage, into which they say the crimson chamber leads. That was centuries ago, but to this day they come back at midnight and tap against the oaken panels, hoping that some one will come and liberate them. Mrs. Sinnott avers that she has heard this ghostly tapping again and again. She would not sleep a night in this haunted room for worlds. No one ever does except Sir John, and he scouts the whole story."

"Oh, how awful!" we all cried, "and how delightful!"

We drove up the fir-shadowed drive and reached the grim, gray front of the old manor just as the darkness fell. Sir John was on the great stone terrace to welcome us.

"I've brought a lot of young school friends to share my visit, this time, godpapa," said Beatrix, when the greetings were well over.

"That's right, Trixie; the more the merrier. You didn't know we had a ball on the tapis, did you? Nor that young Major Farleigh was at home on furlough either—hey, Trix?"

Beatrix blushed divinely. Major Farleigh was her betrothed lover. The old baronet pinched her glowing cheek.

"I planned it all to surprise you," he said. "But come in, young ladies, we've no time to lose. You must eat your dinner in a hurry, and then dress for the ball."

Dinner over, we lit our candles and hurried up to dress.

"This way, please, mademoiselles," called Sir John, and we followed him into his quaint old sitting room.

"See there, Trixie," he said, pointing toward the sofa; "there's a ball dress fresh from Paris. Would you like to have them—I mean dress, diamonds and all?"

Oh, godpapa-" cried Beatrix, with clasped hands.

The dress was of silken tissue of the loveliest pink, trimmed with priceless lace, and adorned with tufts of moss rosebuds, and the diamonds were such blinking, gleaming stars—tiara, necklace, armlets and a girdle, like a belt of living light.

"They're yours, Trixie," continued Sir John. "Major Farleigh is likely to admire you in that rig—hey, Trix? Well, they're yours, and, moreover, when you marry the major, I mean that you shall come and live with me. I'm an old man now, and a bit lonely, and I think I shall make the major my heir."

"Oh, Sir John, dear godpapa!" cried Beatrix, with swimming eyes.

"Stop, Trixie," he interrupted. "Wait till you hear my conditions—don't thank me yet—I've made up my mind to do all this, and to give you this trumpery here, provided you are willing to do one thing."

"I'll do anything you wish, you good, dear godpapa," answered Trixie, with her eyes on the glittering gems.

"Very well, you must sleep in the crimson chamber tonight."

"Alone?" faltered poor Beatrix, growing white.

"Nay, you may all go together, but you must enter the crimson room as soon as the ball ends, and remain there till daylight. If you can stand it tonight, and the ghostly pair do not eat you, I mean it for your bridal chamber when you and the major marry."

"I'll do it," said Beatrix, stoutly, "Girls, what do you say?"

"We'll do it," we cried, with one voice.

"Very well; collect your finery, and take yourselves off," said the baronet.

We obeyed, and Beatrix wore her ball dress, and her diamonds, and dazzled the poor major so completely that he came nigh losing his wits.

At one o'clock, to the minute, we marched in solemn file to the door of the haunted room. Mrs. Sinnott followed us with an ashen face.

"For Heaven's sake, young ladies, give over this mad folly!" she entreated; but Beatrix silenced her, and in we went.

A cheerful fire blazed upon the marble hearth, wax lights glittered in every niche and corner, revealing the vast proportions of the room, and the grand and glowing richness of the crimson hangings and antique furniture.

"It is a pity, as godpapa says, for such a handsome apartment to be deserted," said Beatrix, as we surrounded the hearth. "I hope we shall come out victorious, girls."

We glanced nervously at the great catafalque of a bed, with its crimson canopies, and concluded to keep watch before the hearth. Two o'clock chimed from the hoarse old clock above the stables. We heard the roar of the surf on the wild Cornish coast, and the mournful wail of the wind amid the grim turrets, and by the by, with beating hearts and suspended breaths we heard another sound.

Tap, tap, tap, against the oaken panel. Beatrix became as white as death, and glanced over her shoulder with a shudder.

"Girls, they are coming," she whispered—"the false bride and her lover."

We clung together, huddling over the grate. Tap, tap, tap, it came again. One of our party, a little blond miss from the Sussex hills, fell gently to the floor in a swoon. Tap, tap, tap, and then a faint, rustling movement. Beatrix thought of her major and her bridal night, and rose to her feet in trembling dsperation.

"Who's there?" she demanded, in a voice that shook.

Tap, tap, tap! No other answer but that faint, rustling swish.

A sort of heroism, born of despair, seized upon Beatrix. Her white cheeks flamed, her brown eyes glowed.

"I'll solve this mystery," she said, "I'll liberate this ghostly pair."

And straightway she marched across the crimson carpet, and lifted the crimson velvet arras. Her hand shook like a leaf, and her cheeks whitened again, but she pressed her finger upon the little knob which moved the sliding panel.

Tap, tap, tap! again, and then the carved, oaken panel slid slowly aside, and friends, not the ghostly pair came forth, but a great, gaunt, gray old rat.

Beatrix fell down in a faint, but she had won her diamonds; and she slept in the haunted chamber on her bridal night.—New York Weekly.

TRANSPORTING SOIL.

Peculiar Rose Producing Clay is Being Shipped by the Car Load.

The soil that made Newcastle famous as the American Beauty rose city is being brought to Indianapolis to enrich the beatuful and vigorous Indianapolis rose, which, like this city's carnations, already has a name in American flower circles, writes the Indianapolis correspondent of the New York Tribune. W. J. Hasselman, owner of the Indianapolis Flower and Plant Company, a wholesaling concern, that has large greenhouses just north of Central avenue and Thirty-fourth street, shipped two car loads of the wonderful Newcastle rose producing earth to Indianapolis last year and used it with remarkable success in his greenhouse benches. He is just now unloading four more car loads. The soil that is now being shipped to Indianapolis is taken out of one of Newcastle's streets that is being improved. It is a dark colored clay—the kind that farmers call "white oak clay"—and its peculiar characteristic is its adhesiveness when in a damp state. It can be worked until it looks and feels like putty, but when dried out it lies a compact mass that holds well any fertilizer that may be used on it.

"The Newcastle people think that this is the greatest rose producing soil in the world," said Hasselman today as he handled some of the clay that was being unloaded in the greenhouses, "but I am not prepared to say whether that is true or not. At all events it has given the best results in rose growing of any soil found in Indiana and has also given Newcastle a national reputation as a producer of roses that cannot be surpassed. Newcastle roses have taken sweepstakes and other prizes in national shows. We are shipping it to Indianapolis because it is the best soil that we have available, and inasmuch as we can get it from the streets that are being improved in Newcastle it is about as cheap earth as we could get even if we sent teams out into the country here and found a passably good clay. We have found a place north of Broad Ripple that seems to have good rose growing soil, but we have not made sufficient experiments yet to be certain that it will produce the results that Newcastle soil will produce.

"Newcastle has built up a wonderful rose growing industry. Chicago is still the rose centre of the West, as Madison, N. J., is in the East, but Newcastle is looming up in the list of our national rose centres.

"The Newcastle florists are cutting and shipping between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 roses a year now, and they go everywhere. What is it in the soil that makes the roses grow and bloom so wonderfully? I don't know, but it is there. We have very good rose soil around Indianapolis, and it produces a superior flower, but still I cannot say that it equals the soil of Newcastle.

"All of Indiana is the best carnation growing region in this country, and possibly in the world. I don't know why the carnation likes Indiana so well, but perhaps it is because Indiana likes the carnation equally well. Indiana has produced more good, high standard commercial carnations than any other part and more new species of the flower. The State is well to the fore in flower raising of all kinds."

Hasselman has developed several carnations, one of which, a brilliant red one, is as pretty a flower as can be found in the carnation family. He is working on several other new species and has them in the third year of their development stage.

WHY STARS TWINKLE.

The Effect Produced Upon Them by Air Waves.

The great aerial ocean over our heads is made up of an infinite multitude of moving currents and stream of varying density and temperature, all in process of continued change and adjustment due to the heating of the atmosphere by the sun during the day and cooling by radiation at night, says the Baltimore Sun. The atmosphere is full of little waves or streaming masses of air, somewhat resembling the ripples in a shallow stream of water flowing over gravel. And if the astronomer will point his telescope on a bright star and remove the eyepiece, so as to look directly upon the object glass illuminated by the light of the star he may see these streaming currents dancing in all their complexity. It is these little waves in the air which cause the twinkling of the fixed stars. As the waves are passing before our eyes they act like prisms, deflecting the light first this way and then that, producing flashes of the spectral colors, and sometimes almost extinguishing the stars, so that momentarily they appear to go out. In hgh, dry countries where the atmosphere is quiescent, these waves are generally diminished in importance and astronomers have noticed that in such localities the scintillation of the stars almost ceases. There the air is quite free from agitating currents, and the astronomers can make good observations.

It is worthy of remark that but for the brightness of the sky the stars could be seen in daylight. Even as matters stand, some of the brighter of them have been seen after sunrise by explorers in high mountains, where the air is very clear and the sky dark blue. If we could go above the atmosphere the sky would appear perfectly black and stars would be visible right close up to the sun. Astronomers observe bright stars in daytime by using long-focus telescopes, the dark tubes of which cut off the side light; and persons in the bottoms of deep wells have noticed stars passing overhead, the side light being reduced by the great depths of the wells.

A Hard Critic.

A clergyman was rebuked by one of the ruling elders for sauntering on the Sunday along the hillside above the manse. The clergyman took the rebuke in good part, but tried to show the remonstrant that the action of which he complained was innocent and lawful, and he was about to cite the famous example of a Sabbath walk, with the plucking of the ears of corn, as set forth in the gospels, when he was interrupted with the remark, "Ou aye, sir, I ken weel what you mean to say, but for my pairt I hae nefer thocht the better o' them for breakin' the Sawbatth."—Geikie's "Scotch Reminiscences."

COMER FILES SUITS

Aggregating $80,000 for the Publication of Dickert Affidavit.

DICKERT IS COUSIN OF COMER.

Louisville and Nashville Railroad, Age-Herald and Ledger Made Defendants.

Mr. B. B. Comer, the democratic nominee for president of the railroad commission, is the plaintiff in libel cases and the defendants, together with the amount of damages asked, are as follows:

Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, E. A. Dickert and B. M. Starks, $30,000 damages.

Birmingham Ledger Publishing Company, $25,000 damages.

Birmingham Age-Herald Publishing Company, $25,000 damages.

The suits are based upon the publication of an affidavit, which is alleged to have appeared in the papers. The affidavit in question was by E. A. Dickert, who claimed to be a cousin of Mr. B. B. Comer, and it was claimed, in substance, that Mr. Comer had tried to induce him (Dickert) to take for himself certain money due the railroad company for repairs on the tracks at the Avondale mills. The newspaper publishing companies are sued for publishing the affidavit, while the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company and E. A. Dickert and B. M. Starks are sued upon the allegation that they caused the same to be published.

THE SLOCUM JURY

Now Investigating Disaster—Steamer in Good Condition.

The coroner's jury on the Slocum disaster was quickly secured. President Barnaby, of the Knickerbocker Steamboat company, owner of the General Slocum, was the first witness, and from him it was learned that the actual operation of the steamer was under Captain Van Scheick, who received his instructions from Captain Pear. On application of the latter he said an inspection of the Slocum was made by the United States authorities before she was put into commission this year. He presented reports of the expenditures on the Slocum for life preservers in 1902, 1903 and 1904 and explained that the books which were offered for inspection would show for which vessel they were intended.

The certificate of United States inspection was placed in evidence. It certified that on May 7, 1904, the General Slocum was in good condition to carry 2,500 passengers and that it had on board 2,555 life preservers.

SHOOTING AT CHURCH.

Fatal Affair Over a Bucket of Water Thrown Over Man.

At Little Vine Primitive Baptist church, ten miles from Warrior, a serious shooting affray occurred with Tom Lowe and Ben Owen as participants.

Lowe is shot in the shoulder and groin and may recover. Ben Owen received three wounds and died instantly.

Luther Owen, brother of the dead man, received one ball through the shoulder, from which it is thought he will recover. It is claimed that this shot was accidental.

All parties in the tragedy are industrious farmers. They fell out over a bucket of water at a well when the dead Owens threw its contents on Lowe. The dispute was dropped for a while, but renewed after church, with the above result.

The Chattahoochee river has this year been put to the severest test in its history. Rainfall is eleven inches short, and according to calculation this is equivalent to 298,705 gallons per acre, or in round numbers 300,000 gallons.

The Huntsville city hospital was opened Monday.

Will Develop New Mines.

New York capitalists have become interested in the development of the brown ore mines six miles north of Fort Payne. The party is headed by John Boehling, of New York. The Alabama Great Southern has entered into a contract to build a road to the mines. The ores have been tested by experts, who report that they are the best in the Birmingham district. The Battelle & Schuler furnaces will take the whole output of the mines, which is estimated to be 400 tons per day.

The same parties have purchased the old Valley Mines coal property three miles north of Fort Payne, and will build fifty coke ovens on the property.

The furnace of the Lookout Mountain Iron company at Battelle is completed and as soon as a few connections in pipes and other apparatus are made the iron maker will be put to work. The furnace is one of the largest in the district and modern in every appointment. It is expected that the plant will be in full operation early in July. The output of the furnace will be 300 tons daily.

WORSE THAN REPORTED.

Russian Losses at Telissu Believed to Reach Ten Thousand.

General Oku reports that after the battle of Telissu last week the Japanese buried 1,516 Russians who were found dead on the battlefield.

A telegram from Chee Foo states that on Saturday the Japanese began a land bombardment of Port Arthur for the purpose of testing their siege guns. The Russians replied to the fire. The result of the firing indicates that the Japanese guns have the greater range.

An interview with Baron Suyematzu published in Paris and suggesting that Japan is willing to accept the mediation of a power equally well disposed as a tentative utterance, attracts much attention, coming from the Marquis Ito's son-in-law. It is generally interpreted as meaning that Japan is shrinking before the prospect of a long, exhausting war.

to Russia and Japan, while regarded

It is now definitely established that negotiations for the purchase by Russia of six Argentine cruisers had almost reached a successful conclusion when Argentina raised the question as to under what flag they would be transferred, she being unwilling to sell direct to a belligerent. It was suggested that they be transferred to Venezuela, Costa Rica or Bulgaria, which would turn them over to Russia, but President Roca rejected the proposal, insisting that a bona fide maritime power should be the purchaser. Then Turkey began negotiations through the Argentine legation at Paris.

Further reports here show that the blow inflicted by General Oku on the Russians at Wafangow on June 15th was more severe than at first believed. The number of Russians killed in this battle probably will exceed 2,000, and their total loss, including prisoners, is estimated at 10,000. The Japanese losses are less than one thousand.

A RUSSIAN PRINCE

Said to be Responsible for the Destruction of the Petropavlovsk.

It is said that Prince Uchtomski, a favorite of the czar, because of hate of Admiral Makoroff and Viceroy Alexieff and chagrin over not having a high command given him, planted an infernal machine on the Petropavlovsk, sending it to the bottom with nearly all men on board. As soon as Alexieff heard of Uchtomski's connection with the destruction of the battleship he sent for him, it is said, and after a hasty investigation had him hanged, giving him no chance to communicate with St. Petersburg.

While it is impossible to verify this story at present, it is a remarkable coincidence that neither the princess nor any of Uchtomski's friends at court or in society have heard directly from him since the catastrophe reported.

ACCUSED HIM OF ARSON.

And Then Shot Him Dead—Houston County Duel.

Early Monday morning Thad Pennington killed Lee Faulk near Cottonwood. It seems that Pennington and Faulk have not been on very good terms, and Monday morning Pennington's gin house was burned. He discovered it on fire and ran up to Faulk's house for him. Faulk and his boys got up and went to the burning house. When they got there Pennington remarked to Faulk, "I guess you are satisfied now. You have burned my gin house." Pennington then shot at Faulk with a shotgun, but missed him. Faulk shot at him twice with a pistol, but missed him both times. Pennington shot again and killed Faulk instantly.

Several of Faulk's boys saw their father killed, but they were all helpless. After Pennington killed him he reloaded his gun and escaped.

REORGANIZATION.

American Casting Company to Rebuild and Improve.

The American Casting Company, which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago at East Birmingham, will be rebuilt at once.

The company will be reorganized and much larger than the old one. The new shops will be as near fireproof as possible and the new machinery will be of the latest improvement, and so arranged as to handle larger castings than formerly.

The old company was capitalized at $50,000, and it is said the new organization will be doubled in its capital and output.

Recalls Tragedy.

Mrs. T. L. Stanley, widow of the late A. S. Stanley, one of Tuscumbia's most highly esteemed citizens, died Sunday afternoon. She was the mother of Ernest Stanley, who was murdered in Memphis several years ago by Frank Parora, an Italian gardener, and his body concealed in an old well for a number of days before the atrocious crime was discovered. Parora is now serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary at Nashville.

CAPTAIN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Japanese Claim Their Flag Was Violated by Their Enemies—Leaving Port Arthur.

The Russian hope of relieving the pressure on Port Artkur by threatening the rear of General Oku, the commander of the Japanese forces investing the Russian stronghold, came to an end Wednesday at Telssu, when the Russians were defeated. They left over 500 dead on the field and the Japanese captured 300 prisoners and fourteen quick-firing fields guns. The Russians retreated hastily northward.

The Japanese charge that the Russians violated the Japanese flag. Certain officers aver that during the fighting a body of Russian soldiers appeared carrying a Japanese flag and that the Japanese artillery, deceived by the flag, ceased firing upon that particular body of Russians.

Early estimates of the Japanese losses say that 1,000 men were killed or wounded.

Details in connection with the sinking of the Japanese transport Hitachi by the Russian warships are being furnished by survivors. One shell which struck the engine room killed 200 men. The ship began to fill and sank.

Captain Campbell, the English master of the transport, jumped overboard and is numbered among the missing.

Chinese who have been banished from Port Arthur express the belief that the Russians are preparing to destroy the place.
WAR

ANNISTON'S PLUM.

A $1,000,000 Steel Plant May Be Located There.

A special from New York says: "It is stated from reliable authority that the plant of the Woodstock iron works at Anniston has been purchased by wealthy Pittsburg capitalists, who will at once put the furnaces in blast and begin the erection of a $1,000,000 steel plant. The purchase includes all the property of the Woodstock company furnaces, coke ovens, coal and other mineral lands located in Alabama and elsewhere. The steel plant will be one of the largest in the south, and combined with the large furnaces will furnish employment to several hundred skilled workmen and other employes. The new concern has plenty of capital at its command."

COLORADO SUED

By the Portland Mine for $100,000 Damages.

Former Governor Charles S. Thomas is preparing papers in behalf of the Portland mine, in a damage suit against Governor James H. Peabody, Adjutant General Sherman M. Bell and the state of Colorado for $100,000 damages for the closing of the Portland mine by the military.

Attorneys for the Western Federation of Miners are drafting papers in a suit for $50,000 damages against Governor Peabody, Adjutant General Bell and the state of Colorado.

Action is based on a charge of false and illegal imprisonment by the military authorities acting under the proclamation of martial law in San Miguel county.

May Resume.

It is reported that the Bessemer rolling mill will more than likely start up in July. The mill has been idle for several weeks and as they have been making large shipments the stock is running short. There has been a large force of men at work for some time making repairs and overhauling the machinery.

Unconstitutionality Claimed.

A test of the constitutionality of the recent act of the Alabama legislature in conferring additional powers upon the Alabama railroad commission and providing for the election of members of that commission will be made by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway. A bill has been filed in the chancery court of Marshall county resisting the order of the railroad commission which directs that the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis depot at Wyeth City be removed to a designated point within the corporate limits of Guntersville.

Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, has been urged by the citizens of Franklin county to join in the effort to suppress the whitecap bands in that section and to aid the work of tracing down the persons who fired into the house of Allen Cameron on the night of June 8th and fatally wounded Mr. Cameron's little daughter. In pursuance with the request, the governor has offered a reward of $300 for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

Lamison is to have a $100,000 lumber company.

MRS. MOONSHINER

Attacked Revenue Men with Shotgun and Pistol.

Deputy Collector V. S. Root and Deputy Marshal Henry Arnold captured and destroyed an illicit still near Dutton in Jackson county and arrested Nick King, an old offender, and Burrell Bailey. King requested the officers to accompany him home for a change of clothing and the request was granted.

When the two officers and their prisoners came in sight of King's home, King's wife came forward witn a shotgun and horse pistol and tried to kill Root and Arnold. The revenue men had an exciting five minutes disarming the woman, who swore all the while, and when it became evident that they were succeeding, King's aunt attacked them with hoes.

King was committed to jail at Huntsville. His bond was fixed at $1,500 and he can not make it. Bailey made bond in the sum of $300. He had gone to King's still to get a bottle of whiskey for his sick wife and had just arrived there when the officers came upon the scene.

Looks Like Murder.

At Meridian, Miss., what is thought to have been a murder was discovered when a car cleaner on the Alabama and Vicksburg railroad went to clean off the steps of the mail car.

The cleaner found a coupling pin with blood and human hair upon it and the car steps were spattered with blood. Information received from Lake Station states that the dead body of a white man was found alongside the right of way and from the wounds found upon him he must have been the victim of the attack upon the mail coach. The fireman of the train states that he noticed three men on the blind baggage at one time, but they disappeared. The officials of the road are investigating the matter.

Educators Adjourn.

The annual convention of the Alabama Educational association at Tuscaloosa came to a close Thursday afternoon. Friday the visitors went on a river excursion, taking the boat at Riverview for a trip up the Warrior and later through the locks.

The officers for the ensuing year are:

President—H. J. Willingham, Wetumpka.

First Vice President—C. W. Daugette, of Jacksonville.

Second Vice President—Thomas R. Walker, of Wylam.

Third Vice President—D. M. Banks, of Opelika.

Treasurer—R. M. Clayton, of Woodlawn.

Secretary—W. C. Griggs, of Brewton.

Executive Committee—W. E. Striplin, Gadsden; C. D. McNeel, Talladega, and Miss Niemmo Green, of Montgomery.

SANTIAGO STORM SWEPT.

Forty-five Are Dead and a Large Number Missing.

Fourteen inches of rain fell in five hours at Santiago, Cuba. This was accompanied by a hurricane. The lower village of El Cobre has been destroyed.

Forty-five persons are known to be dead and scores are missing. Bodies are floating in the Cobre river.

All the bridges on the Cobre railroad are out, and many bridges have been lost on the Cuba railroad.

The mines at Daiquiri are crippled and six of the employes have been drowned. The pier has been damaged.

The city's property loss is enormous. All telegraph and cable lines are disabled.

A dispatch from Winona, Minn., says: The dropping of a match into a can of oil in a hardware store of Altura has resulted in practically wiping that village from existence. Fanned by a high wind, the flames licked up building after building, while the people stood by powerless, owing to the lack of water. The loss amounts to many thousands of dollars with little insurance.

Sam McCullough's Grave Found.

When the war between the states took place Sam McCullough sided with the south and in the neighborhood near Decatur, where he lived at that time, there were many who linked themselves with the northern cause. All of a sudden McCullough disappeared and none of his relatives knew what had become of him, but it was believed that he had been murdered by some of his neighbors who were friendly to the northern cause.

Two of the old confederate veterans from Decatur, while in Nashville, visited the confederate cemetery and found a grave of a confederate soldier whose simple moss-covered slab bore the inscription. "Sam McCullough."

The Abyssinians have long known of the possibilities of hypnotism in the detection of crime. A regular corps of boys is maintained by the authorities. When a malefactor has to be traced, one of the lads is hypnotized and sent forth to find him. The subject, it is said, on being sped on his errand, seems to follow some trail invisible to normal sight. He visits all the places to which the criminal previously resorted, and rapidly tracks his quarry just as a dog pursues the trail of a hare or rabbit guided by the scent of its victim.

NOTICE.

Accompanied by his wife, the editor of The Sentinel will leave for Bessemer next Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the Alabama Press Association, and on Friday night will leave that city for St. Louis on the annual outing of the Association, and will be gone about a week. During our absence Mr. W. W. Wallace will be in charge of The Sentinel, and any favors shown him during the time we may be absent will be appreciated by the management.

THAT $16,000.

During the recent court house campaign information came to The Sentinel that at the time the Democrats went out of power in the county, and turned over the reins of county government to the populists, there was, in round numbers, $16,000.00 in the county treasury. The Sentinel published the statement in reply to the Advocate's frequent boasts of the economy of the present administration. We had not examined the records as to the condition of the county treasury during the various terms of the county officers, nor as to the dates when the different parties held sway. At the time the statement was made we were not locaied in the county seat, and we were dependent largely upon information obtained from other sources than our own personal knowledge, as to the history of events and transactions pertaining to public affairs in the county. Upon investigation, however, we find that from August, 1892, to August, 1894, the Commissioners' Court was composed wholly of Democrats—the Pro-Judge and all of the Commissioners being Democrats. This condition remained only during these two years. In August, 1894, two populist Commissioners, Powers and Davis, were elected. Just before they went into office, or on July 1, 1894, the Treasurer's book shows a balance of $16,955.75. This, evidently, was the balance which our informant had in mind when he gave us the information upon which The Sentinel based the $16,000 statement out of which the populist leaders have sought to make so much capital. The statement as to the balance was correct. The mistake of our informant was in placing this balance which remained in the treasury in 1896, when a full populist board was elected, instead of in 1894, when only two populist commissioners were elected.

Believing it to be the highest mission of true journalism to give cold facts as they exist, and to avoid every appearance of trying to mislead, The Sentinel cheerfully makes the above correction. The Sentinel does not wish to saddle any burdens upon the populist leaders and office holders (in the one you see the other) other than those which rightfully lie upon them. Nor is it necessary that this should be done in order to show their utter incompetency and inefficiency to manage the finances of the county. The records stand out against them and we are perfectly willing to let the records speak on all matters. The Sentinel and Democrats of the county are perfectly willing to compare records with the opposition on all matters pertaining to the county's affairs.

The Democratic Commissioners' Court in 1894 levied upon the people of the county a tax rate of only three mills. Again in 1895 the tax rate was fixed at three mills—the two populist Commissioners voting against the said three mills levy, the two Democrats voting for it, and the Democratic Probate Judge voting for said levy, the tax rate of Shelby county was again held down to three mills. Notwithstanding there was only a three mill levy for each of these two years, and an appropriation of $5,000 was made to the Girls' Industrial School in 1895, The Sentinel contends that in August, 1896, when two more populist Commissioners were elected, making a complete populist Board, the county had a surplus in the treasury, none of the taxes for the new year had come in, and the county did not owe a cent outside of a portion of the $5,000 loan made to reimburse the amount appropriated to the Girls' School.

THAT BELATED REPORT.

In the Commissioners' semi-annual report of the Treasurer of receipts and disbursements of the county between July 1, 1903, and January 1, 1904, published last week, six months after the time required by law, there are the following items: "Received in taxes, $5,794 02." "Disbursements as per list of warrants, $5,794.02." Thus showing an even balance between receipts and disbursements; that is, according to the published report six months over due.

The report says the Treasurer received $5,794.02. The books of the Treasurer do not show that he received anything, like any such amount. By reference to his books it is found that on November 5, 1903, he received $1,209 06; on Dec. 3, 1903, he received, according to his books, $2,390.00, and in another place it is shown he received "escape taxes" for 1900 and 1901 (no date shown as to when received) $538.51, making a total of $4,137 57.—$1,656.45 less than the Commissioners' six months' late report says he did receive. Why does the Commissioners report say the Treasurer collected sixteen hundred dollars more than his books show that he actually did receive? Is it with the intent to deceive the people as to the financial condition of the county? Will the Advocate, the Handy Andy of the administration, give up the key to the problem?

The Treasurer either received more than his books show, or the six months' late Commissioners' report of the Treasurer is not in accordance with the facts.

There is another item in the six months' delayed report that leaves a wrong impression. It reads:

"Petit jurors, County and Circuit Courts, August and fall term and November, $888.45."

Here we have three weeks of the circuit court, and a week each of two terms of the county court, and the impression is left with the public that $888.45 was the total cost for juries during that time. Here we have thirty days of court—eighteen of circuit court and twelve of county court—with twenty-four jurors drawn for the time. That is $48 per day for jurors for thirty days—a total cost of $1,440.00 for jurors fees, to say nothing at all of their mileage, and for the pick-up and special jurors. Accord to the six months' late report the county paid but $888.45 of $1,440.00 due for jurors fees. Who paid the balance, or did the county make another loan?

Was there ever before in the history of Shelby county a semi-annual report of the receipts and disbursements of the County Treasurer that balanced to a cent? The six months' late report of the Commissioners is a study in mysterious figure juggling.

FALSE, AS USUAL.

"Would you believe that The Sentinel would have your best interest treasured in its bosom when it says the principles you advocate are those which brought carpet-bagism and reconstruction upon the Southern people?"—Advocate.

Prejudice and bossism brought reconstruction upon the Southern people, and the administration of public affairs at that time, if we may believe history, was a menace to the welfare of the public good. The Sentinel does not recede from a former statement that the populist bosses are using every argument they can to prejudice the people, one against the other, and it is just such argument that is a menace to the public weal. Not only that, but they take into their counsels one who has said within the past month that the President of the Southern Confederacy should have been hung. The man who made the statement is a leader among Shelby county Republicans—a leader of the party in this county, which placed upon the Southern people the yoke of reconstruction.

Prejudice is what they bank upon, and as a little side issue crack it to people with an occasional illegal tax levy.

DO YOU KNOW?

"But we will ask The Sentinel if a Democratic commissioner did not make the motion to try the machinery as an experiment?"—Advocate.

That may or may not be true; but it was not a Democrat who signed a contract for said road machinery. Making a motion does not buy anything by a jug full. Signed contracts are the only things that go in purchasing machinery as costly as that which is scattered around over this county.

"The Sentinel says the populist party is dead, damed and forgotten."—Advocate.

Yes, The Seninel said the populist party as a national organization is dead, but the "damned and forgotten" is your own thought and expression, and we are willing to let it go at that.

The editor of the Clanton Banner, who, a few months ago was a leader in the populist party, but who is now a Democrat, has this to say in the last issue of the Banner;

"Some four men, whose names are not familiar to the public, have signed a call for a 'Populist State Convention' to be held at Birmingham next Thursday. There is no probability of there being more than a few men at this so-called 'State Convention,' and we conscientiously warn our populist friends, no matter how strong your populist proclivities, that it is only a waste of time and money going there."

We commend the above to the thinking people of Shelby county. The Sentinel contends there is no populist State organization, and such calls as the one referred to by the Clanton Banner in the above are only meant to deceive. A State Convention(?) called by four unknown people!

The following extract from a speech made at Clanton in Chilton county two weeks ago, by our congressman, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, is along the same line of argument that The Sentinel has been using for some time past. Read it:

What brought fraud in elections in Alabama? It came when the Republican party got into power in Alabama, when the most infamous laws were enacted by them in the days of reconstruction. They provided that a man who had fought in the confederate cause could not vote, and the negro was permitted to vote whether he could read or write or not. That was the origin of fraud in elections. The State was put $30,000,000 in debt, schools were neglected and the money that should have gone to the schools went into the pockets of carpet-baggers. That was revolution.

The followers of the one time populist party are asked to endorse the Republican party in this county. When they do, they will endorse the principles of a party that placed the infamous reconstruction period upon the Southern people. Will the Advocate deny this?

It is very evident that the populist-republico leaders and builder of a hyphenated ticket are either ashamed to father their ticket with a name, or intend to deceive some people, if possible, into voting for a thing without a name. Do they call it the populist ticket? No. And it never would do to call it the Republican ticket. It travels under the cognomon of "County Ticket." In other words, it is anything to win ticket, and just any old name that carries with it a doubt as to its meaning i in keeping with the deception practiced by the populist leaders upon the people in this county.

Judge Longshore made the statement at Browning's Mill, at a picnic held at that place, that Shelby county did not owe but $1,000 on the 1st of April. A loan of $8,000 from an Ensley banker was made this year prior to April 1st. Of that loan $5,000 has already been used, and the remaining $3,000, which the county is to receive July 1st, will, to use the language of one of the Commissioners, "last about thirty minutes."

The people of Shelby county are made to pay the unlawful tax levies placed upon them by the present administration, while the railroads—the wealthy corporations—are excused from paying. That appears to be the populist leaders' interpretation of equal rights to all. Does the Advocate approve of such action, and say it is right? It cannot deny the truthfulness of the statement.

The Advocate charged a short time ago that under Democratic administrations in this county a county officer had been paid $25 more each year than the law allowed. That the statement was false was clearly shown and since the assertion was proven to be untrue the Advocate has never "cheeped." Its triumvirate of editorial(?) writers seem to have gotton the wires crossed a little.

"Refer to the former issues of The Sentinel and see if you can get the facts about the financial condition of the county."—Advocate.

And while you are about it, just ask the Advocate to give you the key to the treasurer's report which was published in its last issue—a report that was due in January, but for some reason seems to have been held up until the middle of June.

Press the burden of taxation a little harder upon the people of Shelby county, and excuse the railroads from paying. That is the record of the populist administration in Shelby county. It is a matter of court record. The populist leaders in this county flight shy of any explanation of this reprehensible action on their part.

The lily white faction from Alabama to the Republican national convention was thrown out by the committee, and the black and tans recognized. The negro delegation from Mississippi was recognized over the delegation composed of white men. What do self-respecting white men think of such a proceeding?

"Anything to win," is the cry of the populist-republico leaders of the hyphenated ticket without a name.

NOTICE

Of Registrars Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of Section 6 of "An Act to further regulate elections in the State of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "The Board of Registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least 20 day's notice of the time when, and the place in the precinct where, they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each precinct, and by advertisement once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county.

Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by law, that the Board of Registrars for the county of Shelby, will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose aforesaid:

THAT JOINT DISCUSSION.

As soon as the Democratic primary was over on April 11th the populist leaders began a mighty bluff. Democratic candidates were approached on every corner with such expressions as: "Now, we must have a joint canvass." "The populists want a joint canvass," etc. Very soon petitions were sent out from the court house and circulated in different parts of the county by certain populists, asking for a joint discussion. Meetings were arrange by populists in certain sections, and advertised as joint discussions. Populist speakers, of course, attended these meetings which were arranged for them, and made speeches. They endeavored to make capital of the fact that the Democrats did not meet them; said that they were afraid to meet them. Finally, at the request of Democratic candidates, the populist leaders wrote out and presented a challenge to the Democrats for a joint canvass. The Democrats all over the county were opposed to a joint canvass, believing that such discussion would mar the peace and harmony that existed among the people in the county. But the attitude of the populist leaders, their boasts that the Democrats were afraid to meet them, made it necessary that the Democrats accept the challenge, lest their position be misconstrued. The challenge was accepted. The position taken by the Democratic members of the sub-committee to arrange the joint canvass—not wishing to burden the people of the county with a joint discussion for five long months—was that said joint canvass begin on September 1st, and continue to November 7th. This was accepted finally by the populists, provided, that they wanted to be left free to make as many speeches in the county as they desired between now and Sept. 1st. The Democrats opposed this on the ground that a thorough canvass could be made during the time proposed, and that to make speeches all over the county between now and September 1st would be worse than burdening the people with a joint canvas all summer and fall. It would be a double canvass of the county, which would be worse than unnecessary. But these populist leaders would have nothing else. Finally, the Democrats amended their proposition by fixing the date at which the joint canvass should begin at August 1st. The populist-republican leaders, who showed now plainly that they did not desire a joint discussion and wanted to bust the whole thing, still insisted upon having the right to make speeches between now and the first of August. Certainly, in order to have the appearance of fairness, they put it that EITHER SIDE might make speeches outside of the joint arrangement by giving the other side notice. The Democrats came to their terms—gave them everything demanded.

So the long talked of joint discussion will be had, and matters and things will be pretty well ventilated by November 8th, and we reiterate the statement that in our opinion, the populist leaders did not, at heart, want a joint canvass as much as they pretended, but that they rather preferred to make their own meetings, and, when they saw proper, invite the Democratic candidates to meet them, and on their failure to do so, tell the people they were afraid to meet them.

The Sentinel has gone into this matter at considerable length merely to show the dominating spirit of the populist leaders.

The Commissioners' Court will doubtless fix up another tax levy that will catch the common people, and permit the railroads to go scot free. That will be in keeping with the past actions of the present administrations. The administration seems to have adopted an expression made by Vanderbilt for its guidance: "The people be damned!"

Will the Advocate explain why the people of Shelby county have been taxed for bridges in this county which have never been built—not even contracted for? And yet, the taxes collected for this purpose have evidently been used for something else as the bridge fund is virtually empty.

Speaker Cannon says if the Republicans nominate him for the vice-presidency and elect him he will go to Washington, take the oath, appoint his subordinates, then he'll go home "and never go near the——place again." That's tough on Washington.

The county treasurer's report, due at the first meeting of the Commissioners' Court, seems to have been on a slow train. Five months after being due it bobs up. Is there any good reason why such reports are not made as the law requires?

Wonder if the people of Shelby county will have to pay another unlawful tax, and which the courts, as heretofore, have excused the railroads from paying? That's justice like the antiquated piece of femininity kept the little wayside inn.

From the county treasurer's report it seems that it cost the county $1,169.50 to operate the two road plows for the six months previous to the first of last January. A nice little pension but rather expensive to the taxpayers.

The populist leaders have nothing to say—no defense to offer for the illegal and unlawful tax levies placed upon the people of Shelby county by the present administration.

J. W. JOHNSTON.

From Near Vincent.

The much advertised "joint discussion" at Rehobeth, last Saturday, was about as tame affair as one could well imagine. By actual count there were but 31 people present, including four small boys, six Democrats—two of those from St. Clair county. Populists living within a quarter of a mile of the church did not go out to hear Judge Longshore, the great Sachem of the populist tribe, in his "joint discussion" all by himself. There was no applause during the talk of the Judge nor none afterwards, and it was really more like a funeral than a "politickan speakin'."

The speech was long and tiresome, part of the small audience leaving before the speaker had finished. He said McMillan was afraid to meet him on the stump, but afterwards contradicted himself by saying that Judge McMillan would meet him in joint discussion later on. He claimed that the county was in better shape today than when he went into office, but at the same time he failed to say that when he went into office the credit of the county was good for a loan of any reasonable amount, but that only a short time ago a Shelby county capitalist refused to make a straight loan to the county of a few thousands because the credit of the county was not good for the amount. He hammered The Sentinel, but not a ripple of enthusiasm came in response to anything he said until he referred to McMillan as being an honest, upright man, and a glance at the audience showed that most of those present heartily approved the endorsement given the coming Democratic Probate Judge. Taken altogether it was a cold reception on a hot June day—those present being in an apathetic mood to an embarrassing degree to the speaker. It was wholly void of any interest whatever.

BY THE WAYSIDE.

LYNCH.

T. B. Payne, of Ensley, is visiting relatives here.

Several of our young people attended services at Pilgrim's Rest last Sunday.

J. B. Thomas, of Calvary, passed through here last Saturday.

Dr. J. H. Williams was called to see G. W. Dye last Saturday night. Mr. Dye is still very feeble.

W. Paye and wife visited relatives near Columbiana Saturday and Sunday.

J. T. Lynch visited his brother at Dargin last Sunday.

John M. Dye has been suffering with "big-jaw"—toothache.

John Roach and wife, of Campbranch, visited relatives here Sunday.

There will be a children's day service at Mt. Era on the second Sunday in July.

An effort is being made by the populist leaders to resurrect the Farmers' Alliance. It is evidently a political move to strengthen the populist-republican party in Shelby county. We are informed that at one place it organized last week with one member.

We suppose that the "brass tax" referred to in the conglomerated organ is to brazen the merits of populism. In our opinion it is another illegal tax, and therefore unconstitutional. We learn that there is some dissatisfaction among the opposition in this beat, and that some of them will vote our ticket in November.

MARION.

OBITUARY.

The angel of death regards neither old age nor youth when he puts in his sickle to reap. The people of Bethel neighborhood seemed to fully realize this fact on the evening of the 9th of June, when the news was rapidly heralded from house to house that the infant daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. (Julius) Nelson was dead. It was indeed a sad experience to the parents to have to give up their only child. How strange the providence that brings this sad bereavement to this happy home. She was the object of fond affections, and how unprepared the parents were to give her up to death. Father and mother's highest ambition was to bring their little daughter up into womanhood and to usefulness, but how often does the unexpected happen.

Rev. H. M. Millstead closed the burial service at the Johnston cemetery in the presence, perhaps, of the largest audience ever congregated at that place to pay their last tribute of respect to one so young, as the little one was only given to the parents' care for eight months. No one questions the welfare of the sweet little babe who has gone to be with Jesus, there to wait for fond parents to come so that the home circle may be made whole never to part again through eternity.

"God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love had given;
And though the body moulders here,
The soul is safe in heaven."

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved parents, but of course we cannot feel as they do over the loss, hence we offer the following:

"Hark! the voice of joy and gladness
Into silent sorrows turned,
Now the heart is filled with sadness,
Since sad news of death is learned.
How each pulse, each nerve and feeling
Seems of wonted power bereft,
As around the deathbed kneeling,
Sorrowing relatives are left."

"There to mourn with anguish weeping
O'er a daughter's lifeless clay;
Ere in the silent grave she's sleeping
Till the last, final day,
Who can soothe a mother's grieving,
What can mitigate her pain?
Hoping, trusting and believing
She will see her child again."

What can ease a father's wailing
For a fond loved daughter's loss?
God's own promise never failing,
Made through Christ upon the cross,
Then, dear father, mother, cease your weeping,
Bid your tears to flow no more;
Peaceful and quietly she's sleeping,
And is not lost, but gone before."

In Memory of Geo. W. Taylor.

On May 31, 1904, just as the day was passing away, so did the spirit of George W. Taylor take its flight from the earthly tabernacle of clay to dwell forever in the presence of Him, who 49 years also, breathed life into him and made him a living being.

He war born in Talladega county, Ala., in 1855, and in 1874 moved with his parents to Shelby county, Ala., where in 1879 he was married to Miss Adaline Gilmer, also of Shelby county. This union was blessed with seven daughters, who, together with the mother, survive him, two having married and still at home with the mother.

Mr. Taylor, when a young man, united with Fourmile Baptist church of which he was a member for a number of years. He then moved to Texas for a short time, and upon returning to this county again withheld his letter from the church for a few years, when he then united with the Baptist church in Wilsonville, and of which he was a consistent member to the time of his death.

His devotion to his family made him a kind and loving husband and father, always looking to the welfare and happiness of those dependent upon him—a trait very much to be admired. He was a so a kind and loving son to his aged mother who survive him, and to his aged and blind mother-in-law who lived with him until her death, and who was as tenderly and gently cared for by him and his loving wife as if she had been a babe. This speaks remarkably well for him as man of affection and honor. He was a good citizen and neighbor, a loyal Democrat and was always ready to do all he could for his country as he viewed the situation. He was a charter member of the Knights of Pythias lodge in Wilsonville, and always had the interest of the order at heart.

About three months ago his health began to fail him and he seemed to grow somewhat despondent, and continued in this physical and mental condition for this stated time; he was then taken with a sever spell of dysentery, and for ten days a severe battle between life and death raged—disease finally yielding and nature reasserting herself, and then prospects of a speedy recovery to health, but only for a few days, when all at once something more to be dreaded than dysentery set in. From some unknown cause heart and brain trouble set in and though the physicians worked faithfully, never all of them leaving his bedside at the same time, and doing all they could for his recovery; again that fearful battle between life and death raged more terrifically, until nature finally succumbed and death relieved him of his sufferings. Like all other human beings Mr. Taylor expressed a desire to get well; but towards the last he seemed to realize that death was inevitable; so calling for his family, and as they approached his bedside, he told them that he must leave them, and without the least excitement, beginning with his wife, he kissed and bade each one that sad and last farewell, requesting them not grieve for him, but to meet him in heaven. Then sending farewells to those of his loved ones not present, and shaking hands with friends who were there and leaving his family in the hands of God and all christian people, peacefully closed his eyes and in a few short hours his spirit took its flight. Just and calmly and peace ully as if he were only going to sleep. So calm was he in this last sad scene that had a stranger been present, he could have no doubts in his mind about Mr. Taylor's soul being saved, and is now with his God in peace.

He was buried with K. of P. honors, and a large concourse of friends silently followed his body to its last resting place. The last tribute of respect: the placing of the elaborate and beautiful floral designs so nicely arranged by the tender touch of gentle female fingers showed the high esteem in which he was held; also reminded us of the solemn fact that all of nature from the strongest man to the most delicate flower bloom into life for only a season, then decay in death. We leave his body in the Silent City of the Dead, looking beyond the tomb of silent marble for another meeting on the Resurrection Morn.

We thank God that all races, even the heathen, the savage and the barbaric races, somehow catch the mysterious whisperings of a higher life, and it finds lodgement in their hearts that it "is not all of life to live, nor all of death to die." In the silent monarch of the forest the storms of winter fail to keep entombed, and in due season it bursts forth into glory. The frazile flower falls asleep after it had budded, matured and bloomed, but after a season in the grave it bursts forth and lives again in its sweetness and lovely purity.

There is no man of intelligence living within the light of christian civilization who does not in his heart believe the soul is immortal, and that we shall live again "where no storms ever beat on the glittering strand, and the years of eternity roll." Peace to his ashes and may God bless and sustain his beloved in this their greatest sorrow, and finally reunite in glory in His own good time, where farewells are never spoken and partings are never known.

W. W. Wallace visited with his mother at Klein last Saturday and Sunday.

The game of ball at Shelby last Friday drew a large crowd from Columbiana.

☞All Dollar preparations 80 cents at J. H. Mason & Co's drugstore.

J. F. Pope, a prominent merchant of Wilsonville, was in town a few hours last Monday.

W. R. Lawley visited with friends in Birmingham over last Sunday, returning home Monday.

Any place where a boy has no business, is not a good place for him to be. Boys, don't loaf.

Dr. C. T. Acker visited his parents in Montevallo a day or two last week, returning home Thursday.

☞All 25 cent packages of Liver Powders, Black Draught, etc., at 15c at J.H.Mason & Co's drugstore.

The peek-a-boo shirt waist is in evidence again. It looks to be a very comfortable article of wearing apparel.

Miss Rossar Christian, who has been visiting with friends in Bessemer for the past two weeks, is expected home tomorrow.

Mrs. John S. Pitts, who has been visiting relatives in Sylacauga and Vincent for the past ten days, returned home Monday.

Misses Bessie Robertson and Cora Morgan were visiting with friends in Montevallo several days last week, returning home Thursday.

Columbiana's ball team gave an ice cream supper on the White House lawn last Thursday night, and added a few dollars to the treasury.

Pierce Mason, who has been attending the Southern University at Greensboro for the past year, returned home for the summer vacation last Thursday.

There are quite a number of visitors at Shelby Springs now. The new hotel which has been built there this season will be completed in a few days.

W. G. Parker has just finished burning a kiln of 300,000 brick, and they are of a most excellent quality. He will begin making brick for another kiln in a short time.

Sheriff Cox brought six negroes from Calera last Sunday who had been arrested charged with unlawful riding of trains. They are now cooling off in the county jail.

The question has often been asked why more women than men go to church? As a rule men take little interest in what other men wear, is the best solution we can give.

A picnic party composed of J. J. Haynes and family, Mrs. J. P. Roberts and two little children, Mrs. Bartlett and Miss Maud Bell enjoyed a delightful day at Shelby Springs last Thursday.

Prof. Glenn, of Calera, one of Shelby county's registrars, was in Columbiana one day last week in conference with the other registrars, Prof. S. Dowell, of this place, and Prof. C. H. Florey, of Harpersville.

A game of ball between Shelby and Columbiana teams at Shelby last Friday terminated in a victory for Columbiana by a score of 14 to 12. The Sentinel is told that a feature of the game was the playing of the umpire.

Miss Loulah Wilson, who has been visiting in Calera for the past week, returned to Columbiana Monday afternoon. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. L. N. Bowdon, who will visit with her mother, Mrs. T. M. Wilson, for several days.

The game of ball between Calera and Columbiana on the local grounds Tuesday, was a hot proposition, and up to the end of the sixth inning it was nobodys game—the score standing two for each team. In the seventh the visitors bunched several hits and landed four men over the home plate. The score, at the end of the game, stood 9 to 6 in favor of the visitors. Both teams did good work, and the large crowd enjoyed it. Bob Sessions, who pitched for the visitors, did as pretty work in the box as has been seen on the Columbiana grounds in a long time. A very pleasant feature was the prevailing good nature between the contestants. Each team has won a game from the other, and the third will be played in the near future. H. D. Latham was umpire, and gave general satisfaction.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Erlick returned from St. Louis last Sunday, where they had been visiting relatives and attending the World's Fair for the past two weeks. Mr. Erlick says the Fair is an immense thing, and to see it right would entail a visit of several months. He says it is hot and dusty at the Fair now, and advises his friends, those who intend to visit it, to go some time in September.

If Arthur Armstrong continues to cultivate his talent as a cartoonist he will be holding a good position on some leading daily paper at a good salary one of these days. Good cartoonists are in demand all the time. Young Armstrong's cartoon on the game of ball played at Shelby last Friday shows originality in design and thought, and it is intelligently interpreted in his sketch.

Miss Esther Mason, Miss Lillie Crosby and Raymond Crosby returned from St. Louis on Tuesday, where they had been taking in the sights at the World's Fair for a few days. Miss Crosby and Mr. Crosby live in Stockton, but will visit in Columbiana for a while with their uncle, Judge D. R McMillan.

Rev. G. T. Harris, who is holding a protracted meeting in Shelby this week, was at home Monday and says he is having a good meeting. The people of Columbiana and vicinity are invited to attend these meetings. They will continue through this week.

Mrs. D. R. McMillan and Mrs. Henry Milner returned last Saturday night from St. Louis, where they had been attending the World's Fair. They came home earlier than they expected to because of the intense heat and the dust on the grounds.

Miss Myrtle Chapman, who has been visiting relatives in the city for the past three weeks, returned to her home in Montevallo last Monday. She was accompanied by Mrs. Henry Chapman who will visit with relatives there for a few days.

On June 30th, Governor Cunningham will deliver a Masonic address in the court house, Columbiana, to which the public is cordially invited. Governor Cunningham is one of the finest orators in the State, and his address will be of interest to everybody.

The contract for building a new jail for Shelby county has been awarded to Dobson & Bynum, of Montgomery, the contract price being $9,270.75. The work will soon begin, and be pushed rapidly until the building is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Upshaw, of Bessemer, and who are visiting relatives in Shelby, were in Columbiana a few hours last Monday. They were accompanied by Mrs. F. B. Finch, of Shelby.

Ice cream will be served on the White House lawn tomorrow (Friday) night, and all are cordially invited to be present.

The Masonic Conference of this county will convene in Columbiana on June 29th, and continue through three days.

Hon. E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo, was in town Monday and Tuesday. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call.

Mrs. J. B. Pitts and children returned from Wilsonville, Monday, where they had been visiting relatives.

Miss Gertrude Glazener has returned from a visit with relatives at Sylacauga and Sycamore.

Mrs. M. E. Parker chaperoned a party of young people to Shelby Springs one day last week.

Mrs. J. W. Johnston is visiting her sister, Mrs. Price, at Shelby Springs for a short time.

Miss Foster, of Tuscaloosa, is in the city a guest of Miss Carolyne Rowe.

John Sanders, jr., of Bessemer, was in town a few hours Monday.

☞All 50 cent preparations at 40 cents at J. H. Mason's & Co's.

David Wade, of Shelby, was in town a few hours Monday.

J. F. Averyt was up from Shelby a few hours Monday on a business mission.

The Shelby County Masonic Conference will convene in Columbiana on 29th.

A little girl babe of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. M. Page has been quite ill for several days.

A. B. Milner, of Nashville, is in the city for a short visit at the home of Mrs. M. E Mason.

Death of J. D. Farrington.

J. D. Farrington, well known to the people of Shelby county and whose home was in Montevallo, was taken suddenly ill early last Saturday morning, and died at 1 o'clock Monday morning.

The cause of Mr. Farrington's death was congestion of the bowels. His condition was so critical Sunday that a special train carried him to Selma for the purpose of having an operation performed. He was accompanied by his two daughters, Mrs. Sam'l Farrington and Miss Bessie Allen. No relief came to him at Selma, and at the time stated above death relieved him of his suffering. The remains were brought back to Montevallo Monday, and the funeral occurred from the Baptist church in that city, of which the deceased was a member.

"Uncle Joe," as he was familiarly called by those who knew him best, was a big hearted man, a good citizen a kind neighbor, and was devoted to his family. He was about 55 years old, and leaves a widow and five children to mourn his death.

In the great sorrow that has come to the grieving wife and children, may the Father of the widow and the orphan cover them with the mantle of His protecting care, is the sympathetic wish of a large circle of friends.

Wilsonville.

Wilsonville is growing rapidly; buildings going up, contracts out for more.

Miss Roland, the trimmer in the J. F. Pope store returned to her home in Nashville a few days ago, much to the regret of her many friends here.

Oscar Tinney is spending a few days with homefolks.

Rev. Mr. Shawl, who has charge of the Presbyterian church at this place now, preached very interesting sermons last Sunday morning and evening.

G. E. Weldon is off on a visit to see his lady love, and if "Madame Rumor" is correct these visits will soon terminate very happily for Embrue.

James Evans and family are visiting relatives in Fourmile.

E. H. Smith spent a few days last week in Talladega.

Rev. G. W. Hamilton spent Friday in your city.

Our town will have four protracted meetings this summer. We hope all will be greatly benefitted by these meetings. There is material here for a good one.

I noticed in Harpersville items that "Jake" is also reminding his people of their neglected dead. That is right, "Jake"; I fully agree with you. XX.

Lester's Chapel.

Farmers are now busy laying by their corn.

W. G. Rosco transacted business in Columbiana Friday.

Miss Nora Tidmore has been on the sick list for a week past, but we are glad to state she is better.

Brother Hamilton filled his appointment at this place on the second Sunday, preaching to a large and attentive congregation.

The inspector of the free delivery route passed through this community Saturday.

R. J. Ray and family, of Wilsonville, visited relatives in this community Saturday.

Robert Blackerby passed here Friday on his way to Columbiana.

W. C Blackerby found a bee tree near Lester's Chapel last Friday.

Madame Rumor says there is to be a wedding in this community in the near future. How about it, Mr. Smith?

Roy Lester found his first bee tree, Saturday, near what is known as the Tom Walton place.

Best wishes for the success of The Sentinel and the Democratic nominees.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the firm heretofore known as J. H. Mason & Co., composed of J. H. Mason and W. P. Hamner, which was engaged in carrying on a general drug business in the town of Columbiana, was dissolved on the 14th day of June, 1904, by mutual consent, J. H. Mason assuming all the liabilities of said firm.

Witness our hands this 20th day of June, 1904.

W. P. Hamner.

Pretty Montevallo Wedding.

No occurrence in our little city has aroused such general interest as the marriage of Dr. E. G. Givhan and Miss Lena Parham Peterson, which occurred at the Peterson home on last Thursday evening, at six o'clock. A few intimate friends and relatives of the family were present to witness the nuptials.

The elegant home was tastefully decorated, the principal feature being a bower of ferns, palms and vines in which was erected a temporary altar before which the happy couple knelt to plight their mutual vows. At the piano was Miss Maud Allen. After Mr. Houston, one of the visiting friends, had sung with exquisite feeling, DeKoven's "O Promise Me," Miss Allen played the grand march from Tannahauser, and the bridal party entered. First came Miss Overton Peterson, the wee sister of the bride, bearing the pillow upon which the bride and groom knelt before the altar. Dr. Givhan then entered accompanied by his best man, Mr. Bernice Wilson, of Demopolis, after whom came the bride with her maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Winston. They met at the altar when Rev. F M. Peterson, the bride's father, pronounced the solemn words that made them one.

The whole ceremony was beautiful in all its details, glowing in the simplicity of pure white, from the exquisite gown and roses of the bride to the sumptuous bride's cake which formed the center of attraction in the dining room. Everything was suggestive of the joyousness of the occasion—white flowers, white dresses, bright lights, gleaming silver and cut glass, all constituted a setting in perfect harmony with what we know of the character and life of the young and happy bride.

After the ceremony delicious refreshments were served and the bride's cake amid peals of merry laughter. The display of presents in the dining room was gorgeous, literally. They were numerous and handsome, speaking volumes for the popularity of both the bride and groom.

At eight o'clock Dr. and Mrs. Givhan left for Gulfport, Miss., to visit the doctor's mother and sister.

Dr. Givhan numbers his friends by the thousands throughout the State, and from every one of them goes up the hearty prayer that God may shower his best blessieg upon him and his lovely wife "so long as they both shall live." They will make their home in the doctor's handsome residence on College street which has recently been re-decorated and furnished for the advent of the bride. Among the friends present were the following visitors from abroad:

A. J. Lee, Mobile; J. R. Hill, Gulfport, Miss.; Bernice Wilson, Demopolis; C. H. Winston, Sumpter county; Harry Reynolds, Blocton; Misses Alice Camp, Gadsden; Shelby Garrett, Greensboro; Lallee Tice, Selma; Overton Ward, Selma; Lottie Lavere, Gulfport, Miss.; Alice Pettus, Selma; Overton Winston, Elizabeth Winston, Bodka; Lucy Ledyard, Montgomery; Mrs. Chas. Stickney, Birmingham; Mrs. J. C. Parham, Gainsville.

Shelby County School Districts.

As secretary of the Re-districting Board of Shelby county, it affords me pleasure to announce the completion of our work.

The educational interest of every community has been considered, and districts have been formed with reference to centers of population and natural barriers, as law prescribes.

A complete record of our work will be found in the Judge of Probate's office, subject to public inspection.

We have created 63 new separate school districts, the boundaries of which, in most communities, have been made as per the instructions of the citizens of such communities.

It is not practical to suppose this work is a piece of perfection: but with the light which we had before us, we have given you our best possible service. We shall from time to time review the field, and make such changes in lines as may seem necessary.

Those who furnished us with diagrams of their districts need no further instructions, only by way of calling attention to the importance of electing trustees on Saturday, July 2, 1904. The law plainly says they shall be elected on the above named date; said election to be held at the school houses in the respective districts, and the officers to be taken from the householders and freeholders residing in the districts, who can read and write. A certificate of such election must be forwarded at once to the County Superintendent.

"The school districts which fails to comply with the requirements of this law may lose their share of the apportionment of the public school funds," so says Thos. L. Sowell, State Auditor. JOHN B. FARRELL, Supt. of Education.

Spring Creek Items.

Farmers are very busy cutting oats and grass.

We are glad to see Mrs. Henry Frost up again. She has been quite sick.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingram, on the 11th, inst., a baby boy.

Mr. John and Mark Wyatt attended quarterly meeting at Highland last Saturday.

Quite a number from Spring Creek went to a picnic at Saginaw last Saturday. Among the number was Frank Satterwhite. Miss Ida Steele, of Montevallo, met him there and they went to Elliottsville and were quietly married by Rev. Morgan.

Mrs. John Wyatt and son Oscar visited with the family of Charlie Wyatt at Six Mile, last Saturday and Sunday.

Quite a number from Spring Creek attended services at Elliottsville last Sunday.

Ben Cunningham, of Maplesville, visited his father's family here last Sunday. JACK TODD.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

FORBES' PIANO SALE
-THE FITE STOCK-
STILL GOING ON

Stock Constitutes the Biggest Purchase Ever Made by a Southern House and Contains

FINEST INSTRUMENTS NOW ON THE MARKET

If You Wish a Piano, Organ or Music Box at a Low Figure and on the Most Reasonable Terms See or Write Us.

The E. E. Forbes Piano Co.'s sale of the Frank G. Fite stock continues, for it is no ordinary sale; it represents the biggest purchase of pianos made by any southern house, and as the instruments represent the very best makes of pianos the big cut in prices has been the result of making hundreds of homes happy that have long wished in vain for a piano, but had not until the present opportunity been able to purchase one on account of the high price. Any person in the south can buy one of these pianos and save $100 after paying freight; besides that they can make the payment in an easy way, for they are only required to pay a small part down and the rest you pay next fall or next spring, after the crops have been turned into cash. Another thing about this piano sale is that ever piano is plainly marked, so if there is a man in any part of the state that wants to buy a piano for a birthday or wedding present or as a gift for next Christmas he can send to us and buy just as well without seeing the piano, because every piano is marked and there's only one price to all.

There are also a number of organs and piano players in this sale, and we will be pleased to furnish any and all information or to explain anything about our long-time payment system, which is so easy to meet, and which so many people throughout Alabama and the other southern states are now availing themselves of.

FIXING THE BLAME FOR STEAMER HORROR

Latest Estimates of the Number of Lives Lost by the Burning of the General Slocum.

RIVER HOLDS MANY DEAD

New York City.—Off the Bronx shore of North Brother Island, where the burning General Slocum was beached, and on up the river for a mile and a half to Hunt's Point, where the tide finally carried the charred hulk, the ghastly business of fishing for human bodies has gone on day and night since the appalling tragedy, neither weariness nor hunger stopping Coroner O'Gorman's volunteer crews and the police. The racing tide made it well nigh impossible to use the grappling irons at times, but on the ebb the fishers more than made up for their enforced idleness.

Added findings now show beyond the shadow of any doubt that during the single hour following the discovery of fire in the pleasure steamboat, which was carrying Pastor Haas' St. Mark's Lutheran congregation on its annual picnic excursion, more American lives were lost than during the Spanish-American War.

Two days after the disaster Police Inspector Albertson, who is supervising the work of recovering bodies, said: "The 560 bodies found represent only half the number of dead. It will be days before the sunken Slocum gives up all its dead and for weeks bodies will be washed ashore down the East River and up the Sound."

The difficulty of estimating the number the dead is increased by the uncertainty as to the number of persons who were on the General Slocum when she left the pier and steamed up the East River on her fatal trip.

No one knows how many dead are still at the bottom of the river off the island, or how many burned and blackened corpses lie in the hull. Coroner O'Gorman thinks that at least 200 more will be found. The Coroner said that Diver John Rice and the men who worked with him at Hunt's Point believe that there are scores caught in the debris of the burned steamer. These it may be impossible to remove until the wreckers get to work and tear the Slocum apart. At any rate, it will be a week, perhaps longer, before all the dead will be found. Some, so the divers and grapplers of the river say, will never be recovered. Carried out to sea, or held fast at the bottom of the river or utterly destroyed in the fire are scores, these men think. Other divers exploring the river bed along the track covered by the burning steamer say there are heaps of bodies still beneath the water.

In all the history of disaster where human life has been sacrificed no wail of lamentation could be greater than that which has gone up from those bereft by this tragedy, for as the days grew in number the horror increased in intensity. On whose shoulders rests the terrible responsibility is yet to be determined, but one fact has been settled beyond dispute—a great number of the life preservers on the craft were not life preservers at all, but life destroyers. Instead of being buoyants, they were as leaden weights, carrying their victims to certain death.

Scores of bodies have been found with these miserable pretenses strapped about them. It may be that there were a few serviceable cork jackets on board the General Slocum, but the majority were made of powdered cork and glue, and were not only absolutely useless, but a peril rather than a safety. They were pulled out of their places by men strong enough to secure them, but the women and children in the panic and excitement did not know how to adjust the belts, and only a few of them were loaded down with the weights that meant certain death. Those found have been found on the bodies of men for the most part. All these appliances had been passed by inspectors as serviceable and safe. When the inquiry shall have begun the story of the condition of the life preservers will be of greater interest and importance than the action of the captain in the pilot house, who ran his ship aflame a mile or a mile and a half before he sought refuge by driving her ashore.

It is agreed by a majority of the survivors that Captain Van Schaik made a desperate and heroic effort to save the lives of his passengers, but experienced rivermen are of the opinion that the suddenness of the fire and the fright and confusion which followed upset his judgment and caused him to do the very thing which he ought not to have done. It has been pointed out that there are at least three points where he might have run the craft into shoal water and been within reach of help from shore and close to a flotilla of boats that were rushing to the rescue; but, either dazed by the situation or out of his head entirely, or believing that the only salvation was to reach North Brother Island, he passed Ward's Island after the fire was discovered, made no attempt to run close to the Astoria shore and steered away from the Sunken Meadows, which the Seawanhaka sought twenty-four years ago, losing less than thirty of her passengers.

Flags on the City Hall and other municipal buildings were at half mast by order of Mayor McClellan to show formally the widespread sorrow in the city for the deaths of hundreds of people caused by the burning of the steamboat. The Mayor issued a proclamation expressing the sympathy of the people of the city and appointing a relief committee.

President Roosevelt ordered Secretary Cortelyou to make a rigid investigation of the disaster, and the work will be conducted under the personal supervision of Mr. Cortelyou and Geo. Uhler, supervising inspector-general of the steamboat inspection service. Any government employe found negligent will be severely punished.

Investigations have been started by Coroner Berry and District Attorney Jerome. The fire marshal ordered an investigation of the cause of the fire. The steamboat company was conducting an inquiry of its own.

First Officer Flannagan of the steamboat made a statement at the District Attorney's office that the hose was rotten, and burst when efforts were made by the crew to put out the fire.

Around the Morgue heartbreaking scenes are witnessed every day, and the work of identification goes on rapidly. Several persons, driven insane by the awful sights they witnessed and their bereavement, attempted suicide. The scenes in the vicinity of St. Mark's Church and through the stricken district have been touching in the extreme.

As fast as the bodies were recovered they were inspected by Coroner O'Gorman on the beach of North Brother Island. Their watches and jewelry and other effects were sealed, numbered and preserved for relatives and friends. Then the corpses were placed in the rough pine coffins and sent to the Morgue to await identification.

"We found about three hundred watches on the dead," said the Coroner, "a bushel of finger rings, hundreds of pins and jeweled trinkets of every description, and a large amount of money altogether. My estimate of the value of the watches and rings and jewelry is $150,000. The dead were people in comfortable circumstances, and many of the women wore diamond earrings and diamond rings of great value. Some of them had big rolls of bills in their clothing. Many wore bags under their corsets or strapped around their waists in which hundreds of dollars were found. All this money, as well as the jewelry, has been placed in bags with tags corresponding with the number of the tags on the bodies. I don't think there will be great difficulty in relatives claiming and securing this property at the proper time."

Almost as appalling as the spectacle of the burning and drowning of the hundreds of women and children was the grief of the thousands of relatives of the dead who thronged the Morgue in the pitiful search for the loved ones who had gone away from home smiling and happy in the belief that they were to have a pleasant day's outing. These poor distracted people were as helpless as babes in their grief. They wandered about dazed—like people in a dream. There were little children bereft of both parents and sisters and brothers. There were fathers and mothers who had been rendered childless. Ther were fathers, and these were in the greater number, who had lost wives and children. In some terrible instances whole families had been blotted out. Six Brooklyn families met this awful fate.

One of the most frightful scenes on the burning steamboat General Slocum was the frenzied attack of a number of women, huddled for safety on the starboard paddle box, on an unknown hero, who climbed to their place of refuge to lower them to a tug with a rope that he carried. As the man, a tugboat hand, made his way up the paddle box, a score of women, rendered insane by terror, rushed at him. They sunk their teeth in his arms and tore his coat from his back. He had to fight for his life, but eventually he restored the women to a semblance of reason and lowered many of them to the tug. One arm was terribly bitten.

ROBBERS LOOT EXPRESS.

Shoot Engine Driver Dead, Then Blow Up Car and Safe.

Butte, Mont.—Two train robbers held up the eastbound North Coast Limited, the Northern Pacific's crack passenger express, a mile east of Bear Mouth, Mont., where the same train was held up last year, and Engineer O'Neil met his death at the bandits' hands.

After bringing the train to a standstill, the robbers had a brief but sharp fight with the engineer, who fell dead in his cab with two bullets in his brain. The robbers then blew up the express car. Three times dynamite was exploded under the safe, and it and the car were demolished. The bandits are believed to have secured heavy plunder, estimated at $40,000, with which they escaped to the large timber of the mountains.

JAPAN'S GREAT VICTORY

Attempt of the Russians to Relieve Port Arthur Fails.

BIG LOSS IN MEN AND GUNS

Outcome of Several Days' Fighting About Eighty Miles North of Port Arthur—Japanese Losses Estimated at 1000 Killed and Wounded—Two Japanese Transports Sunk by Russian Fleet.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—Official dispatches announce a terrible battle, lasting two days, in which the Russian army has received a crushing defeat.

The Russian forces, under Lieutenant-General Stalkelberg, which have been threatening the rear of General Oku, commander of the Japanese forces investing Port Arthur, were preparing for an attack, when the Japanese surprised them by a fierce onslaught at Telissu, eighty miles north of Port Arthur.

The Russians, in the first of the fight, completely annihilated a squadron of Japanese cavalry. Then the Russians were driven back.

The Third and Fourth batteries of the First Artillery Brigade were cut to pieces by the Japanese shells.

The Russians lost 500 killed and 300 officers and men and fourteen guns captured.

The Japanese lost 1000 killed and wounded.

General Stalkelberg fell back to Vantsailin, thirty miles north of Vafangow. Two divisions of General Kuroki's army were marching from Sin-Yen to take him in the rear and cut him off from General Kuropatkin's main army.

Four brigades of infantry, comprising 12,000 men; three regiments of cavalry and eight batteries of artillery—in all 17,000—represented the Japanese force in action, but there was a considerable reserve numbering two brigades. The Russian forces are estimated at 20,000, and at the time the right flank was turned another brigade was coming south to the relief of General Stalkelberg. General Yamaguchi telegraphs that thirty Russian officers were killed, having been found on the field; that fifteen are among the captured and that one Russian infantry regiment lost one-quarter of its men. At dusk the Japanese had turned the right flank of the Russians and were developing a similar movement on the left flank, when General Stalkelberg's centre broke and what was first an orderly retreat developed into a rout.

It is known that at Likuanthun, where the overwhelming defeat of Stalkelberg took place, at least a brigade of the Japanese army had to come up on the road from Pitsuwo several days before, and was probably in the valleys of the Hiung Mountains waiting to reinforce the Japanese divisions coming north on the railroad from Fuchow.

The Japanese, on their part, have suffered the loss of two transports, which were torpedoed and sunk in the Japan Sea, near the entrance to the Korean Straits by vessels of the Russian Vladivostok squadron. Five hundred and fifty survivors have reached neighboring Japanese ports. It is reported that the transports carried about 1400 men, besides many horses and quantities of army supplies. Japanese warships are in chase of the Russian squadron, but its escape has been assisted by a storm and thick weather.

RULER OF FINLAND SHOT

Assassination of the Russian Governor-General.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—General Bobrikoff, Governor-General of Finland, was shot dead at the entrance to the Finnish Senate, at Helsingfors.

The assassin, a man named Schaumann, a son of Senator Schaumann, immediately committed suicide. The attack is ascribed to Finnish patriotism, as Schaumann is believed to have been a member of what is known as the Finish Patriotic Party.

Murder or Acoident?

The body of John Culburn, a miner, was found beside the railroad tracks at Brookside. From the position of the body and its condition many believe that the miner was not killed by the train, but that he was murdered and his body placed on the track to cover the deed.

The man's arm was cut off, and his knee was broken. Internal injuries were also in evidence, and there were a number of bruises.

A New York fly paper firm shipped two car loads of the commodity to Butte, Mont., where it will be used in copper mines to catch flies. The consignment comprised 1,100,000 sheets and cost a little over $8,000. As each sheet—they are blanket sheets—will catch 5,000 flies, the total number trapped when the supply is used up will be about 5,500,000,000 insetcs—several tons of pests.

Up to ten years ago flies were unheard of in the mines. They seemed to dislike the sulphur gases. Horses began to be used under ground, and with them came the flies.

They have become blind by long confinement in the dark subterranean passages.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 boxes of matches are used each day by the people of the United States, and that amounts to about five matches per person. In 1900, $156,705 worth of matches were imported into this country, and $95,422 worth exported from it. The lucifer match was invented in 1827. Safety matches were put upon the market in 1855. In Great Britain, Norway, Sweden and Germany the match-making industry has assumed enormous proportions. In France it is a government monopoly. In the United States it is controlled by a single corporation.

"Suit dismissed with costs for the plaintiff," was the verdict of the court in the suit which Kubelik, the violinist, brought against Dr. Gehrmann, the music critic of the Frankfurter Zeitung, for which the violinist deemed insulting personalities in criticisms of his concerts. Dr. Gehrmann described Kubelik as "a stupid looking man of superfine effeminine appearance" and spoke of him also as a "specialist and miracle worker who produces but tones."

JAPANESE SINK TWO

Russians Lose a Cruiser and a Torpedo Boat. Disease Attacks Both Armies.

RAIN STOPS FIGHTING.

Japanese are Withdrawing—France Will Allow Coaling.

Peace.

A belated report from Admiral Togo records a desperate and successful torpedo attack at the entrance of Port Arthur June 27th, in which a Russian guardship and a Russian torpedo boat destroyer were sunk.

Admiral Togo reports the loss of one officer and thirteen men killed, and one officer and two men wounded. He makes no mention of damage to his fleet.

The twelfth torpedo boat flotilla, under the command of Commander Yamada, delivered the attack. The Japanese vessels were revealed by the Russian searchlights and the shore forts opened a heavy fusillade on them. The Russian guardship was surrounded and attacked by the Japanese, who saw this vessel sink. Following this the Russian torpedo boat destroyers attacked the Japanese vessels, which responded to the onslaught. A Russian destroyer, while within the area lit up by the searchlights, was seen to explode, rise, fall back into the water sideways and sink.

It has been announced officially that Vice Admiral Kamimura met the Russian Vladivostock squadron Friday night, about sixty miles north of Nagasaki. The Russian squadron consisted of three cruisers only, the torpedo boat flotilla evidently having returned to Vladivostock after the bombardment of June 30th. Vice Admiral Kamimura was in superior force. He opened fire and the Russians replied, but at the same time they fled to the northeast with the Japanese in pursuit.

The Vladivostock squadron eluded Vice Admiral Kamimura's squadron in the darkness. A drizzling rain and fog favored the Russian vessels.

Land operations in Manchuria are believed to have been practically adjourned for six weeks until the rains shall be over. Telegrams from Liao Yang agree that the Japanese are withdrawing from their positions, the capture of which entailed the cost of so much blood and ammunition. The same telegrams show that the Russians are promptly taking advantage of the withdrawal of the Japanese and are assuming the offensive, inflicting considerable losses on the Japanese.

A war correspondent from Mukden expresses the opinion that with the rainy season at hand the Japanese have lost their opportunity of dealing General Kuropatkin a crushing blow. He says that neither the world in general nor the Japanese knew how weak the Russian army was in the earlier stage of the war, and asserts that practically the Russian army was nonexistent, but when he left June 18th Kuropatkin had 125,000 men and reinforcements were pouring in at the rate of 2,000 a day.

The Japanese legation received the following dispatch from Tokio:

"On the 15th of June a petty officer and other soldiers, six in all, belonging to the Eighteenth infantry regiment, encountered while scouting about fifteen Russian troops at Cheng Tsu Shan and were killed after a hand to hand fight. On the death of these men the Russians thrust their bayonets into their mouths and cut open their lungs and took away the contents of their pockets."

The reports that France will permit the Russian Baltic fleet to take in coal at French ports along the route to the for east are officially verified.

The Russian losses in killed or wounded so far number 8,000. Many more have been in hospitals, but no epidemics have yet been reported.

The Tokio correspondent of the Reuter Telegraph Company wires that it is rumored there that Russia, through France as an intermediary, has offered the surrender of Port Arthur with ships and arms to Japan, provided the garrison is allowed to go free. The report is not confirmed.

Military experts believe that the center of gravity again has shifted to Port Arthur, where siege operations are expected to engage most of the attention of the Japanese until the conclusion of the rainy season permits the resumption of the campaign in southern Manchuria.

Jumped from Bridge.

After divesting himself of part of his clothing, a man, supposed to be Edward Sentinel Cheney, of Lockport, jumped from the Eads bridge and drowned.

Mississippi Baptists.

The Mississippi Baptist state convention meets at Hattiesburg on the 6th of July. The Baptists have about 125,000 communicants in the state.

DOES NOT WANT THE ANTS.

Texas Planter Seeks Injunction to Prevent Introduction Into the State.

Robert Clark, a prominent planter of Cahoun county, Texas, states that he will apply for an injunction to prevent the government experts bringing the Guatemalan ant into Texas as insect enemy of the boll weevil. It was stated recently that Government Entomologist Cook is now en route with a large number of the ants, the first lot of which are to be taken to Victoria, in which county Mr. Clark has interests and which adjoins Cahoun county, where his plantation is located.

Mr. Clark asked as to the basis for his application, said:

"To my mind it is a serious and dangerous matter to transplant a South American insect or pest to south Texas, because they will multiply very rapidly here.

"One-half the cotton is picked by negroes who do not wear enough clothes to make a whole shirt, and the other half by barefooted children. This ant to be of avail in destroying the weevil must cover the entire field, and any one who has had a few of the native ants sting him will realize that it will be impossible to get the cotton picked."

SHIPBUILDING TRUST.

Decree Rendered Ordering Sale of Its Properties.

Judge Lanning signed a final decree in the United States circuit court ordering a sale of the United States Shipbuilding company in the foreclosure proceedings instituted by the Mercantile Trust Company and the New York Security and Trust company on the two mortgages held by them for $15,000,000 and $10,000,000, respectively. In this decree Judge Lanning also fixed the minimum amount which the receiver is authorized to accept for the properties of the underlying companies in the trust.

The shipbuilding company is ordered by the decree to turn over the total amount due on the two mortgages within ten days, in default of which the receiver is authorized to advertise and proceed with the sale.

FIRE IN MEMPHIS.

Destroys $30,000 Worth of Property in the Wholesale District.

Fire of unknown origin in the wholesale district caused a loss estimated at $30,000.

The chief losses were sustained by the following firms:

Pease & Dwyer, grain dealers, $15,000; J. F. Frank & Co., wholesale groceries, $2,000; Charles Barboro, saloon, $5,000; Sighexter & Co., brokers, $3,000.

Twelve or fifteen offices of cotton factors and others sustain damage. The losses are covered by insurance.

Frank Harvey, a fireman, fell through the elevator shaft in Pease & Dwyer's building and was probably fatally injured.

Senor DeLome Dead.

Senor Dupuy DeLome, who was Spanish minister at Washington prior to the outbreak of the war between the United States and Spain, died at Paris Friday of cerebral hemorrhage. The ambassador had been suffering for some time, but there was no apprehension.

Minister DeLome's career in the United States was marked by one of the most sensational incidents in the history of American diplomacy. This was the famous DeLome letter episode of February, 1898, in the heat of the Cuban excitement and barely two months before the outbreak of the Spanish war. The letter was a personal one to Senor Don Jose Canalejos, containing very deprecatory utterances about President McKinley.

Hanna's Heirs Must Pay Tax.

According to a ruling the estate of the late Senator Hanna will be compelled to pay the state tax of about $60,000. This is under the direct inheritance law passed by the legislature last winter, the auditor ruling that all estates not yet settled are liable for the tax, no matter if the person died before the law was enacted.

Exports Increased.

Statistics of the treasury department show that exports of manufactures for the fiscal year ending June 30 (with June estimated) approximate $450,000,000 and an increase of about $40,000,000 over the last preceding year, and the largest on record. The volume of our foreign commerce for the year just closed will reach the enormous total of $2,485,000,000, nearly $50,000,000 more than the year before. Imports are rather less, while exports are considerably larger.

President Roosevelt promoted Major Theodore A. Bingham, of the engineer corps, to be brigadier general and ordered his immediate retirement.

It is reported the Mexican government will pay the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway $400,000 on account of its subsidy.

Cardinal Satolli made an official call at the different national pavilions at the fair grounds. He was accompanied by Archbishop Glannon, of St Louis, and both wore their brilliant robes of office.

GLORIOUS FOURTH

Numerous Fatal Accidents and Serious Injuries Reported from Every Section.

A STORE FULL OF FIREWORKS

Caused Panic in Massachusetts—One Badly Injured—Report from Indiana—Birmingham Escaped.

Accidentally stepping on a large toy torpedo, a clerk in a Worcester, Mass., store started a fire which caused the explosion of $700 worth of fireworks and cut off forty customers and clerks who were in the store from the only exit. Women and children were injured and suffocated from smoke and were rescued from the cellar where they had fled to avoid the flames. Manuel Oviminian was caught under a freight elevator as it was descending with twenty-five women and was probably fatally hurt. Twenty-five women and children received minor injuries. One little boy who had been locked up in a room directly under where the fire started on the charge of stealing candy in the store was rescued by the firemen.

Louisville, Ky., dealers in explosives were warned by the board of safety not to sell fireworks.

R. Lee Suter, a member of the board of public safety, an attorney and for several years an important figure in democratic politics, was shot and killed by Sanford Vaughn, Jr., the son of a wealthy contractor. Vaughn, who admits that he fired the shot, says he was celebrating the Fourth.

Suter was asleep on a cot and the bullet passed through his breast, severing an artery and producing a wound similar to that received by William Goebel. Vaughn was driving, and according to the statements of three young men with him, was shooting from side to side, one of the bullets finding its way to the river bank where Suter's tent was pitched. Vaughn was arrested.

A sail boat containing seven pleasure seekers was capsized in Muskegon, Mich., lake and four of the occupants were drowned in view of the hundreds of spectators.

No Fourth of July casualties are reported from Alabama.

In Indiana one fatality and 87 injured is the total of the celebration accidents. At Elkhart a 10-year-old boy was killed and a number of companions severely injured by an explosion of dynamite caused by concussion of exploding fireworks.

At Great Falls, Mont., Margaret Fink is dying of a wound inflicted during a Fourth of July celebration by Arthur Gies, 40 years of age, who discharged a shotgun in the girl's face, blowing off part of her head.

William H. Jones and Miss Myrtle Harper, while bathing in the Oconee river a few miles below Oconee Springs, Ga., were drowned.

Cloudburst in Utah.

A cloudourst leading into the Wasatch range from the bench lands northwest of Salt Lake City sent a wall of water six to ten feet high down Dry Creek canyon causing much damage. A fan-shaped cloud swept over the northeast portion of the city with a roar that could be heard several miles. Streets were converted into rivers.

Trees, sidewalks and streets were torn up. Several costly residences were damaged and only saved from destruction by their high retaining walls. The power houses at Ogden, Bear River and Murray were struck by lightning — the latter being destroyed.

Bishops Appeal.

Secretary of State Hay received the following telegram from Persia:

"Turkish barbarians massacreing thousands. Armenians humbly solicit United States government in the name of Christianity and humanity to save innocent lives.

"ARMENIAN BISHOPS IN PERSIA."

Ensley Mill Busy.

The steel rail mill at Ensley, belonging to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, is furnishing steel rails to the Harriman system of railroads, quite a quantity having already been delivered to the Southern Pacific railroad, a branch of that system.

The statement is made that the management of the Harriman system of railroads is making extensive improvements, and among other things 60,000 tons of steel rails weighing eighty pounds to the yard, to cost in the neighborhood of $28 a ton, or a total of $1,680,000, will be purchased.

A Governor's Mansion.

A governor's mansion in Montgomery, to be used by the chief executive of Alabama and his family, is one of the possibilities of the near future. Under the provisions of the capitol improvement act the commission may in its wisdom take part of the funds for the erection of a governor's mansion. This measure is under consideration by the commission.

SUNDAY'S STORM

Did Considerable Damage in Various Parts of the State.

The worst storm in years swept over Scottsboro and vicinity. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning was terrific. Great damage was done to land, the hillsides which had been recently plowed washing away. Several fine and valuable horses were killed by the lightning. A number of fine milch cows were also killed.

The fine barn of W. W. Howard was torn to pieces by the wind. The lightning took the top off a large tree near the Harris hotel and struck the handsome residence of Mrs. W. J. Robinson. Dozens of trees were struck and literally torn into fragments in the town. Several persons made narrow escapes.

For the past few days the section about Gadsden has been visited with severe rains and hail storms in widely separated sections and a great deal of damage has been done to growing crops. In Coats Bend a 50-acre cotton field belonging to W. H. Hood was almost ruined, all the leaves and limbs being stripped from the plant and leaving only the stalk. In Little Wills valley Wednesday a heavy rain fell and a 25-acre field of corn was submerged for more than an hour and badly damaged.

In Whorton's bend, some eight miles below Gadsden, a hail storm wrecked cotton and corn for several miles and did other damage to crops, especially to peach trees.

Hail in Birmingham broke windows and punctured awnings.

POOR WILL PROFIT

By New Revenue Laws in the Philippine Islands.

The internal revenue law for the Philippine Islands prepared by Governor Wright has been passed by the commission after an extensive public discussion. It estimates the revenue at five million gold, one-quarter of which will revert to the provinces and municipalities, and three-quarters to the insular government. The articles taxed include alcoholic productions, beer, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, matches and some licenses and occupations.

The law repeals many taxes imposed on the poor people under the existing Spanish law. It is believed that the new law ultimately will furnish the basis for substantial and complete support of the government.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART.

Martin Ragland Commits Suicide Near Warrior.

John Ragland, a young white man about twenty-one years old, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart.

With some others he had a keg of beer and had previously engaged in a beer drinking, and it is said that in a fit of despondency after a war of words with his mother, he took up his coat and told her he would never come into the house, and the fatal shot was soon fired.

Foreign Corporations in Mississippi.

Within the next few days a ruling from the state revenue agent's office is expected to the effect that the foreign corporations doing business in the state without having filed their charters for record with the secretary of state have no legal standing in the commonwealth and can not enforce the collection of their debts.

Such a ruling will have a sweeping effect, as at least 90 per cent of the corporations that send traveling men in the state to take orders have not filed their charters for record, and if persons not overscrupulous are inclined to take advantage of this method of settling their debts with these firms they will find it a very easy matter.

Three Killed.

A special from Texarkana says: Miss Sybil Pugh, aged 15; Maud Pillow, aged 14, and Birdie Bell Pillow, aged 4, were killed and four others injured. The party were in a surrey when the horse ran away, overturning the surrey, dragging it directly in front of a rapidly moving street car, which plowed through it.

Held Without Bail.

At Selma, Calvin Kimball, a negro, was assaulted with a pistol and Josh Sills and Walter Davis, white men, are in jail for the offense. From evidence obtained Davis was guilty of the assault, striking the negro on the head with the weapon and then shooting him in the leg as he ran.

According to the statement of Kimball, one of the men ran against him and when he remonstrated, cursed him and struck him on the right temple with a pistol. Kimball turned and ran and the holder of the weapon fired two shots at him.

Second Payment Made.

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition company paid the United States $213,092 as the second installment on the repayment of the $4,600,000 loaned by the government. This payment represents 40 per cent of the total admission royalties, covering the period from June 16th to and including June 30th, as required under the act of congress authorizing the loan.

646 STILL MISSING

Immigrant Ship Strikes Hidden Rock and Sinks with Many on Board.

ONLY TWENTY-SEVEN SURVIVE.

Struggle for Seats in Life Boats Responsible for Some of the Fatality.

Captain Goes Down with Ship.

Over seven hundred Danish and Norwegian emigrants bound for New York are believed to have been drowned in the north Atlantic on June 28th. Out of nearly 800 souls on board the Danish steamer Norge, which left Copenhagen June 22d, only 27 are known to be alive, and for the rest no hope is held out.

When last seen the Norge was sinking where she struck on the Islet of Rockall, whose isolated head raises itself from a deadly Atlantic reef, some 290 miles off the west coast of Scotland.

Early on the morning of last Tuesday the Norge, which was out of her course in heavy weather, ran on the Rockall reef which in the distance looks like a ship under full sail. The Norge was quickly backed off, but the sea poured in through a rent in her bows.

The emigrants who were awaiting breakfast below ran on deck. The hatchways were scarcely built for the hundreds of souls and became clogged.

The Norge quickly began to go down by the head. Eight boats were lowered and into these the women and children were hurriedly put. Six of these boats smashed against the side of the Norge and their helpless inmates were caught up by the heavy seas.

Two boat loads got safely away from the side of the sinking ship, and many of the emigrants who were left on board seized life belts, threw themselves into the sea and were drowned.

Captain Gundel, so say the survivors, stood on the bridge of the doomed vessel until it could be seen no more.

The Norge foundered suddenly and some 600 terrified emigrants were thrown into the water or drawn with the sinking ship.

Those who could swim tried to reach the boats, but these were already too full and their occupants beat off the drowning with oars.

The boats kept together for some hours. Practically all of their occupants were passengers and were not used to handling such craft. The boat occupied by the survivors landed at Grimsby, and was a life boat.

One account says that three boats were successfully launched, the other two holding about ten persons.

The life boat made faster progress and fell in with the Salvia. What became of the other boats is not yet known.

The rescue of those in the life boat took place at 8 o'clock on the morning of June 29th, the survivors consisting of twenty men, one of them a seaman, six women and a girl.

Of 774 souls on board the Danish steamer Norge, 128 are known to have been saved. For the missing 646 persons small hopes are entertained.

The enormous death roll which was feared at the first news of the wreck has been decreased by 102; that number of survivors after many privations having been landed at Stornoway.

The women of South Boston have succeeded in preventing the granting of a license for a dance hall at City Point.

DELEGATES. KILLED.

Chicago Limited Runs into an Open Switch—Twenty Killed.

The Chicago Limited on the Wabash railroad was wrecked Sunday night at Litchfield, Ill. The train struck an open switch and was overturned and seven of the nine cars were burned.

Twenty persons were burned in the second and third coaches and some forty were inured.

Among the dead are Joseph Barder, delegate from North Dakota, and I. R. Mills, internal revenue collector at Decatur, Ill.

The engine after running into the switch struck a string of freight cars and with the first three coaches was piled in a heap across the track and caught fire at once.

The track was reported clear at the last station, and as the train was running about fifty miles an hour the open switch was not noticed. No information can be obtained as to who is responsible for the accident.

Three of the injured have since died.

"Some one turned that switch at Litchfield," said President Ramsey, of the Wabash, in speaking of the derailment of the train. "Whether it was one who had a spite against the railroad, or who was merely crazy, I do not know. Certainly it seems that no human spite against the road could be so bitter as to be willing to sacrifice the lives that were lost or to cause the suffering that has resulted."

LOSS $10,000.

Alexander City Has Another Big Fire.

Saturday night about 10 o'clock fire broke out in the dry goods store of George W. Sealey, at Alexander City, and for a while it seemed that the whole block, including eight stores, was doomed, but the fire was held within the building in which it originated. The fire totally consumed the large Pearson building, including the Truett saloon. Three attorney's offices and liraries and the Kennedy shoe shop on the second floor were totally destroyed. The Adams building, on the east and north of the building destroyed, was considerably damaged. Many stocks of goods in the fire vicinity have been badly damaged on account of removal. Those involved in the fire are as follows:

H. W. Pearson, building loss, $4,000, insurance said to be $3,000. Truett saloon, nearly a total loss, covered by insurance. George W. Sealey, total loss, covered by insurance. Mamie Whatley, millinery, loss about $500, insurance $300. Damage to the S. P. Adams store building adjoining, something like $1,000, covered by insurance. City Grocery Company, T. B. Turner, tinner and hardware; C. C. Adams, Jr., Adams & Lightfoot, all had bad removal losses, all covered by insurance. The total loss to property will aggregate about $10,000, with something like $7,000 insurance.

BRYAN'S ANSWER

Deemed to be an Insult—A Dramatic Scene.

Constant reports to the effect that Bryan would bolt the nominee of the convention led several delegates to go to Mr. Bryan and see him personally. Mr. Bryan was asked the direct question by Colonel Holt, of North Carolina:

"Will you support the nominee?"

Mr. Bryan placed his hand upon his heart and replied:

"I do not ask any person or party how I shall vote. This is responsible only."

Colonel Holt said:

"Mr. Bryan, I supported you; will you support the nominee?"

Mr. Bryan responded:

"Would you support Roosevelt?"

Quick as a flash Colonel Holt said:

"Mr. Bryan, I consider that an insult and I apologize to the democrats of North Carolina for having cast my vote for you."

SCIENCE WARS ON RATS.

A Bacillus Used to Exterminate the Dangerous Rodents.

The spread of the plague in the east has been shown to be due to rats which are carried from infected ports on vessels. Just the precise way in which this is accmoplished, says Harper's Weekly, is still a matter of debate among biologists, but the fact is appreciated, and in Manila and elsewhere the health authorities endeavor to kill all the rats in an infected locality and on board ships about to discharge their cargoes. This is accomplished in several ways, such as traps, catching rats by hand or by animals, and on board ships sometimes by asphyxiation with carbonic acid, the latter a costly method, and often difficult of application. A method promising to be most efficacious has recently been devised by M. Danysz, of the Pasteur Institute, in Paris. He has found the bacillus of a disease which is peculiar to rats and extremely fatal to such as are inoculated with it, while at the same time it does not affect other animals or human beings. A culture can be made of this bacillus bouillon in which bread or grain is soaked. This is exposed for the rats to eat, and has been found a successful means of communicating the disease, which usually proves fatal in five to 12 days. The method has been tried on the rats in the Paris sewers and those of the Bourse do Commerce, which attack the grain supplies. It is now recognized that if the rats can be destroyed it is possible to keep plague and other diseases from Europe and the civilized portions of the east, and it is to be hoped that the new method of inoculation will be found successful when practiced on a large scale.

Animal Language.

A sound or gesture made by an animal under any mental or emotional impression and calling out a similar one in another animal is an element of language. When the rabbit quickly beats the ground, its fellow rabbits know that there is danger somewhere, and they take action accordingly. That is rabbit language. When the hunter imitates the rabbit and thus conveys the same idea, he is "speaking" the rabbit language for the time being. Many animals use signs, which of course are understood through the eyes. The ants converse by touching antennae and feet. Many insects rub the elytra. This is animal language in its simplest form. It expresses but few ideas. But there are animals which are capable of modulating their "voices."

Even the common rabbits, which seem to be mute, are constantly making sounds, which a little observation will soon discover to be ever changing in volume, modulation, etc. Much of this method of communication changes when the animal is brought into civlization from the wild state. The wild dog, for instance, barks very little when in freedom. How the household dog barks and is able to express himself is well known.

Bowyer's Bible.

It is eighty years since William Bowyer put the finishing touch to his monumental Bible — an anniversary which is of peculiar interest just now. Bowyer was a miniature painter of fair abilities, who devoted every spare hour for thirty years to extra-illustrating a copy of the Bible which came into his possession. With infinite patience and at considerable cost he collected every drawing, engraving, and etching of Biblical subjects he could lay hands on, to the number of 7000, and interleaved his Bible with them, until the original modest book had expanded into forty-four imposing folio volumes, containing the work of 600 artists, from Michael Angelo to Benjamin West. The work was completed in 1824, at a total cost of 4,200 pounds. After his death it figured as a lottery prize, and underwent many vicissitudes before it passed into the possession of Mr. Heywood, of Bolton, for little more than an eighth of its original cost. — Westminster Gazette.

INFORMS REGISTRARS.

In response to repeated enquiries, State Auditor Thomas L. Sowell has written a circular letter to some of the county registrars informing them of how many days they may work and be paid for under the law.

The reglstrars appointed last December under the general election law will begin the work of registering the unqualified voters who are entitled to registration, July 1. This will be the first registration under the permanent plan of registration of the constitution.

Regulations for it under the constitutional provisions were adopted by the Legislature with the passage of the general election law.

The number of days the registrars may serve and be paid for was restricted by the act. Under this act the registrars have been doubtful as to how many days they were allowed.

In his letter the Auditor rules that during the summer and fall the registrars may serve sixty days in counties having less than 50,000 inhabitants and in counties having more than 50,000 inhabitants the registrars may serve eighty days.

The letter of Auditor Sowell in full is as follows:

"Yours of recent date addressed to the Attorney General, has been referred to this office for reply. It is my opinion that under Section 6, of the election law, registrars may consume, between July 1st and October 1st, forty days, except in counties of over 50,000 inhabitants, then sixty days in making rounds from beat to beat. In addition thereto, they are required to meet the week commencing on the last Monday in September for the registration of voters.

"Section 18 also requires that the Board of Registrars shall meet on the second Monday in August and may continue in session one week, for the purpose of purging the registration list. Then Section 19 requires the board to meet on the fourth Monday in August and may continue in session one week for the purpose of considering the case of each elector whose name it is proposed to strike from the registration list and determine same, making in all sixty days which may be consumed by the Board of Registration in carrying out their several duties, except that in counties having more than 50,000 inhabitants they may consume eighty days.

Yours truly,
"T. L. Sowell,
"State Auditor."

The Democrats when they went into power in 1892 received $6,326 from the populist, in four years they turned back $553.20, and left outstanding two warrants, one for Industrial School, $2,500, one for Water Works, $1,700. Does that kind of financiering show that the county ought to be turned back to the Democrats.—Advocate.

The above is about as near the truth as the Advocate is in the habit of getting. The real facts are that the water works debt of $1,700 was contracted October 15, 1896, when the commissioners court was composed of four populist commissioners and a democratic probate judge. Now will not the Advocate have the grace to confess—own up.

THE REAL ISSUE.

Referring to the statement of the Journal that Booker Washington was the real referee of the president in Alabama, the Birmingham Ledger is inclined to agree with the Journal but sees no reason to find fault with the president because the appointments in this state have been so acceptable to the people. The Ledger even finds fault with Senator Morgan for refusing to endorse an applicant for a federal appointment who had enclosed a letter to the president from Booker Washington, and says that "if Senator Morgan said that he is just far wrong," and adds that it thinks the Journal will find "that Senator Morgan did not make that the basis of his refusal to help a candidate."

The Journal wishes to assure the Ledger that it is not wrong, and futhermore, it wishes to add that it endorses most heartily the position of Senator Morgan, and if the senior senator from Alabama were to go before the people and ask an endorsement of his position the vote would be practically unanimous.

But adds the Ledger: Most "certainly the appointments that are understood to have been made with Booker Washington's approval are the best Mr. Roosevelt has made in the south," and then concludes:

"Of all the appointments made in the South Alabama has fared best at the hands of Mr. Roosevelt. If Booker Washington influenced him to make them the Ledger does most certainly thank him for them. There could be no just complaint, and if we get more of them we will be better off for them. Let's let the subject rest in peace."

It wasn't the Journal's purpose to reflect upon the appointees of the president in the south, whether made with the approval of Booker Washington or not; but it was the purpose of the Journal to show that Booker Washington was the real and whole thing in Alabama, and that there was entirely too much of the negro in Mr. Roosevelt's administration, and it regrets to see the position assumed by the Ledger, that because the appointments are good ones, the south should not object,

The position of the Ledger carried to its logical end would force the Ledger to approve the appointment of a negro postmaster at Birmingham because, forsooth, he might make a better postmaster than Postmaster Hughes. If it is all right for a negro to name appointments because they happen to be good appointments, it is all right for the negro himself to be appointed to positions of honor and trust because the negro would make a capable and faithful official

The Journal has never regarded that that was the real issue in the south, or elswhere in the elevation of the negro to official position in the communities.—Montgomery Journal.

Keep Your Door Clean.

La! La! don't the little Advocate on the corner by and through its editorial triumvirate at the court house, vamp and blow because The Sentinel last week confessed to an error in reference to the $16,000 charged by it as having been turned over by the Democrats to the populist. We always regard it as manly for any man when he ascertains that he has made a mistake in any statement of facts, which has done, or may do, an injustice to another, to make haste to correct the same. It is a brave man that will do this. It is unmanly and cowardly not to do it. The same rule should apply to newspapers. The explanation made by The Sentinel last week, we are sure, is perfectly satisfactory to every fair minded, intelligent man in the county. But how with the Advocate's editorial staff? It made a grave charge against the Democrats, which involved official corruption. In comparison with The Sentinel's error as to the condition of the treasury, it is tenfold worse. It charged that a Democratic commissioner's court paid Democratic tax assessors $125.00 for making the land book, when the law did not authorize it, and as soon as the present populist tax assessor was elected they cut him down to $100 for the same work. In order to make this false charge as effective as possible in this present campaign the Advocate virtually saddled this wrong on the present Democratic candidate for probate judge. When the real facts are that the $125 was first paid by a populist commissioners court to a populist tax assessor, and was legal and right, and was continued to be paid to all tax assessors regardless of politics until the law fixed this compensation at $100, the first payment at $100 being to the present tax assessor by a commissioner's court composed of four populist commissioners and a Democratic probate judge.

Since The Sentinel exposed this false and fraudulent charge, the Advocate has not so much as "cheaped." Why does not the immaculate Advocate make a little confession? It's writers will prove themselves wanting in many of the essential qualities which go to make up brave, good, well rounded men. So now neighbor, own up, or hush up.

Your charge that Democratic commissioner's court paid Democratic tax assessors $125 without authority is absolutely untrue and the Advocate writers are aware of it, and the Advocate refuses to correct it,

Again your charge that a Democratic commissioner's court for the first time paid a populist tax assessor $100 is not true, as said payment was made by a populist commissioner's court,

Keep your own door clean.

On the Wing.

The business of the Alabama Press Associction for the year of 1904 is at an end, and it was probably the liviliest meeting in the history of the Association. The people of Bessemer spared no pains to make the stay of the newspaper people in their city one of pleasure and profit, and they did not fail in their efforts.

The live wire of the session was what is known as the "Rountree matter," and was evident that the members of the Association intended ridding the organization of an incubus with which it has been embarrassed for a number of years.

Following the roll call on Wednesday morning Mr. R. L. O'Neal of the special committee to investigate charges preferred by Mr. J. A. Rountree against various officers of the Alabama Press Association, took the floor. In behalf of the committee he announced that a meeting was held in Birmingham Tuesday, but that Mr. Rountree failed to appear. The committee therefore recommended that the officers be exonerated. The report was adopted.

The following resolution was then offered by C. E. Meeks, of the Gadsden News, and it was adopted by almost a unanimous vote by the members:

"Resolved, That we hereby severely condemn J. A. Rountree for using the Alabama Press Association through its trust and confidence reposed in him as its seeretary, for his personal 'graft,' and consider that his conduct in such position makes him unworthy of membership of in this association.

After the passage of the above resolution the meeting adjourned to meet Thursday.

The members of the Press Association and friends of the Elks in the city were delightfully entertained in the Elks' handsome home from 5 until 12 o'clock, the ladies being entertained from 5 to 8 p. m., and the gentlemen from 8 o'clock on.

The hall was tastily decorated with the colors of the order and with palms and flowers.

An orchestra furnished music and refreshments of ice cream cake, punch, etc., were served.

The following ladies assisted in receiving: Mrs. J. S. Winters, Mrs. G. H. Stevenson, Mrsr E. L. Mitchell, Mrs. A. C. Mitchell, Mrs. H. C. Grigsby, Mrs. W. J. Parkes and Mrs. T.T. Huey, Miss Eva Crook presided over the punch bowl.

Last evening the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Judson was thrown open to the editors. Mrs. Judson, Miss Lulu and Miss Grace Judson, aasisted by the following ladies, were in the receiving line: Mrs. Virden, Mrs. C. McAdoro, Mrs. T. F. Kobinson, Mrs. M. Clifford, Mrs. G. H Stevenson, Mrs. H. L. Bains, Mrs. L. A. Carlisle, Mrs. J. H. Read, Mrs. E. L. Huey, Misses Emma B. Cowan, Elma Edwards, Otis Shipman, Corrie Owen, Louise Fulton, Ethel Clifford, Lena Mingea.

On Thursday the following officers were elected. President C. H. Greer, Marion Standard, first vice president, S. P. West, Birmingham; second vice president, R. E. L. Neil, Selma; third vice president, H. S. Doster, Prattville; fourth vice president, H. Y. Brooke, Luverne; Secreiary, Jacob Pepperman, Montgomery; treasurer, S. H. Morris, Fayette; essayist, Miss Lula Judson, Bessemer; orator, H. G. Benners, Greensboro; historian, W. W. Screws, Montgomery.

After the election of officers and selection of the next place of meeting, President Yerby announced that he had appointed Major Screws; S. L. O'Neal, of Huntsville, and M. W. Camper, of Florence, a committee to revise the consitution and report at the next annual meeting.

The Association elected delegates to the National Editorial Association as follows: W. H. H. Judson, Bessemer; J. C. Willams Talladega; H. M. Williams, Opelika; W. M. Meeks, Gadsden; H. E. Whitaker, Columbiana; R. H. Walker, Athens; J. B. Stanley, Greenboro; F. L. McKenzie, Tallassee; R. E. L. Neil, Selma; G. W. Reed, Ensley; W. M. Tucker, Demopolis; R. L. O'Neal Huntsville; J. H. Meigs, Albertville; J. C. Lawrence, Union Springs.

On invitation of Editor Hunter the association will meet in Sylacanga next year.

Thursday afternoon the newspaper party was given a trolley ride over the city, taking luncheon at East Lake and attended the Casino at night as the guests of the management, returning to Bessemer for the night. Friday the members were given an excursion through the Birmingham district by the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and tonight (Friday) at 10:20 we leave for St. Louis over the Frisco railway.

The editor of The Sentinel and his wife have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs, W. H. H. Judson, and to them and their two beautiful girls, Misses Lula and Grace, are we indebted for a most delighfnl time. W.

When in the history of a Democratic administration were the books of the county treasurer marked "overdrawn?" This under the present populist administration has grown to be a most fashionable entry. Readers of The Sentinel, come over and see for yourselves. What does the entry "over drawn" mean? It means that warrants and certificates have been drawn on the treasury over and above the amount of money in the treasury to pay them. Then how can any voter of the county hesitate as to his duty? The voters of the county can promise themselves nothing by a continuance of the present administration. Let us have a change. We will have it, and don't you forget it.

Dan Emmett, the old time minstrel man, and famous as the composer of "Dixie" died at his home at Mt. Vernon on June 28. Emmet was about eighty-three years old.

Teddy will not know that he has been nominated until July 27, and the suspense may tell on even his strenuous nerves.

Wm. O. Alston, son of Judge A. H. Alston, passed the mental examination for the entrance to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The Baptist of Alabama will hold their annual convention as Anniston July 20 to 23. The convention will be one of the most notable church gatherings in the history of Anniston. Every Baptist church in the State will be represented and leading workers in that denomination will be in attendance. The sessions will be held in the Parker Memorial Baptist church. The delegates will be entertained in the homes of the people of Anniston. The meeting is being looked forward to with pleasant anticipations by the Baptist people of the State. The program for the convention is lengthy and interesting, the names of some of the leading ministers and laymen of the church in Alabama appearing upon it. Extensive preparations for the entertainment of the visitors are being made by the Baptist congregations of the city of Anniston.

You were misinformed, Mr. Editor, regarding the K. of P. and Odd Fellow's picnic being here on the 4th, it will be on Wednesday the 20th. A joint picnic at which a speech on each order will be given with other interesting features. Everybody invited to come with well filled baskets and enjoy the day. Prominent men of each order will speak to us on that day

We are indeed very, very sorry to chronicle the serious illness of one of our noblest women, Mrs. R. P. Tucker, who after a few days sickness was on Saturday operated upon for appendicitis, by Dr. Goggins, of Alexander City. At the present writing she is doing very well, and hopes are entertained of her recovery though she is in a very critical condition.

At the regular convention of Success Lodge No. 218 K. or P., held in their castle hall Tuesday night, the following officers were installed: E Williams, C. C.; J. S. Falkner, V. C.; D. Lackey, Prel.; A. J. Warlick, M. of W.; A. C. Wilder, K. of R. S.; M. E Vincent, M. of F.; R. P. Tucker, M. of E; B. S. Davis, M. at A.; R. W. Denty, I. G.; J. D. Milam, O. G. This is one of the young lodges in the State, but is in a very prosperous condition, having added several members to their roll during the past year. They meet every Tuesday night unless it be during a protracted meeting at one of the churches of the town.

Miss Anna Zwald, who has been the efficient milliner at J. H. Wilder & Bros' store, will return to her home in Birmingham next week, her time for the season having expired. It is not known whether she will return next season, but it is sincerely hoped that she will, as Miss Anna has made a host of friends during her stay among us, who would be delighted to see her back next season. However, should she not return, she will carry with her the hearty wishes of a host of friends and admirers.

The Methodist Sunday school will have their children's day exercises next Sunday at 11 o'clock. A series of meeting will be held during the week following in which the pastor will be assisted by Rev. Mr. Sturdivant, of Gadsden. All our people should come together and made a united effort to have a successful meeting, and try to do more for the furtherance of Christ's cause in this community which is so much needed.

The Masonic Conference.

The Shelby County Masonic Conference convened in this city on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. This was the second Semi-Annual meeting. There were present the following delegates:

D. R. McMillan, Louis Tinney, L, E. Christian, Columbiana; R. V. Ray, Helena; H. E. Wheeler, C. L. Merony and Dr. F. M. Peterson, Montevallo; I. W. Bailey and W. M. Armstrong, Calera; R. G. Weldon, E, W. Holland, Wilsonville; Rev. O. P. Bentley, T. J. Martin and W. A. Hammond, Vincent; A. H. Avery; John J. Lovett, Thos. R. Lovett, Shelby!

The following has been given us by the Secretary, as substantially a correct list of the visiting brethren (although he says that it's probable several masons came in, the second and third day, whose names he did not secure) to-wit:

T. H. Griffin, W. G. Lee, J. M. Ward J. R. Johnson, G. H. Harrell and W. P Bowdon, Helena; Wm. Weaver, N. Eddings and R. E. Woolley, Montevallo; J. B. Ozley, W. H. Williams, B J. Holcombe, F. M. Blake, M. S. Wilson, P Baer, J R. Cargile and W. A. Moss, Calera; Wm. Tinney, J. T Bridges, T. W. Martin, T. J. Mooney, J. C Mooney, J. H. Robertson, D. R. Ray, John Tinney, John Hughes, B. F Robertson and J W. Millstead, Wilsonville; I. C. Shrader and W. E. Millender, Vincent; W. R Craig, John M. Bates, J. F. McLane, Terrell Bice, Benjamin Cardwell, N. N. Mosteller, R F Bates and Joseph Tinney, Shelby.

A more zealous and enthusiastic assemblage of men is scarcely ever seen than those who were in attendance on the conference, and they constituted, besides, the highest type of citizenship in the county. They evidently came for a purpose, and how well that purpose was realized, even an outsider could judge from the pleasure and satisfaction that was depicted on their countenances.

Grand State Lecturer, A. M, Scott was present from the beginning to the close, and the greater part of the time of the conference was taken up by him in teaching and exemplifying the work. Though far advanced in years, he is young in spirit and bouyancy. He is said to be the best posted mason in the country, and is regarded as authority on all questions pertaining to the work.

A public installation of the officers-elect was had in the court house on Thursday morning at ten o'clock. The officers of several of the lodges of the county were present and were installed. The installation ceremonies were conducted by Rev. O. P. Bently, W. M., of Vincent Lodge, who performed this duty gracefully and impressively.

At two o'clock p. m., Gov. R. M. Cunningham, Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Alabama, delivered a masonic address in the court house, which was listened to with marked interest and attention by a large audience, consisting of the most intelligent ladies and gentlemen in the county. The speaker's subject was "The relation that Masonry bears to Citizenship." The address was practical and sensible. The earnestness and the spirit which were thrown into the subject by the speaker enabled him to fairly enchain his hearers, and to hold them, as it were, spell-bound.

It is confidently believed that the cause of masonry in this county has been materially strengthened by the work of this conference.

The next meeting will be held with the lodge in Montevallo, beginning on the 23d day of November, 1904. The conference adjourned sine die at 12 o'clock m., Friday.

Before the adjournment the following resolutions were adopted:

To the Worshipful Master and the Members of the Shelby County Masonic Conferenence:

Your committee on resolutions respectfully submit the following:

Resolved, 1st, That we are honored by the presence of Past Grand Master, Hon. Russell M. Cunningham, acting Governor of our State, and that we are instucted by his words of wisdom, and stirred by bis appeal for a good citizenship. That it shall be our endeavor to remember and put in practice his counsel.

Resolved, 2nd, That we appreciate the presence and untiring labor of our beloved brother, A. M Scott; that his accurate knowledge and skillful teaching have been not only of immediate benefit but as well, an inspiration to us to continue to build wisely our moral and spiritual temples, and to improve ourselves in masonry.

Resolved, 3rd, That we unitedly express to Brother D. R. McMillan our thankful recognition of his services, which has made possible this large gathering of interested and enthusiastic co-workers in the cause of masonry.

Resolved 4th, That we are grateful for the many courtesies shown us by the officers and members of Shelby Lodge No. 140; and for the kind and generous hospitality extended to us by the citizens of Columbian.

Finally, That the remembrance of this Conference shall be to us, individually and collectively, a stimulus to a more faithful study of the principles of Free Masonry, and a fuller consecration of ourselves to the uplifting of our common humanity.

The Broadway M. E. church, of Logansport, Ind., was built fifty years ago, and a tin ball adorned the top of the spire. The bulding was torn down lately to make room for a more elaborate one. In the tin ball, with the records of the church, were found a deck of cards and a half-pint bottle of whisky. Dudley H. Chase, four times judge of the circuit court, is the only man alive who knew of the presence of the whisky and cards, he and three others having smuggled them into the tin ball with the church records and other papers in order to see what the elders would say when they discovered them. The latter overlooked them, and the ball was sealed and sent to the top of the spire, there to remain half a century with its incongruous contents.

A writer in the Jewish magazine says that there were richer men before the Christian era than there are now. He estimates Korah's fortune at $3,000,000,000, and says that Solomon, after spending $250,000,000 on his temple, was still worth between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000. In Roman times there were three Jews in Jerusalem who, between them, offered to spend $100,000,000 for twenty-one years in feeding the inhabitants of the city. One of these Jews, Nikodemon, gave his daughter a dowry of $425,000,000.

ALABAMA EDITORS

End Their Annual Meeting at Bessemer to Meet Next Year in Sylacauga

ANNUAL OUTING WORLD'S FAIR

New Officers Elected—Rountree Matter Settled—All Report a Jolly Good Time.

The Alabama Press Association meeting at Bessemer adourned Thursday. The session just passed was perhaps the most eventful in the history of the organization. The Rountree matter was disposed of.

The Meeks resolution, condemning the stewardship of the former Secretary J. A. Rountree, was passed by practically unanimous vote. The following officers were elected unanimously:

President, C. H. Greer, of the Marion Standard.

First vice president, S. P. West, of the Alabama Advocate.

Second vice president, R. E. L. Niel, of the Selma Journal.

Third vice president, H. S. Doster, of the Prattville Progress.

Fourth vice president, H. Y. Brooks, of the Luverne Critic.

The nomination was then opened for secretary, the following names being placed in nomination: Jacob Pepperman, J. R. Rosson, Mrs. Julia H. Gillespie and J. H. Hard. The ballot resulted: Pepperman, 54; Rossan, 23; Hard, 1. S. H. Morris was named treasurer. Frank Crichton was elected poet for next year.

Sylacauga, Clanton and Cullman sought the next meeting the first named was selected by almost unanimous vote.

The annual outing this year is to the world's fair

Three Pullman car loads of Alabama editors and their mothers, wives, sisters and daughters left Birmingham Friday over the Frisco system for the world's fair at St. Louis.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Two White Men Jailed on a Charge of Killing a Negro.

Will Adams, fireman, and Walter Wright, engineer, on the Frisco System, are in jail on the charge of murder in connection with the shooting and killing of Jack Taylor, a negro, in Birmingham. Ed Bennett, a negro, is in jail on a charge of assault with intent to murder on these two white men.

There are conflicting reports as to the killing of the negro, but Policeman Walter Bennett, who made the arrest, stated that Adams went over into the negro settlement for a few minutes and was attacked there by two negro men, who are supposed to have been Jack Taylor, the dead negro, and Ed Bennett. A general fight ensued between the three in which the white man is said to have been getting the worst of it. He called for help and Walter White came to his assistance. A second general fight ensued and the negro was killed.

They Have Evidence.

As a sequel to the attack made by Chief of Police Westbrook on Rev. Len G. Broughton in an Albany, Ga., barber shop Monday, the mayor has received a communication from twenty-four citizens, who, to relieve Dr. Broughton from further trouble and responsibility, have taken the matter in hand, and after a thorough investigation unanimously request and demand that he call a meeting of the board that they may come before it by attorney and prove by evidence that the charges are true.

Cutting Affray.

James Baker and Ollie Walker, two fellow workmen at the Ensley steel mill, became engaged in a difficulty which resulted in Walker fatally slashing Baker with a knife. Walker has not yet been arrested. He is the son of Chief of Police Walker, of Wylam, and Mr. Baker is a married man.

Railway building in the United States during the first six months of 1904 shows a falling off in comparison with the corresponding periods of 1902 and 1903. Increased operating expenses and decreased traffic, resulting in small net earnings, together with the continued stringency in the money market, supply the explanation of the decline in construction.

From official reports received it appears that 1,937 miles of track were completed during the first six months of the year on 134 lines in 33 states and territories. In the first six months of last year 2,221 miles of track were laid, while for the entire year of 1903 it amounted to 5,786 miles

Sues for $3,000,000.

A. J. Bizot, revenue agent for Jefferson county, Ky., brought suit against the Illinois Central railroad for $3,000,000 back taxes, which he says is due on its franchise, valued at somewhere around $50,000,000. In his suit he says the defendant has been a Kentucky corporation since 1893 and during that time has not paid a cent of taxes upon its franchise.

FIRE IN CRONSTADT

Destroyed the Russian Torpedo Works.

There was a fire in the arsenal at Cronstadt Wednesday night. The damage was confined to the torpedo mechanism shops, which were almost wholly destroyed, together with twenty Whitehead torpedoes. Five of the torpedoes had war heads attached and they exploded, which added to the fire and the excitement. A considerable quantity of oil stored in the works was also burned. An alarm was given in time to prevent loss of life and more serious loss of property.

The authorities do not attach serious importance to the accident and say that the works will soon be able to resume full time.

CHASED HIM THIRTEEN YEARS.

Been Around the World and Changed His Name, but Now in Jail.

Pursued by government officers for thirteen years, during which time he visited England, France and Africa, and returning to the United States and locating in Indian Territory, Henry Rodgers, alias Frank Thomas, is behind jail bars in Mobile, charged with numerous indictments.

On May 23, 1891, Rodgers held up Reuben S. McCreary, a mail carrier on a star route between Evergreen and Turnbull, Ala., rifled the mail pouch, threw the mail matter into a creek and robbed the carrier of money and a gold watch.

After his return from abroad Rodgers, under the name of Thomas, located in Indian Territory, where he was arrested, tried and convicted on the charge of selling liquor without a license. He was sentenced to serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. It is said he made a confession while in prison, and at the expiration of his term a requisition for his return to Alabama was honored by the governor of Georgia.

Died From Injuries.

Mr. John Brown, an engineer on the Southern railway, is dead at Columbus, Miss., his death being caused from injuries while in the discharge of duty. He was in a severe wreck at Pheba, Miss., about a month ago and gradually became worse from his injuries each day since he was hurt.

Big Fire in Texas.

A special from Jefferson, Texas, says: A fire broke out in the Torrans Manufacturing company and two big mercantile establishments and six warehouses were totally destroyed, with an aggregate loss of $100,000 to $150,000, about half insured.

War on Vagrants.

Huntsville authorities have decided to begin a war on vagrants who infest the city. Every vagrant will be arrested and required to prove his means of livelihood, and if it is not satisfactory he will be sentenced to a term at hard labor.

Attorneys for Charles Pircher, who was recently sentenced by Judge Toulmin in the United States court to pay a fine of $300 and serve a term of three years in the federal prison at Atlanta, having been found guilty of forgery of mal route contracts, have taken an appeal. Pircher is now out on a bond of $2,000.

The south became last week the brightest spot in the whole country so far as sustained trade and general consumption is concerned. Texas reports a heavy business in retail buying at a period which is usually regarded as the dullest of the year.

Great Britain has successfully brought pressure to bear on the porte for the relief of the persecuted Armenians. According to statements in a letter written by Foreign Secretary Lansdowne to the Anglo-American Association.

Pittsburg for the first time in many weeks is becoming hopeful over the steel outlook.

Died from His Injuries.

Michael Golden, foreman in charge of some railroad work being done at Piper, was fatally injured by an explosion of dynamite. The head of the deceased was badly bruised by the force of the explosion, and it was almost impossible to recognize the body. Golden was a very popular man.

NEGRO SHOT FROM AMBUSH

And Riddled Tom Higginbotham, White, at Patton Junction.

Tom Higginbotham, white, was shot from ambush at Patton junction by Dellar Black, a negro.

Higginbotham was driving in his buggy when the negro fired with a double barreled shotgun filled with buckshot, striking him in the chin and body. He fired the other barrel at his back, completely riddling him. The shooting is the outcome of some trouble the men had Sunday. Both are miners. Black was arrested soon after the shooting. Higginbotham will recover

State Convicts.

Dr. Shirley Bragg, state physician convict inspector, has been in the Pratt City district for the past week inspecting and classifying the convicts at Pratt City prison and at Flat Top.

The general health of the convicts is very good and the prisons were found to be in good order. No accident or escapes have occurred at the prisons in some time.

A JAPANESE PANDORA.

O Hana San's Husband Was a Russian With Secrets Which She Discovered.

The Japanese have never hated the Russians personally. Russian residents of Japan were often highly thought of. The Russian ambassador, Baron Rosen, enjoyed the esteem of all classes, and at the International club was a favorite of many Japanese friends.

The sudden rupture of peaceable relations between the two countries brought grief to many a pair of friends, and even caused the separation of man and wife, says the Boston Transcript. There comes to light the case of one Russian married to a Japanese, and living at Yokohama. He spoke Japanese almost lige a native, and was in almost every respect an affectionate husband. The wife, who may be called O Hana San, appeared fond of her husband, and all went well until late in January, when even the most sanguine had abandoned hope of peace.

For some time before this, however, O Hana San had noticed that her husband, though frank and open in most things, attached great importance to a sort of despatch box, which he never allowed to leave his side for an instant. Even under normal circumstances this fact would have excited her curiosity, both as a woman and a Japanese at that, but as a reader of the vernacular press she was well aware that were such beings as Russian spies in existence, and that, although her husband was ostensibly a teacher, she really knew nothing of his antecedents.

The husband had been only a patriot. But patriotism is admittedly the grand passion of the Japanese. In feudal days it took the form of loyalty to a lord, and no true Samurai would hesitate for a moment as between the claims of a blood relation and those of his chiefs. Today the emperor is the great over-lord, and O Hana San, though she loved her foreign husband, could not doubt as to where her duty lay. A Japanese proverb has it, "Chushin ji kun ni tsukaezu." "A faithful servant will not serve two masters," and acting in this belief O Hana San determined to gain possession of the despatch box and see what it contained. So one evening she took advantage of a certain Russian weakness and made her foreign husband frightfully drunk, and seizing the box hurried to the nearest police station. Here she told her story, and the inspector commended her for her patriotic action.

The box was broken open and sure enough contained numerous maps and plans of Japanese fortifications and naval ports, besides several valuable Russian documents bearing upon the enemy's military and naval schemes. O Hana San was praised more than ever. She smiled. The police officers were jubilant. Glory would be reflected on them when, with great importance they should hand this box in to the high authorities. They patted one another's backs. O Hana San had no difficulty in walking away unnoticed in their preoccupation. The husband waked from his stupor in time. Finding despatch box and wife both gone, he drew his conclusions and promptly left the country. As for O Hana San, she was never seen again. She had turned a corner and was gone.

Tame Humming Birds.

Of all the birds, the humming birds, especially when young, seem to display the least fear, says a writer in Country Life in America. It is a difficult matter to train a young canary bird to follow one about the house or to come when called, yet we have had several humming birds which were perfectly domesticated, and more thoroughly tame than any bird I have ever seen. Two humming birds that grew up with us were given a small place in a closet in our sleeping apartment. At the first approach of daylight they would fly out into the room, the door being ajar, and directly to the bed, hovering over my face, their loud humming noise awakening me at once. There was no mistaking that the birds wished their breakfast, and they could not be driven away. At times I would pretend not to see them and they would finally alight on the bed, uttering the quaint little sound, now perhaps a protest, then would hover over my face, so near that the wind from the rapidly moving wings, was quite sufficient to arouse me. When I held out my finger one or both would alight on it and gaze at me in a manner which spoke volumes to any one imaginative enough to think they understood the language of birds when they are hungry.

Their food consisted of sugar and water, which was fed to them with a chop-stick-like straw. Immediately upon seeing it they would poise in the air and lick the drop on the tip until they were satisfied. Occasionally they would poise before the big red flowers printed on the curtains. They recognized the pictures of flowers on sight and endeavored to press their bills into them. Artificial flowers were approached in the same way. In a word, these most helpless, the smallest of all birds, required no education, no training from parents; it was all instinctive.

Travel Boxes from France.

The returning European traveler is showing an unusually good receptacle for baggage to hold the accumulation of the trip. If one is in Paris, on the eve of sailing for home, it is a good idea to get there, instead of a trunk, one of the large wooden travel boxes that are sold in the French capital for a small sum. They are made of thin white wood, with hinges and clasps of iron, painted black. They have no trays and are neatly lined with colored paper. When their usefulness as a trunk is over they can be covered with chintz and become acceptable additions to the bedroom furniture. One of the large sizes serves excellently to hold the fine bedroom linen, laid in with sachets to match the cretonne. The smaller sizes are admirable for shirt waists, or shoes, and any of them costs far less than one bought ready covered.

TO THE GIRL OF THE HOUR.

Men toast maidens sweet and fair,
With raven locks, and golden hair,
They with eyes like fair June's skies,
And others skilled in knowledge rare;
But one with whom they can't compare,
Though neither belle nor scholar,
Is frigid, fair Miss Liberty,
Who beams alike on you and me
From the round, hard silver dollar.
—Brooklyn Life.

TWO QUESTIONS.

He—If I propose, will you say "Yes?"

She—If you knew I would say "Yes," would you propose?—Judy.

HIS CHOICE.

"I shan't put up with your conduct any longer. I intend to go home to mother."

"Well, anything is preferable to having her here."—Chicago Journal.

GETTING AT THE FACTS.

Miles—The duel has had its day.

Giles—On the contrary, my dear fellow; it never had a day.

Miles—It didn't, eh?

Giles—No; two seconds was its limit.—Chicago News.

AGAIN HER DEAR FRIENDS.

Maud—Have you been to see Natalie Longpast? I hear she's ill.

Mabel—Yes, poor, dear old thing! She's the happiest woman you ever saw. The doctor tells her it's whooping cough, and that's a juvenile complaint, you know.—Chicago Tribune.

A PREDICAMENT.

"Mrs. X.'s new suit came home this morning and she's afraid to show the bill to her husband."

"Why, is it so large?"

"No, it's $10 smaller than usual, and she thinks he'll cut her allowance if she doesn't keep it up to the usual high figure."—Detroit Free Press.

SELF-MADE WOMAN.

The Mistress—Do you know anything about the lady who used to occupy this house?

The Maid—Nothing to her credit, madam. I am told that she had no maid to superintend her dress. She was what you call a self-made woman.—Chicago Journal.

HEARING AND SEEING.

Enthusiastic Visitor—If you'll come down into the country with me I'll show you where you can just hear the corn grow!

Unemotional Cityite—Humph! If you'll come with me over to the board of trade I'll show you where you can see it grow.—Chicago Tribune.

SAFETY IN NUMBERS.

"I wonder how the editorial 'we' originated."

"I suppose it was started by some editor who had to sail into the personal character of some husky man, and wanted to make the man believe he'd have to lick more than one."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

CAN THIS BE?

Plodding Investigator—It is one of my hobbies that everything of a calamitous nature is caused by a microbe, and I am trying to locate and classify the strike microbe.

Man About Town—You won't find him, professor. He's the critter that draws the salary and keeps out of sight.—Chicago Tribune.

TO PEEP THROUGH.

"I wisht I wuz president of the lumber trust," said Jimmy, "and de baseball managers had to come ter me fur de boards fer deir fences."

"Why?" asked Tommy.

"Why, I wouldn't sell dem a bloomin' board dat didn't have a knot hole in it."—Philadelphia Press.

ONE THING AT LEAST.

Hicks—Of course, we'll have to stop for a bit of lunch. I'd try that light lunch cafe, but I'm afraid I wouldn't get anything there that would stand by me until dinner time.

Wicks—Oh, yes, you would.

Hicks—What?

Wicks—Indigestion. — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A well known French actor has just finished his memoirs with the following startling statistics: "I played in 98 towns 3,866 evenings in 371 pieces, and in 455 different roles. I was married 1,721 times on the stage. I died 1,120 times, and in many styles. For example, I was stabbed 61 times; I was shot 51 times; I was drowned 22 times; I was poisoned 166 times; I had my skull smashed 86 times; I ruptured blood vessels 192 times; I was decapitated 31 times; I was assassinated 109 times; I was executed 33 times; I committed suicide 314 times; and I died a natural death 55 times."

The first session of the fifty-eighth congress lasted 139 days; the shortest first session for many years. It talked 6155 pages of the Congressional record. Its word output stands third. The fifty-seventh congress was proudly first, with 8414 pages; the fifty-sixth congress second, with 7765. At the first session of the fifty-eighth 294 public bills and 1896 private ones were passed. In this number of bills introduced it "beats" all other "records." More than 16,000 bills were brought in. Nearly 3,000 reports were made.

Jeffries had 87 columns devoted to him in four morning and four afternoon papers in seven days; Judge Alton B. Parker comes next with 88 columns; Roosevelt had 56 columns in the same period; Raisuli, the Moor brigand, had 54; Grover Cleveland, 16; Mrs. Elias 72; Nan Randolph Patterson, cause of the killing of Caesar Young, had 126 columns, including 42 pictures; District Attorney Jerome had 36 and Mayor McClellan 18.

Will cure permanently at your own home.
Mr. T. M. Brown, of DeQueen, Ark., says: "Over seven years ago I was cured of the opium habit by your medicine, and have continued in the very best of health since."
Mr. W. M. Tunstall, of Lovingston, Va., says: "I am glad to say that I firmly believe that I am entirely and permanently cured of the Drink Habit, as I have never even so much as wanted a drink in any form since I took your eradicator, now 18 months ago. It was the best money I ever invested."
Mrs. Virginia Townsend, of Shreveport, La., writes: "No more opium. I have taken no other remedy than yours, and I make no mistake when I say that my health is better now than it ever was in my life, and I owe it to you and your remedy. It has been twelve years since I was cured by your treatment."
Dr. Woolley has thousands of such testimonials, with permission to use them. A treatment with so many recommendations from Physicians and cured patients must be good.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., JULY 14, 1904. VOL. 29. NO. 43

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

The full platform as unanimously submitted by the committee on platform and resolutions and immediately adopted by the national democratic convention is as follows:

The democratic party of the United States, in national convention assembled, declares its devotion to the cardinal principles of democracy which brings its members together in party communion.

Under them local self-government and national unity of prosperity were alike established.

They underlaid our independence, the structure of our free republic and every democratic extension from Louisiana to California and Texas to Oregon, which is reserved faithfully in all the states the tie between taxation and representation. They yet inspire the masses of our people, guarding jealously their rights and liberties and cherishing their fraternity, peace and orderly development. They remind us of our duties and responsibilities as citizens and impress upon us, particularly at this time, the necessity of reform and the rescue of the administration of government from the headstrong, arbitrary and spasmodic methods which distract business by uncertainty and pervade the public mind with dread, distrust and perturbation.

1. The application of these fundamental principles to the living issues of the day is the first step toward the assured peace, safety and progress of our nation. Freedom of the press, of conscience and of speech—equality before the law of all citizens, right of trial by jury, freedom of the person defended by the merit of habeas corpus, liberty of personal contract, untrammeled by sumptuary laws, supremacy of the civil over military authority, a well-defined militia, the separation of church and state, economy in expenditures, low taxes that labor may be lightly burdened, prompt and sacred fulfillment of public and private obligations, fidelity to treaties, peace and friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none, absolute acquiescence in the will of the majority, the vital principle of republics—these are doctrines which democracy has established, approved by the nation and they should be constantly invoked and enforced.

We favor the enactment and administration of laws giving labor and capital impartially their just rights. Capital and labor ought not to be enemies. Each is necessary to the other. Each has its rights, but the rights of labor are certainly no less "vested," no less "sacred" and no less "inalienable" than the rights of capital.

Constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, acquire and enjoy property or reside where interest or inclination may determine. Any denial thereof, by individuals, organizations or governments should be summarily rebuked or punished.

We deny the right of any executive to disregard or suspend any constitutional privilege or limitation. Obedience to the laws and respect for their requirements are alike the supreme duty of the citizen and the official.

The military should be used only to support and maintain the law. We unqualifiedly condemn its employment for the summary banishment of citizens without trial or for the control of elections.

We approve the measure which passed the United States senate in 1896, but which a republican congress has ever since refused to enact, relating to contempts in federal courts and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

We favor liberal appropriations for the care and improvement of the waterways of the country. When any water like the Mississippi river is of sufficient size to demand special aid from the government, such aid should be extended with a definite plan of continuous work until permanent improvement is secured. We oppose the republican policy of starving home development in order to feed the greed for conquest and the appetite for national "prestige" and display of strength.

Large reductions can easily be made in the annual expenditures of the government without impairing the efficiency of any branch of the public service, and we shall insist upon the strictest economy and frugality compatible with vigorous and efficient civil, military and naval administration as a right of the people, too clear to be denied or withheld.

2. We favor the enforcement of honesty in the public service and to that end a thorough legislative investigation of the executive departments of the government already known to teem with corruption, and the punishment of ascertained corruptionists without fear or favor, or regard to persons. The persistent and deliberate refusal of both the senate and the house of representatives to permit such investigation to be made, demonstrates that only by a change in the executive and in the legislative departments can complete exposure, punishment and correction be obtained.

Federal Government Contract With

We condemn the action of the republican party in congress in refusing to prohibit an executive department from entering into contracts with convicted trusts or unlawful combinations in restraint of interstate trade. We believe that one of the best methods of procuring honesty in the public service is to have public officials from the white house down to the lowest of them returned as nearly as may be to Jeffersonian simplicity of living.

We favor the nomination and election of a president imbued with the principles of the constitution, who will set his face sternly against executive usurpation if the usurpation be veiled under the guise of executive construction of existing laws or whether it take refuge in the tyrant's plea of necessity of superior wisdom.

We favor the preservation in so far as we can of an open door of the world's commerce in the Orient without unnecessary entanglement in Oriental and European affairs, and without arbitrary, unlimited, irresponsible government anywhere in our jurisdiction. We oppose as fervently as did George Washington himself indefinite, irresponsible, discretionary and vague absolutism, and a policy of colonial exploitation, no matter where or by whom invoked or exercised. We believe with Thomas Jefferson and John Adams that no government has a right to make one set of laws for those "at home" and another and a different set of laws, absolute in their character, for those "in the colonies." All men under the American flag are entitled to the protection of the institutions whose emblem the flag is; if they are inherently unfit for those institutions, then they are inherently unfit to be members of the American body politic. Wherever there may exist a people incapable of being governed under American laws in consonance with the American constitution, the territory of that people ought not to be a part of the American domain.

We insist that we ought to do for the Filipinos what we have done already for the Cubans. And it is our duty to make that promise now and upon suitable guarantees of protection to citizens of our own and other countries resident there at the time of our withdraw, set the Filipino people upon their feet, free and independent to work out their own destiny.

The endeavor of the secretary of war by pledging the government's indorsement for "promoters" in the Philippine islands to make the United States a partner in speculative exploitation of the archipelago, which was only temporarily held up by the opposition of democratic senators in the last session, will, if successful, lead to embrarrassments from which it will be difficult to escape.

The democratic party has been and will continue to be the consistent opponent of that class of tariff legislation by which certain interests have been permitted through congressional favor to draw a heavy tribute from the American people. This monstrous perversion of those equal opportunities which our political institutions were established to secure has caused what may once have been infant industries to become the greatest combinations of capital that the world has ever known. These especial favorites of the government have, through trust methods, been converted into monopolies, thus bringing to an end domestic competition which was the only alleged check upon the extravagant system. These industrial combinations, by the financial assistance they can give, now control the policy of the republican party.

We denounce protection as a robbery of the many and enrichment of the few and we favor a tariff limited to the needs of the government economically administered and so levied as not to discriminate against any industry, class or section to the end that the burdens of taxation shall be distributed as equally as possible.

We favor a revision and gradual reduction of the tariff by the friends of the masses, and for the common weal and not by the friends of its abuses, its extortions and its discriminations, keeping in view the ultimate ends of "equality of burdens and equality of opportunities, and the constitutional purpose of raising a revenue by taxation, to-wit: the support of the federal government in all its integrity and virility; but in simplicity."

We recognize that the gigantic trusts and combinations designed to enable capital to secure more than its just share of the joint products of capital and labor, and which have been fostered and promoted under republican rule are a menace to the beneficial competition, and an obstacle to permanent business prosperity.

A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable.

Individual equality of opportunity and free competition are essential to a healthy and permanent commercial prosperity and any trust, combination or monopoly tending to destroy these by controlling production, restricting competition or fixing prices should be prohibited and punished by law.

We especially denounce rebates and discrimination by transportation companies as the most potent agency in promoting and strengthening these unlawful conspiracies against trade.

We demand an enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission to the end that the traveling men and shippers of this country may have prompt and adequate relief for the abuses to which they are subjected in the matter of transportation. We demand a strict enforcement of existing civil and criminal statutes against all such trusts, combinations and monopolies, and we demand the enactment of such further legislation as may be necessary to effectually suppress them.

Any trust or unlawful combination engaged in interstate commerce which is monopolizing any branch of business or reduction should not be permitted to transact business outside of the state of its origin. Whenever it shall be established in any court of competent jurisdiction that such monopolization exists, such prohibition should be enforced through comprehensive laws to be enacted on the subject.

We congratulate our western citizens upon the passage of the law known as the Newlands irrigation act for the irrigation and reclamation of the arid lands of the west—a measure framed by a democrat, passed in the senate by a non-partisan vote and passed in the house against the opposition of almost all the republican leaders by a vote the majority or which was democratic. We call attention to this great democratic measure, broad and comprehensive as it is, working automatically throughout all time without further action of congress until the reclamation of all the lands in the arid west capable of reclamation is accomplished, reserving the lands reclaimed for home seekers in small tracts, and rigidly guarding against land monopoly as an evidence of the policy of domestic developments contemplated by the democratic party should it be placed in power.

The democracy when entrusted with power will construct the Panama canal speedily, honestly and economically, thereby giving to our people what democrats have always contended for—a great oceanic canal furnishing shorter and cheaper lines of transportation and less trammeled trade relations with the other peoples of the world.

We pledge ourselves to insist upon the just and lawful protection of our citizens at home and abroad, and to use all proper measures to secure for them, whether native-born or naturalized, and without distinction of race or creed, the equal protection of laws and the enjoyment of all rights and privileges open to them under the covenants of our treaties of friendship and commerce; and if under existing treaties the right to travel and sojourn is denied to American citizens or recognition is withheld from American passports by any countries on the ground of race or creed, we favor the beginning of negotiations with the governments of such countries to secure by new treaties the removal of these unjust discriminations.

We demand that all over the world a duly authenticated passport issued by the government of the United States to an American citizen shall be proof of the fact that he is an American citizen and shall entitle him to the treatment due him as such.

We favor the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people.

We favor the admission of the territories of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. We also favor the immediate admission of Arizona and New Mexico as separate states and a territorial government for Alaska and Porto Rico.

We hold that the officials appointed to administer the government of any territory as well as with the district of Alaska should be bona fide residents at the time of their appointment of the territory or district in which their duties are to be performed.

We demand the extermination of polygamy within the jurisdiction of the United States, and the complete separation of church and state in political affairs.

We denounce the ship subsidy bill recently passed by the United States senate as an iniquitous appropriation of public money for private purposes and a wasteful, illogical and useless attempt to overcome by subsidy the obstructions raised by republican legislation to the growth and development of American commerce on the sea.

We favor the upbuilding of American merchant marine without new or additional burdens upon the people and without bounties from the public treasury.

We favor liberal trade arrangements with Canada and with people of other countries where they can be entered into with benefit to American agriculture, manufactures, mining and commerce.

We favor the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine in its full integrity.

We favor the reduction of the army and army expenditures to the point historically demonstrated to be safe and sufficient.

The democracy would secure to the surviving soldiers and sailors and their dependents generous pensions, not by an arbitrary executive order, but by legislation which a grateful people stand ready to enact.

Our soldiers and sailors who defend with their lives the constitution and the laws have a sacred interest in their just administration. They must therefore, share with us the humiliation with which we have witnessed the exaltation of court favorites without distinguished service over the scarred heroes of many battles, or aggrandized by executive appropriations out of the treasuries of a prostrate people in violation of the act of congress which fixes the compensation and allowances of the military officers.

The democratic party stands committed to the principles of civil service reform and we demand their honest, just and impartial enforcement.

We denounce the republican party for its continuous and sinister encroachment upon the spirit and operation of civil service rules whereby it has arbitrarily dispensed with examinations for office in the interests of favorites and employed all manner of devices to overreach and set aside the principles upon which the civil service was established.

The race question has brought countless woes to this country. The calm wisdom of the American people should see to it that it brings no more.

To revive the dead and hateful race and sectional animosities in our common country means confusion, distraction of business and the reopening of wounds now happily healed. North, south, east and west have but recently stood together in line of battle from the walls of Pekin and the hills of Santiago as sharers of a common glory and a common destiny; we share fraternally the common burdens. We, therefore, deprecate and condemn the Bourbon-like selfish and narrow spirit of the recent republican convention at Chicago which sought to kindle anew the embers of racial and sectional strife and we appeal from it to the sober common sense and patriotic spirit of the American people.

The existing republican administration has been spasmodic, erratic, sensational, spectacular and arbitrary. It has made itself a satire upon the congress, the courts and upon the settled practices and usages of national and international law.

It summoned the congress into hasty and futile extra session and virtually adjourned it, leaving behind in its flight from Washington full calendars an unaccomplished tasks.

It made war which is the sole power of congress without its authority thereby usurping one of its fundamental prerogatives. It violated a plain statute of the United States as well as plain treaty obligations, international usages and constitutional laws; and has done so under pretense of executing a great public policy which could have been more easily affected lawfully, constitutionally and with honor. It forced strained and unnatural constructions upon statutes, usurping judicial interpretation and substituting congressional enactment decree.

It withdrew from congress their customary duties of investigation which have heretofore made the representatives of the people of the states the terror of evil doers.

It conducted a secretive investigation of its own and boasted of a few sample convicts while it threw a broad coverlet over the burdens which had been their chosen field of operative abuses, and kept in power the superior officers under whose administration the crimes had been committed.

It ordered assault upon some monopolies, but paralyzed by its first victory, it flung out the flag of truce and cried out that it would not "run amuck"—leaving its future purposes beclouded by its vacciliations.

Conducting the campaign upon this declaration of our principles and purposes, we invoke for our candidates the support not only of our great and time-honored organization, but also the active assistance of all our fellow citizens who disregarding past differences upon questions, no longer in issue, desire the perpetuation of our constitutional government as framed and established by the fathers of the republic.

Aberdeen, Miss., is preparing to erect new waterworks, bonds having recently been issued for that purpose.

PARKER AND DAVIS

Is the Ticket Nominated by the Democratic Party. Convention Adjourned.

A TELEGRAM FROM PARKER

Concerning His Position on the Money Question Caused Lengthy Discussion.

Saturday, when the convention reassembled, the startling announcement was whispered around that a sensation was to be sprung upon the convention at the eleventh hour.

It developed that Judge Parker had telegraphed his views on finance in which he declared for the gold standard and suggested that the convention should know this fact that it might be given an opportunity to select some one else for the party nominee, should his view not be in accordance with those of the delegates.

When this information circulated Bryan was absent, being at his hotel sick.

There was a rumor that Bryan would come to the convention, although ill, and make a fight against a gold standard plank.

Finally, shortly after 7 o'clock, when the convention had ordered a ballot for the nominee for vice president, and it was proceeding, Senator Culberson of Texas said that before a vice president was nominated "we had better find out who is to be the candidate for president first." Carried.

A little later the convention was called to order.

Alabama was called several times with no response, but finally Mr. Russell, of that state announced that Alabama would give way to Illinois, and Freeman B. Morris, named James R. Williams of Illinois.

Colorado yielded to Washington, and Fredrick C. Robertson spoke for former Senator George Turner.

Deleware gave her place in the call to West Virginia, and John D. Alderson placed in nomination Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia.

David Overmeyer of Kansas placed former Senator William A. Harris of that state in nomination.

At 9:10 o'clock Chairman Clark pounded vigorously with his gavel. He did not formally call the convention to order, but as soon as some degree of quiet had been restored, Governor Vardaman of Mississippi proceeded to address the convention on the subject of the mysterious telegram.

"We are here for the purpose of acting for the democratic party of this nation," said Governor Vardman, "and I want to say to you, and I believe that I voice the sentiment of every member of this convention, when I say that we have not deliberated at all since we have been here." (Applause.) He called for the message.

Delegate Raines of New York asked that the motion be deferred until the chairman of his delegation could be heard from.

John S. Williams, Governor Vardman, Senator Tillman and Senator Carmack made their way to the platform with the mysterious message in their possession.

Chairman Clark pounded for order with John S. Williams standing by his side.

"I wish to announce in advance," said the chairman, "that on this important matter, every man shall have a fair and full hearing. I now introduce John Sharpe Williams of Mississippi."

Mr. Williams said:

A telegram has come from Mr. Parker to Mr. Sheehan, and it is so important that we should know what it is. When you shall have heard it, you will note that there is not one word about requiring or demanding or asking, or requesting that anything should be placed in the democratic platform. You will also note that if there is any error in it at all, it is an error of judgment proceeding from too sensitive spirit of honor. He then handed the message to Governor Vardman who after requesting absolute quiet, read the telegram as follows:

"Hon W. F. Sheehan, Hotel Jefferson, St. Louis, Mo.:

"I regard the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established and shall act accordingly if the action of the convention today shall be ratified by the people. As the platform is silent upon the subject my views should be made known to the convention, and if it is proved to be unsatisfactory to the majority I request you to decline the nomination for me at once, so that another may be nominated before adjournment.

"ALTON B. PARKER."

The following reply was read:

"The platform adopted by this convention is silent on the question of money standard, because it is not regarded by us as a possible issue in the campaign, and only campaign issues were mentioned in the platform. Therefore there is nothing in the views expressed by you in the telegram just received which would preclude a man entertaining them from accepting a nomination on said platform."

During the reading Mr. Bryan came into the hall. Instantly there was an uproar. Calls of "Bryan, Bryan!" went up and the galleries cheered. Mr. Bryan made his way to the stage.

His face was white. His voice was weak and hoarse. He spoke with great effort but quietly and with self control.

His declaration that the sending of the telegram to Judge Parker was a declaration of the gold standard side, and his statement that if the democracy was to adopt such a view, it should be honest and say it frankly, was greeted with a shriek of applause from the galleries. Loud applause greeted Mr. Bryan's remark that it was a manly thing in Judge Parker to express his opinions before the convention adjourned, but would have been a manlier thing had he spoken before the convention met, was again cheered. He announced that he would propose an amendment to this message.

J. B. Weaver of Iowa who twelve years ago was the presidential nominee of the populist party spoke. To send the telegram was equivalent to saying "All right judge; anything you want we will accede." Both applause and groans met this statement.

The chairman recognized Mr. Bryan who presented an amendment to the reply to Judge Parker as follows:

"But as you will, of elected, be called upon to act upon certain phases of the money question, we would like to know whether you favor reducing the volume of silver dollars or whether you favor an asset currency and branch national banks; whether you prefer national bank currency to United States notes."

Representative John Sharpe Williams was recognized. He plunged without preface into a scathing arraignment of Mr. Bryan. Turning from time to time he faced Mr. Bryan who sat with immobile countenance and fanned himself. His voice trembling Mr. Williams declared that Mr. Bryan had presented the spectacle of a man pleading harmony when in all this great convention his had been the only voice of discord. The amendments to the Parker telegram he characterized as a "lot of foolish questions." Mr. Williams suddenly wheeled and facing those on the platform asked:

"Suppose we had nominated Mr. Bryan on that platform."

"God forbid," ejaculated Richmond Pearson Hobson. Mr. Bryan sprang to his feet.

"I am going to withdraw this amendment," said Mr. Bryan. Our delegation will vote for the candidate for vice president that New York wants. We are not going to do one thing to mar the harmony of the convention.

After some debate a roll call was ordered on the question of the adoption of the Williams reply to Judge Parker's message to Mr. Sheehan.

It resulted: ayes 774 noes 191, and was ordered sent.

The order of business now went back to the point where Governor Vardaman sprung the Parker telegram rumor and asked for a recess just as the roll of states was about to be called for the vote for a candidate for vice president, and the chair directed the roll should be called.

Alabama, Arkansas and California went solidly for Davis, Turner scored seven on the Colorado vote and Williams received three at the same time. The final result of the first ballot was unofficially: Williams, 165; Turner, 100; Davis, 654; Harris, 53.

Iowa did not vote. The nomination of Davis was made unanimous. It was resolved that a full report of the proceedings of the convention should be printed.

Delegate John Lamb, of Indiana moved that the democratic national committee be authorized to fill any vacancy that might occur on the national ticket.

Chairman Champ Clark and Temporary Chairman John Sharpe Williams were made respectively chairmen of the committees to notify Judge Parker and ex-Senator Davis of their nomination. It was also announced that the new national committee would meet in New York on a date to be fixed by the chairman.

Senator McCreary of Kentucky presided in the closing moments of fthe convention.

At 1:31 o'clock Senator McCreary adjourned the convention sine die, the band playing "Auld Lang Syne."

Fire Friday morning destroyed the store of Holmes Brothers, Jackson, Miss. The loss will be about $20,000. The origin of the fire is thought to have been incendiary.

When asked tonight after the debate on the reply to Judge Parker whether it is his intention to support the ticket, Mr. Bryan said:

"I have not yet considered that question sufficiently to reply, but I will make my position known in due time." I have nothing to say except that I expect to cast my vote for the ticket."

During the week of July 4, 592,303 persons visited the world's fair.

The following telegram was sent by William R. Hearst to A. B. Parker:

"I congratulate you upon your nomination and upon the expression of democratic principles in the platform on which you stand. I hope and believe that battling for the people and for such principles you will lead the democracy to victory."

Mayor Charles R. McLean, of Mobile died suddenly Sunday night.

BREVITIES BY WIRE.

A deplorable tragedy occurred near Vernon on the night of the 6th. John Matthews had a tenant, a woman, who came to the well, and Mr. Matthews, hearing some one walking, stepped to the door to reconnoitre. Receiving no answer and seeing something which he took to be a gun, he fired his winchester and killed the poor woman. What he thought was a gun proved to be a new tin dipper. Mr. Matthews says his life has been threatened recently.

The work of raising funds for the North Alabama Conference college at Owenton is progressing and there is reason to believe that sufficient money will be in hand to build the new dormitory and that the fund of $100,000, which it is the intention to raise, will be subscribed. Mr. F. M. Jackson, one of the first gentlemen approached, started the fund by subscribing $1,000.

An unknown negro tramp who had been riding on a Southern freight between Mobile and Selma shot Conductor W. Pruitt and Flagman J. M. Clowers when they attempted to eject him from the train. Mr. Clowers was shot through both lungs and may die. Mr. Pruitt was painfully wounded twice, but is not seriously hurt. The negro escaped.

The Russellville Telegraph company has sold out the Russellville exchange and the line from Russellville to Tuscumbia to the Southern Bell Telephone company. The new purchasers, it is understood, will at once put in a regular long distance service and extend the line to Jasper, where they will have direct communication with Birmingham.

At its final meeting at Jackson's lake the Alabama bar association elected officers, announced the surrender of license of two Birmingham lawyers, and passed Hon. Alex London's resolution looking to a new federal judge in the northern district of Alabama. Judge Roulhac is president and Alex Troy secretary and treasurer.

C. E. Brown, a flagman on the Southern railroad residing in Chattanooga, met death in a peculiar manner at Paint Rock. Brown was unloading a heavy trunk from the baggage car and was smashed by the trunk against a freight car that stood just behind him. His head was bursted and he died instantly.

John M. Rees, of Mobile, was robbed of jewelry worth $500 Wednesday morning in New York. He says he was called to the door of his apartment at 1 o'clock in the morning and was told a messenger had a telegram. When he opened the door two men entered, pointed a gun at him, and took the jewelry.

The Birmingham Southern Railway company continues to make improvements in its shops near Pratt City Several buildings have recently been erected and some new machinery installed. The shops are now equipped for doing all kinds of repair work. The box cars used by the company are made there.

Announcement is made that cast iron pipe being manufactured is standing hard tests which are being given. There are at present in the Birmingham district three or four pipe examiners on large contracts, and they are quoted as paying the general run of pipe made here a high compliment.

Charley Banks was thrown from a buggy at Russellville and had his arm broken and was otherwise bruised up. The horse he was driving shied at a passing team, ran the buggy into a ditch and overturned it. G. A. Robinson, who was with him, escaped with a few bruises.

The supreme court of Alabama denied the motion to advance and set down for immediate hearing the Jackson county court house case.

A letter from Bobby Walthour states that he is nearly well and that he expects to commence training this week for the opening events at the stadium in Birmingham. The new bicycle track will be thrown open for the public on the nights of July 18, 19, and 20.

Joint Discussion.

The sub-committee appointed to arrange joint discussions, composed of W. B. Browne, representing the Democratic party, and R. F. Cox, representing the joint populist and republican parties, met in the office of W. B. Browne & Leeper, on last Monday, and made the following appointment, viz:

Columbiana, Wednesday, Aug. 3.
Spring Creek, Thursday, Aug. 4.
Blue Springs, Friday, Aug. 5.
Shelby, Saturday, Aug. 6.
Weldon, Wednesday, Aug. 10.
Sterrett, Thursday, Aug. 11,

Montevallo, Tuesday, Sept. 13.
Calera, Wednesday, Sept, 14.
K. Springt, Thursday, Sept. 15,
Wilsonville, Saturday, Sept. 17.

Under the arrangement as agreed on, the principal discussion of the political issues is to be between Hon. D. R. McMillan and Hon. A. P. Longshore, one of the said speakers to open and close at one appointment and the other to open and close at the next, thus alternating throughout the canvass. Two hours is given each side, and the speaker opening is to consume not less than one hour in his opening address, and in his closing address may consume all of the time of his side left remaining, provided that the closing speech shall not be over thirty minutes long—the speches of the other candidates to intervene between the speeches of the principal speakers.

Why did the presiding officer of the Commissioners' Court say that that court had adjourned when the good roads machinery claim was presented for consideration when that body was still in regular session? Evidently he did not want the claim made public.

Parker will be the next president, and the "nigger plank" in the Republican platform will be a great factor in bringing about his election.

The Democrats all over Shelby county are enthusiastic, and they will win in November.

Deceiving the People.

There was a sensational scene at the court house Wednesday afternoon of last week, and one which will have a bearing on the campaign in this county until after the November election. It was when attorney J. L. Peters appeared before the Commissioners' Court and told them that he had a claim against the county which he desired the Court to pass upon. Judge Longshore, anticipating, probably, what the claim was, informed Judge Peters in his most suave manner and tone that the Court was adjourned, and that he came too late for the court to consider any claim. Mr. Peters insisted that his claim be passed upon—that it was a claim from the Good Roads Machinery Co., of Pittsburg, Pa,, of $7,471.50, for machinery purchased for Shelby county by the Court.

The bluff on Judge Peters that the court had adjourned did not work and Commissioner R.B. Posey injected a little more life and sensation into the scene by saying that the court was not adjourned, and that he moved the claim held by Judge Peters be taken up for consideration.

Commissioner Griffin made a motion that the contract upon which the claim was based be read. Judge Longshore then read the contract to the court, and which probably fixes upon Shelby county a debt of $7,471.50. The claim is for road machinery; it was itemized and sworn to in due form, and is clinched by a contract for the county signed by A. P. Longshore, Judge of Probate for Shelby county. The commissioners refused to honor the claim, and a suit against the county for collection will no doubt be the result.

For months past the Advocate, the Handy Andy of the administratton, has denied the existence of a contract for this road machinery, and from the stump on several occasions has Judge Longshore denied that the Commissioners had ever contracted for or purchased the machinery, yet in the presence of the populist leaders and the members of the court Judge Longshore read the contract for the purchase of this road machinery which he and his associates have disclaimed time and again had been purchased. For months the Advocate has charged The Sentinel with trying to prejudice the people of this county against the populist administration by saying the administration had purchased the machinery. The contract has been produced, the claim has been presented for payment. The contract is signed by the present Probate Judge of Shelby county. And we have not heard that Judge Longshore denies the signature. He has denied that any machinery was purchased or even contracted for.

Who has been deceiving the people of Shelby county in this machinery talk—The Sentinel, or has it been Judge Longshore, and the Handy Andy Advocate? The Judge has said no contract was ever made for the machinery, yet he is confronted in his own court by the contract and he does not, cannot dispute it. The Advocate in loud acclaim has said The Sentinel has tried to prejudice the people in this matter—that no contract had been made for the machinery. Wherein has deception been practiced? By The Sentinel, or by the populist leaders and the Advocate? By the contract which has appeared in the Commissioners Court—by the signature of the present Probate Judge to that contract, do the populist leaders and the Advocate stand convicted of willful and premeditated deception,

Yet, in spite of such premeditated actions, the populist admintration is asking for endorsement of its misdeeds at the next election. The present incumbent in the Probate Judge's office says some people in Shelby county have gone crazy over the road machinery business, and that they ought to be sent to Tuscaloosa. The Sentinel believes that he will find next November that there are not enough crazy people in this county to return him to the office which he now holds. The patience of the people of Shelby county has been most severely tried; they have been illegally wronged out of hard earned money through illegal tax levies placed upon them by the present administation; they have been made to pay taxes by the present administration which the railroads have been excused by the courts from paying; they have taxed the people for bridges which have never been built, and yet the populist administration adds insult to all this vast injury by asking the people whom they have so outrageously abused to indorse them at the polls next November!

Shades of a benighted people, what gigantic nerve!

The Evidence All In.

Too many people in Shelby county are well acquainted with the past to be misled by The Sentinel. It is said to judge the future we must know something of the past.—Advocate,

Right you are, Handy Andy. And it is upon the acts of the populist administration in the past few years that the people of the county are sitting in judgment. The populist administration has time and again levied and collected illegal taxes from the people of Shelby county, and the courts have said tha railroads need not pay these illegal tax levies. The present administration has made the people of this county pay for bridges which have never been built. Notwithstanding the taxable values have greatly increased in Shelby county in the past few years, the populist administration has increased the tax rate until it is nearly double what it was under Democratic administrations. And now comes a claim against the county, backed up by a contract signed by the Probate Judge, for over seven thousand dollars for road machinery said to have been purchased. The people of Shelby county know something of the actions of the populist administration in the past and in November they will repudiate an administration that has been so oppressive upon the common people, and the corporations have escaped, all of which comes about "upon the authority of the Commissiners' Court."

How About Your Party's Record?

If the Democratic party has the interest of the "dear people" at heart, why is it that the record of the party shows that laws upon top of laws are enacted favoring the trusts and money power, and burdening the laboring people?—Advocate.

If the populist party has the interest of the "dear people" at heart, and is forever and a day posing as the champion of the laboring classes and the common people, why does the populist administration in this county levy "time upon top of time" illegal taxes and force the laboring classes and the common people to pay, while the rich railroad corporations do not pay. By such action the populist administration in this county betrays those whom it so loudly champions(?). Judas Iscariot sold his Master for a few pieces of silver; Benedict Arnold betrayed his country for personal gain; and now the populist administration in this county, in the face of the numerous illegal taxes it has collected from the people in this county, has the audacity to pose as a friend of the laboring classes. Judas posed as a friend to Christ. Arnold posed as a friend to America.

Does the Handy Andy Advocate still contend that the good road machinery was not contracted for? It might get a little enlightment on the subject over about the Probate Judge's office.

Is it customary for the commissioners to make a record on their minutes when they refuse to buy anything? The subterfuge is thinner than air.

NOTICE

Of Registrars Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of Section 6 of "An Act to further regulate elections in the State of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "The Board of Registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least 20 day's notice of the time when, and the place in the precinct where, they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each precinct, and by advertisement once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county.

J. L. GLENN,
Board of Registrars for Shelby county.

That Eye Single Business.

The present administration of the affairs of the county has been with an eye single to the welfare of the laboring people of the county.—Advocate.

The laboring classes of Shelby county do not appreciate that interest manifested (in words alone) in their welfare by the popnlist administration in collecting from them illegal taxes which the railroads will not pay, and which the populist administration has failed to collect from the rich corporations. The "eye single to the welfare" business which Handy Andy and the populist leaders prate so much about appears to be in favor of railroads and against the laboring classes. And, by the way, the triumvirate of writers for the Handy Andy organ have nothing to say of the infamous manner in which the common people of this county have been robbed of thousands of dollars through illegal tax levies placed upon them by the present administration—the self-appointed champion of the laboring classes.

The Worst Ever.

The record of the Democratic party compared to that of the populist administration will show that the populist have been more economical in the affairs of the county than the Democrats were. —Advocate.

Under Democratic administrations the tax rate was kept down to four mills, but when the populists came into power the tax rate was jumped up to seven mills, illegal tax levies were heaped upon the people to pay out the reckless extravagance of the populist administration, and the county treasurer's account marked "overdrawn." That's the economy the populist administration boasts of.

A full text of the Democeatic platform is found on the first page of this issue. It stands for white supremacy, while the Republican platform stands for social and political equality with the negro. The latter is being supported by a few individuals in Shelby county who are Republicans for political purposes only, and the populist leaders in this county endorse the same. How do the people of Shelby county like the Republican negro plank?

Under Democratic administrations the tax rate in Shelby county was but four mills, but now under populist administration the rate is seven mills, and the county treasury as bare as a dry road. The latter is a demonstration of economy according to the populist theories ot the present leaders of that party. Which administration has been the best for the people?

"Keeping that good roads machinery in Shelby county is a Democratic trick," cries the populist leaders. And no doubt they will say that the contract signed by the present Probate Judge is also a Democratic trick. Gentlemen, the hole is not large enough for you to crawl through. Your little trick has proven a boomerang, whieh rebounded to your discredit.

Editor Sentinel:

Please allow me to say a few words which I hope may be beneficial to some poor oppressed man. I think the time at hand when the eyes of the blind should be opened and the ears of the deaf should be unstopped, and tongues of truth should speak out in thunderous tones against unlawful oppression of the poor.

About the 20th day of December last year, I paid all taxes claimed against Jessie and John Strickland. Of course I felt that I was free for another year, having a clear receipt; but alas, how soon I found I was mistaken. Their lands were advertised to be sold for taxes and costs. Oh, yes, it was advertised in the "Great Peoples Advocate" I guess for the fees. A. P. Longshore the Great I Am of the Populist-Republican party appointed the 4th day of July as a day to hear reasons why the advertised lands should not sell for these fees and taxes. Living a long way from Columbiana, I hired a horse and started the day before. I arrived at the court house on time, it being about 9 a. m., but found no Longshore. His clerk Mr. Bird told me that he had gone to Calera and would not return before 4:30 p. m. I afterwards learned that Judge Longshore was in Calera making a political speech instead of being in his office to transact business upon a date which he himself had fixed. So what could I do. Mr. Robertson said all I could do was to pay it all off. I was fool enough to do it.

Now friends, for your own good you should refuse to vote for such out-rageous set as this? I hope you will. I hope you will think this matter over and go out to the polls in November and vote the entire Democratic ticket, and we will have our rights.

THOS. F. FARRELL.

Populist doctrine is opposed to corporations on general principals, yet the administration in this county levies an illegal tax upon the people and collects it, and has done so for several years—a tax which the railroads have refused to pay, and have been pretected by the courts from doing so. Special privileges to corporations, and the common people pay the freight. And the Advocate can say nothing in defense of such a great injustice done the people.

The Sentinel is in receipt of communications this week, and part of them will have to go over to the next issue.

The Advocate says "the Commissioners' Court is its own authority." We have always believed that the Commissioners' Courts were governed by Constitutional and State law.

Stick the people with illegal tax levies whenever they can, appears to be the idea of the populist leaders, and when caught up in the acts they raise the pitiful cry that the Democrats abuse them.

Through coalition with the Republicans in this county the populist leaders endorse the most infamous and greatest trust making factory known to the civilized world. Yet they profess to be representatives of a party that has condemned trusts and monopoly in the strongest possible terms.

The populist leaders of the county hope to again ride into office by prejudicing the minds of the people one against the other, but never a word do they say about the illegal tax levies they have heaped upon the taxpayers. They attempt to blind the people to the wrongs perpetrated upon them by prejudice pure and simple.

For weeks the Handy Andy of the populist leaders accused Democrats of paying the tax assessor of the county $25 more each year than the law allowed. But the falseness of the statement was shown up completely, and since that time the Advocate has never referred to the matter—not even doing the honorable thing by acknowledging that it was wrong. But then, the people do not expect anything from the Advocate that has a spirit of fairness about it.

If by some accident Roosevelt should be elected the negroes will insist that Crum be given a place in the President's cabinet. The president's negro policy leads the world to believe that Crum in the cabinet would not be objectionable to him.

Your "scribe" was among the many who attended the annual singing from this place at Creswell last Sunday. The singing was good. The behavior was good, dinner was good, and everybody seemed to have a good time. The crowd was estimated at a thousand or probably more for they were there from Talladega, Clay, Coosa, Jefferson, and St. Clair counties as well as Shelby county.

Our school patrons met last Saturday evening at the academy for the purpose of electing a principal to teach our school another year. T. J. Martin was made chairman, and very briefly stated the object of the meeting. R. B. Posey placed in nomination th name of Prof. C. H. Florey, and there being no opposition he was unanimously elected by a rising vote, after which a committee was appointed to notify him of the same. Prof. Florey is one of our own boys, as he was raised here. He is a fine educator, having taught school in different parts of the State, is well known. He has taught several schools here at different times and don't know what the word failure means. Our people are to be congratulated in the choice that they have made, and we see new life already being enthused in the school, and persons living abroad who have children to educate would do well to patronize the Harpersville school. Board can be obtained very reasonble in private families. Tuition is low; our society is good, churches good. If you are thiuking of moving to a place to educate your children, come to Harpersville and you will never regret it. Hurrah for the Harpersville school.

The oldest specimens of glass are traced back from 1,500 to 2,300 years before Christ. These are of Egyptian origin. Transparent glass is believed to have been first used about 750 years before the Christian era. The Phoenicians were supposed by the ancients to have been responsible for the invention. There is little doubt, however, that the art of glassmaking originated with the Egyptians. It was introduced into Rome in the time of Cicero and reached a remarkable degree of perfection among the Romans, who produced some of the most admirable specimens of glass ever manufactured; an instance is the famous Portland vase in the British museum. Glass was not used for windows until about A. D. 300.

The highest speed which can be attained in an "express" elevator, in a very high office building is about 700 feet a minute. That is equivalent to a mile in more than seven minutes, and many a pedestrian has walked for considerable distances at nearly as fast a pace.

One of the great attractions in the horticultural exhibit, at the Louisiana Purchase exposition, at St. Louis, is the seedless apple, propagated by John F. Spencer, of Grand Junction, Col. FIBROID TUMORS CURED.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) MRS. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Hayes' Second Letter:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) MRS. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

PARKER NOMINATED

Polls 658 on the First Ballot. Platform Adopted. Makes no Mention of Money

WAS IN SESSION ALL NIGHT.

Eight Names Were Presented to the Convention and Thirteen Received Votes in the Balloting.

When the national democratic convention reassembled, it was hoped by the leaders that the work might be concluded today and a sine die adjournment taken. When the delegates came together at the beginning of this, the third day, there yet remained to be accomplished the adoption of the platform and the nomination of candidates for president and vice president. It was appreciated that this might require three sessions, the last running into the night.

Chairman Clark arrived at 10 minutes after 10 o'clock and was received with a few handclaps. Twenty minutes later the delegates were in their seats. No word had been received from the resolutions committee and Chairman Clark dispatched a messenger to learn when it would be ready to report.

Private advices were to the effect that it would be several hours before the report would be prepared and the prospects for a short session grew stronger. One of the secretaries called through a megaphone: "The band will please play 'Home, Sweet Home.'"

There was a wild cheer from the weary perspiring delegates as the familiar strain floated out on the air. Anything with the word "home" seemed to please greatly, for the cheers were repeated a few minutes later when "My Old Kntucky Home" was rendered. "Dixie" called forth the inevitable yells.

The messenger Chairman Clark had sent to the committee on resolutions returned with a gloomy report of the unreadiness of that committee to appear with its important document and the waiting continued.

At 10:40 Chairman Clark arose and let fall his huge gavel. "The convention will be in order," he demanded. The clerk then announced the session would commence with prayer by Rabbi Sale, of St. Louis. The delegates and spectators at once arose to their feet and stood during the invocation.

At the conclusion of the prayer an announcement was made at the order of Chairman Clark that he was "determined to have order, and that any person raising a row will be taken out by the police."

A demand was made for the report of the resolutions committee. When no response was forthcoming it was determined to call the roll of states for the purpose of having the names of the next national committee announced. There were cheers at the announcement of several of the names.

Another call was made for the report of the committee on resolutions. As the call did not bring any result, the secretaries of the convention commenced to work the telephone vigorously in an effort to put the chairman of the convention in touch with the chairman of the committee in order to find out when he would be ready with his report.

Representative James, of Kentucky, moved that a committee of three be appointed to wait on the committee and ascertain when it would be ready to report. Carried.

Chairman Clark named Mr. James, H. D. Clayton, of Alabama, and T. N. Ball, of Texas, as the committee.

A motion was made and carried that Richmond Pearson Hobson, of Alabama, be invited to address the convention. Captain Hobson accepted the invitation and revealed the best and strongest voice thus far heard in the convention.

In speaking on the color question he declared that Booker T. Washington would soon outlive his undoubted usefulness if he did not cease to yield to the teachings and influence of the republican party and its chieftain. He urged the men of the west and north to refrain from oppressing the south by advocating anything that tended to obliterate the racial lines. He deprecated the fact that in the republican convention not one man had risen to speak against the plank in that party's platform which urged a reduction of southern representation in congress because of alleged disfranchisement of voters in the south. The speaker worked himself into a high pitch of excitement as with white face and ringing voice he drew a picture of the approaching battle between the parties and concluded with the words:

"Let us make the republicans name the battlefield and let us make them call it Waterloo."

In his efforts to secure order at the conclusion of Captain Hobson's speech Chairman Clark broke his gavel handle.

The committee, headed by Representative James, presented itself and Mr. James was introduced. His announcement was:

"Your committee to wait on the committee on resolutions report that they have discharged that duty. The committee informs us that they will be unable to report to this convention until 8 o'clock tonight, at which time they will bring to you a unanimous report, signed by every member of the committee."

Great applause and cheers greeted this last statement and as soon as Mr. James could be heard again he continued:

"New York, Nebraska, Virginia and Wisconsin have all joined hands and will bring in a platform that will carry us to a glorious victory in November."

Mr. James followed his last announcement at once with a motion to adjourn until 8 o'clock tonight. A second was at once heard, and the motion carried, the session closing at 11:58.

At the night session the convention adopted a platform by a viva voce vote and listened to nominating speeches for president. Judge Alton B. Parker was nominated by Martin W. Littleton and William Randolph Hearst by D. M. Delmas. Both orators were applauded at length.

ALTON B. PARKER.

Nominating speeches for favorite sons, candidates and seconding speeches for both Parker and Hearst occupied the convention for several hours.

Senator Daniel concluded reading the platform at 8:55 o'clock.

When it was observed that he had ceased reading the convention broke into cheers.

Senator Daniel said:

"I am unanimously instructed by your committee on platform to move the previous question of its adoption, and I now make that motion."

It was adopted by a viva voce vote, two or three delegates voting in the negative, and they apparently in a spirit of fun. Chairman Clark then put the motion to adopt and another viva voce carried it.

Temporary Chairman Williams then mounted the steps leading up to the platform, swung his hat around his head and the delegates following his lead roared their applause again and again, while the band played "Hail Columbia."

The great climax of the convention, the nomination of a candidate for president, followed immediately upon the adoption of the platform.

"The clerk will now call the roll of states for the nomination of a candidate for president," shouted the chairman.

"Alabama!" shrieked the clerk.

"Alabama yields to the Empire state New York," called Delegate Russell, of Alabama, standing in his chair, one arm grasping the standard of his state marker.

Martin W. Littleton took the stand amid ringing applause to place Judge Parker, of New York, in nomination.

Mr. Littleton was given close attention. For the first time during the session there was silence in the hall.

A terrific outburst of cheering followed Mr. Littleton's remark about Parker, "If you ask me why he has been silent, I answer because he has not attempted to be the master of his party, but is content to be its servant."

The greatest demonstration at the close of Mr. Littleton's speech was on the floor of the convention and confined largely to the delegates.

New York began waving a great mass of flags, and the state standards began to be moved up alongside that of the empire state.

Then was enacted a scene that recalled an incident of the democratic convention in Chicago which nominated William J. Bryan eight years ago.

Two girls in white sprang to the front of the platform and waved flowers and flags. With renewed outbursts the immense throng cheered them until a picture of Judge Parker attracted thunderous cheering. The cheering continued 25 minutes. Arkansas yielded to Tennessee and Senator Carmack took the platform and seconded the nomination of Judge Parker.

California, a Hearst state, was next in order. D. M. Delmas, of that state, was recognized and there was cheering as he made his way to the platform, but it was not prolonged. The hall was a bedlam when Mr. Delmas concluded.

The band played: "We Won't Go Home Till Morning."

L. Irving Handy, of Delaware, nominated Judge George M. Gray.

David Overmeyer, of Kansas, placed General Nelson A. Miles in nomination.

Delegate Roesing, from Minnesota, interposed a motion that all seconding speeches be limited to one minute. Governor Dockery moved to amend by making the time five minutes. The amendment was lost on a viva voce vote. After a parliamentary squabble, the time was fixed at four minutes.

Maine gave way to Missouri, and Champ Clark, of that state, nominated Senator Francis M. Cockrell, of Missouri, for the presidency.

"Massachusetts," called the clerk, and Patrick A. Collins, of Boston, nominated Richard Olney, of the Old Bay state.

When Nebraska was called the noise of the convention was hushed as the name fell from the clerk's lips. C. J. Smythe responded, but before he could speak the name of "Bryan, was heard above the uproar. "Bryan, Bryan, Bryan," yelled the crowd. Mr. Bryan finally arose and standing in his chair endeavored to quiet the demonstration, but he was only an incentive for fresh outbursts.

When he could make himself heard, he simply announced that Wisconsin had a candidate present and Nebraska yielded her place on the roll call to that state. David S. Rose, mayor of Milwaukee, placed Edward C. Wall in nomination.

Chairman Cole, of the North Dakota delegation, nominated John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi.

On the first ballot, at 5:39 a. m. of Saturday, Judge Alton Brooks Parker, of New York, was nominated, having a total of 658 votes.

The first and only ballot resulted:

Parker	658
Hearst	200
Cockrell	42
Olney	38
Wall	27
Gray	12
Williams	8
Pattison	4
McClellan	3
Miles	3
Coler	2
Gorman	2
Towne	2

The convention adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The news of Judge Parker's nomination was given to him as he was coming out of the water after a morning swim. "Well, Judge, you've got it," cried the reporter as the judge appeared over the bow of the barge from which he had been diving. "Is that so?" replied the judge, his ruddy face breaking into a cherry smile in which satisfaction was undisguised.

The debate on the money plank of the platform in the committee on platform of the national democratic convention was opened by Rufus N. Rhodes, of Alabama, who declared that he would not vote for reaffirmation of the Chicago or Kansas City platform nor for the gold plank proposed by David B. Hill.

Members of the committee declare Mr. Rhodes made a distinct impression, and it also fell to the lot of Mr. Rhodes at the close of the fifteen hours' continuous deliberation of the committee to enjoy the honor of making the motion to adopt the platform as a whole, which unanimously prevailed, Hill and Bryan both voting in the affirmative.

A correspondent says: David B. Hill has received no ovation at the convention nor has he taken part in the deliberations other than the action on the committee platform. He has studiously avoided publicity, yet it is the hand of Hill that is guiding the convention upon its course.

MEMORIAL PRESENTED

To Spanish Admiral By American Citizens.

As a demonstration of gratitude regarding his conduct at Santiago and his care of American sailors, Admiral Cervera was presented with an engrossed message bearing the signatures of a number of well known Americans, besides letters from the subscribers bound in a volume.

The admiral, in returning thanks for this manifestation of American good will, said his conduct toward Lieutenant Hobson and the American sailors after the sinking of the Merrimac had been inspired by superior orders.

Admiral Cervera had repeatedly refused to permit his American admirers to honor him, but notwithstanding these refusals the plan to make the presentation was carried out.

ANTS WILL COME.

Texas Injunction Dissolved—Insects Harmless to Man.

The injunction proceedings instituted in Texas to prosecute the government experiments with the Guatemala boll weevil-eating ants have been dissolved, and O. F. Cook, the expert who discovered the ants, will go to Victoria, Tex., to install the colonies of ants in such a way they can be carefully studied. The ants which are now in New Orleans are in good condition and more numerous than when they started from Guatemala.

Mr. Cook says that it is highly important to learn the adaptability of the ants to different climates and soils as found in Texas, so that in case of necessity they may be exterminated absolutely and easily if undesireable traits appear. He says the ants are thoroughly predatory in their habits; that their movements are slow; that they may be handled with impunity, and that they are as harmless as toads.

SULTAN AGREES

To Demands Made by the American Minister.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that American Minister Leishmann handed a note to the porte declaring that unless a prompt settlement of the school question was arranged, a United States fleet would appear in Turkish waters. The Sultan ordered the grand vizer to comply with the American minister's demand.

The demands on the sultan by Minister Leishmann are for private grounds to schools and colleges conducted by American teachers equal to those given foreign teachers; for permission by American professional men to practice on even terms with foreigners, and for the direct access of the American minister to the sultan in the transaction of business.

After reconsidering its action in indorsing the candidacy of President Roosevelt for re-election in place of making its own nominations, the national liberal party nominated William T. Scott, of East St. Louis, and W. C. Payne, of Warrenton, Va., for president and vice president, respectively, of the United States. S. P. Mitchell, of Memphis, declined the nomination for first place on the negro ticket, but will manage the campaign as chairman of the executive committee.

From Attalla to Altoona.

This week will commence the laying of steel rails on the extension of the L. & N. from Attalla to Altoona, and when this work is completed a freight will be put on to the tunnel. It will take until next January to complete the tunnel. It will take about seven weeks to complete the work of laying the rails.

Her Maiden Trip.

The United States cruiser Denver, which has been lying at League Island navy yard for several weeks, left for Galveston Friday. The object of the trip, the first since the vessel has been placed in commission is to receive a $5,000 silver service, the gift of the citizens of Denver.

In certain sections of the south trade has fallen off slightly, although business in general is well up to the last year's yield.

Russian Cloth.

It is officially announced that henceforth where cotton or woolen goods manufactured in Russia are exported to foreign countries or to the Amur country, the duties paid on foreign materials, authorized in their production, will be refunded. A rebate will also be allowed on the duties paid on imported machinery used in the manufacture of such goods.

Republicans Adopt Vulcan.

The republicans of Alabama will contribute to the fund being raised for "Vulcan," and the picture of the big iron man will be used by that party as the emblem on their official ballots in the November election. The republicans will head their tickets with "Progress and Prosperity, Vulcan, Roosevelt and Fairbanks."

General Stoessel, intrusted with the defense of Port Arthur, has about 38,000 soldiers.

Fire and Explosion.

At Chicago, the plant of the National Provision Company was damaged $75,000 by fire. As a result of the fire a terrific explosion occurred in a big new sewer in Thirty-ninth street. For a distance of a mile along the thoroughfare manhole covers were sent high in the air and the street surface was so damaged that car and wagon traffic was suspended for the day.

Seven Killed

A special from Cape Girardeau, Mo., says:

Seven workmen were killed and two others seriously injured by being blown from the second arch of the low railroad bridge across the Mississippi river at Thebes, Ill. The tornado struck a travelling crane upon which the men were at work and pushed it backward for 200 feet.

JAPANESE FLEET IN BATTLE LINE

Items from All Over the Theater of War—Russian Movements. Manchuria.

The steamer Manchuria, which is on a tour of inspection of the theater of war, with members of the Japanese diet, foreign attaches and press correspondents on board, reached the Japanese naval base July 14th. At the time of the Manchuria's arrival, a huge cloud of smoke hung over the land. Rounding the headland, the panorama of Admiral Togo's fleet was presented at broad anchorage in the channel with torpedo scouts outside. The torpedo gunboat Chihaya and the coast defense vessel Heiyen acted as sentries over the roadstead. Under the north end of the island were five cruisers. In the center were all five battleships.

Under date of July 16th Lieutenant General Sakharoff reports that the chasseurs are driving back the Japanese advance posts southwest of Siakhotan and east of Kan Chi. The Japanese, the general says, have reoccupied Kochinha. They are still fortifying the passes between Fonshui and Motien. The Japanese near Liao Yang have evacuated Sekeyan and Yanlikan. The country from Siaossyra up to Sihu pass is free from Japanese, but the pass itself is occupied.

The Chinese minister at Tokio has telegraphed the Wai Wou Pou (the Chinese minister of foreign affairs) that the Japanese government has presented a scheme for the administration of Manchuria, the principal clause of which is that the Japanese will govern the provinces with the number of Chinese troops now in the country.

The imperial Japanese headquarters officially denies the reports that the Japanese lost 30,000 men in a battle near Port Arthur on July 10th or 11th. Not a shot was fired on either date.

Experts who were inclined to criticise General Kuropatkin's management of affairs in the far east declare as the situation develops that his strategy has proved so far to be beyond reproach. He has successfully tided over a pressing danger. His apparent mistakes, like the prolonged resistance offered by Lieutenant General Zassalitch on the Yalu, turn out to be acts of the highest military judgment.

Since July 11 the Japanese have landed about 30,000 men near Pigeon Bay, under the protection of the entire fleet. The Russians, the dispatch says, offered little resistance, only a few shots being fired by the shore batteries. A general assault is expected soon.

The news that the Russian volunteer steamships Smolensk and St. Petersburg, now cruising in the Red sea, are stopping ships of neutral nations and searching them for contraband of war, is causing interest.

The Russian gaurdship Chernomorotz passed through the Bosphorous from the sea.

The latest reports from representative cotton regions in central Mississippi show that the damage from the violent rain storm Monday was greater than at first believed. Many acres of cotton on the hillsides were washed so badly that the crop prospects were utterly destroyed, and it is now too late for replanting.

President Milton H. Smith, of the Louisville and Nashville, has appointed J. L. Mapother, his chief clerk, to the position of assistant to the president. This eliminates the necessity for the immediate selection of a successor to Walker D. Hines, who resigned recently the position of first vice president.

Fell Over a Cliff.

While strolling about the top of the leaning tower, one of the views about Montaegle, Tenn., with R. E. Ford, of Cleveland, Ohio, a student at the University of the South, Miss Mary Walker, of Columbus, Miss., lost her footing and pitched down the side of the cliff, lodging in a rocky gorge sixty feet below. Her skull was fractured and it is believed internal injuries were sustained. Little hope of her recovery is entertained, as she has never regained consciousness.

Montana has some 58,000,000 acres of public land, of which 17,000,000 acres are reserved.

Plant Enlarged.

In anticipation of a larger business than ever before, the Empire Plow company of Ensley is making a large addition to the woodworking department of their plant. The addition covers a space about 40 by 60 feet and practically doubles the capacity of that department. This concern spent over $20,000 last summer in new buildings and new machinery preparing for the trade last fall.

FORMER SHERIFF

Convicted of Burglary by Chain of Circumstances.

Green Etheredge, for four years the republican sheriff of Lawrence county, was convicted of burglary and now occupies a cell in the county jail at Moulton. The crime for which Etheridge was convicted was the burglary of the courthouse. In 1896 the term of office of Etheridge expired and since that time he has led a varied existence.

In January, 1900, the office of the circuit clerk of the county was entered and about eighty affidavits and indictments charging various offenses were taken. Prior to this time the clerk had been informed that Etheredge had said that he intended to break into the office and get the indictments against him. A long chain of circumstantial evidence fastened the crime upon him. An appeal will be taken and sentence has not yet been passed.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Safe Blown and $800 in Money and Stamps Taken.

A special from Calhoun, Ga., says: The postoffice here was blown open by unknown parties early Sunday morning and about $800 in money and stamps taken. The loss comprises one package of stamps amounting to $500 which had been received by Postmaster Davis the day before, and had not been opened; about $100 in other stamps, and between $175 and $200 in cash.

The safe crackers, who were evidently experts, carried off the books, so the exact amount of the loss is not known. Postoffice inspectors are on the scene, but there is no clue to the robbers.

Mobile's New Station.

The sum of $250,000 is to be expended on the site and the new union passenger station at Mobile. The state railroad commission has approved of the plans for the new station, and work will begin shortly. The station will be amply large to accommodate all of the railroads entering Mobile. It will be situated at the corner of Beauregard and St. Joseph streets, and its construction is undertaken by the Southern railway.

About six months ago lawyers and members of congress were surprised to learn that Librarian Putnam had relieved from duty the librarian of the supreme court, Thomas H. Clark, of Montgomery, Ala., and had filled his place by the appointment of Charles Scott. Since Mr. Clark's departure the affairs of the law library have been in chaos, the law library of 100,000 volumes has been scattered and the public is generally informed that the law library is being "reclassified and recatalogued," and that Mr. Scott, law librarian, is "in Europe on official business."

Santos Dumont, the aeronaut, has definitely decided not to return to America for the St. Louis airship competition. There is only one firm, he says, which can repair the damage done to the envelope of his balloon. After an interview with the head of this firm, Santos Dumont announced that the repairs could not be made within six weeks or two months, leaving insufficient time to ship the balloon to St. Louis for a trial before the close of the fair. Hereafter, he declares, he will limit his experiments to Paris.

COUNT KELLER DEFEATED.

Kuroki Repulses Him and Pursues Him—Seizure of Mails.

Aided by Fog.

General Kuroki reports that two divisions of the Russian army made a desperate assault on Maotien pass at dawn July 17th, but were repulsed. Casualties not stated.

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning a heavy fog veiling their movements, two divisions of Russians, commanded by Lieutenant General Keller, made an assault on the Japanese positions at Moatien pass. The Japanese resisted, repulsed the Russians and pursued them for a considerable distance westward.

The Japanese torpedo destroyer Hayatori has captured a junk conveying mail from Port Arthur to Che Foo. Letters dealing with military and naval conditions at Port Arthur have been seized. Much valuable information was contained in the letters. Those which did not deal with military topics have been forwarded to St. Petersburg with the request that they be delivered to those to whom they were addressed.

On July 17th, in order to determine the strength of the enemy, it was decided to advance in the direction of Lianshankwan. Lieutenant General Count Keller had been instructed not to start with the object of capturing the pass, but to act according to the strength of the force that he would find opposed to him.

General Keller found the strength of the enemy so great that he decided not to continue the fight, and not to bring up either the special or the general reserves because it would be necessary to attack without the support of the field artillery.

A Russian force, apparently about 20,000 strong, attacked the front, left and right of Japanese positions at Moatien pass Monday under cover of a dense fog. The sudden onslaught drove in the Japanese posts, but as soon as reinforcements arrived the Japanese gallantly advanced to the attack, and after severe fighting drove off the Russians and reoccupied the position.

Hurricane at Elyton.

Several dwellings were demolished and others were badly damaged by a wind storm which struck Elyton Monday afternoon. One person, Kate Nabers, a negro girl, was seriously injured, but she will recover.

The barn of T. S. Smith was razed to the ground and a fine saddle horse was killed by the falling timbers. A Jersey cow belonging to Mr. Smith was injured.

Kate Nabers, the negro girl, was in the house of Jerry Turner at the time of the storm. When the house was blown down a stove was turned over on her and she was seriously injured about the breast and back.

A number of tents at Camp Jelks were blown down, and for the time being the camp grounds were flooded. No material damage was done, however, at that place.

Mississippi railroads are suffering heavily on account of the closing down of the lumber mills. Traffic officials of one road state that the domestic shipments have decreased 30 per cent within the past thirty days, and are at least 80 per cent less than at this time last year.

Safe Robbed.

George Findley's store at Greensboro was entered Sunday night by an unknown thief and one hundred dollars stolen from his safe. The thief gained an entrance by smashing a hole in the glass front large enough for his hand, thereby enabling him to undo the fastenings of the door. Only the day combination was on Mr. Findley's safe and the burglar was evidently some one well acquainted with the premises. He easily opened the safe, from which he took one hundred dollars belonging to Mr. Findley, but left untouched twenty dollars in the safe that belonged to the Masonic lodge.

JURY SAYS LOOMIS' BODY

Doctors Assert Wound Back of Ear Was Caused Before Death.

The coroner's jury, which viewed the body of the man washed ashore Saturday, found that the deceased was Frederick Kent Loomis, and that he was found dead in Bigbury Bay, there being no evidence to show how he met his death.

The jury was somewhat late in assembling in consequence of the delay in carrying out the medical examination by two local doctors, whose testimony was to the effect that there was a contused wound below and behind the right ear, indicated by the blood in the scalp and a rupture of the covering of the brain. There was also a general bruise involving the scalp and integument of the brain on the left side above the ear. The above injuries, in the doctors' opinion, were caused before death.

The American consul at Plymouth, Joseph G. Stephens, attended the proceedings.

BIG ORDER FOR MOSQUITO NETTING.

General Davis Wants 100,000 Yards for Use in Panama.

General Davis, governor general of the Panama canal strip, has advised the Panama canal commission that he wants 100,000 yards of wire gauze to prevent mosquito invasion of the zone. General Davis says that this will be perhaps the largest order for mosquito netting ever given. He recommends the use of steel wire screens not coarser than seventeen meshes to the square inch, galvanized.

Admiral Walker suggests that copper and brass wire also may be utilized. For the hospitals 20,000 yards will be needed, while for screening the houses along the canal zone 75,000 yards will be required.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL

Robert Knighton, Cullman Prisoner, Gets Away by Trick.

Robert Knighton, white, charged with burglary, broke jail at Cullman and has made good his escape for a while at least. He was the only prisoner in jail, and knowing that the jailer, Deputy Sheriff J. H. Dunlap, was out of town for several days, resorted to a ruse to effect escape. He cut the bars in his cell. Reaching the corridor, he rapped on the bars, which is the customary call for the jailer when anything is wanted by the prisoners. Mrs. Dunlap answered the call and as she opened the door, thinking that Knighton was secure in his cell, he rushed out by her and made an easy escape.

New Industries in Mississippi.

Columbus $30,000 yarn and cordage mill.

Greenville—$20,000 stone works.

Indianola—Water works.

Jackson—Mattress factory.

Kosfusko—$100,000 oil company.

Meridian—$20,000 building company.

Sapa—Saw mill; cotton gin; grist mill; shingle mill.

Utica—Ice factory; laundry.

Baltimore Insurance.

The general loss committee, composed of expert insurance men, which was organized shortly after the Baltimore fire, made its final report. There were 3,778 separate claims handled by the committee and the amount of insurance paid on these claims was $29,074,358.51. The total insurance paid to those who lost in the fire will be about $30,500,000.

The Methodist clergy of Mississippi has undertaken the work of raising funds for the rebuilding of the Methodist orphanage at Water Valley, which was destroyed by fire, leaving 105 children homeless.

Accidental Death.

Miss Emma Morris, the pretty 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Monroe Morris, of Wilkinson county, Mississippi, took her 22-caliber rifle out to shoot some birds, and not having returned to the house at dark, her mother went to hunt for her. She was found dead a short distance from the house with a bullet through the brain.

Stabbed With Umbrella.

A special from Dothan says:

While at a picnic near Ashford, Will Jenkins and a son of Tom Dias got into a quarrel.

Dias was striking Jenkins with his knife in the face, but it seems that the knife was not open. Jenkins in return jabbed Dias in the face with his umbrella, and the small end of it struck in his mouth and it penetrated his jugular vein in his throat and killed him almost instantly.

Fully 75 per cent of the small lumber mills in southern Mississippi are closed down. The large mills are commencing to suspend operations.

The hearing on the Slocum disaster before the bureau of steamboat inspectors, which was adjourned from July 12th, was continued Monday.

Fire in the plant of A. L. Hayes & Co., stove manufacturers, Nashville, did damage estimated at $25,000, covered by insurance.

Eight county Sunday school conventions are to be held in various parts of Mississippi during the week.

IN SOUTHERN BANKS

The Increased Rate of Deposits Has Been Remarkable for Past Eleven Years.

THE SOUTH SUFFERED LEAST.

From the Money Panic of 1893 and Has Prospered Wonderfully Since.

During the eleven years from 1892 to 1903 the total deposits in the south and southwest increased from $451,441,378 in 1892 to $1,071,376,994 in 1903, a gain of $619,935,616, or 137.3 per cent. Total in the rest of the country was only 100.5 per cent. In Oklahoma and Indian Territory, on account of the recent opening of the country to settlement, there was an extraordinary large percentage of increase, the gain in Oklahoma being 2,479 per cent and in the Indian Territory 2,628 per cent.

The effects of the depression resulting from the money panic of 1893 are shown by the statement in the decreases of deposits between 1892 and 1896; but while the decrease in the southern and southwestern states was only a little more than $5,000,000, the falling off in the middle west was $45,000,000; and, with reference to the present, it must be borne in mind that the reports of banks now being received from the south and southwest show a steady increase in deposits, evidencing the prosperous conditions that are unabated throughout these parts of the country.

Not Such a Victory.

Reports concerning the repulse of the Japanese at Port Arthur cut down the losses. According to reliable sources the Japanese losses were 2,800 and the Russian losses were 1,800.

The Japanese have hoisted the national flag on Rose island in Chemulpo harbor.

The Russian government has ordered 100,000 breastplates. They are said to be intended for use by the Russian forces in the far east. The cuirass is an appliable breastplate weighing about one pound, measuring a little less than one-half inch in thickness and capable of resisting bullets.

The Japanese are making great preparations for the coming rains, which are due in earnest about July 31st.

There are 10,000 Koreans regularly enrolled in the Japanese srvice, and these with a leaven of Japanese and under Japanese officers, are guarding the lines of communication. There has been a sudden movement of the Japanese right flank to the south.

FOUND DEAD ON THE ROAD.

Young Mississippian Mysteriously Killed Near Columbus.

Dancy Blewett, a young man 18 years of age, left his home, telling his father he was coming to Columbus. He was riding his horse, which returned to the Blewett plantation without the rider. A few minutes later some one rode up and told Mr. Blewett that his son had been found lying on the side of the public road dead with a wound in his chest. The shot went all the way through the young man's body. The body remained where it fell until Wednesday night, when the coroner's jury rendered the verdict that he was killed by unknown party or parties. A negro woman was arrested who lives in the neighborhood. It is not thought that she is the one who did the killing, but many think she knows about it. Many other rumors which go still deeper into the tragedy and the cause of it are afloat.

Shot Her Slanderer.

At Elba, S. M. Stewart was shot with a revolver in the hands of Miss Annie Rhodes and is expected to die.

The shooting is said to have grown out of statements made by Stewart which were damaging to the character of Miss Rhodes, who is a sister of the wife of Stewart.

Ants Doing Well.

O. F. Cook, the discoverer of the Guatemalan boll weevil eating ants, has wired the department of agriculture from Texas that the new ants are destroying cotton boll worms and are attacking similar injurious insects with even greater activity than they do the boll weevil. Another important fact is that the ants do not injure at all the lady bird larvae, which are beneficial insects. Mr. Cook reports that the agricultural value of the ants now depends chiefly on the acclimatization and rapidity of propagation. These matters are being investigated.

College Located.

The board of directors of the Presbyterian College for Men of the synod of Alabama met Saturday and decided to locate the college on Leighton avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets. Several desirable locations were offered, but after visiting the others the site on Leighton was decided upon. The plot of land which will be transferred includes ten and one-tenth acres.

ENGINE LEFT THE TRACK,

Taking Two Cars With It—Three Seriously Hurt.

A passenger train on the Southern railway was wrecked between Covin and Kennedy Thursday afternoon.

No cause has been assigned for the accident other than that the engine and cars jumped the track, carrying a trestle down. The trestle is 400 feet long and eight feet high. The fact that heavy rains have predominated in that territory, causing all trains to be operated under caution at a lower rate of speed than ordinarily, prevented more serious results from the accident.

Horace G. Lindsay, engineer, of Columbus, jumped from his engine and was caught in the machine, sustaining severe bruises all over the body, having his nose broken and suffered internal injuries; serious.

Wylie Jones, negro fireman, was also caught in an endeavor to jump and is the most seriously injured of all. Besides being badly bruised he is otherwise injured, the full extent not yet being known.

R. R. Brooks, mail clerk, of Birmingham, was caught in the overturning combination car and both legs and hips badly bruised and fractured; serious.

Ten passengers were hurt, but not seriously.

The locomotive made a complete turn. The second-class coach left the rails, but did not turn completely to its side. About 100 feet of the trestle was torn up.

KIDNAPED.

But as He Was the Wrong Boy, He Was Released.

Sam Neilly, nineteen years old, who claims to have been kidnaped and held captive for three days, has returned to his home, Minter City, Miss. His clothing was found on the banks of the Tallahatchie river and divers searched the stream for his remains. Dynamite had been secured and the bed of the river was being blasted when Neilly arrived on the scene dressed in old clothes, which he says were given him by the kidnapers.

Neilly claims that he was mistaken for the son of Jimmy Townes, a wealthy citizen, and that he was released as soon as the bandits discovered their mistake.

The father of young Neilly is chancery clerk of Tallahatchie county and court had been adjourned to search for the body of the missing man.

Neilly says there were two of the kidnapers and that they made him undress and change clothes at the point of a revolver. He says that he would recognize either of them, though he was for the most time under the influence of chloroform. No clue has as yet been secured that may lead to the capture of the men.

OOM PAUL KRUGER,

Former President Transvaal Republic, Died Thursday.

Paul Kruger, former president of the Transvaal republic, died at Clarens, Switzerland, from pneumonia and supervning heart weakness. Mr. Kruger lost consciousness Monday. His daughter and son-in-law were with him at the time of his death.

The ex-president's body was embalmed and the remains will be placed in a vault pending funeral arrangements. Application will be made to the British government for authority to transport the remains to the Transvaal.

On several occasions Mr. Kruger had expressed a desire to be buried beside his wife, in his own country.

The death of Paul Kruger aroused widespread regret in Paris, owing to French sympathy for the Boer cause and personal admiration for the ex-president.

107 Ironmakers in Blast.

The Bessemer Pig Iron association reports that of 158 furnaces, users of Lake Superior ore, there were July 1 107 furnaces in blast and 51 out of blast. Sixty per cent of the tonnage capacity is in blast and 35 out of blast, and an increased idle capacity from June 1 of 15 per cent.

JUDGE WOOD RESIGNS.

Was Probate Judge of Lowndes County—Done for Harmony.

Probate Judge J. C. Wood, of Lowndes county, against whom impeachment proceedings were pending in the supreme court, tendered his resignation, effective at once, which action abated the impeachment proceedings. His attorneys say Mr. Wood's action was wholly in the interest of harmony in his county. His action has no bearing on his nomination by the democratic party for the term.

Poisoned the Water.

While Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fite, of Weaver, were at supper some miscreant put a lot of poison in the well bucket. On account of drinking of the water Mrs. Fite was made deathly sick and but for the timely arrival of a physician she might have died. A doctor analyzed the water and said that a quantity of morphine had been put into it

ALBAAMA CLIPPINGS.

Lee Bettis, the negro thought to have killed Brakeman Milton Clowers and seriously wounded Conductor S. M. Prewitt on a Southern railway train near Mount Vernon a week ago, was surrounded in a swamp several miles north of Mobile by a posse composed of citizens and officers. He was shot in the back and is thought to be fatally wounded. He denies having shot the trainmen, but has been positively identified as the right man.

The populists are gaining ground every day—mark ye!—Advocate.

Yes, they are gaining ground like the fellow who stepped up two feet and slipped back three.

The people of Shelby county will read with interest a letter in this issue from the pen of Dr. Vandiver, a former resident of this county but now living in Arkansas. He tells why he can no longer be a Republican, and that he will support the Democratic ticket.

When asked to come back into the Democratic party, don't forget that your rights have been trampled under foot by the Democratic party.—Advocate.

And while you are thinking about it just remember that the above admonition comes from an administration that has levied an illegal tax upon the people of Shelby county for four consecutive years.

The attitude of the President toward the negro is going to make trouble between the whites and blacks. In another place in this issue we publish a card written to the Washington Post by a negro which should cause every white man to support the white man's party. Southern people will not stand for social equality with the negro.

"In another column will be found a statement signed by the entire Commissioners' Court in which it will be seen that the report is all false as to the Commissioners buying the road machinery. The Advocate is reliably informed that this report has been circulated with injustice to the members of the court, and we refer you to their statement."—Advocate, March 24th.

And yet, in the face of such a statement there was in existence a contract for the good roads machinery, said contract having the signature of the present Probate Judge of this county attached thereto. At the meeting of the Commissioners' Court on the 6th day of this month that contract was read and a claim presented for the purchase price—$7471.50. That contract is dated in April, 1903. And yet Judge Longshore and the Advocate continues to tell the people of Shelby county that no contract was ever made for that machinery.

"POPULIST PROSPERITY" IN SHELBY COUNTY, AND ITS BALEFUL EFFECTS.

"The issue before the people in Shelby county is plain and simple. Do you want Democratic rule and ruin, or do you want populist prosperity?"—Advocate.

Let us take a look at this "Democratic rule and ruin" and "populist prosperity" claptrap idea of the Handy Andy of the populist administration.

One of the boasted achievements of the populist leaders in this county is the increase of property values. This has resulted, not from methods employed by county officials, but from natural development and actual enhancement of property values noticeable throughout the State, and the methods put in operation by State legislation, conceived and enacted by Democrats; the design of which was, and the result of which should have been, the lowering of the tax rate in direct proportion to the increase in taxable values, and the equalization of the burden on all taxpayers alike. Doubling the assessed values ought to result in splitting the tax rate in half. An assessed valuation of $4,500,000, which Shelby county now has, should require a rate of only 20 cents on the hundred dollars, under populist administration, and result in keeping money in the treasury, if, under Democratic administration, an assessed valuation of $2,250,000 required a rate of only 40 cents on the hundred to show regular balances; provided, of course, the same wisdom, care and executive ability prevailed under populist administration as obtained when the Democrats were in power. But what do we find? Instead of a reduced rate, notwithstanding increased values, the rate of taxation is almost double what it was under Democratic administration, and the burden four times as great. This is one illustration of the "populist prosperity" the Advocate talks about.

With Populist Ascendancy Trouble Comes.

A Democratic Commissioners' Court levied upon the people of Shelby county in 1894 a tax rate of only three mills. In 1895 a tax rate of three mills was again levied by a vote of two Democratic Commissioners and a Democratic Probate Judge—the two populist Commissioners favoring a raise in the tax rate. In 1896 the rate was four mills. That was the last year the Democrats had control of the county's affairs. After that time, under populist administration, the tax rate began to climb higher and higher until now the rate is more than double what it was under Democratic administration in 1894 and 1895. The taxpayers of Shelby county are paying today a rate of seven mills under a populist administration, when, considering the increase in assessed values, the rate should not be more than three mills at the outside. Under Democratic "rule and ruin," as the Advocate calls it, the rate was never over four mills, but "populist prosperity" has raised the rate to seven mills. The taxpayers of the county are waiting with all the patience at their command for November to come so that they may vote to go back to "Democratic rule and ruin" with a four mill tax rate which the Advocate, while in the throes of a sycophantic convulsion, deprecates so loudly, The people have a plenty and to spare of a "populist prosperity" which doubles the tax rate no matter how much taxable values in the county may increase. Shame upon an administration which preys upon the people in such a high handed manner. It has juggled with the reason of some men who were led to believe that a victory for the populist party in this county would give to them a Garden of Eden. How sorely they have been disappointed, how heavily they have been burdened a glance at the doubled tax rate and the infamous illegal and unlawful tax levies is proof sufficient. The bubble which when filled with hot air soared so airily, and which was carried along upon a wave of tinted theories and rainbow promises, has exploded and dissolved. It was a beautiful dream so long as it remained a dream, but its scorching and blighting reality has seared and blistered the taxpayers of this county leaving scars which time can never efface. Very pertinent, indeed, is the query: What has become of all this increased revenue? Has it been put upon the bridges which the populist leaders so frequently refer to? Let us see:

The Baleful Unlawful Tax Levy is Born.

In 1900, under the special road law, which stated in plain terms that the special tax therein authorized should be a part of that authorized by the Constitution to be levied for county purposes (which was one-half of one per cent. on the valuation of property), the present administration, notwithstanding this plain limitation, by "its own authority," according to the Advocate, levied a combined general and special tax of three-fifths of one per cent., or ten cents on the hundred dollars in excess of the constitutional limit. The railroads refused to pay the illegal and unlawful tax; they were sued by the populist administration and the courts gave a decision in favor of the railroads. Some other corporations paid the illegal tax under protest and a portion of it was returned to them. You, farmer, merchant, miner, laborer, mechanic, unsuspectingly paid that illegal tax; did any of you get a rebate? Not a cent! This is an illustration of the business intelligence of the populist administration, through which you were unlawfully compelled to pay a tax of 10 cents on the hundred dollars, while the railroads received a complimentary ticket to the whole business. This is some of that "populist prosperity" the Advocate tells about. Knowing the levy to be illegal, having been so pronounced by the courts, it would naturally be supposed the administration would not again put an illegal levy upon the people, but under another cover are the people again compelled to obey the arbitrary mandates of the populist administration.

Second Annual Illegal Tax Performance.

Now let us see what the administration did at the second annual "Illegal Tax Performance" in 1901. The program had to be changed a liitle. So the administration decided that, in addition to a general tax of three mills, and a special tax of two mills—the constitutional limit—"it is further ordered that a special tax of one mill on each dollar's worth of taxable property be, and the same is hereby levied, to build bridges and causeways in this county." Again the railroads resisted the levy because of its illegality, but the administration which brought on this attack of "populist prosperity," pulled another ten cents on the hundred dollars out of the pockets of the common people, the railroads again riding on a free ticket. This is another illustration of "populist prosperity" which the Advocate appears to be so proud of.

The Illegal Levies a Continuous Performance.

Turn over another page in the calendar, and in 1902 we again find the program varied. In that year the taxpayers of Shelby county were assessed 30 cents on the hundred dollars for county purposes, 20 cents for road purposes, and 10 cents to build certain particular bridges of certain particular values, namely: One at Laney's Ford across Cahaba River to cost $3,300; one across Camp Branch on Calera road to cost $228.00; one approach to to the iron bridge over the Waxahatchie at Shrader's Ford to cost $240.00; one across Yellow Leaf on Harpersville road to cost $150.00; one near Wilton on Montevallo and Wilton road to cost $300.00; one across Buck Creek near Pelham to cost $150.00; and to build in conjunction with Jefferson county, one across Little Cahaba River near its mouth to cost $3,200. Again did the railroads refuse to pay the unlawful tax and have not paid it, but the populist administration made the common people walk up to the paymaster's office and come across with another 10 cents on the hundred dollars. Through these illegal tax levies the people of the county have been plucked like caged birds—a tribute(!) to "populist prosperity"—while the railroads are excused from paying the illegal tax. Such "prosperity" is disgraceful to the administration which has brought it about.

And it Goes On Like an Endless Chain.

In 1903 the illegal tax was again levied upon the people, but under a different guise—a distinction without a difference. In that year the administration assessed 50 cents on the hundred dollars for county purposes, nothing for roads, and 20 cents on the hundred dollars "to pay balance on steel bridge on Cahaba River at Laney's Ford, $3,250.00 (by which it appears that the enormous sum of $50.00 of the money raised from the levy of 1902 was generously expended toward the object for which it was collected); steel bridge across Cahaba River at Parker's Mill (there is no such bridge) $2,800; bridge across Beaver Dam Creek on Montevallo road, $200.00; bridge across Yellow Leaf Creek on Morgan Mill road, $300.00; bridge across Spring Creek on R. F. D. No. 1, $200.00; bridge across Buck Creek at Helena, $100.00; bridge across Yellow Leaf on Pumpkin Swamp road known as the Walton bridge, $200.00; bridge across Beeswax Creek on Montgomery road, $200.00; bridge across Four Mile Creek near Blue Springs church, $100.00. All these bridges, with one or two exceptions, are mythical. Again did the railroads refuse to pay the tax, but the common people had to come across with a DOUBLE DOSE and plank down their 20 cents on the hundred dollars—another illegal contribution(?), making the fourth time, to "populist prosperity." These are not mere assertions, but records, monumental records to "populist prosperity" builded with the hard-earned dollars of the taxpayers of Shelby county. In four years the people of Shelby county have paid illegal taxes to the amount of 50 cents on the hundred dollars, but the railroad corporations have never paid a cent of it.

During the twenty years or more that the Democrats were in power in this county the same tax rate was levied upon all alike, and the railroads paid the same rate as the people. There was no contest by the railroads for the simple reason that all tax levies under Democratic administrations were legal. Under populist administration the people have been compelled to pay illegal levies because they could not afford to contest them, while the railroads have legally evaded payment. The result is the same as if the tax was levied against the people and not against the railroads. This, too, from an administration which at all times poses as the champion of the common people; an administration that is traitorous in that it would have the people believe it is their champion, and yet mulcts them of their hard earned dollars through unlawful tax levies. Verily, this is indeed "populist prosperity."

Notwithstanding that thousands of dollars have thus been illegally taken from the common people of Shelby county, yet money is being borrowed to meet the current expenses of the county. The treasury is now dry and the expenses of several terms of court yet to be provided for. Eight thousand dollars borrowed early in this year has been paid out; one warrant for a thousand dollars for fence wire is due October 1st, next; a bridge warrant for the same amount falls due January 1st, next; and other indebtedness which we will speak of later; we are told that the treasurer's account is overdrawn, and the county confronted with a claim of over seven thousand dollars for good roads machinery. This is the sequel of "populist prosperity" in Shelby county. The people are only too anxious to get back to a "Democratic rule and ruin" reign with a four mills tax rate, for they are tired of "populist prosperity," a seven mill tax rate and a number af illegal tax levies thrown in for good measure.

"Populist prosperity!" Yes, for the leaders of that party, but for no others.

NOTICE

Of Registrars Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of Section 6 of "An Act to further regulate elections in the State of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "The Board of Registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least 20 day's notice of the time when, and the place in the precinct where, they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each precinct, and by advertisement once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county.

Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by law, that the Board of Registrars for the county of Shelby, will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose aforesaid:

J. W. JOHNSTON.

Acknowledges Its Error.

In its issue of last week the Advocate admits that it wrongfully accused the Democrats of paying the Tax Assessor more than the law allowed for making up the Land Book. The Sentinel acknowledged a short time ago that it had made a wrong statement regarding the populists and we now hand back to the Advocate the very words it used in commenting upon our admission:

The Advocate "attempts to sugar coat the people, and in a long, but puny plea, tries to redeem itself in the eyes of the people for the willful misrepresentation of the affairs of the county, and in so doing has gotton itself deeper in the mire. * * The truth is this, the" Advocate "was at the time it penned the words referred to, making a vile attack upon" Democratic administrations, "it intended to try to prejudice the people."

Verily, indeed, has the Advocate's chickens come home to roost; its words have proven a boomering that leaves a good sized splotch upon the immaculate(!) whiteness(?) of its pliable conscience.

The infamous illegal tax levies placed upon the people of Shelby county by the present administration will, we believe, bury it so deep in November that it will never dig its way out.

No doubt conscience stricken at the wholesale manner in which it has illegally taken thousands of dollars from the taxpayers of Shelby county, the populist administration has employed an attorney to draw a legal tax levy. After levying an illegal tax upon the people for four successive years, now the administration wants to get right with God and the people, so its say.

Joint Discussion.

The sub-committee appointed to arrange joint discussions, composed of W. B. Browne, representing the Democratic party, and R. F. Cox, representing the joint populist and republican parties, met in the office of W. B. Browne & Leeper, on last Monday, and made the following appointment, viz:

Columbiana, Wednesday, Aug. 3.
Spring Creek, Thursday, Aug. 4.
Blue Springs, Friday, Aug. 5.
Shelby, Saturday, Aug. 6.
Weldon, Wednesday, Aug. 10.
Sterrett, Thursday, Aug. 11,
Dunnavant, Friday, Aug. 12.
Vandiver, Saturday, Aug. 13.
Camp Branch, Tuesday, Aug. 23,
Pelham, Wednesday, Aug. 24.
Highland, Thursday, Aug. 25.
Bridgeton, Friday, Aug. 26.
Harpersville, Wednesday, Aug. 31
Vincent, Thursday, Sept. 1.
Rehobeth, or Calcis, Friday, September 2.
Helena, Tuesday, Sept. 6.
Bamford, Wednesday, Sept. 7.
Gurnee, Thursday, Sept. 8.
Maylene, Friday, Sept. 9.
Montevallo, Tuesday, Sept. 13.
Calera, Wednesday, Sept, 14.
K. Springt, Thursday Sept 15.
Wilsonville, Saturday, Sept. 17.

Under the arrangement as agreed on, the principal discussion of the political issues is to be between Hon. D. R. McMillan and Hon. A. P. Longshore, one of the said speakers to open and close at one appointment and the other to open and close at the next, thus alternating throughout the canvass. Two hours is given each side, and the speaker opening is to consume not less than one hour in his opening address, and in his closing address may consume all of the time of his side left remaining, provided that the closing speech shall not be over thirty minutes long—the speches of the other candidates to intervene between the speeches of the principal speakers.

In this issue of The Sentinel will be found an advertisement of the Alabama Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo. The school opens on September 15th, and our information is that the indications are that the coming term promises to be a most successful one. For a catalogue of this excellent institution write to Dr. Francis M. Peterson, Montevallo, president of the school.

The commissioners were in session Monday for the purpose of chosing a site for the new jail. They finally decided to locate it in the same block on which the old jail stands, but near the east end. We are told that work begins on the new bastile on the first of August.

Miss Perna Pope is giving a house party this week to a number of her young friend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pope in Wilsonville. O. O. Bird, W. W. Wallace, James N. Robertson and Sam'l Wallace of this place, were among the guests Tuesday night, and they report a most delightful time.

Rev. G. T. Harris attended the funeral of E. D. W. Woods who died at Talladega Springs last Sunday and was buried in Blue Springs cemetery on Monday The deceased was about 65 years of age, and leaves a widow and a number of children to mourn his death. He had been a member of the Methodist church since early boyhood. Mr. Woods was a brother-in-law of Mrs. M. E. Mason of this city.

T. P Lane, who has had the management of the Bandy Drug Co., in this city, has accepted a position with the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and will have charge of the labratory of that great concern. Mr. Lane has been a resident of Columbiana about eight months, and in that time has made many friends each of whom will regret to see him leave us. He has the reputation of being one of the best pharmacists in the State, and in his position pays him $140 per month. The best wishes of all our people will go with Mr. and Mrs. Lane when they leave Columbiana.

On July 28th W. A. Sanders, a conductor on the Southern out of Wilton, will be united in marriage to Miss Sanders of Plantersville. They will be gussts at Shelby Springs for two or three weeks after the wedding. On the same date Louis Campbell, of Montevallo, will lead to the altar Miss Claribel Fancher, of Brierfield. The Sentinel unites with the many friends of these young people in wishing that their conception of marital life may be for them a happy realization, and that the future years to them may be all that they could wish.

J. W. Bandy and T. P. Lane have sold their stock of drugs to H. S. Latham, of Montevallo, and it has been merged with the stock of drugs belonging to J. H. Mason. The new firm will occupy the room which has been occupied by the Bandy Drug Co. and when the goods are arranged in the new quarters it will make one of the most complete drug stores in this section of the State. Mr. Mason is well known to the people of this section, and associated with him in the store will be Howard Latham, youngest son of H. S. Latham, who is an excellent pharmacist, and a very pleasant young man to meet both in a business way and socially. The Sentinel bespeaks for the new firm a good business.

Vincent.

Miss Jeffie Bell is on a visit to relatives at Seddon.

Mrs. James Samuels, of Talladega, is the guest of relatives in town.

Miss Eva Gonzales, of Pensacola, is spending some time with relatives here.

Misses Annie and Mary Kidd, who have been visiting relatives in Birmingham, returned home Monday.

We are glad to state that Mrs. R. P. Tucker, who was operated on for appendicitis, is improving and getting along nicely.

Edwin McGraw, of Birmingham, is with his parents for a few days. "Bullie" has a host of friends here who are always glad to see him.

Miss Lou Reynolds, of Goodwater, spent several days here last week, attending the meetings at the Methodist church. Marvin wore a smile.

The Baptist Sunday School has purchased four large maps for its use, which will doubtless be a great help to the school in the study of the Sunday school lessons.

Rev. O. P. Sampley, who is traveling in the interest of the Judson, filled his regular appointment here Sunday, preaching two very powerful sermons. He announced at the night service that Dr. Blackwelder, of Woodlawn, would assist in his meeting here the third Sunday in August.

Three cheers for Parker and Davis, our presidential nominees. They are sure winners, and on the 8th of November these beloved United States will witness a regular landslide for not only them; but for Democracy all over the country, even down here in old Shelby. 'Stick a pin dar, brudder Bones." Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

The Methodist people had quite an interesting and profitable series of meetings at their church last week, in which the pastor, Rev. O'Neal, was ably assisted by Dr. J. F. Sturdivant, of Gadsden, who gave us some very strong and helpful sermons. The immediate result was six additions to the church, and the members greatly strengthened. Brother Sturdivant greatly endeared himself to our people by his forceful and most earnest personal appeals. It goes without saying that we would be delighted to have him visit us again. May God's richest blessings go with him.

Does seem like the Handy Andy of the Advocate and its corp of editors (?) are grasping at straws, because it even notices a few remarks by your humble and aged correspondent. "John Billie." They try to leave the impression that I had something to do with the "cutting out" of the political discussion at Sterrett on the 4th of July, when we knew nothing about it at the time, but have since learned that those who arranged for the occasion agreed at the start that there was to be no political speaking, but simply a social gathering of the people. The political end of it was urged by some of the pop-Rep folks. So far as the "usual interest" alluded to is concerned, that is the case with every Democrat in the county as well as many of the best citizens, in seeing the affairs of the county taken from the reckless management of the administration now in control, and place them in the hands of men who will run the business of the county at a much less cost to we taxpayers.

JOHN BILLIE.

HARPERSVILLE.

Mrs. H. E. Florey is visiting her children in South Alabama.

Miss Charles, of Irondale, is visiting her friend, Miss Maggie East, on Water street

Renfro Martin and wife have returned from Hot Springs where Renfro had been for the benefit of his health.

A protracted meeting will begin at the Methodist church Saturday. The pastor is expected to be assisted by Dr. Newman, of Talladega.

Mrs. Blankenship, wife of our friend and neighbor, J. A. Blankenship, died very suddenly near here last Friday evening. On the Saturday previous Mr. and Mrs. Blankenship had gone to Birmingham to have an operation performed upon the feet of their six months' old child. While there Mrs. Blankenship was taken suddenly ill with something like meningitis. She was brought home Tuesday, but grew worse until death came to her relief on Friday. She was buried here Saturday, Rev. B. C. Hughes conducting the burial services. To the bereaved family we extend our sympathy in this their sad hour of bereavement.

We attended the Sunday School Convention of Beats 8 and 11 at Union last Sunday, and enjoyed the day very much. W. E. Lester was made president, and J. E. Adams secretary. Prof. J. W. Moore read the letters. Rev. Mr. Sampley preached a very interesting sermon, subject, "Church Unity." The program was carried out nicely, and no doubt much good was done. We would like to mention the parts taken by each, but time and space forbids. We were glad to be with them for those people at Union know how to entertain an association, or rather a convention. Long may they live and prosper is the wish of JAKE.

Are We Coming to This?

Prof. Henry S. Baker, a prominent colored citizen of Washington, prints the following card in the Post today:

"Editor Post: As a colored man I wish to call attention to the difference between the republican an democratic national conventions. At the republican convention the colored man was treated as a companion, friend and brother. There he was made to feel as if he was not only political, but a social equal. The delegates followed the advice and example of our beloved President, Theodore Roosevelt, who teaches that the colored man deserves to be treated as a social equal. To emphasize this fact, he had the courage to have at his table Prof. Booker T. Washington. If Roosevelt is elected it will so encourage the colored men that we will demand that Prof. Booker Washington shall be the republican candidate for vice president in 1908.

"Let not our colored brethren forget that scene in the republican convention when a beautiful white girl was placed upon the stand and by her side a negro boy. They then placed flags in their hands and allowed them to lead the cheering, thus making the first and grandest example of the equality of the races that history has ever recorded.

"In the democratic convention there was not a single colored man. It was in word and deed a white man's convention of a white man's party. All hail to Roosevelt, who has given the poor negro so much to encourage him to persist in his political and social rights."

THEY WON'T FORGET IT.

In putting a little white girl and a little negro boy on the platform side by side at the Roosevelt convention in Chicago, the Republican party did just exactly what was expected of it. Fathers of little white girls throughout the country will remember this tableau in November.—Houston (Tex) Post.

It was not only an outrage upon the innocent little girl, but it was an insult to American womanhood. It was something that the American will not forget whether they reside in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Texas, or in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. The white people of America are opposed to thus placing the negro upon an equality with the whites, and they will resent it in no certain tones when the November election is held

There was no occasion for such an exhibition, and none but a convention of men dominated by Theodore Roosevelt would have permitted such a thing to occur. This, together with the negro plank of the platform, if there were nothing else, should be enough to cause every self-respecting white man in the United States States to turn from the Republican party and Roosevelt in loathing and digust. It is enough to sicken the stoutest of hearts.

The Post truly says, "fathers of little white girls throughout the country will remember this tableau in November.—Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun.

To Voters of Shelby County.

Vandiver, Ala., July 10, 1904.

Editor Sentinel, Columbiana:

Dear Sir:—You will please find enclosed a letter from Dr. Vandiver which he clipped from a paper published in his county and sent to me. Dr. Vandiver is a brother-in-law of mine. He moved to Arkansas about fifteen years ago. I send this letter to The Sentinel for publication if the editor thinks it is worth printing. I would like for the voters of Old Shelby to read the letter from Dr. Vandiver.

Respectfully,
G. E. BRASHER.

Editor of News-Democrat:

I have never in my life contributed an article for publication. I have always been more or less modest in these tendencies, but certain political conditions have arisen in this county at the instance of certain parties, who would assume to be the leaders of the Republican party, that are so antagonistic to my sense of social and political propriety, that I am compelled by self respect to give out this criticism, and by this means I wish to renounce my further allegiance to the Republican party. I am stimulated to take this action by the apparent love, affinity and political social equality indulged for the negro in the Roosevelt Republican League Club of Mena, and the Republica Congressional Convention held in this city last Friday.

The organ of the Republican party of Polk county in its issue of May 13, in giving its account of the Republican Club meeting on the night before, says: "Sam P. Crow was called on for a talk, and he made a good one." And this paper says further "those present at the meeting last night could see very plainly the great good this club can and will accomplish for the party. It brings the Republicans close together." Yes, it brings the blacks and (some) whites close together in political and finally social equality. Sam P. Crow is a negro. He is a Southern negro and would not assume to join the club or impose himself on its members if he was not invited to do so. After he made that speech to enlighten certain members of the Republican party who have an admiration and love for him, he says: "Mr. Smith, I isn't to blame foh dat. Da jest kep writin' me letters and insissen, and insissen, insissen and insissen on me jining de club an' I jined, and when I jined da jest kep insissen on ma makin a speech and I made a speech" "I isn't to blame foh dat," Mr. Smith. "I nose I is black on de outside, but I's jest as white as da is on the inside. I nose I is, sah" Sam knows his place, and he knew he was out of place when he "jined de club." But there was such love and affinity for him, and he was seemingly, to certain fellows, such an indispensible factor that the club would be without equipoise or balance in his absence. In the Congressional Convention that met here last Friday, there were two other dark smooth sons of Ham to grace and odorfy that body.

This criticism may be a little rank in this connection, for, judging from the blunders made in the last three years by this new order of Republican management of Polk county, it may be possible that they were seeking Sam's counsel in learning better how to manage the Republican machine in this country, and if that was the case we recognize him as eminently fitted to do that, and would suggest that they elect him their club president.

There have been instances in the South when white people would attend an occasional negro wedding or protracted meeting to watch their peculiar antics and see what they would do, and some times partake of a little wedding cake, but the color line in our sense was never broken, and each element adhered to his own sphere. I like and respect a negro in his place, and while it may be pleasing to the smell and respectful sensibility of some to invite Sam P. Crow into club membership and oration with them, it does not please me and many more of the "native" Republican constituency of Polk county.

Again to emphasize this tendency and affinity for the negro, 'The Daily Times' says in its issue of the 20th, "Sam P. Crow is black and his hair kinky" * * * "that Jeff Davis is blacker, etc., that he had rather eat corn pone with poor old Sam Crow, than to sit each week at the News editors place at Jeff Davis' banquet table" * * * I would like to give the Times editor credit for this statement for we believe he told the truth, and it is this affinity and love for the negro and disrespect for a white man that stimulates us in climbing out of this band wagon. I have been a little shaky on this negro question in our party for a long time and I have made up my mind that I can not swallow it further. I shall, therefore cast my lot with the Democratic party, and vote for Jeff Davis and its nominees in the general election.

Respectfully,
W. C. VANDIVER.

The Registration.

Prof. S. Dowell, who is a member of the Board of Registration, came home Friday to rest over Sunday. He says at Bamford the Board registered three voters, at Helena 19, at Maylene 33, at Montevallo 47, and at Calera 17. Few negroes made application to register, and but one came up to the qualifications.

A weak, aching back tells of sick kidneys. It aches when you work. It aches when you try to rest. It throbs in changeable weather. Urinary troubles add to your misery. No rest, no comfort, until the kidneys are well. Cure them with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. W. M. Dauscher, of 25 Water St., Bradford, Pa., says: "I had an almost continuous pain in the small of the back. My ankles, feet, hands and almost my whole body were bloated. I was languid and the kidney secretions were profuse. Physicians told me I had diabetes in its worst form, and I feared I would never recover. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1896, and I have been well ever since."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Dauscher will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers, price 50 cents per box.

High authorities say that the skull of Alexander Pope is in the private collection of a phrenologist. On some occasion of alteration the coffin of Pope was disinterred and opened to see the state of the remains. By a bribe to the sexton, the possession of the skull was obtained for the night and another skull was returned instead of it. Fifty pounds is said to be the amount that secured the skull of one of the world's greatest poets.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

Among the handsome window displays competing for first honors at the recent Confederate Re-Union at Nashville, Tenn., was that of the National Casket Co., in way of a handsome Confederate Grey Casket, draped with Silk Confederate Battle Flag with the figure of a Young Soldier, "A Son of the Old Veteran" standing guard, typefying the iden that the "Sons of Confederate Veterans" would faithfully guard his memory. The many visitors were very much impressed with the sentiment of the display made by the National Casket Co.

LOOMIS' BODY FOUND

Floats to the English Coast Not Far from Plymouth. Wound in Head.

FOUL PLAY GIVEN CREDENCE.

Examination of the Body Adds to Suspicions—That Wound Behind the Ear.

The body of F. Kent Loomis, who disappeared from the North German Lloyd steamer, Kaiser Wilhelm II, on June 20th last, as that vessel was nearing Plymouth, was found at Warrens Point, adjacent to Thurlestone Sands, some fifteen miles from Plymouth. The body was bruised by contact with rocks.

It was dressed in a gray overcoat, dark blue suit and white shirt. When the body was searched a gold watch, a quantity of American and English money in notes and coin were found in the pockets, and a card with the name, F. Kent Loomis. The pockets also contained a number of private papers. The American consul at Plymouth proceeded to Thurlestone and after viewing the body identified it as that of F. Kent Loomis.

The consul said there was an abrasion under the right ear. Deceased's watch had stopped at 6 o'clock. The steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, from which Mr. Loomis disappeared, arrived at Plymouth at 2 o'clock in the morning.

The wound behind the right ear is described as being circular, large and clean, and it is thought that it was inflicted before death. It is surmised that Mr. Loomis' body fell into the water near Eddystone light house.

Joseph G. Stephens, American consul at Plymouth, in response to a telegram sent by the Associated Press tonight asking him if the local reports of foul play had any basis, or if he had any ground for suspicion regarding the death of Mr. Loomis, replied:

"I regret I can not make any statements prior to the inquest which will be held tomorrow. The wound on the back of the right ear is the size of a half dollar. The body is fairly well preserved, and especially about the top of the head, considering the time it has been in the water."

ONE FATALITY.

From Wreck on the Southern Near Kennedy Thursday.

L. M. Fields, who was slightly injured in a wreck on the Southern railway near Kennedy Thursday afternoon died Friday. Mr. Fields was on his way from Mississippi in company with his brother, who was also injured in the wreck. He was suffering with consumption in the last stages, and while his injuries were not sufficient to cause death, it is thought that the shock and fright of the wreck hastened his dath.

Alexander City Fire.

Secretary of State and Insurance Commissioner E. R. McDavid has received a report of the investigation of the recent fire at Alexander City, which destroyed about $10,000 worth of property. It was thought at the time, July 2d, that the fire was of incendiary origin, and on the recommendation of the mayor Mr. McDavid ordered an investigation. A large number of witnesses were examined, but no evidence was adduced to show that there was criminal action on the part of any one.

Governor Terrell and Senators Bacon and Clay, of Georgia, have asked Acting Secretary of War Oliver to authorize the quota of Georgia militia for the maneuvers at Manassas to be increased to the full strength of a brigade. The secretary has replied that this can not be done, but the brigade officers with companies of forty or fifty men will be allowed.

Government May Complain.

It is probable that the attention of the British government will be directed to a movement conducted officially by the Canadian government to induce immigration from the United States to the Northwest Territory.

It appears the Dominion department of interior through one of its assistant secretaries has been sending broadcast throughout the northwestern states circular letters principally addressed to clergymen, professional men and persons of influence describing in glowing terms the splendid resources of the Canadian northwest and inviting immigrants by the offer of 160 acres of land for each, free schools and sound laws.

Mormons Establish Headquarters.

President Daniel E. Rich, of the southern states mission of the Mormon church, has purchased substantial buildings in Chattanooga for the establishment of permanent headquarters for the Mormon church in the south. All of the southern states will be in his jurisdiction, and many missionaries will be sent out every year. The headquarters are removed there from Atlanta.

The Louisiana railroad commission has given notice to all railroad companies operating in that state that it intends at a session to be held some time in September to adopt a rule making in the duty of all railroad companies to protect all grade crossings by interlocking and other safely devices.

In the month of June iron production fell from a rate of 1,500,000 tons to a rate of 1,300,000 tons.

ALABAMA BABTISTS

Meet in Anniston in Annual Convention.

The Alabama Baptist state convention will convene in its 83d annual session in the Parker Memorial Baptist church at Anniston July 20 to 22, inclusive. Among the questions that will require the attention of the body will be the raising of a $500,000 endowment fund for Howard college, the general discussion of missions and the affairs of the educational institutions of the convention. The convention controls Howard college at East Lake, the Judson female institute at Marion, the Alabama Baptist orphanage at Evergreen and several other smaller educational institutions.

The paramount question before the convention will be missions. The reports of the home and foreign missionary secretaries are looked forward to with considerable interest.

The Baptist State convention has no executive powers. Its delegates can pass resolutions and make suggestions but each church is a government unto itself. The convention has no authority to change any of the creeds or laws. The churches in the various districts are divided into associations. The Baptists of Alabama number 150,000. There are 855 churches and 80 associations in the state. The value of church property is $1,379,592.

The officers of the convention are: H. S. D. Mallory, of Selma, president; C. L. Comer, of Eufaula, first vice president; R. H. Pettus, of Huntsville, second vice president; R. F. Manly, of Birmingham, treasurer; W. B. Compton, of Montgomery, corresponding secretary; S. P. Fowlke, of Birmingham auditor.

Another important matter that will come before the convention will be the question of placing evangelists in the field.

HUNT SUES FOR DAMGES.

Alleges False Imprisonment and Criminal Libel.

William A. Hunt has filed suit against R. C. Milliken, Sheriff Burgin, Judge Benners, of the inferior court of Birmingham, and the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company, asking for damages to the amount of $50,000 for an alleged false and malicious arrest and imprisonment.

The plaintiff also claims damages to the amount of $199,999 against the Fidelity Mutual Insurance company in a second suit, alleging libel.

Hunt was indicted on two charges in Texas. He was tried on the first indictment and acquitted, and was on the second bill found guilty and given a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. An appeal to the supreme court was taken and a decision was handed down reversing the decision of the lower court and ordering the defendant discharged.

RESERVOIR BREAKS,

Flooding Valley of Scottdale, Pa., Ruining Property and Crops.

With the roar of a Niagara the new reservoir of the Citizens' Water company at Scottdale, Pa., burst Sunday night, and more than 300,000,000 gallons of water rushed down the valley, sweeping all before it, and inundating crops and wrecking buildings in its path. It was discovered that the dam was in danger of breaking, and messengers were hastily sent through the valley to warn the people.

Hundreds of lives were thus saved, for an hour later the whole valley was under water.

The damage to the machinery and the reservoir alone will amount to $50,000. When the torrent swept down upon the valley buildings were torn from their foundations and carried on the crest of a great wave. Crops valued at thousands of dollars were completely wiped out. Bridges were carried away.

Child Kills Young Brother.

Edward Cox, the 8-year-old son of Dr. B. D. Cox, of Jackson, Ky., who was assassinated two years ago, accidentally shot and killed his 4-year-old brother Tom. The ball passed through the head. Edward was playing with an old rifle which belonged to his father and had not been discharged since the latter's death.

SAW HIM RUN AWAY.

Incendiary Fire in Montgomery Lumber Yard.

Fire destroyed the plant of the Alabama Rift Flooring company two miles from Montgomery Sunday morning. The loss is estimated at $75,000. It is thought the blaze was of incendiary origin, as the watchman saw a man run away from one of the dry kilns just before the fire broke out.

The plant consisted of a large planing mill, two dry kilns, a large sifted, dust house and boiler room. The whole covered four acres of space. There was $54,350 insurance.

Shot by a Boy.

Information has reached this city of the killing of Mrs. Robert Floyd near Dublin, Ga., by Malcomn Currie. Young Currie shot Mrs. Floyd six or seven times, and then shot Mrs. Thomas Floyd, his sister-in-law, inflicting a serious wound.

It is said that Mrs. Floyd started toward Mrs. Currie with a knife, when the boy began shooting, killing her instantly. No arrests have yet been made.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Charles B. Galloway, D. D., LL. D., missionary bishop of the Southern Methodist Episcopal church, is now en route to the far east and will spend several months in the mission fields of China, Japan and Korea.

The heavy rain, hail and wind storm Sunday afternoon blew down more than half the tents which had been put up by the soldier boys at their camp near Owenton.

BREVITIES BY WIRE.

The Empire Plow company at Ensley is enlarging its warehouse in order to meet the demands of its rapidly increasing trade. Recently the company erected another main building which covers a space of 40x160 feet and practically doubtless the capacity of the plant. During the last year the company has spent over $20,000 for improvements.

Work has begun on the building of the Carnegie library at the Agricultural and Mechanical college at Normal. Mr. Carnegie gave the school $10,000 for the library and very little of this sum will be expended on anything but books, as students in the mechanical department of the college will furnish the labor on the building.

T. B. Woods, justice of the peace of Valley Creek precinct, Selma, was shot by a negro, but the injury was only a flesh wound from the contents of both barrels of a shotgun. The negro who did the shooting was standing nearly a hundred yards away and was shooting at Constable Albert Suttles. The negro surrendered.

The resignation of Hon. Osceola Kyle, judge of the eighth judicial circuit, has been received by Acting Governor Cunningham. It was wired from Washington where Judge Kyle was commissioned one of the canal zone judges in Panama. He sails from New York to take up his new duties this week.

Professor Charles P. Echols, son of Major W. H. Echols, of Huntsville, has been appointed professor of mathematics at the West Point Military academy, succeeding Professor Eddington. His brother, William H. Echols, Jr., is professor of mathematics in the University of Virginia.

The Jeffrey Manufacturing company of Columbus, O., is installing some improved machinery in No. 3 mine, Pratt City. This company has a contract to put in several large mining machines which will cost the Tennessee company, it is estimated, something like $18,000.

On July 1 there were but 188 furnaces in blast, possessing a weekly capacity of 272,301 tons, as against 213 furnaces on June 1, having a weekly capacity of 336,197 tons. The weekly capacity is lower than it has been since January 1st.

Governor Cunningham issued an order directing Generals R. F. Ligon, W. W. Brandon and B. L. Holt to proceed to Birmingham to represent him at the camp. These officers form the military advisory board known as the war college in military circles.

At Huntsville the Lowe Manufacturing company will increase the capacity of its cotton mills from 15,000 to 20,000 spindles and will have an addition ready for operation by the 1st of December. The company will duplicate its mill No. 1.

Wiley Hood, engine foreman in the Southern yards at Selma, was severely injured while riding on top of a box car which was turned over through the derailment of a car having a wheel on which the flange was broken.

S. Morgan Stewart, Jr., has resigned the office of second lieutenant of company F, Third regiment, Alabama National Guard. First Sergeant Victor Gooch will find the vacancy until after the brigade encampment.

Major W. F. Tebbetts, inspector of rifle practice on the staff of Brigadier General Louis V. Clark, is building a rifle range for rifle practice during the encampment this week of the Alabama national guard.

Ed Jackson, a brakeman on the Southern railway, was killed at the Tennessee river bridge at Huntsville, being struck on the head by a beam as he stood on a car. He lived in Iuka, Miss.

The earnings of the Alabama Great Southern railway for the fourth week of June amounted to $87,344 against $87,497 for the same week last year.

Montgomery county's grand jury has returned an indictment against W. C. Sanford, who shot and killed James Achors, of Birmingham, a few weeks ago, charging murder in the first degree.

Miners in the Blue Creek region of the Tennessee company's workings have been notified to vacate the company's houses by August 1st.

A white man named T. H. Lissley and his wife have been arrested at Lewisburg, Tenn., on the charge of stealing a horse and buggy from the Tennessee livery stables in Gadsden.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad reports earnings for the first week in July amounting to $588,835 against $469,123 for the same week last year.

A contract has been awarded to Duke & Journey, of Jacksonville, for the construction of a $100,000 cotton factory at that place. Their bid was $36,000.

Hon. M. W. Howard, who was tendered the nomination by the republicans of the seventh district for congress, has declined with thanks.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Birmingham will erect a memorial water fountain to the memory of Dr. Elias Davis, the water to be furnished to the people free of cost. The fountain will be erected in the near future in the city hall, arrangements having been made therefor.

The Jefferson county sanitary commission passed a resolution authorizing the purchase of $10,000 worth of piping for sanitary sewers. This will be purchased from the United States Pipe company, of Bessemer, and will be delivered in a few weeks.

C. D. Bowling, of Cullman, has been appointed tax commissioner of that county. The appointment was made by State Back Tax Commissioner Harvey E. Jones, with the approval of Acting Governor Cunningham.

Montgomery will pay out $54,850.50 in salaries for teachers and janitors of the public schools located in the city limits. Out of this amount the white teachers in the public schools are to receive $43,196.50.

UNCONQUERABLE MELANCHOLY.

The pessimist looked on the weather map
And a mournful sigh sighed he;
For he was a most unhappy chap,
Unhappy as could be.

"In January we're frozen tight,"
He sang both sad and slow;
"In February the slush we fight
And in March the chill winds blow.

"In April come the mud and rain
And in May the rain and mud,
In June the heat bids men complain;
July still fires the blood.

"September humidly depressed;
October threatens chill;
November's climate, all unblessed,
That threat doth soon fulfil.

"And in December air severe
Our aches and pains we nurse;
And then we start another year
Which probably is worse."
—Washington Star.

An Eccentric Bishop.

Bishop Wilson of Calcutta had as housekeeper a venerable lady who remembered the duel between Sir Philip Francis and Warren Hastings on Aug. 17, 1780. On entering the cathedral on a Sunday morning, fully robed, lawn sleeves and all, and passing the pew where the old lady sat he would pause and give her the "kiss of peace" before all the congregation, and this although he had met her at breakfast.

His sermons, too, were racy. Preaching against dishonesty, especially in horseflesh, as one of the great English failings in India, he went on, "Nor are we, servants of the altar, free from yielding to this temptation." Pointing to the occupant of the reading desk below him: "There is my dear and venerable brother the archdeacon, down there. He is an instance of it. He once sold me a horse. It was unsound. "I was a stranger, and he took me in."

Grim Humors of the Scaffold.

In walking to the scaffold in solemn procession a criminal once called to the governor of the prison: "Just oblige me, guv'nor, by telling me the day o' the week." "Monday," answered the surprised governor. "Monday!" exclaimed the prisoner, in disgusted tones; "well, this 'ere's a fine way of beginning a week, ain't it?" And he marched on with dissatisfaction imprinted on every line of his face.

On another occasion an officious hangman whispered as he placed the white cap on his victim's head. "If there's anything you'd like to ask me, I'll be pleased to answer." The victim craned his neck forward and said in an equally low, but very much more anxious voice: "You might tell me is —is this scaffold safe?"—New Zealand Medical Journal.

Artificial Flowers Mede of Wood.

One of the most beautiful uses to which wood-fibre has been put is the manufacture of artificial flowers. Thus far the only flowers made of this material are pink roses, violets and white and purple lilacs, with the necessary leaves. The violets are made in Philadelphia, while the other "blooms" come from Japan, the roses selling for a dollar each. The imitation is remarkably close, both in color, form and texture.

Theory and Practice.

Knicker—Who was that lecturer who made such an eloquent plea for the simpler life?

Bocker—That's Jones; he's trying to make enough money to get an automobile.—New York Sun.

The rector who conducted the services in Judge Parker's church last Sunday was asked if he had Judge Parker's silence in mind in his reference to the eloquence in life, rather than lips, when he said: "It is not the eloquence in life that speaks as loudly or counts for as much as the life itself of a man." The doctor smiled but declined to say.

Russian newspaper work is not pleasant, inasmuch as the government spends more money on its press censors than on its schools. Last year 83 newspapers were suspended for various periods and twenty-six were forbidden to accept all advertisements, while 259 editors were told that they would have vacations in Siberia if they continued their methods of reviewing public questions.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., JULY 28, 1904. VOL. 29. NO. 48

MINERS CALL STRIKE

Reject Ofier of Operators and Demand Old Scale. The Action Unanimous.

SESSION LASTED TWO HOURS.

Operators Ask Reduction to 40c Per Ton as Minimum and Monthly Pay Day.

At 1:20 Monday afternoon the special convention of Alabama district No. 20, United Mine Workers of America, adjourned sine die and it was announced that a strike had been declared. In the official call for a strike this paragraph appears:

"The operators persistently demand a reduction of ten cents per ton on the minimum and seven and a half cents per ton on the maximum, with a return to the monthly payday system, an increase of hours of one hour per day; that day men shall be paid by the hour instead of by the day according to past custom, a large increase in the differential between pick and machine mining, and several other changes."

This call applies to all the miners and mine laborers in the employ of the Pratt Coal Company, except mine known as number "sixteen," located near Pinckney City, where temporary contract has been entered into between said company and the United Mine Workers of America.

The strike order effects 8000 men, most of whom have been out since July 1.

The miners are insisting on the scale of last year. This scale calls for a minimum of 47 1-2 cents a ton when iron is selling at $8 a ton.

The operators submitted a proposition reducing the price to 40 cents a ton minimum when iron is selling at $8.50 a ton. This, the miners say, means a reduction of 10 cents a ton on the minimum.

About 45,000 men will continue at work under temporary contracts signed by several companies. The men affected have done no work since the 1st of July, awaiting an adjustment of the wage scale.

All miners working where temporary contracts exist will continue at work pending a final adjustment of the wage scale.

The national organization will be immediately informed of the strike call and will be expected to give assistance to the district organization.

New Coal Company.

The Merrimac Coal company, capital stock $50,000, has been incorporated in Walker county. The company now owns about 1,000 acres of coal lands in Walker county on the Corona seam and this will be developed. It is intended to open mines which will have a daily capacity of about 400 tons. The company has ordered 100 tram cars and a contract has been let to erect 75 houses for employes. An air compressor plant will be put in and a tipple built. The branch railroad will be constructed to the property at once. The company expects to put coal on the market by December 1st.

Lieutenant Colonel F. P. McConnel and Captain Campbell, quartermaster of the Third regiment Alabama national guard, have been sued by Gray & Dudley, merchants of Birmingham, for $20. Two years ago horse blankets were purchased from the company for the use of the members of the colonel's staff of the Third regiment, which account, it is claimed, remains unpaid.

Killed by Lightning.

Samuel E. Fleming, who lived six or seven miles northeast of Brundidge, was killed by lightning Sunday. A heavy cloud was coming up and as he stepped into the yard the lightning struck a tree and glanced to him, killing him instantly. A widow and children survive him.

Never Had a Trial.

Henry Johnson, colored, who was sentenced to be hung on the 7th of last March for the murder of another negro, will not be hanged. The supreme court held that he had never been tried. The act creating the city court of Gadsden says that the fall term shall commence on the third Monday in September and continue until the third Saturday in December. It seems that the Johnson trial was commenced on Friday, the 18th of December, and completed on Saturday, the 19th. His attorneys contended that the term of court expired on the night of the 18th at 12 o'clock.

DEADLY GRADE CROSSING.

Two Killed and Several Injured In Indiana.

Two persons were killed and several injured in a collision between a Big Four passenger train and an electric car at Indianapolis. The locomotive struck the front of the electric car throwing it a distance of twenty feet to one side, its direction being almost reversed.

ENGINEER COMMITS SUICIDE.

Leaves Letter, but Assigns No Cause for the Act.

The dead body of Walter B. Wallace, a Southern railway engineer, was found Monday morning. Wallace was well known. He was a married man and the father of several children.

A letter was found in the room where the suicide occurred addressed to Mrs. Wallace. In it the deceased tells his wife to blame no one for his death. The cause of the act is not given.

Sunday morning Wallace went to the Waddell house and asked for a room in which to take a nap. When he had retired he called Dave Waddell, the son of the proprietor, and stated that he had an in-growing toe nail that was troubling him, and asked that the boy go to the drug store and get some medicine for him. He sent for ten cents' worth of carbolic acid and ten cents' worth of laudanum. He then asked not to be disturbed. He did not look his door.

"LOST HIS HEAD"

And Was the Prime Cause of the Slocum Disaster.

The disaster to the excursion steamer General Slocum, in which nearly a thousand lives were lost, never would have occurred if one of the deck hands had retained his presence of mind, according to the opinion of former Fire Marshal Thomas F. Freel, who testified before the federal commission which is making an inquiry into the disaster. Mr. Freel said that a member of the steamer's crew named Coakley testified before the coroner that he saw the fire and tried to find something to smother it with. He picked up a bag of charcoal and threw it at the barrel, knocking it over and spreading the fire. He then ran to get the fire hose, leaving the door to the stairway open.

"That was all that the fire wanted—a little aid—and it spread," said Mr. Freel.

"If the man had not lost his head, he could have picked up the barrel and thrown it overboard and the disaster would not have happened."

Davis to Marry.

News comes from Shepherdstown, W. Va., that ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, the democratic vice presidential candidate, will in the fall marry Mrs. Catherine Reynolds, widow of Dr. John Reynolds, of Shepherdstown. Mrs. Reynolds is 70 years old, while Senator Davis is 80. There is a youthful romance back of the story.

When Mr. Davis was a railroad brakeman he became a suitor for her hand. He proposed to the young lady, whose maiden name was Catherine Cushwa. She was willing, but the family, which was one of the most prominent in Washington county, Maryland, objected because he was only a poor railroad man. Davis disappeared and she later married Dr. Reynolds. Mrs. Reynolds has two grown children and half a dozen grandchildren.

Will Make Electric Goods.

The Southern Electric and Manufacturing company is Anniston's latest industry.

Two acres of land has been awarded the company as a bonus and upon these lands the company will erect its buildings.

The capital of the company is $100,000.

The Cane Crop.

The weather during the past week has been favorable, the rains ceasing to some extent, and the temperature mounting high. Cane is progressing, and the prospects for a heavy crop are bright.

Six members of presidential cabinets have become presidents, and each had been secretary of state.

Fought to the Death.

Two guards employed by the Victor Fuel company at Hastings, Colo., became involved in a quarrel and decided to fight a duel. Accordingly they armed themselves with revolvers and began firing at each other. When the guns were emptied the two men drew knives and fought until both dropped dead.

NEARING NEW CHWANG

Japanese Advance is Watched from the Housetops. The Russians Leaving.

RUSSIANS TAKE MERCHANTMEN

American and German Vessels Captured—Japanese Police Seoul—Russians Destroying Property.

A battle was fought Saturday near Ta Tche Kiao attended, it is believed, with heavy losses. The progress of the battle was watched by many people in New Chwang from the roofs of the houses. The day was clear and the smoke of the guns could be plainly seen.

In the engagement the Russian losses are reported to have been 700. The Japanese are slowly nearing New Chwang.

In accordance with orders issued by General Kuropatkin, the Russians commenced to evacuate New Chwang Sunday. The Russian railway station is in flames. The Russians are evidently destroying their property previous to evacuation.

The Vladivostok squadron yesterday sunk the American steamer Knight Commander from New York off the province of Izsu, after transferring the crew of the Knight Commander to the steamer Tsinan.

The Vladivostok squadron also captured a German vessel with thirty thousand tons of flour, and an unknown British steamer. The two vessels were sent to Vladivostok in charge of prize crews.

The Japanese have posted in Seoul an announcement that they will exercise police power in all matters affecting Japanese interests. No anti-Japanese meetings will be allowed. This action is the result of the rapid growth of an anti-Japanese propaganda. Foreigners are not affected by the new order.

Advices say the Russian volunteer fleet steamer Smolensk fired three blank shots across the bows of the British steamer Ardova, the cargo of which consists of coal and explosives, and the vessel not stopping, the Smolensk sent two loaded shots at her, one of them passing over her amidships and the other two over her stern. The Ardova was then seized and her crew transferred to the Smolensk. The vessel will be brought to Suez.

Captain Gloloff, commander of a torpedo boat destroyer, jumped overboard during a storm to save a man whose boat had been swamped. Gloloff succeeded in bringing the man to the side of the destroyer and he was taken aboard, but the captain himself sank exhausted and was drowned.

Paper gloves and stockings are now being manufactured in Europe. The stockings will last almost as long as ordinary stockings. The reason is because the paper of which they are made was, during the process of manufacture, transformed into a substance closely resembling wool, and was then woven and treated as ordinary wool.

Hon. Henry G. Davis, democratic candidate for vice president, has decided to have the notification meeting at White Sulphur Springs, Va. The date has not yet been fixed, but it will be about the middle of August.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending July 22d number 190.

DROVE THE RUSSIANS OUT.

Japanese Occupied Kiao Tung After a Hard Fight.

General Kuroki, in a severe fight, occupied Kiao Tung on July 19th. The place had been fortified by the Russians. In the fighting General Kuroki's troops drove the Russians from their position on the Chi river, which is northwest of Moatien pass, and east of An Ping, inflicting upon the enemy more serious loss than they sustained themselves. The fight began on the 18th and ended on the 19th. The Japanese lost 424 men in killed and wounded. The Russian losses are estimated at 1,000.

Railroads Against Excursions.

On account of peculiar labor conditions throughout the south the railroads are refusing to handle certain classes of traffic. Even the annual railroad excursions and picnics have been abandoned entirely. For over two years no railroad excursions have been operated out of Birmingham because of the disturbance they are alleged to create in labor ranks.

MAIL SEIZURE.

Controversy Settled Between England and Russia.

It is stated that the complications arising from the seizure of the P. and O. steamer Malacca by the Russian cruiser St. Petersburg have been settled on the following terms:

England acknowledged Russia's right to search the vessel and furtner gave Russia formal assurance that the steamer's cargo consisted of English government property. Russia admits the seizure was an error of judgment. She will pay the P. and O. company indemnity for the loss of time, etc Russia informs England that more circumspection will be displayed in the future. The status of the volunteer fleet remains undefined.

The passage of vessels through the Dardanelles did not figure in England's protest. Before the settlement was obtained it is stated that Russia sought European support and again failed. England, on the other hand, informed the powers that she would recapture the Malacca forcibly unless Russia liberated her. The expectation now is that England will immediately raise the question of passage of the Dardanelles by volunteer steamers.

TRIPLE MURDER.

Negro With a Shotgun Kills Three White Men.

Telephone messages say that at Alexanders, Ga., Sampson Flournoy, a negro, using a double-barreled shotgun, fired upon a party of four fishermen, all white, killing James Minos, aged 26, married, and Evans Tomlins, aged 24, and mortally wounded Edward Minor, aged 23, married.

The negro escaped. Bloodhounds are on his track. He had a quarrel over a trivial matter with one of the party, went away and procured the gun, returned, and fired without warning. At a nearby farm house he stole a mule on which he escaped

TORNADO IN GEORGIA.

Blows Down Two Churches and Does Other Damage.

A special from Augusta, Ga., says that a tornado passed over the eastern part of that city doing serious damage to buildings, trees and fences. Two negro churches were demolished and several buildings belonging to the Central of Georgia railroad were blown down, injuring several workmen but none fatally.

About two miles from the city several barns were blown down, in one of which a negro is said to have been killed by a falling tree. The financial loss is not stated.

To Revise Catchism.

For the purpose of revising the catechism Methodist Episcopal bishops, clergymen and laymen have convened in Ocean Grove, N. J. The northern and southern sections of the church are represented by seven delegates each. At the meeting last summer it was decided to give certain of the common catechisms used by both sections to members for revision, and the meeting this week is for the purpose of considering the results of the work prepared.

Battleships Coming Home.

The battleships Kearsarge, Alabama, Illinois, Maine, Missouri and Iowa of the American squadron will leave August 4, for home.

The cruiser Olympia, Baltimore, Cleveland and the tender Mayflower will go to Gibraltar for stores and then for a cruise in the English channel.

Meat Strike Renewed.

The stock yards strike is on again. A general strike has been ordered. The butchers struck again when on reporting for work in accordance with the peace agreement the packers agents offered work to only a few of their number.

Panama Gold Standard.

The Panama canal commission received official notification from the government of Panama of the ratification of the monetary system of the new government in accordance with the agreement reached by the joint commission. Panama is now a gold standard country.

BOY BURNED TO DEATH

And Six Others Injured in the Same Fire.

Edward Schemp, 8 years old, has been burned to death, and his father, mother, three brothers and an uncle severely burned in a fire that destroyed the grocery and living apartments of William Schemp, at Chicago. It is believed by the police that boys playing behind the grocery with matches accidently set the building on fire.

Judge Parker has fixed August 10th as the date of the ceremonies notifying him of his nomination as a candidate for the presidenoy.

TIRED OF LIFE.

Well Known Railroad Man Fatally Shoots Himself.

Capt. Daniel Fraser, a white man, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a pistol at the Western railway freight depot at Selma, Friday morning. He left a note stating he was tired of life and he hoped for a better life after this.

He was transfer clerk for the Wes tern railroad up to a short time ago. He came to Selma from Opelika. He had held several important railroad positions and was well thought of. He had a daughter in Opelika, who had just telephoned him to come to that place where he had a home. He was about fifty years of age.

MUST HAVE STAMP.

State Text Book Law Held to be Constitutional.

The appeal of Dr. A. J. Dickinson in the noted text-book case was turned down by the supreme court affirming the validity of the state text-book law. Dr. Dickinson's contention was that his children had a right to use textbooks not bearing the state depository stamp, provided the books were otherwise identical with those prescribed by the text-book commission. The lower court decided against him and he appealed, the appeal being lost. The decision means that public school children must have books with the required stamp and these stamps will be affixed only to books sold in the official state depositories.

Will Work Prisoners.

Madison county commissioners are making arrangements to have the county convicts put at work on the county roads instead of hiring them to the state at 30 cents a day. Under the new system, prisoners will be allowed to work the roads before their trials and if they are not convicted they will be paid for their work. Otherwise they will be credited with the time on the sentences passed upon them.

ASKS LAST PAYMENT

State Auditor Writes for Small Balance Due on Railroad Securities.

LAST OF AN OLD RAILROAD CASE.

Randolph, the Last of "the Strangulated Counties," Owes $226.15. Fifteen Years' Time Expired.

Auditor Sowell has written for the last payment of amounts due the state on account of old railroad securities for which the counties of Chambers, Lee, Randolph and Tallapoosa became responsible way back in the days of reconstruction. This amount is $226.15, due by Randolph, the final obligation of the five counties in a controversy that involved the state and caused several special acts of the legislature to be passed.

These obligations were incurred in the building or promotion of what is now the Central of Georgia from Opelika to Roanoke, and from Columbus, Ga., to Birmingham. So hot did the fight become once that the counties refused to pay the interest. County officers were abolished and the taxes collected by the state, apportioning back the amounts due the counties. The matter was then taken to the United States court.

Finally, in the session of the legislature of 1883, the state took the matter in hand and appointed a way for settlement of all the claims. A commissioner was provided for to look into the obligation and find what would have to be paid to settle all controversy. It was ascertained that the following amounts were due, or should be paid to get the difficulty cleared up: Chambers, $17,588.61; Lee, $41,955.66; Randolph, $36,296.01; Tallapoosa, $33,600.26.

The state then provided for the payment of these amounts and allowed the counties to pay it back in ten years, excepting Randolph county, which was allowed fifteen years. This $226.15, written for by Chief Clerk Cook in the auditor's office, will be the end, it having been fifteen years since the trade with the counties was consummated. Because of this trouble these counties were known for some time as "the strangulated counties."

Girls' School.

The past scholastic year was the most successful in the history of the Alabama Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo, and was the first year since its foundation that the school has been out of debt.

It is shown that $42,335.08 was received for the students' fund, and $42,295.48 was expended, leaving a balance of $39.60. For the building fund $50,000 was received and $49,386.60 was disbursed, leaving a balance of $613.40. For the general fund $28,595.77 was received and $26,364.46 was disbursed, leaving a balance of $2,231.31.

There are 100 more applications for girls to enter than there were at this time last year. The question now is how to accommodate the girls who desire to attend.

A Little Hero.

James Cogburn, the 8-year-old son of the section foreman of the Western of Alabama at Notasulga, is a hero. He flagged a train and saved it from a bad wreck. A heavy storm had blown down three large telegraph poles across the track and they were matted and tied with the dozens of wires on them that a train would certainly have been wrecked if it had run into them.

Murdered by a Negro.

W. E. Reliford, a white man whose home is in Birmingham, was shot by a negro, Eugene Lee, at Keystone, near Siluria Thursday evening and died immediately afterwards. The nature of the difficulty is not definitely known, except that the white man called the negro a liar, and the negro shot him.

TO SUCCEED WOOD.

Governor Cunningham Appoints Archie Douglass.

The governor settled the Lowndes county probate judgeship by naming Archie Douglass for the position. He will take charge at once and serve until the elections in November say who is to be his successor, the gentleman then chosen to serve six years.

The vacancy in Lowndes was caused by the resignation of J. Colvin Wood, who had been called to face charges of attempting to secure votes in the April primary in an illegal way and not taking proper care of his duties.

Forty years after the burial of John Wickliffe, first English translator of the Bible and known as "The morning star of the reformation," the council of Constance ordered his bones raised from the grave, burned to ashes and thrown into a neighboring brook.

SUPREME COURT.

Old Court Ended; New Court Begins This Fall.

The present supreme court sittings have ended and the court adjourned till fall, when the new court enters upon its duties. The session just ended was a special session.

From a chief justice and four associates the court now becomes, after next November, a chief justice and six associates. All the present members have been renominated save Judge H. A. Sharpe, who did not ask it.

The winter term is set to begin November 14th. The law says the new judges are to qualify on the 10th of November of the year of their election. This makes the new court available for the next session.

The new court will be made up as follows: Chief justice, T. N. McClellen, Limestone; associates, Jonathan Haralson, Dallas; John R. Tyson, Montgomery; James R. Dowdell and N. D. Denson, Chambers; R. T. Simpson, Lauderdale, and John C. Anderson, Marengo.

The officers of the court now are: R. F. Ligon, clerk, Montgomery; Charles Coleman, reporter, Montgomery; Junius M. Riggs, marshal and librarian, Montgomery; Leon C. McCord, secretary, Marshall.

ALL THREE PRIZES

For Marksmanship Won by the First Regiment.

The First regiment, A. N. G., won the silver loving-cup offered by Brigadier General Clark for the best score in the rifle contest, and two members of its team carried off the medals offered for the first and second highest individual scores.

Privates O. L. Bothwell, of company D, First regiment, won the gold medal offered by Colonel H. B. Gray, of the governor's staff, by making a score of 76 out of a possible 100 points. Captain N. H. Coleman, of company D, won the medal offered by the Age-Herald for the second best individual score by making 72 points out of a possible 100. Lieutenant Hugh Miller, of the Jefferson Volunteers, Third regiment, made the third best score, 69 out of a possible 100 points.

The scores are remarkable considering that this is the first time many of the contestants ever shot on a rifle range.

CONSOLIDATED COURTS.

Act Declared Unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

The Consolidated courts law of Jefferson county has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court and the courts of Jefferson county will go back to the old form as they existed prior to the adoption of the consolidated bill by the last general assembly.

The supreme court has decided that insufficient notice was given to the bill and that the notices published did not fully state the purpose and intent of the bill so that the people could understand it before it went before the general assembly.

Back to Daphne.

The supreme court has decided that the removal of the court house of Baldwin county from Daphne to Bay Minette was in violation of the law, the effect of which is to order it back to Daphne.

Kindergarten at Cotton Mills.

Work on the kindergarten building of the Eagle and Phoenix mills in Girard is progressing steadily. The mills now operate a kindergarten in Phoenix City for the benefit of children of their operatives, and this will be their second educational enterprise of this character.

Cotton at 17 3-4c.

At Savannah, Ga., the nrst bale of the new Georgia crop was sold for 17 3-4c a pound. It will be shipped to New York.

Alabama. Baptists.

The Baptist state convention adjourned Friday night after a session of three days. The Rev. Frank Willis Barnett was selected to edit the official organ of the church, the Alabama Baptist, for another year. Dr. L. O. Dawson was made associate editor.

SUPERANNUATE HOME.

Farm Donated to the North Alabama Conference.

The Rev. J. W. Norton, agent for the North Alabbama conference of the Methodist church, secured while attending the Guntersville district conference a valuable farm for the superannuate home cause. The farm contains about one hundred and twenty-five acres, and is situated near Guntersville.

It was the gift of O. D. Street, and Sam Henry, of Guntersville.

Paper boxes are now manufactured in Anniston.

Son Kills Father.

Near Ashland, Ga., John Land shot and instantly killed his father, Robert Land. They had a difficulty about a dog and the former emptied his shotgun into the latter. John Land is still at large.

Railroad men figure that 10,000 carloads of Colorado's choicest fruits will be shipped to other parts of the country the coming fall.

W. E. RIDDLE.

Commissioner 3rd District,
J. N. WYATT.

For Coroner,
GEO. D. CAMPBELL.

JOINT DISCUSSION.

The first joint discussion between the county candidates will be held in Columbiana on next Wednesday, August 3rd. There is also to be a big basket dinner on the grounds. Bring your baskets and, come prepared to stay all day. Speaking will begin at 10 o'clock, a. m. All are invited to come.

There are some interesting items in the semi-annual report of the Commissioners which was published last week.

Handy Andy contines to bolster up his waning spirits by saying The Sentinel is on the run. Delirious people do say some strange things.

"When is a contract not a contract?" asks a subscriber. We pass it up to Judge Longshore; he's all tangled up in that problem, right now.

Can any white man, who is opposed to recognizing the negro as a social equal, vote for a Republican when the platform of that party stands for both social and political equality with the negro? White men of Shelby county, think about it!

Where is the white man in old Shelby county who would like to see his little daughter, if he has one, sweet, innocent little tot, through whose veins flows pure Caucasian blood, placed upon a platform hand in hand with a negro child to face thousands of people? That is one of the pictures presented at the Republican national convention. What significance? Equal footing socially and politically, of the white man and the negro. Then look upon another picture presented a few weeks later. Two little white girls, their arms full of flowers, leading twenty thousand people who are cheering in a white man's convention of a white man's party which srands for a government by white men. This was a scene in the Democratic national convention. Of these two pictures, white men of Shelby county, which do you approve?

BY HIS "REFUTATION" ARTICLE
THE JUDGE STANDS CONVICTED.

In the Advocate of last week Judge Longshore undertakes to explain away the good roads' machinery deal, but it is the concensus of opinion that he has made a bad matter much worse, and especially his own participation in the transaction.

The Judge has frequently said that he had never signed a contract for the road machinery, but since the claim for the purchase price, and the contract upon which that claim is based, has been presented to the Commissioners' Court for payment the Judge says his action in signing the contract, (he calls it a "trial" order) was by order of the Commissioners. He may think so, but do the facts bear him out in his statement? Read the order and then, after having read the contract, draw your own conclusions as to whether or not he followed the order of the Commissioners' Court. In the minutes of the April, 1903, term of the Commissioners' Court is the following order.

"On motion it was ordered by the Court that the Judge of Probate be and he is hereby authorized to give a trial order for the full outfit of road machinery for building macadamized roads, upon condition that the county buy and pay for said machinery, provided that an election be held on the first Monday in August, 1903, a majority of the votes cast at said election be for issue of said bonds."

That Judge Longshore did not make a "trial order," as he claims, by order of the Commissioners, The Sentinel gives to its readers a copy of the contract which Judge Longshore did sign:

ROCK CRUSHER ORDER.

$7,471.50.

April 9, 1903.

Good Roads Machinery Co., Kennett Sqrare, Pa.

Please ship to A. P. Longshore, at Columbiana, County of Shelby, State of Alabama, on or before the first day of June, 1903, by order attached marked "A," on the following conditions, viz: That on the arrival of said Rock Crusher, or rock crushing outfit, at the above named R. R. Station, the undersigned hereby agree to pay the freight charges, set up the crusher, and there work it under the direction of the Good Roads Machinery Co's agent, unless otherwise agreed. When, if the said Crusher does work as warranted on the back of this order, the undersigned hereby agree to pay the Good Roads Machinery Co., or order, Seven Thousand, Four Hundred and Seventy-one and Fifty one-hundredths Dollars, in cash or note bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from date of trial, payable at Columbiana Savings Bank of Columbiana. If the Crusher does not do the work as warranted, then the Good Roads Machinery Co, agrees to receive back the Crusher at the R. R. Station from which it was taken and cancel this contract. It is understood that this contract embodies the entire understanding, is not subject to countermand, and is not to be effected by any verbal agreement.

A. P. LONGSHORE,
[SEAL] Judge of Probate of Shelby County.

Exhibit "A" referred to in the above contract is a list of the pieces of machinery ordered. The warranty is that the machinery "is to be of good material and workmanship," and to crush a certain amount of rock in a given length of time.

Does the phraseology of the above instrument indicate in any manner that it is a "trial order?" Not in the least; it is a straight contract whereby certain machinery is contracted for and agreement to purchase, with but one provision—that the machinery shall do work as warranted. That it the work as warranted is proven by more than one, even Judge Longshore admitting that it is the best thing he ever saw for building roads. There is nothing in the contract to show that its validity depended upon a bond issue to be voted by the people. There is nothing in the contract to show that it is purely optional with the makers of the contract whether or not the machinery shall be purchased. The clause "if the crusher does work as warranted, the undersigned agree to pay" etc., makes the contract and purchase valid.

There is another clincher in the last sentence of the contract; "It is understood that this contract embodies the ENTIRE UNDERSTANDING, is not subject to countermand, and is not to be effected by any verbal agreement." Wherein does Judge Longshore get his "trial order" argument? Not from the contract he has signed; there is no comfort to him in it much as he may search; it is a cold obligation for Shelby County to pay $7,471.50.

Judge Longshore says in his article that the contract (which he calls a "trial order") "is to be read and taken in connection with the minutes of the court." Not so, for each is a separate and distinct instrument from the other. Neither makes any reference to the other, and the last sentence in the contract clearly defines that it is a paper complete within itself. The contract is made upon a sheet of paper with the printed heading "Rock Crusher Order," which, by the way, Judge Longshore omits iu his artiele in the Advocate. His explanation(?) is weak, puerile, and is contradicted by the contract, and by the order of the Commissioners' Court.

There are but two deductions to be drawn from Judge Longshore's action in signing the above contract: That he intended to irrevocably fasten upon Shelby County the liability to pay for the roads machinery; or, that he exceeded his authority, which, we understand, he admits, in signing the above contract. In either event he has shown his unfitness for the responsible position he now occupies. And yet, in the face of the above instrument Judge Longshore continues to tell the people he has never signed a contract for the good roads machinery. The Judge's so-called "refutation" of what he terms "malicious falsehoods" is not sustained by the facts, unless the above contract, which bears his signature, is a "malicious and willful falsehood."

AN ACCOUNTING.

The laws governing the application of moneys raised by special taxation, were enacted and intended to prevent the use of such moneys for any other purpose than those for which the levies were specifically made. This is the mandate of the Constitution and the statutes, and special laws under which the authority to collect such taxes is given. In the light of this plain principle, it is the imperative duty of the authorities who are entrusted with the raising and disposition of special funds, to keep the same separate from all others, and to faithfully apply them to the proper and designated purposes. It is only in this way that the taxpayer can be safe-guarded against oppression, and the power of taxation can be at all limited. If oad taxes, bridge taxes and the like, can be, at the pleasure or option of the officers, diverted to the payment of the ordinary expenses of the county, they could as lawfully be applied to the private purposes of the officers; we are at once subjected to unconstitutional rates. Constitution and laws are nullified, in either event, and we simply do the bidding of an unbridled administration, which knows no authority but "ITS OWN."

The much vaunted record speaks out the fact that nearly eight thousand dollars of money wrested from the people of this county, for a particular purpose—money badly needed for that purpose—was transferred to the general fund of the County. That money, paid by you in good faith to your servants, to be applied upon your public roads, and which should, in like good faith, have been applied by them, was, the Constitution, laws and good morals to the contrary, notwithstanding, diverted to the payment of the general expenses of the county, for which the provision already made by general levy should have been ample and sufficient. That it is unlawful to use money collected for any special purpose, for other than the purpose specified, and that such an act is punishable by fine, we cite the reader to the following which was enacted by the Legislature, session of 1903:

An Act to prevent any county or municipal officer from using or directing or ordering the use of any money which has been, or which may be, collected or received for any purpose other than that for which it was collected or received.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama, That it shall be unlawful for any county or municipal officer to use or direct or order or vote the use of any money that has been or may hereafter be collected for any special purpose in any way other than for the purpose or purposes for which the same was collected, or to use or direct or order or vote for the use of the proceeds of any bonds sold for any purpose other than that for which said bonds were sold.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That any person violating the provisions of Section One shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be fined not less than double the amount of the money used, and may be imprisoned in the county jail for six months.

Approved October 6, 1903.

Let a strenuous administration, like the present one boasts of being, begin juggling with special funds, and with its "Presto! Change!" away goes your money, your rights and, alas! your relief. When you ask for explantion the juggler in this wonderful financial legerdemain meets you with a taunt, that you were not so alert as the railroads—you did not protest in time—therefore, "you are up against it"—remediless.

Has it ever occurred to you to run over your account with the populist administration on this matter of bridges, and find out where you are "at?"

For the year 1902 the populist administration charges you as follows:

Cahaba River bridge, Laney's Ford	$3,300.00
Camp Branch bridge, Calera road	228.00
Waxahatchie bridge, approach to, Shrader's Ford	240.00
Yellow Leaf bridge, Harpersville road	150.00
Wilton bridge, Montevallo and Wilton road	300.00
Buck Creek bridge, Pelham	150.00
"Partnership" bridge, near mouth of Cahaba River	3,200.00
	$7,568.00

Of the taxes raised for the purpose of building the above bridges, it has appeared that $50.00, only, was paid on the Laney's Ford bridge, and it has further appeared that the partnership bridge—the one projected in "conjunction with Jefferson County"—was not erected. So we present a proper credit side to the account:

Balance carried forward on Laney's Ford bridge	$3,250 00
One bridge which "wa'n't built"	3,200.00
Bridge tax 1 mill on $4 000,000 (approximately)	4,000.00
	$10,450.00
Balance to your credit for 1902	$2,882.00

For the year 1903 you stand charged:

Balance on Laney's Ford bridge	$3,250.00
Parker's Mill bridge	2,800.00
Beaver Dam Creek bridge	200.00
Morgan bridge	300.00
Spring Creek bridge	200.00
Buck Creek bridge, Helena	100.00
Walton Bridge	200.00
Beeswax Bridge	200.00
Four Mile bridge	100.00
Total	$7,350.00

You are entitled to credit as follows:

Balance brought forward, 1902	$2,882.00
Parker's Mill bridge, "which wa'n't built"	2,800.00
Buck Creek bridge, "which wa'n't built"	100.00
Beaver Dam bridge "which wa'n't built	200.00
Bridge tax 2 mills on 4½ millions (approximately)	9,000.00
Total	$14,982.00
By balance in your favor	$7,632.00
Subject to deduction on account of failure to make railroads pay bridge tax, say	5,000.00
	$2,632.00
You should further take credit for overdraft on account Laney's Ford bridge, outstanding, which you must pay	1,000.00
Net balance to be accounted for	$3,632.00

Ask the question: "Where is the bridge fund?" and the echo from the Treasurer's vault, wafts back to you the answer: "Where?" and there you are. What will the taxpayers of Shelby County do about it?

NOTICE

Of Registrars Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of Section 6 of "An Act to further regulate elections in the State of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "The Board of Registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least 20 day's notice of the time when, and the place in the precinct where, they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each precinct, and by advertisement once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county.

Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by law, that the Board of Registrars for the county of Shelby, will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose aforesaid:

Joint Discussion.

The sub-committee appointed to arrange joint discussions, composed of W. B Browne, representing the Democratic party, and R. F. Cox, representing the joint popalist and republican parties, met in the office of W. B. Browne & Leeper, on last Monday, and made the following appointment, viz:

Columbiana, Wednesday, Aug. 3.
Spring Creek, Thursday, Aug. 4.
Blue Springs, Friday, Aug. 5.
Shelby, Saturday, Aug. 6.
Weldon, Wednesday, Aug. 10.
Sterrett, Thursday, Aug. 11,
Dunnavant, Friday, Aug. 12.
Vandiver, Saturday, Aug. 13.
Camp Branch, Tuesday, Aug. 23,
Pelham, Wednesday, Aug. 24.
Highland, Thursday, Aug. 25.
Bridgeton, Friday, Aug. 26.
Harpersville, Wednesday, Aug. 31
Vincent, Thursday, Sept. 1.
Rehobeth, or Calcis, Friday, September 2.
Helena, Tuesday, Sept. 6.
Bamford, Wednesday, Sept. 7.
Gurnee, Thursday, Sept. 8.
Maylene, Friday, Sept. 9.
Montevallo, Tuesday, Sept. 13.
Calera, Wednesday, Sept, 14.
K. Springt, Thursday, Sept. 15,
Wilsonville, Saturday, Sept. 17.

Under the arrangement as agreed on, the principal discussion of the political issues is to be between Hon. D. R. McMillan and Hon. A. P. Longshore, one of the said speakers to open and close at one appointment and the other to open and close at the next, thus alternating throughout the canvass. Two hours is given each side, and the speaker opening is to consume not less than one hour in his opening address, and in his closing address may consume all of the time of his side left remaining, provided that the closing speech shall not be over thirty minutes long—the speches of the other candidates to intervene between the speeches of the principal speakers.

The Herald, New York's great independent paper, comes out in a strong editorial endorsing Parker for president, and says it will support him through the campaign. This is the first time in twelve years that The Herald has espoused the cause of any candidate for president. The action of The Herald is significant as its predictions in the past as to the result of national elections have never been incorrect. The Herald says imperialism and the negro plank in the Republican platform will defeat Roosevelt.

We do not believe the populist leaders and spell binders will be able to prejudice the people, one against the other, as they have done in times past. The harvest gathered from the seed prejucice sowed in this county by these same leaders has been made up of illegal tax rates, raising of tax rates, paying for bridges which have never been built nor even contracted, placing the county badly in debt, and taxpayers must foot the bill. That's populist prosperity, according to the Advocate.

The Advocate makes frequent grand stand plays about being such a great friend to the common people, and engages in the most lurid pyrotechnic phrases in its efforts to establish the false position to which it is self-appointed. Judas Iscariot posed as a frieud as a friend to the Christ once upon a time, bnt Judas had a failing—the Good Book tells you about it.

J. W. Bandy, who was in town several days last week taking stock of the drugs sold to H. S. Latham, returned home Friday morning.

Mrs. E. D. Hall and family left yestereay for their new home in Brighton, at which place Mr. Hall has embarked in the grocery business.

Mrs. Howard Latham joined her husband in this city last Monday, and they will make their future home here. They have been living in Montevallo.

Rain put a stop to the ball game between Columbiana and Shelby, at the latter place last Friday. Neither team made a run in the only inning that was played.

Never in the history of Shelby county was there a better prospect for good crops. Everything is looking fine, and the farmers are correspondingly happy.

A large number of Columbiana people went over to Shelby last Friday, but the rain spoiled the game, and most of those who were there got a good wetting.

Protracted meeting will begin at Good Hope on next Sunday. Rev. R. Y. Hammond, of Anniston, will assist the pastor in the meeting. All are cordially invited to attend.

Harry Roberts, who signed up with the Macon team two weeks ago, returned home last Thursday. He says he got into the wrong kind of a crowd, and he resigned after playing one game.

Shelby Springs attracts a number of our people nearly every night in the week. There is quite a crowd of visitors at the Springs now, and the people are thoroughly enjoying themselves.

The friends in this city of Dr. J.H. Gunn, of Calera, will be glad to know that he has almost fully recovered from the operation which he was compelled to undergo for appendicitis a short time ago.

The first joint discussion between the county candidates will take place next Wednesday in Columbiana. Speaking will begin at 10 o'clock, Bring your baskets and take your dinner on the ground. Remember the date, next Wednesday. August 3rd.

The genial J. F. Averyt was up from Shelby a few hours last Monday.

That was a fine rain which came down yesterday and last night.

☞All 50 cent preparations for 40 cents at J. H. Mason's drug store.

The Sentinel will have several new advertisement next week; watch for them

Alonzo Nelson has gone to Brighton where he has accepted a position with E. D. Hall

Camp W. H. Forney, U. C. V., meets on the fourth Saturday in each month at Wilsonville.

Judge Longshore was in Vincent the fore part of this week looking after his political fences.

Mrs Simon Friedberger and children, who have been visiting relatives in Wilcox county for two weeks, returned home yesterday.

Rev. and Mrs. C. W. O'Hara and Miss Ida, who have been visiting relatives in Texas for several weeks, returned home yesterday.

The Sentinel acknowledges a call from J. W. Garris, of near Shelby, last Monday. He was accompanied by his bright boy who wanted to see where they print the paper.

Hon. E. S. Lyman and C. L. Meroney, of Montevallo, were in town the fore part of the week. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from both of these gentlemen.

Miss Willie Rhodes, a former employe in The Sentinel office, had the misfortune to be thrown from a buggy a short time ago, and is now confined to her bed at her home in Montevallo, suffering from injuries sustained.

Rev. J W. Hamner, of Camp Hill, was in the city Monday and Tuesday visiting his brother, Dr. W. P. Hanner. Rev. Mr. Hamner was formerly parstor of the Baptist church in this city, and has many friends here.

Postmaster Abercrombie, who is taking a course of treatment for nervousness, came down from Birmingham last Friday and stayed until Sa day with Mrs. Abercrombie. He was accompanied by his nephew, W. A. Abercrombie, of Woodlawn.

☞The barbecue which was to have been had at Vandiver on the first Saturday in August, has been postponed until the second Saturday in August, the thirteenth day of the month. PAUL RICH.

T. H. Borum of Beat 10, and a prominent young farmer of his section of the county, was in town last Saturday, and while here ordered The Sentinel sent to his address. Mr. Borum came down to take the examination for a carrier of the rural free delivery route.

Our Montevallo letter tells of the games of ball played last Monday and Tuesday between Columbiana and Montevallo teams. We understand that return games will be played in this city in the near future. The Columbiana boys report a nice time at Montevallo.

During a drive to Montevallo last Sunday the editor of The Sentinel was impressed with the unusual prospects for a good crop of everything that grows in the field—corn and cotton looking especially fine. The fruit crop is the largest in years, many trees being broken down with the heavy loads they are carrying. Fine crops of hay are being harvested, and our farmers are as happy as they can be. Another rain or two and the corn crop will be made

Clarence Smith, who has been in the employ of J. R. White for a long time, has resigned his position to accept one with J. F. Pope, of Wilsonville. Clarence is a young man of excellent character, trustworthy in every respect, and The Sentinel congratulates Mr. Pope on securing his services. Our young people will especially regret the going away of Clarence as he is a favorite with all. Harry Roberts will succeed Clarence in the store of Mr. White.

Miss Florence Fallaw, who has had charge of the Columbiana Millinery Shop for the past year, will leave for Opelika next Saturday to visit her home people for some weeks, after which she will go to St. Louis to attend the fair and to acquaint herself with the latest fashions in headwear. She is not certain that she will return to Columbiana. Miss Fallaw is an excellent business woman, and socially has made friends of all our people who will regret her departure.

Murder at Keystone.

A foul murder occured at Keystone last Thursday, and the Keystone Lime Company offers a reward of $250 for the delivery of the murderer to the officers.

But little is known here of the affair, but from the report which comes to us it appears that a negro named "Gewe" Lee, alias "Gewe" Biars had some words with a white man named Reliford, and apparently without any provocation the negro shot Reliford with a 32 calibre Winchester rifle, and from the effects of the shot Reliford died almost instantly. The negro fled, and up to this time no clue is known as to his whereabouts. He is described as follows:

Color dark; age between 29 and 30 years; weight 160 to 165 pounds; height about 5 feet 10 inches; exceedingly stooped shoulders; and in walking makes long, swinging steps; talks and laughs loud; has large mouth; wears No. 9 shoes; eyes not extra large—one eye-lid being slightly drooped; left handed—one finger slightly crooked, caused by bone felon; scar on inside of wrist caused by large splinter; scar on one foot caused by cut from axe while chopping wood; his feet are unusually ugly and of bad shape; when last seen wore hat with medium low crown and broad brim, about a No. 7.

Lark Johnson to Hang.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court in this county in the case of The State of Alabama vs. Lark Johnson, wherein the defendant was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to hang. The Supreme Court fixes the date of the hanging for Friday, September 9th.

Incorporated.

Messrs. J. R. White and W. F. Davis have incorporated their telephone enterprise under the name of the White & Davis Telepono Company, J. R White, President; W. F. Davis, Secretary and Treasurer. The Board of Directors is composed of J. R. White, W. F. Davis, W. T. White and N. Davis,

This company has recently perfected arrangements and made a contract with the long distance telephone company for connection with that line, and work will begin at once to bring about the connection. The company here will also build a line to Calera and Montevallo if they can get encouragement enough to justify building.

Under the management of Messrs. White & Davis, Columbiana has a most excellent exchange, giving us connection with Klien, Wilsonville, Harpersville and Vincent, and we believe Calera and Montevallo will extend such encouragement to the projectors as will give them telephone connection not only with the county seat, but will give Montevallo long distance telephone connection. Mr. White informs The Sentinel that he expects to visit both Calera and Montevallo in the near future in the interest of his company.

Through Secretary Jacob Pepperman, President C. H. Greer, of the Alabama Press Association, names his executive committee as follows: W. E. W. Yerby, Greensboro; H. M. Wilson, Opelika; H. E. Whitaker, Columbiana; W. H. H. Judson, Bessemer; J.C. Williams, Talladega; Miss Virginia Clay, Huntsville; Tom Garner, Tuscaloosa; Frank Crichton, Clanton; C. J. Hildreth, Decatur; W. M. Tucker, Demopolis.

Prof. Jesse Edwards, of Atlanta, teacher of Physics in the Georgia State School of Technology, was in the city yesterday a guest of his cousin, Mrs. D.R. McMillan.

Only a few more weeks until the school books will be taken out of their summer hiding place, and have the dust brushed off ready for use.

The Union prayermeeting will be held in the Presbyterian church for the month of August, commencing with next Wednesday night.

Paul Rich, of Vandiver, was in town yesterday, called at this office and ordered The Sentinel sent to his address.

MONTEVALLO.

Dr. C. C. Oliver, mayor of Calera, was in Montevallo Tuesday.

A new mercantile establishment is one of the probabilities for Montevallo.

Dr. F. M. Peterson, President of the A. G. I. S., is rusticating in West Alabama.

Miss Lyde, of Birmingham, is visiting relatives here—the Messrs. Reynolds' families.

Mrs. H. E. Whitaker, of Columbiana, is with her mother, Mrs. S. V. McCauley, this week.

Mrs. M. Woolley and daughter, Miss Maud Allen, have gone to Monteagle for a few weeks.

Mrs. Jas. E. Hawkins, of Birmingham, who is summering at Shelby Springs, visited Mrs. S. E. Nabors this week.

Mrs. D. L. Wilkinson and children, Miss Erma Ellis and Dr. Edward Wilkinson are outing at Point Clear for a while.

Mrs. A. Latady and interesting children visited with Mrs. Latady's mother, Mrs. M. A. Holbrook, the past week. Mr. Latady, who is a prominent lawyer of Birmingham, was also here a couple of days.

One day last week Marshal Eddings was requested by Maplesville authorities to look out for a desperate negro who had been terrorizing that community. He was soon located at the house of Dan Shortridge, which was approached from all sides by the marshal and his deputies, equipped with shotguns, and the capture was quietly and neatly effected, and with the captive his dangerous "41." Within an hour from receipt of the request, Maplesville was advised that the fugitive had been safely "jugged." Uncle Newt was heartily congratulated on his coup.

The games of ball between Columbiana and Montevallo, Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, proved to be the most taking events of the season. Business was suspended during the games, and everybody endeavored to see them. Monday's game was a walk-over for Columbiana, the score being 9 to 4. Notwithstanding the disparity in the score, interest in the game did not lag. Tuesday's game went to Montevallo, score 5 to 3, and it was at the conclusion of this that the enthusiasm of the rooters reached its height, although there had been inaction at no time. An interesting feature of the games was the good playing of Montevallo's light weights—Woodfin Shivers and Warren Harris. X.

LESTER'S CHAPEL.

We have had some very good rains during the past week.

Roy B. Lester attended services at Mt. Chapel Sunday.

John Nolen made a business trip to Wilsonville Saturday.

W. S. McDonald made a business trip to Fourmile Saturday.

Henry A. Lester was in our community Thursday and Friday.

C. W. Walton and little son Ellis were in our community Thursday.

T. W. Lester and his little son Roland spent Sunday with the family of J. W. Jackson.

Profs. S. Dowell, C. H. Florey and J. L. Glenn spent Friday night at the home of Walter E. Lester.

Robert H. Evans, formerly of Beat 8 but now of Birmingham, was circulating among his many friends here last week.

That prosperous young farmer, R. S. Nolen, in company with Elijah Vick, spent a few days in Blount county recently.

Walter B. Lester went to town Thursday.

Miss Eva Wilder has been visiting her sister, Mrs. R. S. Nolen, for the past week.

There was an old time quilting bee at the home of D. R. Ray last Thursday. Quite a number of people were present—only 58 in all—to aid in the work, and especially the work at the table where a good dinner had been spread.

VINCENT.

Amos Adams, of Jasper, was shaking hands with friends here last week.

J. F. McGraw, of Falkville, spent last week with his parents and old friends here.

Rev. J. A. Butts was laid up with something like a carbuncle on his wrist, last week.

Prof. O. S. Landham, of Jacksonville, was in our midst Sunday. Wonder when it will be?

Your many readers here are very much pleased with the last two issues of The Sentinel, and wish that every taxpayer in the county could read them.

Your type made me say last week that "Rev. O. P. Sampley" was traveling in the interest of the Judson, when it should have been Rev. O. P. Bentley. [All right this time, brother.]

Mrs. A. C. Wilder was called to the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Haygood, at Evergreen last week. Friday the sad news of the death of Mrs. Haygood was received here, and A. C. Wilder went down Saturday. Our entire people extend them profound sympathy. They returned Monday.

Wednesday, July 20th, was a great day for the Pythians and Odd Fellows in Vincent. Long before time for the first number on the program came, people began to assemble at the picnic grounds in the grove across the creek, and by 10:30 several hundred had gathered to enjoy the day together. The music for the occasion was furnished by a string band from Talladega. J. K. Watkins, of Opelika, delivered a most eloquent and impressive address on Pythianism in the morning, which was followed by a beautiful song "Damon and Pythias," sung by Miss Ethel Kidd and J. F. McGraw, after which a most bountiful dinner was spread which had been prepared by the loving hands of our fair women. After dinner sweet music was dispensed by the band, then came a noble heart to heart talk on Odd Fellowship by Rev. R. I. Walston, of Sylacauga. As highly enjoyable a feature of the program as we could mention was the welcome address by our own original R. P. Tucker The best of order prevailed and everybody enjoyed themselves to the full. When you want to have a good time at a picnic, come to Vincent, the coming town of Shelby county.

JOHN BILLIE.

CALERA.

There will be services at the Baptist church next Sunday.

Carpenters are finishing their work on C. W. Wade's new brick store near the union depot.

Dr J. H. Gunn is rapidly recovering from the effects of an operation performed upon him some two weeks ago.

C. B. Duran has leased the National Hotel and promises to keep a house that all transient visitors will be pleased with.

The colored members of the Bibb County Association held their annual Sunday school convention here last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Black closed a series of meetings at New Salem church last Saturday night. He was assisted during the entire week by Revs. Chas. Millstead and Wm. Crim. We learn that there were several conversions and the membership much revived; the most notable among the conversions being Allen Martin, an ex-Confederate soldier 84 years old.

HARPERSVILLE.

J. F. McGraw, of Falkville, was in the city one day last week.

Ike Green, of Bessemer, is visiting his brother Tom on South side.

Levi Moore had charge of the mill here last Saturday and made us some good meal.

Prof. Florey has declined teaching the school here, hence we are without a teacher.

There was a heavy rainfall here last Thursday, accompanied by a severe wind and hail

Rev. W. J. Ray and wife, of Newton, Ala., are visiting their father on North Highlands.

Uncle John Jones and son carried one hundred watermelons to Childersburg last Saturday.

That prince of merchants J. A. Nichols, of Childersburg, was in our community one day last week.

J. S. Elliott and wife and their little daughter Marie, of Vincent, attended preaching here last Sunday.

J. S. Falkner is helping Mr. Caldwell to hold down Wilder's store while Prof. Florey is out on his registering tour.

Miss Dosia Lane, who has been visiting in North Alabama, returned home last Saturday accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Crumpler.

Jim Jones is preparing to burn a kiln of brick this summer. Jim knows how to make brick as well as to put them up after they are made.

A protracted meeting is on at the Methodist church this week. The Baptists will commence theirs on Saturday before the first Sunday in August.

Our people do not favor the rural delivery route here at all. The route which has been looked over don't suit one-fifth of the people who live in the territory, and the disposition of a few private individuals to break down Harpersville is not being endorsed by our people in the least

We have read with much pleasure the article in last week's issue of The Sentinel from Dr. Vandiver. We knew Dock when a boy, and had almost come to the conclusin that he had by this time passed redemption (I mean politically), but the Good Book says "that while the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return." We can't see how a Southern man can follow Theodore Roosevelt, nor can we see how a man who fought in the Southern army during the civil war can follow a man who in Shelby county says that honored and good man, Jeff Davis, ought to have been hung, although they may be ever so good Republicans and some of them are among the best men we have, but it does seem to us that the time has come for a halt, and we believe there are others in Shelby county like Dr. Vandiver who will come out and renounce Rooseveltism and help to elect the Democratic ticket in November. Come and go with us, for we are "gwine shore to win."

Our people responded very nobly to our call last Friday in cleaning off our cemetery, and there was a great deal of work done, but it will take another day to finish, and Friday before the first Sunday in next month is named for that day. We want to haul all the trash out, and there are a great many graves which have sunken which should be, and must be filled up. Now will not everybody come out and help to finish cleaning this sacred spot? If you can't come, send some one in your place; and if you can't send some one, just send a little money—say fifty cents or a dollar—and we will have the work done. If you can't do that just let us know who you are, for we have big-hearted people here who are going to see that the Harpersville cemetery is put in proper shape if they have to do it all themselves. Come, kind friends, and help. Don't forget the time—Friday before the first Sunday. Come early.

JAKE.

WILSONVILLE.

G. W. Riddle and J. W. Hall spent Sunday on Fourmile.

We don't understand why XX deserted us last week.

D. R. Ray and John Nolens, of beat 8, were in town Saturday.

Hermie Stoudemire has a position at Spekal as telegraph operator.

J. H. Pennington and mother are visiting relatives in Talladega.

W. J. Horsley and wife, of Birmingham are visiting relatives in town.

Misses Vera Jackson and Bertie Kytle is visiting in Tallapoosa, Ga.

Wm. Lyons, lately of Calera, has moved here and opened a blacksmith shop.

H. E. Smith attended the State Baptist Convention at Anniston last week.

Miss Wilhelma Parker, of Milton, Ala., is visiting at the home of Major J. W. Bolin.

J. M. Ray has one kiln of brick burned, and will begin work on another immediately.

S. H. Wallace, of Birmingham, and W. W. Wallace, of your city, were in town Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Chesser will conduct services at the Christian church every Sunday at 3 p. m.

The series of meetings conducted by Revs. McPherson and Blazer, at the Christian church, closed Saturday night with fourteen accessions to the church.

Rev. O. P. Bentley, assisted by Rev. W. J. D. Upshaw, of Goodwater, is conducting a series of meetings at the Baptist church this week. We hope much good may result.

C. A. Collins, of Birmingham, Miss Minnie Collins and Miss Annie Collins, of Gallion, Miss Julia Ward and brother, of Greensboro, and others, whose names we have forgotten, are visiting at J. F. Pope's this week.

Will the citizens of Wilsonville and surrounding community give us authority to announce a day and invite everybody to come and bring their tools and help clean off the cemetery? We don't propose to clean it off ourselves, but we will help.

HONEST JOHN.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain, and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain, and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."—MISS ALICE M. SMITH, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee, Minneapolis Study Club.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safe-guard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women being published in this paper constantly.

ZEBRAS UNDER SADDLE.

Animals Hitherto Thought to Be Untamable Prove the Contrary.

It is but a few years since the latest peril was encountered by the horse. The automobile, it was predicted but recently would drive the noble animal from th streets, and the species would soon become extinct. Now a new peril confronts man's best servant—a distant relative, the zebra, which is coming to the front as a saddle-bearer, says a London newspaper.

Up to a very recent date the zebra was described as an untamable beast Practically all naturalists agreed that it could not be broken to harness. But the belief was dissipated as South Africa became settled. Men not only tamed the zebra sufficiently to breed it, but they soon learned to break it so that it could be harnessed to wagons.

Now the German troops in southeast Africa have done a still more remarkable thing with the beautiful stripped animal. They have broken it to the saddle, and have found that it makes a fine saddle beast.

Lieut. Bronsart von Schellendorf, who was in charge of the big colonial trading stations until recently, is the man who succeeded in doing this. He instituted great hunts last year and caught several large herds. These were kept in inclosures and men were sent in every day to walk around among the captives and accustom them to the sight and smell of human beings.

The experimenters discovered to their surprise that, instead of requiring a long time to overcome their shyness, the zebras became tame within a few weeks and would not only suffer the approach of men but would permit themselves to be stroked and fed.

When the animals had arrived at this stage the best specimens were selected and turned over to good riders in the imperial troops. These men broke the zebras as horses are broken, and the result is that now a number of zebras are being used regularly just like saddle horses.

One officer of the imperial forces has not only broken a zebra to the saddle, but he has actually succeeded in making it learn all the tricks and ways of a first class hunting horse. This zebra will jump barriers and ditches with all the energy and fire of a good hunter, and obeys its rider as thoroughly as any horses springing from generations of trained steeds. Another rider has taught his zebra all the artificial gaits and can make it amble, gallop, and run at will.

Lieut. Abel rode one of these zebras recently during a tour of inspection that lasted for several weeks and reports that it compared favorably in every respect with the horse. He found it not only perfectly obedient and willing, but also much better able to withstand fatigue than the ordinary horse used in Africa.

In addition the zebra has the valuable proper quality of being immune to the dreaded tsetse fly, which is so fatal to the unacclimated horse.

The Nursery of a Russian Factory.

Interesting and complete is the study of working people in a great Russian factory told in Social Service by Vladimir F. Gnesin, a Russian electrical engineer. He tells how the great mills were founded in 1792 by Peter the Great, and how they have grown larger and larger from that time until now, when 14,000 people are employed. Among the great number of interesting things which the writer tells concerning efforts made for the benefit of working people in this factory, he says regarding the Nursey:

When the parents go to work they are compelled to leave the care of their children to nurses, chiefly old women or little girls. Such care consequently causes many cases of sickness among children. In consideration of this and in order to provide for the proper care of the children of the peasant parents, the company has established a nursery where every child brought in is washed, clothed in clean clothes and fed. The establishment, besides being a direct force for good, has also the advantage that it establishes among the mothers proper principles for caring for their children. It must be added that these mothers who have nursing infants are at any time allowed to go from their work to nurse their children, which undoubtedly is a great factor in the preservation of the health of the children.

Queer Method of Praying.

Along the sacred road of Nikko, in Japan, is an idol about which centres one of the most curious worships in the world. Upon the surface of the statue are seen little pieces of what appears to be dried paper. If you stand by the idol for a while and wait for a worshipper to come along, you will see what these bits of paper are. The devotee halts in front of the image, then scribbles a prayer on a bit of the paper. The wad he then chews up into a ball and hurls at the god. If it hits the face and sticks, the prayer is sure to be granted, and the pious pilgrim goes away happy. If the ball sticks to some portion of the body, the omen is not quite so propitious, and if it falls to the ground there is absolutely no hope.

Such a mode of prayer is even more curious than the praying wheels of the Buddhists, who set the wheel revolving and reel off prayers by machinery. As John L. Stoddard, the lecturer, says: "One sees, of course, numberless strange rites connected with religion in travelling about the world, but Japan is the only land I have ever visited where deities served as targets for masticated prayers!"

So Long.

With respect to the origin of the familiar parting salute, "So long," there is a suggestion that it is derived from the Norwegian "Saa laenge," a common form of farewell, equivalent in meaning to "au revoir," and pronounced like "so long," with the "g" softened. There was a fair number of Norwegians among the settlers in America, to judge by names, and it is quite likely the phrase was picked up from them. It is in general use among the Dutch in South Africa.—London Globe.

EXPLOSION ON YACHT

Imperils 150 Lives, but All Excursionists Are Saved.

The steam yacht Castanet returning to Clayton, N. Y., from Kingston, Ontario, with 150 excursionists, caught fire in mid stream, and only by the most fortunate circumstances was an awful accident averted.

The yacht was four miles from Kingston, and half a mile from shore, a stiff breeze blowing, and the passengers were enjoying the ride, when suddenly a sheet of flame shot up through the hatchways. The passengers at once ran to the ends of the boat. The flames swept up to the canvass awnings, and in a moment these were ablaze. While the passengers were huddled forward and aft, the engineer and fireman made their way through the flames from the engine room. The crew, after distributing life preservers to the passengers, began to fight the blaze.

Captain Barney Nunn headed the Castanet toward shore, and was followed by the steamer yacht Nokomis, which was a mile away when the flames broke out. The burning boat was beached on Cedar island. The passengers were transferred without the loss of a life, and the fire was extinguished by the united efforts of both crews. Engineer Charles Wood and his son, the fireman, were both badly burned, but will recover.

The cause of the accident was an explosion of gas in the fire box, which threw the hot coals into the engine room and down the galleys.

MAY NOT ENCAMP.

Mississippi National Guard Not Yet Accorded Rates.

Unless the railroads grant a reduced rate of one cent per mile for troops it is probable that the annual encampment of the Mississippi national guard at Biloxi commencing on the 15th of August will be called off.

Heretofore the railroads have always granted reduced rates for state troops, but since the militia has been accepted under the new Dick bill the government will pay the expenses of annual encampments. With the exception of two or three lines under obligations to the government, all the railroads in the country charge full fare for the transportation of regular troops of the United States army, and the fear is being entertained that if state troops are hereafter carried at reduced rates the government will adopt it as a precedent and refuse to pay regular rates in the future.

MISSISSIPPI SCHOOLS

Get Over Three-quarters of the State's Revenues.

In making out his report for the last year State Treasurer Miller, of Mississippi, has found that the state has been spending more money per capita for the cause of education than any other state in the union save Massachusetts, and the figures will show that this same educational cause is a burdensome one. The total receipts at the state treasury last year amounted to $2,263,671.28, of which just $1,727,784.28 was paid out on account of the schools of the state. That means that Mississippi pays 77.2 per cent of all her collections for the cause of education.

The grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen will assemble in Meridian, Miss., August 10th. A circular letter is being sent out to all grand lodge representatives of the order in Georgia, Alabama, North and South Carolina, Florida and Mississippi announcing the date of meeting and matters pertaining to the session.

SCIENCE SAVES OYSTERS.

Impoverished Beds Greatly Improved by Artificial Means.

It has been observed that oysters grow much slower on some beds than on others; that in certain places they fail to fatten, writes Barton W. Everman in The National Geographical Magazine. These places were usually on overcrowded beds, and sometimes good results could be secured by transplanting or thinning out. Qualitative and quantitative study of the diatoms (which constitute the food of oysters) on beds where the oysters fatten well, and on other beds where they fatten poorly, showed that the number of diatoms per liter of water was very much greater in the former than in the latter.

It was, therefore, believed that if the supply of diatoms could be increased on the unproductive beds the oysters on them would grow and fatten. Experiments along these lines were recently inaugurated at Lynnhaven, Va., under the immediate direction of Dr. H. F. Moore of the bureau of fisheries. A small cove was selected where the bottom and the salinity of the water were favorable, but where diatoms were scarce. Commercial fertilizers of certain kinds were used to furnish food for the diatoms, and it was very soon found that the latter greatly increased in abundance, and lean oysters transferred to this cove fattened rapidly. Details of the process need not be given here, but it is believed that the experiments will demonstrate the entire practibility of the artificial feeding and fattening of oysters on a commercial basis.

Veteran of Mexican and Spanish Wars

Only one veteran of the Mexican and Spanish wars has thus far applied for a pension from the government. The one applicant is C. B. Hunt, who was once a resident of Massachusetts. Any veteran of the Mexican war who survived to fight against Spain must have been nearly three score and ten years old, the allotted span of life, and the man who enlists at the age of 70 must needs be patriotic and well fortified with a strong constitution in order to undertake the fatigues of a second campaign.—Boston Advertiser.

But one divorcee has been admitted to share a European throne during the last 100 years, namely, Empress Caroline of Austria. A daughter of the first king of Bavaria, she was married when barely sixteen to King William I, of Wurtemberg. After six years of marriage the latter was dissolved by means of a divorce and two years later she became the fourth wife of Emperor Francis I, of Austria, father-in-law of the first Napoleon and last bearer of the title of emperor of the holy Roman empire.

The Western Society of Engineehs, at Chicago, Ill., recently heard a paper read by John M. Sweeney, on pulverized coal for combustion under steam boilers. Results of comparitive trials showed that 9.4 pounds of water, equivalent evaporation from and at 212 degrees Fahr., were realized per pound of fuel with the pulverized coal, and 7.5 pounds per pound of fuel with hand firing. On the basis of combustible the equivalent evaporation in the two cases was 10.47 and 8.4 pounds, respectively.

Pearls Found in Wisconsin Rivers.

J. A. Young, who has just retired after four years of service as mayor of Brodhead, is one of the oldest dealers in Washington pearls and came to the city yesterday to sell pearls in some of the local jewelers. To some friends at the hotel, Mr. Young exhibited some of his rare specimens, among which was one for which he said he would not take $10,000. "I believe it is the most perfect pearl in the country today," said Mr. Young. "I have been told this by experts and I have seen none better. I have been engaged in the buying and selling of pearls for 17 years, ever since pearls were first found in Wisconsin rivers. The first pearls were found at that time by a Norwegian, who was fishing on the Sugar river. He realized that they were valuable and kept at the business for two years before people realized what he was about. Then he sent the pearls to New York and received a check for about $600. After that he began to spend his money and took in two Yankees as partners. That ended it for him."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The first section of the Piraeus-Larissa railway was declared open recently. The chairman of the railway company, after the opening ceremony, pointed out the advantages to be derived, not only by Greece, but by international traffic, when the line was completed, and connected with the Turkish railway system; and he stated that within two months it would be open as far as Livadia, thus bringing the fertile district of Boeotia into railway communication with the sea, both at Chalcis and at the Piraeus.

An excellent illustration of how electricity is superseding steam in many quarters is found in a contract recently awarded by a shipbuilding company of Buffalo. The company has decided to install electric power to pump out its floating dry docks in the Erie basin. The motors to be constructed will work the pumps much faster than the steam engines formerly in use, it being estimated that the docks can be cleared in two and one-half hours less time. To accomplish this a 35-horsepower motor will be located on each side of the two docks, and the electricity will be supplied by a cable laid along the bottom of the basin.

The life of an express locomotive in England is estimated at twenty-five years; that of a freight locomotive at twenty-six years, that of an ordinary passenger engine at twenty-five and that of a switch engine at twenty-seven. In the United States the life of an express locomotive is eighteen years, of a freight engine sixteen years, of a passenger engine nineteen years and of a switch engine twenty-two years. In eighteen years, however, the American machine has run 2,000,000 miles—double the average travel of an English locomotive.

The first railway in Iceland will probably soon be begun by an English company recently formed for the purpose of working the sulphur mines at Theisstareykir, in the north of Iceland, says The Times correspondent at Copenhagen. A Beautiful Young Society Woman's Letter.

ST. PAUL, Minn.
521 Wabasha St.
Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.
Dear Sir:

"I took Peruna last summer when I was all run down, and had a headache and backache, and no ambition for anything. I now feel as well as I ever did in all my life, and all thanks is due to your excellent Peruna."—Bess F. Healy.

The symptoms of summer catarrh are quite unlike in different cases, but the most common ones are general lassitude, played-out, tired-out, used-up, run-down feelings, combined with more or less heavy, stupid, listless, mental condition. Relish for food and the ability to digest food seems to be lost.

Skin eruptions, sallow complexion, biliousness, coated tongue, fitful, irregular sleep, help to complete the picture which is so common at this season.

Peruna so exactly meets all these conditions that the demand is so great for this remedy at this season of the year that it is nearly impossible to supply it.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring the drug habit.

Thousands of women suffer from pelvic catarrh and catarrhal nervousness and don't know it. If you feel fagged out, begin at once taking Dr. Hartman's Peruna. It will relieve your catarrhal affliction and all your organs will be restored to health. By a bottle to-day, as it will immediately alleviate your case.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., AUGUST 4, 1904. VOL. 29. NO. 49

A DECISIVE BATTLE

Is Believed to be Raging Near Mukden. Gen. Count Keller Killed.

KUROPATKIN IS HEMMED IN.

Three Japanese Generals With 300,000 Soldiers Surround Him—Russia Anxious as to Outcome.

Russians believe that the decisive battle of the campaign is being fought, but this has not been established. For several days the main body of the Russian army has been moving north toward Mukden. General Kuropatkin may be obliged to destroy the immense quantity of stores accumulated at Liao Yang.

Military critics do not believe that General Kuropatkin can escape a general engagement. His army forms a wedge with General Oku at the point, and Nodzu and Kuroki operating against the sides.

The decisive battle of the campaign seems to be in progress. Having completed his enveloping movement of the Russian position, General Kuroki has ordered simultaneously an advance from all points against Haicheng and Liao Yang. Fighting is raging on both fronts.

It is reported that Lieutenant General Count Keller has been killed east of Liao Yang.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg confirms the reported death, saying he was killed by a fragment of a Japanese shell at the time he was opposing the Japanese advance along the railway near Hai Cheng.

Lieutenant General Count Keller at the opening of the war was in command of the second Siberian army division. He was 54 years old and resigned the governorship of Ekaterinoslaff in order to go to the front.

General Keller was the first high Rusian military commander to lose his life in this war.

Count Tolstoi's son is leaving for the front as a volunteer in the infantry.

Japanese have removed two large electrical mines from the mouth of the Liao river and they are searching for sixteen others of such mines known to be there.

The people who left New Chwang before the Japanese came in are now returning and confidence has been restored. The Japanese specie bank will open soon.

Second Pacific Fleet.

Preparations have been completed for the departure, under the command of Rear Admiral Enquist, of the cruiser division of the second Russian Pacific squadron, now lying off Cronstadt. The warships will weigh anchor and put to sea under sealed orders within three days. It is also believed that the auxiliary cruiser Don Andural, which probably is the ship reported as passing Copenhagen with two torpedo boats, will be followed at once by other converted merchantmen. This time the admiralty has resolved that there shall be no question of the character of the warships engaged in stopping contraband. The Don Andural will replace the St. Petersburg and Smolensk, which will come home and be recommissioned.

THE ASSASSIN DIES.

And the Real Identity of von Plehve's Murderer is Not Known.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says the assassin of Minister von Plehve is dead, and adds that he made no disclosures before dying.

Letter from Andre.

Dispatches report that a Norwegian whaler has found north of Spitzbergen a letter from Professor Andre dated 1898. The text of the letter is not disclosed. Professor Andre left Spitzbergen in a balloon July 11, 1897, with the intention of crossing the north pole. He has not been definitely heard from since.

Drowned in the Tennessee.

Luther Mason, a member of the pleasure party that left Huntsville Sunday morning to spend the day at Whiteburg, on the Tennessee river, was drowned. Mr. Mason and a friend had taken a skiff and gone on the river for a row. A storm coming up, Mason became frightened and jumped from the boat, intending to swim to the shore, he being an expert swimmer. When but a short distance from the boat he was seized with cramps and immediately sank.

FIRE AT ANNISTON.

Causes Loss of $35,000—Several Narrow Escapes Recorded.

Fire early Sunday morning threatened the largest business block in Anniston and did considerable damage to the Caldwell building and stock of dry goods of Kohn Brothers, as well as threatening the lives of several roomers on the third floor of the building.

The roomers were awakened after some time by stones being thrown in their windows, and they escaped to the roof of an adjoining building over a twelve-inch board.

The stock of Kohn Bros. was badly damaged by fire, smoke and water. It is valued at $35,000, and is damaged several thousand dollars, the building being damaged to the extent of a thousand dollars. All are fully insured. The fire originated in the store of Kohn Bros., but it is not known from what cause.

Both Sides Firm.

The close of the first week of the cotton mill strike at Fall River, Mass., involving eighty-one mills there and 26,000 operatives, finds the situation unchanged since the order went into effect. Each side to the controversy remains firm—the manufacturers holding to their position that the mills will be operated only on condition that the 12 1-2 per cent reduction be adopted, and the operatives are equally firm that they will not work under this reduction.

It is estimated by the strike leaders that it will cost $20,000 a week to continue the strike, but they are convinced that this amount will be forthcoming.

Earliest First Bale.

All previous records were broken Saturday when the first bale of this season's cotton was received in Montgomery and was sold at auction. The earliest bale of cotton ever received here before came on July 30th.

The bale not only broke the record for the Montgomery market, but it broke the state's record for early cotton. It was grown in Geneva county and was marketed at Hartford on July 26th, which is declared to be the earliest that any grower of cotton in Alabama has ever sent a bale to market.

Mine Paymasters Killed by Robbers.

Charles Hays, a driver employed by the Puritan Coal Company, Portage, Pa., is dead and Patrick Campbell, the company paymaster, lies fataly wounded as the result of a hold-up and murder.

The two men in a buggy were taking a satchel containing about $3,000 with which to pay the coal company's employes at Puritan from the express office to the coal town. They were fired upon by a party of three men.

The three bandits are reported surrounded in a swamp.

MISSISSIPPI BONDS

Have Not Been Called For by the Purchasers.

N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, the firm that purchased the $500,000 3 1-2 per cent bond issues from the state of Mississippi several weeks ago, have not yet called for the bonds, and the state is getting a little uneasy in spite of the fact that a certified check for one-tenth the issue was deposited with the bid and is held as a guarantee of good faith. Bankers about over the state have received circulars from Harris & Co. offering their bonds as an investment, and it is supposed that they will come across with the cash in a short while. In the meantime the school teachers of the state are waiting for their money.

Indians are Starving.

An appeal was made to President Roosevelt Saturday by a committee representing the Presbyterian board of home missions in behalf of the Pima Indians in Arizona, who are said to be perishing because the waters of the Gila river have been diverted from their reservation. The Indians, who number about 5,000, are said to be on the verge of starvation because of failure of their crops. The president promised to consider the matter, which has been before the interior department for a long time.

Injured by Explosion.

As the result of an accident at the furnaces three negroes were severely burned with molten pig iron and Hoke Perkins narrowly escaped serious and perhaps fatal injuries. One of the large pots in which the molten metal is carried to the casting machine was turned half over, in order to clean out the accumulation in the bottom, when a slight explosion occurred which spattered the molten metal.

Mississippi Buttons.

Samples of the buttons made by the Aberdeen, Miss., button factory are shown. They are made from mussle shells taken from the Tombigbee river and the lakes in that section of the state, and it is said that several of the fishermen have found pearls worth goodly sums while opening the shells.

KILLED BY A BOMB

Russian Cabinet Officer Falls the First Victim of a Deeply Laid Plot

SUPPOSED WORK OF ANARCHISTS

Was on His Way to Emperor—Plot Was Known to Authorities, but Former Attempt to Arrest Failed.

M. von Plehve, Russian minister of the interior, was assassinated Thursday morning by a bomb thrown at his carriage while he was driving to take a train for the palace at Peterhof, where he was to make his weekly report to the emperor.

The assassination is believed to be the outcome of a widespread plot, the existence of which has been suspected for several days. Numerous arrests have already been made, including that of the assassin, a young man who is believed to be a Finn, named Leglo, and who is now in a hospital severely and perhaps fatally injured by the explosion of his own bomb. An accomplice of Leglo, also aparently a Finn, but whose name is unknown, has been arrested. He had in his possession a bomb which he tried to throw, but he was overpowered by the police in time to prevent great loss of life.

The minister was escorted by a number of detectives on bicycles, and one of them jostled the assassin, who then rushed into the road and threw the bomb after the carriage. The missile struck the hind wheel and exploded with fearful force, killing or wounding over a score of persons. Minister Plehve and his coachman were killed outright and an officer of the guard was fatally injured.

The explosive is believed to have been composed of pyroxylin, as it gave off little smoke. The force of the explosion was so terrific that it not only broke every window within a radius of half a mile, but reduced the heavy paving stones to powder, heaved up the pavement and flung a heavy piece of iron work of the carriage so that it severed the mast of a barge which fell, stunning the captain of the barge. Everybody in the street was knocked down and more or less bruised.

Von Plehve during his two years of office as minister of the interior left a profound mark on the administrative reforms which were leading the country toward more liberal institutions.

The impression prevails that his death will greatly weaken the influence of the powerful war party favoring an aggressive policy in Manchuria.

It is learned that while the identity and nationality of the assassin of Minister Plehve and his accomplice are still not definitely established, the police are making progress in unraveling the skein. They are amazed to find how far-reaching was the conspiracy.

The documents found show the existence of a wholesale plot toward ministers, but the most remarkable feature is that it did not include the czar, who is distinctly declared to be uninvolved.

The accomplice of the assassin of M. Von Plehve was seen to drop something in the canal. Later a bomb was recovered from the water.

As Minister of Justice Muraviaff was driving to the Peterhof palace to report to Emperor Nicholas the assassination of the minister of the interior, Von Plehve, stones were thrown at him and his carriage windows were broken.

Ammunition at Port Arthur is reported as getting very short.

Exempt from Taxation

Cottage and mill help houses are exem from taxation, accoring to a ruling made by Attorney General Massey Wilson, on the ten year cotton mill exemption law passed by the session of the ligislator of 1901. The question came up some time ago in a controversy over collection of taxes on houses owned by the cotton mill.

Backed by Venezuelan Troops Carner Succeeds Colley.

Ambrose Howard Carner, the former managing director of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company (who was recently appointed receiver of the company as a result of the suit brought by President Castro), backed by Venezuelan soldiers, took possession of the properties of the company, including the asphalt lake, against the energetic protests of Captain Colley, the company's representative.

The steamer Viking, belonging to the company, escaped seizure. Foreign companies residing in Venezuela are alarmed over President Castro's aggressive policy, which is directed also against French, British and German companies.

FAT FEE

For Attorney Herbert in Dewey Prize Money Case.

Justice Gould has signed an order ratifying the auditor's report in the case of Admiral Dewey against the Don Juan de Austria and other prize property. A distribution of the prize money is directed, the sum involved amounting to $828,677.69.

Under the decision the naval pension fund gets one-half of $828,677.60, less half the costs, which will be approximately $90,000. An attorney's fee of 10 per cent is allowed by the court as part of the costs. The remaining one-half is to be distributed among Admiral Dewey and the officers and men of the fleet under his command at the battle of Manila bay.

FOUND GUILTY.

John Morris, Sr., Convicted of Murder in the Second Degree.

John Morris, Sr., was found guilty by the jury trying him at Athens of murder in the second degree and his punishment was fixed at ten years in the penitentiary.

He was charged with being in a conspiracy to kill B. F. Grisham, his son John firing the fatal shots. He is a man nearly sixty years of age and is quite wealthy. His case has been appealed.

His sons, John and Walter, will not get a trial until the next term and must remain in jail, because charged with murder in the first degree.

Shot Through the Window.

A special from Washington, Wilkes county, Ga., says that while Charley J. Tyler, a prominent young farmer, was at supper with his wife, Dr. Thos. C. Burch emptied two loads of buckshot from a window into the body of Tyler, killing him instantly. Dr. Burch has been taken in custody.

A BIG CROWD.

Despite the fact that the temperature was almost at a sizzing point, a large crowd came to Columbiana yesterday to hear the joint discussion, and especially to hear the man whom the populist leaders have cried from the housetops "was afraid" to meet Judge Longshore, but after the meeting yesterday we do not think they will be so rash in their assertions in the future, for Judge McMillan was there and brought the goods with him.

The crowd was in an extremely good humor, and gave both speakers an attentive hearing, and came to hear those matters discussed in which the taxpayers of the county are so vitally interested.

In drawing straws for the opening and closing Judge Longshore won, and in his opening remarks attacked the new Constitution of Alabama in stereotyped phrases that he used during the Constition campaign, and which he has been using in all his speeches in this campaign. He also charged Judge McMillan with trying to disfranchise the voters of Shelby county through a City Court bill which he said McMillan had tried to have enacted into a law, and Judge Longshore used it for all he was worth. In his reply Judge McMillan charged, and proved by the Hoese Journal of the Legislature, that Judge Longshore had voted for the bill which gave to Anniston a City Court, when Mr. Longshore was Representative from this county. The point was turned so neatly on Judge Longshore by McMillan that the large crowd made the air ring with applause.

A few minutes after Judge McMillan began speaking he was taken suddenly ill and an adjournment was taken until after dinner. At that time he had sufficiently recovered to be able to finish his speech, and he surprised even his most sanguine supporters and friends. It was a masterful effort.

Lack of space forbids a full report this week, but in our next issue the discussion will be gone into at some length. It was a Democratic day all right.

THE ILLEGAL TAX LEVIES.

The Position of The Sentinel on the Illegal Tax Levies in Shelby County Upheld By Supreme Court of Alabama.

Judge Longshore, being unable to silently endure the criticisms of The Sentinel, and the comments of the people, on the illegal tax levies of his administration, seeks to break their force by what he calls a statement of the "plain, unvarnished facts," in last week's Advocate; he having, unctiously, "concluded that the truth ought to be made known."

The first sentence of his illumination is a SUPPRESSION OF THE TRUTH, over which he spreads a coat of varnish; but in such a manner as to bring out more clearly, instead of concealing, the decption he would practice. He says: "The Legislature of 1898-9 passed an Act authorizing and requiring a levy of not less than one nor more than two mills on the dollar, to aid in the maintainance and construction of public roads in this County." This would appear to be the extent of his information on this line. If he did not want to deceive—if he really desired the truth to be known, why did he not reveal the fact that the very section of the Act, to which he refers, further said that said taxes were "to be assessed and collected as other taxes, and when paid into the treasury, it shall be kept separate from all other funds, and used only for the purpose indicated in this Act; WHICH SPECIAL TAX SHALL BE A PART OF THAT WHICH IS AUTHORIZED BY THE CONSTITUTION FOR COUNTY PURPOSES." See Local Acts, 1898-9, page 194, Section 17. In Judge Longshore's quotation of the law did he not deliberately intend to deceive the people of Shelby County? "The truth half told," etc.

Relying solely upon the omission and palpably deliberate suppression of the provision of the law which The Sentinel has above supplied, Judge Longshore seeks to justify the "thoughts" and speculations of the Commissioners' Court, and his own "belief" that the tax was legally levied, the Circuit Judge's opinion to the contrary notwithstanding. The unavoidable conclusion, upon reading the whole section, is, that for the levies actually made there can be no justification. It is too plain for argument, and was too plain for Judge Longshore to completely quote the law; which of itself knocks the trotters from under his "thinks" without any elucidation at the hands of The Sentinel.

The law being stated, however, as the Judge would like to have it, he says that he was, and still is, of the opinion "that the levy of two mills for roads was a legal levy, and believes that the Supreme Court would have so held," Perhaps; IF, at the June term the Commissioners' Court had levied a general rate of only three mills—its remaining limit; this it did not content itself with doing; but, instead, levied four mills, which, added to the levy of two mills for roads, made in January, aggregated six mills, or one mill more than is "authorized by the Constitution for County purposes." If Judge Longshore means to say (without varnish) that he is yet of the opinion that the levies for the year 1899, in their entirety, were legal, we respectfully refer him to the case of Frederick vs. The Northern Alabama Railway Company (Franklin County), Alabama Reports, 130, page 407, where the Supreme Court "have so held" as to give Judge Longshore's opinion a decided knock out. For the benefit of the taxpayers of Shelby county, The Sentinel gives the decision of the Supreme Court in full:

Decision of Alabama Supreme Court.

FREDERICK v. NORTHERN ALABAMA RAILWAY CO.

(Supreme Court of Alabama. June 29. 1901.)

SPECIL ROAD TAX—LEVY BY COUNTY—CONSTITUTIONAL LIMIT.

Under the provisions of the act "To better provide for the public roads of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties," approved Dec. 13, 1898, (Acts 1898-99, p. 189), which authorized the levy of a special tax of not less than one-tenth or more than one-fifth of 1 per centum on all the taxable property of said county, "which special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the constitution for county purposes," the commissioners' court of one county is without authority to levy a special tax in addition to the regular county taxes for county purposes, if the latter tax rate fixed at the rate of one-half of 1 per centum, which is the full constitutional limit; and therefore, where, in one of said counties the commissioners' court levied a regular county tax rate for county purposes of one-half of 1 per centum for the year 1899, and in addition thereto, for the year, levied a special tax of one-tenth of 1 per centum on the value of the taxable property in said county" the levy of the special tax was unauthorized by the constitutional provision fixing the limit of regular county tax rate for county purposes.

Appeal from circuit court, Franklin county; Ed. B. Almon, Judge.

Action by the Northern Alabama Railway Company against A. C. Frederick. Demurrer of defendant was overruled, and he appeals. Affirmed.

This was an action brought against the tax collector of Franklin county to recover taxes alleged to have been collected by the defendant from the plaintiff without warrant or authority of law, and which were paid by the plaintiff under protest.

It was averred in the complaint that under the act "To better provide for the working of the public roads of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties" (Acts 1898-99, p. 189), the commissioners court of Franklin county levied an assessment of one-tenth of 1 per centum for the purpose, as expressed in said statute, and that the assessment against the property of the plaintiff under such special act amounted to $152.21, which the plaintiff paid under protest, for the purpose of avoiding a sale of his property; that said assessment was unconstitutional and void, and that the levy of said taxes and the collection thereof was unwarranted and illegal.

The defendant demurred to the complaint upon the ground that the levy was made under a special act, which special act offends no section of the constitution, and that the assessment was regular, and plaintiff was within the authority of said special act constituting a special road tax for Franklin county. The demurrer was overruled; and the defendant declining to plead further, judgment was rendered for the plaintiff. The defendant appeals, and assigns as error the overruling of the demurrer to the complaint.

W. H. Key and G. K. McGregor, for appellant. Smith & Weathery, for appellee.

HARALSON, J. The seventeenth section of the act, "To better provide for the working of the public roads of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties," approved December 13, 1898 (Acts 1898 99, p. 189), provides "that the court of county commissioners of said counties, shall levy a special tax of not less than one-tenth, or more than one-fifth of 1 per centum on all the taxable property of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties, to be assessed and collected as other taxes, and when paid into the treasury, it shall be kept separate from other funds and used only for the purposes indicated in this act, which special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the constitution for county purposes."

The complaint alleges that "said commissioners' court, disregarding said provision of said act, levied a regular county tax rate for county purposes, to the full limit of the constitution for the year 1899, to-wit, one-half of 1 per centum for said year, 1899, on the value of the taxable property in said county, and in addition thereto, in the same year, levied a special tax of one-tenth of 1 per centum on all the value of the taxable property in said county, claiming that said last named rate was authorized by said act." It further alleges, that plaintiff paid the taxes due by it, of one-tenth of 1 per centum, levied for county purposes and refused to pay said special tax of one-tenth of 1 per centum, on the ground that the assessment of the same was null and void, paid it under protest and compulsion, and to avoid a sale of its property levied on

Section 5 of Article 11 of the constitution limits the tax rate of the counties, providing that "no county in this State shall be authorized to levy a larger rate of taxation, in any one year, on the value of the taxable property therein, than one-half of 1 per centum." The section further provides, that to pay any debt heraftter created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges, any county may levy and collect such special taxes as may be authorized by law.

The language of said section 17 is that this "special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the constitution for county purposes." It is thus made to appear, that this special tax of one-tenth of 1 per centum was in excess of the one half of 1 per centum authorized by the constitution to be levied for county purposes, and in addition thereto, said special tax of one-tenth of 1 per centum was levied and collected, making a 60 instead of 50 per centum taxation on plaintiff's property in the same year for county purposes,—opposed alike to the provisions of said section of the constitution and of said act of the legislature When the commissioners levied a tax of one-half of 1 per centum, as they did, for county purposes, their power in this respect was completely exhausted, and there remained to them no room for or authority to levy and collect said special tax.

Under the averments of the complaint the plaintiff had the right to sue for and collect from the defendant the amount of said special tax, paid to protect his property from sale.

Affirmed.

Upon the ruling of the above decision the excess tax paid under protest by the Southern Mineral Land Co., in Shelby county for the year 1899, was refunded that company on order of the Commissioners' Court, and Judge Longshore remarked at the time that the decision of the Supreme Court showed conclusivsly that the levy in this county was an illegal one. The Sentinel asks the taxpayers of this county to compare the statement of the Judge made at the time the excess tax was refunded the land company, and his statement in the Advocate last week wherein he says he believes if the case had been appealed the Supreme Court would have held the levies to be legal; compare the two statements and then say whether or not the Judge is consistent.

The fact remains unassailed and unassailable, that the people of this county were made to pay an illegal tax, by the populist administration, which the railroads legally evaded. Judge Longshore may call this "bluster of The Sentinel" and "clap trap argument," but all the same, the taxpayers have realized that they have been buncoed and imposed upon by the powers-that-be, as they never was, nor would have been, by a Democratic administration.

The Sentinel has plainly stated the facts in regard to special taxes levied subsequent to the litigation of the road tax, and which are now being contested by the railroads. The Sentinel does not arrogate to itself any "extraordinary wisdom" in passing upon the illegality of these taxes; but it has advanced arguments tending to clearly show that they were illegally levied, none of which the wily Judge essays to answer or "refute." He simply assumes toward The Sentinel the attitude he has maintained towards those taxpayers who "did not protest"; i. e. it must remain silent and accept HIS decree, which has held these levies "to be legal and lawful." He, who held the levies of 1899 to be legal and lawful, and still believes they were, in spite of the decisions of the Circuit and Supreme Courts!

If Judge Longshore is so firmly fixed in his thoughts and beliefs as to the legality of the taxes he has been levying, why is it, pray, that, upon his suggestion, a "Democratic railroad lawyer" has been employed by the Commissioners' Court to prepare an order for the levy of special taxes, this year, "that would stick?" Such action would seem to indicate that the "thinks" and "opinions" of the Judge were getting somewhat rickety, peculiar and unstable.

Judge Longshore has made two attempts at explanation; but in each instance gets into a deeper muddle. The people of Shelby County have paid dearly for his 'beliefs" and "opinions"; but the time has come when they are thoroughly tired of it, and will have another, who can tell what a contract is when he sees it, and will operate within the bounds fixed for him by the Constitution and laws of the land, and by the orders of the Commissioners' Court, to the end that all taxpayers shall share the burdens of government without discrimination, and the county saved from unnecessary and intolerable debt.

Whose position in this matter has been the true, the honest, the just one: That of Judge Longshore, who banks only upon his "thinks" and "opinions" which have made the people of this county pay out thousands of dollars because of enforced illegal tax levies; or that of The Sentinel which bases its argument upon a decision of the Supreme Court of Alabama? The Sentinel believes that, in the November election, the voters will endorse its position.

Again, Again, and Still Again.

This year, 1904, the nervy administration makes the third special levy for Laney's Ford bridge—balance due; the third for the purpose of building Parker's Mill bridge, in conjunction with Jefferson county, this time at the reduced figure of $1,375.00; and the second special levy for Beaver Dam Creek bridge. As the record shows that contracts have been entered into for the erection of such bridges by December next, we feel reasonably assured that at last there'll be something doing with our money. The Sentinel congratulates those communities that have been waiting so long, and paying their money time and again for something that seemed destined never to come; but its sympathy goes out to the taxpayers generally, and to some of the contractors who in the very nature of things will have to extend their paper against the county. The purposes for which special taxes are imposed this year call for $12,473.75, contracl price, and the rate levied will bring in about $9,000.00. With what obligations are now resting on the county, we'll be in debt good and deep before the populist financiers step down and out, and that's no joke.

The Opening Skirmish.

The speaking at Ebenezer, Saturday, was not largely attended; it being not generally understood that the discussion would be a joint one. The audience was most attentive and orderly. A good many ladies graced the occasion by their presence, and dispensed charming hospitality around a delightful and bountifully laden spread.

Judge Longshore opened the discussion by eulogizing our forefathers, who immigrated to this country to escape oppressions of the old world and established the glorious government which we enjoy. He then proceeded to attack the new Constitution of Alabama, on the ground that under the permanent plan of registration it disfranchises many white men who do not come up to the qualifications fixed, unless they swear to a lie. He denominated the requirement of the payment of poll tax "buying the right to vote," and said the Constitution was not ratified by the white vote, but by a fraudulent negro vote of the Black Belt. He made no reference to the effect of the Constitution in Cuculanizing the State, the inference from his argment being that this was either not desirable or was too dearly purchased, which after all is about the same. He then pulled a City Court Bill, which he said had been prepared by Mr. Browne, and the passage of which was advocated by Judge McMillan immediately after his defeat for the Probate Judgeship, which he says disfranchised every voter in Shelby county. To prove which he recited that the bill provided for the appointment of the Judge, Clerk and Solicitor. He pointed out other bad features of the bill, and showed that it had been defeated by himself., Major Oliver and Judge Pelham. He then referred to the fact that his administration had been criticised, and taking up the statement that the Democrats had turned over $16,000 to the populites, produced the treasurer's book to disprove it. Next he attempted an explanation of the road machinery business, but went outside the "record" by which he opposed to stand and be judged in all things, and outside the terms of the "trial order" to bolster up his conclusions, and brought in alleged statements and understandings of Newel the Machinery Company's agent, and certain statements made by him in Newell's presence, which the latter did not deny. It was simply a rehash of his card in the Advocate, and the question was left by him in a rather chaotic condition to take up the road tax matter. This was hastily disposed by the statements that the Commissioners' Court was required to levy a road tax; that it was contested by the railroads, whereupon the Probate Court said they must pay it and they took an appeal to the Circuit Court, and that the Circuit Court had decided that the levy was all right as to one-half of it, and that the railroads must pay that one-half. He offered no explanation as to the repeated levies for bridges, shuply the Probate Court had decided them to be legal and that the judgments had been appealed and were still pending in the Circuit Court. The City Court Bill was clearly his favorite theme and he lost no opportunity to get back to it and closed.

After an enjoyable dinner, Superintendent Farrell made an admirable talk along educational lines, disclaiming any purpose to discuss political issues. He plainly manifested his great interest in education and impressed his hearers with the importance of our crying needs to better our educational conditions, towards which there can be no doubt that he has been bending his best exertions.

Mr. Dykes, fusion candidate for Commissioner from the first district, who confessed that he was, as yet, non-plussed as to where he should do his electioneering, in view of the uncertainty of the law, nevertheless made an appeal to the people for support. He had thrice served the people of Shelby as Commissioner. First as an independent Democrat, next as an organized Democrat, and thirdly as a populite. He did not attempt to name the company he is now keeping. He plead guilty to the soft impeachments of being an "old fogy" and "picayunish" in dealing with the people's affairs, and justified it as being in their interest. He clearly and unqualifiedly distinguished himself from the present "progressive" and "up to date" administration, and as proudly as tenaciously clings to the practice of carrying "a rock in one end of the sack and a pumpkin in the other" rather than to lug a rock in either end. The only "political issue" he said seemed to be Judge Longshore; so he would have to discuss Longshore. He vouched for him satisfactorily in a personal way; but in matters pertaining to political economy of the county, his remarks were anything but harmonious with the Judge's record, views and tendencies. He recited the Judge's advocacy of the issuance of the bonds to purchase the road machinery and build macadamized roads (which must have been very gratefully listened to by the Judge), and that he, Dykes, was the only man who had the manhood to get up on that memorable occasion of the barbecue and oppose it; while the leaders of the county, Browne, Peters and McMillan were hiding out in their offices. He did not oppose he says, to "kill Longshore, but to save him," and he did the Judge the favor to paliate his criticism of the rash act by emphasizing the fact that the Judge when advocating those bad things was not acting as an official, but in an "individual capacity" (as if the Judge might be endowed with certain chamelion characteristics!) The sin of levying the road tax, he said, ought to be laid at the door of the legislature, which passed a special law requiring the Commissioners to levy a road tax of twenty cents on the hundred dollars. He failed to say that Mr. Sturdivant had this law enacted. He spoke of the criticisms that had been made upon the extravagances of the present administration; he rather acquiesced in the criticism and argued it out to a nice demonstration, that it was essential that he be elected to "make Longshore do right," and to hold down his "progressive" aggressiveness, and, in the meantime, Judge Longshore ought to be freely and magnaniniously forgiven all the errors he had committed while without his guiding influence.

Mr. J. L. Peters, representing Judge McMillan, was next introduced, and replied to Judge Longshore in the order pursued by the latter. He endorsed heartily the eulogy of the fathers, and, following and extending their patriotic purposes and accomplishments, through their descendants into the adoption of the new Constitution of Alabama, whereby the blessings and privileges of a free, white man's government was solidly assured and safely perpetuated. The legitimate conclusion of Judge Longshore's objections, would be to turn back and submit ourselves, cringingly, to political equality with the negro; and any man who advocated that could never get his vote. He dwelt upon this question with eloquence and impressiveness, having the manifest sympathy of his audience, who endorsed his statement that of the principles of our government which he would like transmitted to his posterity, above and greater than all was that of White Supremacy. As to the "City Court Bill," he said he had never seen it and did not know its provisions. Asstated by Judge Longshore, he could not endorse that bill; but in his opinion the time would come when the people would demand an additional court. It could not be had until the people approved. He showed the entire disconnection between this old bill and the issues of the campaign, or with Judge McMillan's qualifications or claims to the suffrage of the people. He let loose an interesting sensation in the shape of information that while Judge Longshore was opposing the City Court Bill he was also busying himself having a bill enacted by the legislature, whereby the ex-officio services of the Probate Judge, Sheriff and Clerk of Shelby county, among a few other counties, were so arranged as to increase from $200.00, the amount fixed by general statute, to $600.00 per year for each, payable out of the county treasury, without regard to services, and based simply on the assessed value of property. "And, probably," said the speaker, "the flight skyward of assessments in Shelby had some acceleration as a result of the act. At any rate began to climb immediately and so continued until it reached the basis of the maximum salary for ex-officio setvices." Having warning of his time limit, he concluded with a hasty allusion to the road machinery, contending that the obligation was fastened by the order of the Commissioners' Court and Judge Longshore's contract, on the county.

Judge Longshore attempted to parry the force of the reply to him by relating some amusing anecdotes and said that with the passage of the sala y bill referred to he had no connection, although it was with his knowledge and consent. Mr. Deans, the then representative, having persuaded him that the onerous duties placed on him in distribution of the pension warrants to old soldiers entitled him to it. He made another desperate pass at the road machinery matter; but progress with it continued to be an "advance backwards." In reply to a question as to who paid the freight on the machinery, he said that the County paid it under the terms of the AGREEMENT"; but the county had been amply repaid by the building of "about a half a mile of macadamized road at one place, and about a mile and a half on the Columbiana and Shelby road." He was, he said, still in favor of macadamizing the roads. "If we had spent the $10,000 a year raised for road purposes in macadamizing, the county would have had sixty miles of macadam zed roads during my administration, instead of spending the money rounding up the roads in summer, simply to be washed away in winter." He gave another sling at the City Court Bill, plainly the slogan he has chosen for the campaign, and closed.

Mr. J. N. Wyatt, Democratic candidate for Commissioner, being called for, declared that his public principles would be those which had guided him in his private relations, and upon his record as a citizen submitted himself to the judgment of his neighbors, among whom he and his ancestors had lived.

The attentive audience and conservatism of the speakers mark the day at Ebenezer as a model for the conduct of the future campaign.

Important Election.

The chairman of the several Boards of District trustees are hereby called to meet at the court house, in Columbiana on Saturday, Aug. 13th, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing four county school trustees. These four trustees, together with the county Superintendent of Education will constitute a county board of education. The said county board will have entire control of public schools of the county.

In this issue will be found the advertisement of Rufus Lester, general merchant. He carries a good stock, and invites your attention to the same. The good housekeeper will find a line of tinware at Lester's that is warranted not to rust.

As will be seen by notice elsewhere in this issue, Mrs. J. B. Nelson has taken charge of the Huett House. Mrs. Nelson is noted in this section as a superb housekeeper, and so long as she presides over the culinary department, we know that her guests will have no grounds for complaint. We bespeak for her a share of patronage.

Montevallo and Shelby played two games of ball at the latter place—one on Monday and the other Tuesday morning. In the first game Shelby won by a score of 9 to 1, and on Tuesday again won by a score of 12 to 0. Wild throws made the Montevallo boys go to pieces, and before they could pull themselves together the game was lost to them on Monday. There was some brilliant plays made by both teams.

The attention of readers of The Sentinel is directed to the large advertisement of Milner & Christian which appears in this issue. They have anything you want to clothe or feed the body—goods warranted to be as represented in every instance. If you do not see what you want when you go in the store, just ask Henry, Pete or Jim about it, they'll probably know. They cordially invite all to come in and see them.

G. W. Morgan, of the Morgan Mercantile Co., is arranging for a visit to Louisville and St. Louis for the purpose of replenishing their stock, and incidently to see the great Fair.

Death came to relieve the sufferings of Miss Minnie Little, last Wednesday night. She was a bright, sweet girl of Montevallo, though for several years resident in Wilton with her mother. Much sorrow came to her early womanhood, blasting the sweetest promises that life had held out to her, and under them she quietly and unmurmuringly wilted away, as does a beautiful flower. The sincere sympathy of this community is that which goes to the widow mother and other loved ones.

Saturday afternoon, Will Austin and Abe Curlee, both negroes and related, had a war of words on the Perry place, and afterwards renewed it on the highway just outside of town, near the residence of Mr. Trucks, when Austin called a shotgun into requisition and shot the other down, and he died in a few minutes. Several witnessed the shooting and there is thought by some to be extenuating circumstances that will relieve the killing of cold bloodedness, of which it has the appearance. Corporal Eddings, already renowned as an officer, when advised of the crime, organized a mounted posse and captured the slayer after a chase of five miles. He was committed by Judge Reynolds, without bail, to await the action of the grand jury. The negroes, for some reason or unaccountable superstition, were indisposed to take charge of the body, and it lay by the roadside until its removal was directed by Commissioner Pleas Shaw. It is said the decedent's wife, barely more than a "bride," showed little or no concern at the untimely demise, and invited no condolence.

WILSONVILLE.

A very heavy rain fell here last Saturday.

J. M. Crenshaw, of Beat 8, was in town Monday.

Brinpley Nivens, of Piedmont, is visiting homefolks.

Mrs. James Dyke, of Shelby, visited relative here last week,

O. O. Tinney, of Atlanta, Ga., is visiting his parents here.

Miss Helen Boyer is visiting relatives and friends in Kentucky.

Miss Era Pitts, of Columbiana, visited relatives here last week,

Mrs. Grimes, of Helena, is visiting her niece Mrs. Iris Taylor.

The Telephone Company here is putting in metallic circuits on all their lines.

L. B. Riddle and wife and Mrs. Iris Taylor visited relatives on Fourmile Sunday,

Frank Wilby and wife, Atlanta, Ga., visited the family of Major J. W. Bolin last week.

Mrs. J. H. Weldon returned last week from an extended visit to relatives in Mississippi.

Prof. W. H. Farr and wife, of Lynca, visited relatives here the latter part of the week.

Work was begun Monday, grading off the ground for the addition to J. F. Pope's store.

The Jacksonville Oil Mill Co. is making extensive improvements on its gin property here.

R. F. D. No. 2, from this place, will go into effect August 15th. Prof. J. H. Spearman is carrier.

W. A. Hammond and wife, and Miss Lilian Kirby, of Jackson's Mill, visited friends here last Sunday.

J. H. Wilder and wife and Miss Ethel Kidd and little brother, of Vincent, visited relatives here Sunday.

J. C. Jackson & Sons closed down their mill last week on account of the meeting at the Baptist church.

If we can count our fingers and toes, Shelby county will owe $30,000 when the new jail now contracted for is completed.

Howard Lanier, of Lanier, Mr. Best, of Talladega, and Dr. Dupuy, of Birmingham, were visitors at J. F. Pope's last Sunday.

A gentleman in town says: "We were out in the Fourmile neighborhood a few days ago, and certainly we would not exaggeaate when we say that we never saw finer crops growing. Should seasons continue favorable the crops will be all that the people will be able to gather. The fruit and melon crops are as good as ever been known. Providence always helps those who help themselves, and trust in Him.

HONEST JOHN.

VANDIVER NEWS.

Crops looking fine.

The farmers are all done laying by.

B. P. Mims, of Birmingham, was here Tuesday on business.

Col. E. L. Higdon is shipping a lot of nice peaches from this place.

John Kendrick and Jack Dunlap, who have been visiting friends and relatives here, left for their homes in Texas last Tuesday.

Paul Rice made a flying trip to Birmingham last week.

P. M. Abercrombie has moved his family from Birmingham back to this place.

We believe the populists are going crazy over the coming election. Just hold still Mr. populist; there are some Democrats in Beat Fourteen.

For reasons unknown to us, W. O. Grant has shut down his new saw mill.

J. L. Vandiver made a business trip up into St. Clair county last week.

Success to The Sentinel and its readers.

UNCLE NED

To Voters of Shelby County.

Helena, Ala., July 26, 1904.

I reply to a "Card from Judge Longshore" in the Advocate of July 21st, inst.

These are plain facts. I, with others, were notified through the columns of the Peoples to appear before the Court over which our Artful Probate Judge presides, then and there to show cause why our lands should not sell for taxes. I had paid $10 80, and held the Tax Collector's receipt in full of all taxes for 1903.

However, I went in answer to the above referred to notice, and the Artful Judge was in Calera making 4th of July speeches, thereby exhibiting his great patriotism(!), or trying by his smiling and benign countenance and slick tongue to gain votes I will let those who know his artful ways best judge as to his motive.

Does not the Judge think it his duty to have been in Columbiana in his Court? I was there on that day, but could not find any Probate Court before which I could show cause why my land should not sell for taxes, and being on expenses, I decided to pay the amount they needed in their business, and said to them, at the time, that it was not right that I should have it to pay, but if there was any mistake I was willing to pay the honest part of it, but that I was not willing to pay any cost as I was in no wise to blame.

"This great and good Judge"—this very conscientious, precise man, who has been so long looking after the interests of all we poor "working class" says in his card: "If had been there on the 4th, I would have done as Mr. Bird did, referred him to the Tax Collector." I was not notified to appear before the Tax Collector, neither was I notified to appear before Mr. Bird on July 4th He says: "Everybody in the county knows who collects the taxes." Well, that may be so, but everybody in the country does not know who is running the Probate office.

Note that this same Great Omnipresent Judge, who seems to be able to hold court in Columbiana, and at the same time be in Calera making Fourth of July Flag Speeches, and chewing on barbecued ox, admits he was "not here on the 4th, but that Mr Bird did right." Now if he was not in Columbiana on the 4th, I would like to know how he could render a decree of the Probate Court and legally sell all the lands he has advertised for sale. See the Peoples Advocate of July 21st and note his "If I had been there on the fourth"; then on same page, 6th column:

TAX SALE.

"Under and and by virtue of a decree of the Probate Court of said county rendered on the fourth day of July, I will sell your lands to pay taxes, costs and printer's fee," etc., notwithstanding the fact that he was not there.

"Yes, Mr. Bird; don't forget the tax, cost and printer's fee, and don't forget to render that decree for we need the money even if the county is out of debt."

This Omnipresent Judge is the greatest dodger I ever heard of. Even William Tell could never have shot an apple off his head, and he will try to dodge out of this. "He," this Omnipresent Judge, says in his card: "The 4th day of July was set for hearing these cases, but everybody knows that there is but two ways to prevent a sale, and that is by showing that taxes have already been paid. This matter is looked after by the Tax Collector, he was here that day to receive the money."

Now, you see, he says there are two ways, but only gives one of them—failed to give the other way—because he should have been here to attend to the other way.

"I am going to Calera, John, to put up some fences; won't be here to hear causes why lands should not sell for taxes. Collect the taxes and costs, John; and don't forget the printer's fee, WE NEED THE MONEY. indeed we do. THOMAS F. FARRELL.

CALERA.

Not a serious case of sickness in Calera at this time.

Mrs. Francis is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jeffries in Anniston.

Miss Moore, of Birmingham, is visiting her cousin, Miss Laura Oliver.

Mrs. F. W. Gist and children, of Washington, D. C., are expected on a visit, to arrive Thursday.

Mrs. Wesley Hand returned home Thursday, after a three weeks' visit to her parents in Coopers Station.

D. B. Atkins and S. W. Pilgreen have material on the ground for recovering their residences, both on Tenth street.

I have heard of no one who was at the picnic at Dbenezer Saturday. It was not advertised in this bent until Saturday morning, and then it was too late for such as I.

The heaviest rainfall last Wednesday that has fallen here for many months—1⅞ inches, and another almost as heavy Thursday. The wells were nearly dry, but now water is more plentiful.

C. W. Wade's new building north of the Southern is progressing finely. The inside painting is about complete. Material for the floor in the basement is at hand, and counters and shelves ready for the paint brush.

Prof. Glenn spent Sunday at home. He looks well, but a little sunburned. He reports the registrars getting along finely, being almost through with their labors. Will wind up in Columbiana the last of this week.

Uncle J. Levi Crim wants everybody who have friends or neighbors buried at New Salem cemetery, to meet him there with picks, shovels, axes, and rakes on Thursday before the third Sunday in the month—18th—and do a day's work. Uncle Levi is old, can't do it all, but is willing to help. Much work is needed, and everybody—men, women and children should help. Don't forget the day and come early, and we can get through in a day. Ladies can sweep and the little boys can pile brush. Come and bring a lunch.

FORGIVENESS.

Now bury with the dead years conflicts dead,
And with fresh days let all begin anew,
Why longer amid shrivelled leaf drifts tread,
When buds are swelling, flower sheaths peeping through?
Seen through the vista of the vanished years,
How trivial seem the struggle and the crown,
How vain past feuds, when reconciling tears
Course down the channel worn by vanished frown.
How few mean half the bitterness they speak!
Words more than feeling keep us still apart,
And, in the heat of passion and of pique,
The tongue is far more cruel than the heart,
Since love alone makes it worth while to live,
Let all be now forgiven and forgive.
--Alfred Austin, in The Independent.

A Driftwood Fire.

By Kate Whiting Patch.

The widow Carson was on the beach gathering driftwood. It was a raw, gray day. The dull clouds hung low over the waters and the waves beat restlessly against the reefs; a strong salt wind blew the widow's hair into her eyes and wound her scanty garments more closely about the spare figure. She was a slender woman, but the strength of the wind and rocks and sea had crept into her veins; her brown face showed that.

She filled her apron with the driftwood and turned a moment, shading her eyes with her hand, to gaze out to sea. It was a desolate picture: the long wet beach, the dripipng rocks covered with dull-brown sea-weed, the foaming, angry waters breaking on the cruel reefs.

The widow shivered and, drawing her shawl closer about her shoulders, mounted the rocky, winding path that led from the shore to her small, weather-stained house.

As she approached a little face was flattened aginst one of the eastern windows. Seeing it a smile fitted across the woman's eyes, then vanished as though frightened at its own audacity. It was like sunshine in November, that smile, and yet the face was not harsh or stern. There were quivering, tender lines about the mouth, but the joy of youth and summer-time had fled. In her deep eyes lay the shadow of departed gladness.

The widow opened her door and the salt wind rushed in with her, nearly blowing over the golden-haired laddie who ran to meet her with a shout of welcome. She held him for a moment in a closer embrace, then gently put him down and went to the hearth with her armful of drift-wood.

The fire leapt up, and the little boy clapped his hands and laughed gaily, looking up into his mother's face. She smiled again, that rare, fleeting smile, and stroked the sunny head against her knee.

"'Tis a pretty fire, mother," lisped the little voice. "That plank of wood there's the biggest piece. Did the old sea bring that, too, mother?"

"Yes, child," the mother answered; "we would go cold these fall nights but for the wood the old sea brings us." Then she was silent, unconsciously surrendering to the atmosphere of dreams, the enchantment of the wood fire. The little child felt the influence, too, and climbed upon his mother's knee, and both gazed into the heart of the burning driftwood.

The flames sank lower, the light grew more dim, and then for the widow's sad eyes the ruddy embers became a picture gallery.

* * * *

Time slipped backward for her. It was a clear August day; the sun danced in the water, throwing before himelf a path of silver and diamonds. Numberless small white sails gleamed against the blue of sea and sky. A banner of early golden-rod flashed here and there among the rocks. There was not a cloud in the sky. Captain Carson stood at the doorway, ready to start on a long day's fishing cruise.

"Such a day!" he cried, eager to be off. "Come, Polly, wife, the sun's an hour high."

The golden-haired baby, hearing his father's voice, crept out into the sunshine to be caught up in the captain's strong arms and tossed over his head, laughing with glee. Then Polly came out into the sunshine, too, and caught the laughing baby in her arms. Such a glad group; the ruddy father and child so like one another, and the pretty mother with her happy eyes!

Captain Carson strongly embraced wife and child, kissing his Polly's brown cheek. "Good-bye, sweetheart; good-bye, youngster!" he called back gaily as he hurried down the rocky path. "I'll be back ere nightfall."

They stood in the doorway, Polly and the youngster, and watched him launch the dory and set his sail, waving his hand cheerily as he started. Then he sailed away, away from the sunshine into the shadow, out of their lives—forever.

* * * *

The sunshine vanished; the sky grew suddenly dark with angry clouds; the wind rushed up from the horizon, beating the water into restless surf; the waves hurled themselves against the rocks and dashed in boiling foam on the sharp reefs.

The litle child had dropped his toys and fallen asleep, thinking the night had come.

On the sands below the house a woman with clenched hands gazed into the tempest, striving to pierce the darkness with her wild vision. The wind tried to hurl her back, the rain beat on her bare forehead; she did not know. Motionless she stood through the long hours with no thought save one.

The storm abated, the black turned to gray, the sky clearer and a ray of light shot up from the still restless sea.

It fell upon a statue on the sands—a woman who had turned to stone; a fisherman's wife, nay, widow, with dark staring eyes from which the gladness had fled, leaving only a shadow.

* * * *

The driftwood fire flared up again, but the child slept and did not feel the passionate kisses on his cheek. He was too young to see the shadow, too young to miss the strong, tender "daddy" who had tossed him in his arms that long-ago sunny morning; too young to see the pictures in the fire.

The great piece of wood his childish eyes had admired suddenly blazed up and spilt apart, revealing in its ruddy heart the vision of a fishing dory with sail set.

The boy stirred and sleepily raised a small brown head to brush away the hot tears that were falling upon his cheek.

The widow arose and laid the little fellow upon the bed in the next room. Then she returned and stood for a few moments with tightly-clasped hands, gazing into the dying embers before she quietly stooped over and covered them with ashes.

Upon the weather-worn, jagged plank that had just crumbled on the hearth a jacknife had once carved in rude letters the name "Polly."—The Criterion.

THIS IS THE STEEL AGE.

Phenomenal Production and Increase in the United States.

The distinctive iron age has passed and iron has become simply the raw material awaiting conversion into steel, which has become the standard material of construction in all but a few limited classes of work.

In 1786 the Pennsylvania legislature loaned a certain Mr. Humphries the sum of £300 for five years to enable him "to make steel as good as in England." But 25 years later, or in 1810, the total production of pig iron in the United States was only 53,908 tons. In 1842 it had risen to 215,000 tons. In 1861 it was less than 1,000,000 tons and did not reach that mark until about 1864.

In that year the Bessemer converter was brought to the world's notice and at once began the revolution of this great industry. It was of British origin, but soon attracted the enterprise of the steel kings of this country. It was a simple and comparatively inexpensive device, by means of which common cast iron could be converted into steel in a few minutes. Naturally the price began to fall until from steel costing as high as 6 or 7 cents a pound at the close of the century steel billets in lots of 100,000 tons were sold at low as "three pounds of steel for 2 cents." This developed the iron industry by leaps and bounds.

In 1872 the total annual product of pig iron had grown to 2,548,713 tons. In 1880 it was 3,835,191 tons and the following year over 4,000,000. By 1891 it had risen to 8,279,870 tons, and 10 years later 15,878,870 tons, while last year it reached 17,821,307 tons.

But a few years ago the open-hearth process of manufacture began to supersede the Bessemer. It had the advantage for this country that it would work almost equally well with phosphorus and non-phosphorus ores, and while its operation is more costly, it is said to produce a sufficiently better grade of steel to compensate the increased expense, and it is becoming increasingly common to call for open-hearth steel in the more important classes of construction.

The processes of manufacture have become almost magical in their operations. In many of the mills notable for the great tonnage that they turn out in a single day these processes are carried on with such rapidity that the journey through all sorts of transformation to the finished product, over 1000 feet or more, is accompanied with a single heat. In spite of all the steel made in this country we have imported large quantities to meet a deficit, yet, on the other hand, it must be remembered that large quantities have been exported and sold to foreigners at a lower price than to American citizens.

Gen. Hawley on the "Best Soldier."

"Who make the best soldiers?" inquired a Hartford man of Gen. Joseph R. Hawley when Senator Hawley was stopping at the Hartford Club.

"Who make the best soldiers?" repeated Gen. Hawley, reflectively. "You mean what kind of men make the best soldiers, I suppose," and the interrogator said that was precisely what he meant.

"Well, I will tell you that it was my experience that no kind of men made the best soldiers, and I mean by that that the best soldiers came from all the walks of life, and were of all kinds and conditions. When I was captain I had a great towering private that was a swearing, frenzied creature in battle, absolutely fearless, and I had another soldier, a little fellow not more than seventeen years old who looked like a girl, and the little chap was as calm and brave a soldier as ever went into an engagement.

"He was wounded in one battle, and I saw him drag himself to a stream. There he washed his wounded leg, bound it up with bandages made from his shirt, and he came back proudly to the firing line, where he stayed all day. There were many men of special bravery in every company, and those who were cowardly were few, as my experience in the war taught me."—Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

"Japs" Excel as Interpreters.

In the matter of interpreters the Japanese must possess an enormous advantage over the Russians, for with that passion for detail which is the secret of her success Japan has for years past given naval and military officers special facilities for acquiring the Muscovite tongue. Russian is admittedly the most difficult of all European languages to master, and Japanese, though not perhaps involving so many perplexities to the western mind as Chinese can be spoken with ease only after years of study, while the writing of it takes even longer. Should Japanese despatches fall into the hands of Russians there are probably few among her forces who would be able to decipher them, and for this neglect, coupled no doubt with a certain disdain for a "barbarian" tongue, Russia is likely to pay dearly before the war is over.—London Chronicle.

To Napoleon III belongs the credit of being the first to have ships plated with iron, the first seaworthy craft of this description being the French vessel Gloire, launched in 1860.

WIRE ROPE IN POMPEII.

Ancients Manufactured It Before The Christian Era.

After taking a survey of things about him King Solomon was moved to record the assertion that there is nothing new under the sun. Modern inventors have at times been inclined to question the truth of the remark, but almost every day the world finds verification. The engineer of the present day thinks he knows much more than his ancient brother, and, while this is true in many things, it frequently happens that an invention or appliance commonly believed to belong to modern times is found to have been known and used centuries ago, says the Chicago Chronicle.

Ropes made of various kinds of fibre and leather are of very ancient date. Ropes of palm have been found in Egypt in the tombs of Beni-Hassan (about 3000 B. C.), and on the walls of these tombs is also shown the process of preparing hemp.

In a tomb at Thebes of the time of Thotmes III. (about 1600 B. C.) is a group representing the process of twisting thongs of leather and the method of cutting the leather into thongs. The Bible tells us that Samson was bound with ropes and that the spies sent by Joshua into Jericho were let down in a basket, presumably by means of a rope.

At Nimrod, Assyria, a carved slab showing the siege of a castle was found, on which a soldier was represented in the act of cutting a rope to which a bucket for drawing water from a well outside the castle walls was attached.

The wire rope is generally considered a modern invention, a product of modern skill, and it will surprise many to learn that its manufacture is really a rediscovered lost art.

Although the Assyrians practised the art of wire-beating, no evidence has been found to indicate that they used wire for making rope.

The excavations at Pompeii have, however, brought to light a piece of bronze wire rope nearly 15 feet long and about one inch in circumference. This rope is now in the Musio Borbonico at Naples. It consists of three strands laid spirally together, each strand being made up of 15 wires twisted together, and its construction does not, therefore, differ greatly from that of the wire ropes today. Pompeii was buried A. D. 79, over 1800 years ago, but how long wire ropes had been known it is impossible to tell, though, judging by the knowledge shown in the construction, it may be safely concluded that they had been known for a considerable time. The uses to which these ropes were put are not definitely known, but further excavations may shed some light on the subject.

Our Customers.

John Bull is the best cutomer. In 1903 the exports to Great Britain amounted to $768,000,000, the imports from it to the United tates to $308,000,000. Fifty-two percent of American exports, thirty-one percent of American imports. A billion-dollar business. Next, by a very long interval, comes Germany, which took $225,000,000 of American goods and sent to the United States $122,000,000. True, our exports to Germany have risen from $88,000,000 in 1893, an increase of more than one hundred and fifty percent, while our exports to Great Britain have risen only 30 percent. The American exports to France were $88,000,000, a gain of $31,000,000 since 1893; and the imports $80,000,000, a gain of $16,000,000. Little Holland took $73,000,000 of our exports. To Asia our exports, $20,000,000 in 1893, were $46,000,000 in 1903; the imports swelled in the same time from $75,000,000 to $139,000,000. But look at something nearer home. Canada, regarded as a separate country and not as part of Great Britain, would be third among the customers. She imported $131,000,000 of American goods, an increase of one hundred and thirty percent since 1893; and our imports from Canada grew from thirty-four to fifty-three millions. Our nearest-by customers should not be overlooked in the chase of the Asian market.—Everybody's Magazine.

The Wrong Man.

When Brander Matthews went to his club one evening, not long ago, according to the Bookman, he went to the letter-box, and looked through the compartment marked "M," and found therein a very peremptory dun from a tailor. Mr. Matthews was puzzled, as he had no dealings with the insistent tailor, until he again looked at the envelope and found that he had unwittingly opened a letter belonging to another member of the club; so he put the bill back in the envelope and returned it to the compartment. As Mr. Matthews was turning to go, he noticed the member for whom the bill was intended coming toward the letter-box. A minute later he came into the reading room, where Mr. Matthews was sitting with several others. Taking from its envelope the bill, he read it attentively for a few minutes, sighed, tore it into bits, then with a wink and the leer of an invincbile conqueror, commented: "Poor, silly little girl."

Lesson Children Learn From Flies.

It was in a country school, and I was hearing my little second reader class. The lesson that day was a story about flies, their curious ways and habits. Among other things the story said that flies always kept their faces clean, and then went on to tell how they rubbed their feet over their heads, as could be seen by watching them.

The last thing in the lesson was the question: "What lessons can boys and girls learn from the flies?" I asked the children to answer the question. Only one small boy ventured to answer, and that was: "To wash our faces with our feet."—Christian Register.

It is well known that Japan is a very small country as compared with the Russian empire. Its area is 147,000 square miles, while Russia has 3,000,000. In population the disparity is much less, but still very great—44,000,000 for Japan against 129,000,000 for the Russian Empire.

CHIEF OF POLICE SAVED.

Newberry, S. C.—W. H. Harris, Chief of Police of Newberry, says: "I suffered for a number of years with kidney complaint. There was a dull aching across the small of my back that was worse at night and made me feel miserable all the time. The kidney secretions were dark and full of sediment, and lack of control compelled me to rise a number of times during the night. Between this annoyance and the backache it was impossible for me to get much sleep and my health was being undermined. I tried a number of remedies, but nothing helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of this remedy according to directions promptly brought about a change for the better. After using two boxes the backache all left me, the kidney secretions cleared up and the action of the kidneys became normal."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Chief Harris will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

The surviving staff officers of the confederacy shrunk one-half in number during the past decade, and their disappearance now has become very rapid.

One of the most highly prized relics in the British museum is the crown formerly used by the Irish kings in the cornation exercises which made them monarchs of the Emerald Isle. Strictly speaking, there were two of these Irish crowns, the one in question being that used by the MacMurroughs, a family who were anciently kings of Leinston. This regal relic, all that remains of the old Irish monarchy, is a plain gold band, rising to a kind of peak or point in front. It dates back to the middle of the tenth century.

The venom of the cobra contains an ingredient not well known that acts upon the nerves. Its effects are rapid and difficult to counteract. This ingredient exists in the cobra's venom to a greater extent than the other substances that make up the poison. The poison of the viperine and crotaline snakes (the rattle snakes, copperhead, moccasin, etc.) contains but a small percentage of this nerve-destroying (or paralyzing) element. The poison of these snakes acts principally upon the blood and in consequence its action is slower.—St. Nicholas.

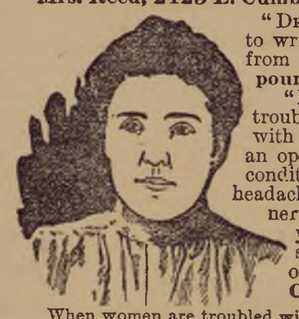
Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, who witnessed her signature to the following letter, praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know. I wish such women knew the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in action from any I ever knew and thoroughly reliable.

"I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit, who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it."—MRS. R. A. ANDERSON, 225 Washington St., Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Reed, 2425 E. Cumberland St., Philadelphia, Pa., says:



"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write and tell you the good I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I have been a great sufferer with female trouble, trying different doctors and medicines with no benefit. Two years ago I went under an operation, and it left me in a very weak condition. I had stomach trouble, backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, and was very nervous; in fact, I ached all over. I find yours is the only medicine that reaches such troubles, and would cheerfully recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass, as thousands do. Her advice is free and helpful.

No other medicine for women in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

DR. WOOLLEY'S OPIUM AND WHISKY ANTIDOTE
Will cure permanently at your own home.
Mr. T. M. Brown, of DeQueen, Ark., says: "Over seven years ago I was cured of the opium habit by your medicine, and have continued in the very best of health since."
Mr. W. M. Tunstall, of Lovingston, Va., says: "I am glad to say that I firmly believe that I am entirely and permanently cured of the Drink Habit, as I have never even so much as wanted a drink in any form since I took your eradicator, now 18 months ago. It was the best money I ever invested."
Mrs. Virginia Townsend, of Shreveport, La., writes: "No more opium. I have taken no other remedy than yours, and I make no mistake when I say that my health is better now than it ever was in my life, and I owe it to you and your remedy. It has been twelve years since I was cured by your treatment."
Dr. Woolley has thousands of such testimonials, with permission to use them. A treatment with so many recommendations from Physicians and cured patients must be good.
Dr. Woolley's Antidote has imitators, (as all good articles have)—perhaps you have tried some of them, but there is nothing like Woolley's. It has stood the test of thirty years. No man or woman who uses opium or whisky in any form, or who has friends so afflicted should hesitate to write to

ST. LOUIS "HAS THE GOODS."

NEW YORK WRITER FINDS WORLD'S :: FAIR BEYOND EXPECTATIONS ::

Addison Steele, After a Week at the Exposition, Expresses Amazement at Many Features---St. Louis Cool and Prices Reasonable.

MR. ADDISON STEELE, a well-known newspaper and magazine writer, of New York, recently spent a week at the World's Fair. Returning home, he wrote the following appreciative account of his impressions for Brooklyn Life, which should convince any reader that it is worth his while to see this greatest of expositions:

In the expressive language of the day, St. Louis "has the goods." I had expected much of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, for I had kept in touch with the making of it from its very inception, five years ago; but after nearly a week of journeying through this new wonderland I must confess that in every essential particular it is far beyond my expectations. The biggest and best it was meant to be and the biggest and best it is. The exposition, rumors notwithstanding, is quite finished.

Those who imagine that the Columbian Exposition remains the last word in the way of a world's fair should remember that eleven years have rolled by since Chicago invited all the nations of the earth to come within her gates. These having been years of remarkable progress the mere fact that it is up to date would place the Louisiana Purchase Exposition ahead of not only the Columbian Exposition of 1893 but the Paris Universal Exposition of 1900—the only other world's fair of the period mentioned. The great development of horseless vehicles, certain wonderful advances in the field of electricity, the wireless telegraph, the submarine boat and the practicable flying machine—all of which are special features at St. Louis—are, for instance, matters of the period since the Chicago event. To my mind, however, the one distinctive feature which places it ahead of all other world's fairs is the comprehensive Philippine exhibit. Ahead also of any previous showing are the individual buildings of eight of the foreign nations and, taking everything into consideration, the architectural and landscape gardening achievements are greater—as they ought to be with the world older.

One of the greatest, and certainly one of the most agreeable, of my many surprises was the supreme beauty of the main group of buildings. For the simple reason that the camera does not exist which could take in the vast picture as the eye sees it, the early views of the group—a bit here and a bit there—gave a scant idea of the scheme as a whole. Nor did the early views of the ten individual buildings which make up its component parts do justice to their nobility of architecture and general grandeur. Then again in the ground plans and bird's-eye sketches—the only possible manner of showing it—the fan-shaped arrangement of this group looked stiff and unsatisfying. Far from that it is quite as remarkable in its way as the famous Court of Honor of the Columbian Exposition. In one respect it is even more notable, for instead of two grand vistas it offers a dozen. The main vista is, of course, the one looking up the Plaza of St. Louis — whose crowning feature is the great Louisiana Purchase Monument—and across the Grand Basin to the Cascade Gardens. On the right are the Varied Industries and Electricity buildings and on the left the Manufactures and Education, these—with Transportation and Machinery still further to the right and Liberal Arts and Mines beyond at the left—making up the body of the fan. For its handle the fan has the Cascade Gardens—rising in a grand terrace to a height of sixty-five feet above the floor level of the buildings mentioned and crowned by the great Festival Hall, the Terrace of States and the East and West Pavilions—and the Fine Arts building directly behind.

In the architecture of the group there is no uniformity of style. The very liberal use of great columns gives the four buildings fronting on the Plaza and Basin a certain architectural kinship, but the Mines building, with its two huge obelisks and somewhat Egyptian aspect; the much-turreted and belfried Machinery building; the highly ornate Transportation building, with its gigantic arches and pylons, and the Romanesque Liberal Arts building have pronounced individuality. Yet in the general picture all these buildings blend finely. Nor is there any clashing in the case of the French Ionic style of the buildings of Cascade Gardens. Twelve handsome bridges across the waterways, which form a figure eight by running from the Grand Basin around the Electricity and Education buildings, further contribute to the architectural splendor of the scene.

Rows of fine, large maples set off the buildings in the main vista, adding immeasureably to the beauty of the picture and furnishing one of the many demonstrations of the superiority of this exposition in the matter of landscape gardening. There are also many trees to set off the other buildings of the group, shrubbery and small trees have been used in profusion around the entrances and the bridges and there are handsome sunken gardens in two places. The landscape treatment of Cascade Hill is similarly fine.

The Philippine section covers no less than forty-seven acres, has 100 buildings and some 75,000 catalogued exhibits, and represents an outlay of over a million dollars. A week could easily be spent there to advantage. Entrance to the section is free, but twenty-five cents is charged to go into each of the four native villages, which are intensely interesting. The villages run along Arrowhead Lake, and the inhabitants all have some way of entertaining their visitors. The Igorottes, who wear as little clothing as the law of even savage lands allow; Bontocs, Tinganues and Suyocs are in one village; the lake-dwelling Moros and Bogobos in another; the black Negritos in the third and the civilized Visayans, who have a Catholic Church and a theatre, in the fourth. As a matter of education this great encampment of the "little brown men" is one thing that no American can afford to miss.

★ ★ ★

Eight of the numerous buildings of foreign nations would alone form an exposition worth the journey from New York to St. Louis. Germany's building, Das Deutsche Haus, is a reproduction of Charlottenburg Schloss, 450 feet long and finely located on an eminence overlooking Cascade Gardens. The interior as well as the exterior is a faithful reproduction of the palace; Gobelin tapestries, the old Charlottenburg furniture and the Kaiser's wedding silver having been brought over for the superb apartments. Nearly a mile to the westward France has reproduced, at a cost of half a million dollars, the Grand Trianon, the building and great garden covering fifteen acres. Great Britain has a copy of the banqueting hall of Kensington Palace; Japan, the Shishinden Palace, one of several buildings in a characteristic park, and China, the country seat of Prince Pu Lun. Italy has a superb Graeco-Roman temple, Austria an architectural glorification of Moderne Kunst, and Belgium a magnificent structure from an original design. Lesser reproduction of note are the tomb of Etmad-Dowlah, by East India, and the new Bangkok temple, by Siam.

The Pike has in the Tyrolean Alps the finest concession that I have ever seen. There is a great square with many quaint buildings, a little village street, and above the snow-clad mountains—which look very real as the evening falls. The best scenic railroad yet devised affords several fine glimpses of the Alps, and there is a very graphic exposition of the Oberammergau passion play in the little church. The Cliff Dwellers' concession also looks very realistic at nightfall. It is elaborate in arrangement, and the courting, snake and other dances by the Southwestern Indians make it another of the Pike shows which should be taken in by all. In Seville there is an amusing marionette theatre and some genuine Spanish dancing. For the rest the Pike offers infinite variety, and as a rule the full money's worth is given. The enormous Jerusalem and Boer War concessions are not on the Pike.

It is a case of dine at the German Pavilion and die at the Exposition. In a beautiful Moderne Kunst building adjoining Das Deutsche Haus the best food and the highest prices on the grounds are to be found, the table d'hote lunch and dinner costing $2 and $3, respectively. There is also a la carte service. Everything considered the prices are not excessive, and at least one meal should be taken there for the experience. Another should be taken at the Tyrolean Alps, either outdoors or in the gorgeous dining room in the mountainside. The best French restaurant is at Paris, on the Pike. Lower in prices and in every way admirable are the two restaurants conducted by Mrs. Rorer in the pavilions of Cascade Gardens. The east one has waitresses and no beer and the west one waiters and beer. For a bit of lunch Germany, France and England all offer delicious pastry in the Agricultural building. These are not free ads., but time-saving tips for the traveler. There are no end of restaurants to fit all purses on the grounds.

PALACE OF MINES AND METALLURGY.

GOLDEN CHAINS.

M. Max Regis Wore Golden Handcuffs For Years.

It will be remembered, says the Westminster Gazette, that some years ago M. Max Regis was presented by a group of lady admirers with a pair of golden handcuffs, in commemoration of his arrest and imprisonment in the great cause of Nationalism. The Anti-Semite swore that he would wear the manacles as souvenir bracelets for the remainder of his life. For some time he kept his promise, and then it was observed that he had abandoned his decorative fetters. Why? Was it infidelity to the cause, or what? People wondered, and could get no satisfactory answer, until a few days ago there was a public sale of unredeemed pledges from the Mont de Piete. The golden handcuffs (weighing forty-five grammes) were included in the catalogue, M. Regis having deposited them with "ma tante" to relieve a temporary indigence, and having neglected to recover them. To complete the irony of the situation, they were purchased by a Hebrew, who now wears them in the streets of Algiers and exhibits them to all his friends.

Cuban Canteloupes.

American fruit growers and market gardeners have been experimenting with many varieties of fruits and vegetables in Cuba, to learn what may be most profitably produced there for the American markets. One result of this has been fine Cuban canteloupes in the New York market the last week in April of the present year, and more all through May. They are of good quality, and the business is likely to be developed, thus adding another month to the canteloupe season.—Country Life in America.

ONE HUNDRED FOR AN EGG.

An Indian Game Fowl That is Very Valuable.

Not often does the price of a single egg climb to $100, but this is what was offered for each of the eggs of a certain Indian game hen, which was brought to England some time ago.

For centuries the Indian game, or Azeel fowls, have been the very apex of the game breed, for the pureness of blood and pedigree have been most carefully preserved for so long that the date of the origin of the race has been lost in the past.

It is almost impossible to procure specimens of the purest blood, for they are treasured by the Indian sportsman at the highest value.

As game fowl they are great fighters. Those who have seen them in India—for the finest birds never reach our colder climates—tell of their prowess and ungovernable tenacity in battle. With them it is always victory or death.

In America, however, the game fowls are seldom raised for fighting purposes, but for show, and as pets and hobbies of poultry fanciers.—Country Life in America.

Japanese Patriotism.

On every gateway is posted a red slab where a man has gone to the war, marked "Gone to the front"—to be supplanted with a black one—"Bravery forever"—should he be brought home dead. And when he is brought home dead his body is received at the station by his kin with proud faces and no tears. The Roman mother has come back to earth again, and it is the Japanese mother who makes Japan the high priestess among the nations of the world.—John Fox, Jr., in Scribner's Magazine.

THE SILENCE OF BUTTERFLIES.

This Insect Represents a Truly Silent World.

After all, the chief charm of this race of winged flowers does not lie in their varied and brilliant beauty, not yet in their wonderful series of transformations, in their long and sordid caterpillar life, their long slumber in the chrysalis, or the very brief period which comprises their beauty, their love making, their parentage and their death. Nor does it lie in the fact that we do not yet certainly know whether they have in the caterpillar shape the faculty of sight or not, and do not even know the precise use of their most conspicuous organ in maturity, the antennae. Nor does it consist in this—that they of all created things have furnished man with the symbol of his own immortality. It rather lies in the fact that, with all their varied life and activity, they represent an absolutely silent world. * * * All the vast array of modern knowledge has found no butterfly which murmurs with an audible voice and only a few species which can even audibly click or rustle with their wings.—T. W. Higginson, in Atlantic.

A Long Locomotive Trip.

George Gould's recent trip over 4000 miles of his various railroads was made with one engine, the same man being at the throttle all the way. The engineer was E. J. Hadlock, who some four years ago made the run from El Paso to Texarkana without leaving his locomotive. The average running time of Mr. Gould's trip was sixty miles an hour, eighty miles being covered in that time frequently. "Kid" Hadlock, as he is known, is forty-two years old, and since the age of twenty has been with the Texas & Pacific.

RUSSIANS IN RETREAT

Outnumbered by the Japanese They are Driven Back Toward Liao Yang

THERMOMETER REGISTERED 110.

Japanese Constantly Landing Reinforcements at New Chwang—Successor to Von Plehve.

After two days' fighting General Kuroki has defeated the Russian forces in two separate actions fought at Yushulikzu and the Yangze Pass.

General Kuroki has administered defeat to the Russian forces which defended the Russian right flank at Liao Yang, winning separate actions at Yushulikzu and Yangse Pass. These two places are twenty-six miles apart, but the two actions were fought at the same time. The thermometer registered 110 degrees Fahrenheit, and the soldiers suffered from heat and exhaustion.

Kuropatkin reports his retreat.

One report says the Japanese have also occupied Hai Cheng on the Mukden road.

It is reported that M. Muravieff, the minister of justice, will succeed M. von Plehve, late minister of the interior.

Squadron Returns.

The Vladivostok cruiser division returned to port. The cruisers were in perfect condition. They captured during their cruise the steamer Arabic and destroyed some schooners, a Japanese, one German and one British steamer. The last mentioned two were carrying contraband material and had nearly reached their destination, Yokohama, but were almost without coal, and it was therefore impossible to send them to Vladivostok.

Cotton of 1902.

The department of agriculture has published facts relating to the marketing of the crop of cotton grown in 1902. That crop in Alabama was 988,284 bales, of which 201,303 bales were purchased by Alabama mills. Pensacola handled 191,942 bales of the crop; Savannah 185,522 bales and Mobile got by rail and river 105,791 bales of it. Nearly 70,000 bales of the crop were carried by rail to New England mills. The value of the crop grown in Alabama in 1902 is put by the department of agriculture at $40,407,968.

New Staff Officers.

The following new officers have been commissioned by Governor Vardaman to serve on the staff of Major General Kessler, commander of the Mississippi National Guard: C. W. Crockett, Greenwood, captain and aide de camp; W. H. Hamner, Greenwood, lieutenant colonel and assistant paymaster general; A. C. Yerger, Greenwood, captain and aide de camp.

Running Trains by Telephone.

The strike of the telegraph operators on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway is on in full force. Many small stations, where operators act as agents have been closed. The management of the railroad claims to be running passenger and other trains on practically schedule time, using long distance telephone in transmitting train orders.

Miss Jane Clemens, daughter of Mark Twain, was hurt in a runaway. She was thrown and suffered a fracture of the right ankle, besides several bruises. The horse was so severely injured that he had to be killed.

Bishop Opens Saloon.

Bishop Henry C. Potter delivered the principal address at the formal opening of the "subway tavern," a model saloon in New York, which was established by a number of leaders in the reform movement. The purpose is to serve pure liquor and food for low prices under the present moral conditions.

Storm Damage.

In a severe rain storm Monday which visited Chattanooga one man was killed by lightning and property valued at least at $10,000 was damaged. The extent of this storm can not be ascertained. Reports from the surrounding territory indicate that the damage has been equally severe. It is feared the peach crop, which is now ripening, may have been seriously injured by the heavy rain.

Judge Emory Speer has granted an injunction restraining the sale of the Birmingham and Brunswick railroad, which was to take place Tuesday at Brunswick.

The Alabama Paper Box company, established two weeks ago at Anniston, has increased its daily output to 1,000 boxes. It is now at work on an order for 50,000 boxes for the Anniston Knitting Mill and a 25,000 box order for a knitting mill in Talladega. The concern furnishes employment to twenty-five people.

Archibald Henderson has been chosen secretary of the Commercial Club of Anniston to succeed W. T. Owen, resigned.

COTTON PICKING BEGINS.

Growth Has Been Rapid—Corn Crop Good—Conditions Improved.

The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says:

Coton has made good growth in the central and eastern portions of the cotton belt, too rapid growth being reported from portions of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. Complaints of rust and shedding are more general than in the previous week in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida.

Shedding is also generally reported from Texas, where most of the crop would be benefited by rains, drouth being most serious in the north central counties. Much of the crop in Mississippi and Louisiana is grassy. Picking continues in southern Texas, where it is expected to be general by the middle of August, and has begun in Alabama and Florida.

Corn has experienced a week of favorable temperature, and while needing rain in portions of the central Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the crop as a whole has made good progress.

MRS. GENERAL MILES DEAD.

Succumbed to Heart Disease Monday night at West Point.

Mrs. Nelson A. Miles, died at West Point, N. Y., Monday night of heart disease. She and General Miles had been visiting their son, Sherman, who is a student at the military academy. General Miles was not present at the time of his wife's death.

Mrs. Miles was the daughter of Judge Charles Sherman and a niece of the late Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, and General William T. Sherman.

Whites Only.

The Mississippi state election commission, which is composed of the governor, secretary of state and attorney general, will at its next meeting use a different method of choosing county electors. Heretofore it has been customary to place a negro on the commission in some of the delta counties where there are no white republicans, as the law requires that the republican party be represented, but the state commission has decided this year to have no negroes on any county commission. They will continue the custom of having one republican and two democrats.

Killed by Lightning.

During a thunder storm Monday lightning struck Newt Arnold and his wife, killing him instantly and injuring her so severely that she may die. Mr. Arnold was standing on the front porch at his home near Cox's creek, near Florence, and his wife was near him. Both fell off the porch.

Lightning struck Eugene Davis Sunday afternoon at Blossburg, killing him instantly. His wife was with him at the time and was also injured, her lower limbs being paralyzed. When struck Mr. Davis and his wife were sitting at the window watching the storm.

Going to Bull Run.

Adjutant General Brandon, of the Alabama National Guard, has reported to General Corbin that he will raise a provisional regiment of 860 enlisted men and sixty officers to go to the Manassas maneuvers. He also asked that a number of officers be placed in any position in order that they may get the benefit of the instruction and better fit themselves for the discharge of their duties.

It is understood that General Brandon is to be the colonel of the provisional regiment and that he will have the selection of the officers under him.

Another semi-monthly payment of $500,000 of the government loan was made by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company

A new directory of Jackson, Miss., has been published. It gives the city's population including that of the immediate suburbs at 23,878, or the actual count of the citizens living in the city proper is estimated at 19,078, which is an increase of more than twice the number given by the directory heretofore.

Farmer Kills Lawyer.

Irving Henderson, a prominent farmer, shot and killed Thomas M. Tann, a lawyer, on the streets of DeKalb Seat in Kemper county, Miss., Monday afternoon. Henderson fired three times, one bullet striking Tann in the heart and two in the shoulder. There were no witnesses to the killing. Henderson claims self defense. He is in jail. Both are very prominent.

Sixty-five miles in one afternoon was the record made by a Florence livery stable horse Sunday afternoon, and the animal is suffering with brain fever. Will Abernathy, a clerk in a grocery store, hired a rig from a local stable and started on a mad chase.

Since the opening of Beauvoir as a soldiers' home in Mississippi there have been forty-five entries, some of the number being sick beyond medical relief, and only three have died. Several new applications are in the hands of the officers awaiting investigation.

A new peach to be known as the Vulcan has been produced in the state.

Pratt City schools will open September 14th.

MISSISSIPPI BONDS

Have Not Been Called For by the Purchasers.

N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, the firm that purchased the $500,000 3 1-2 per cent bond issues from the state of Mississippi several weeks ago, have not yet called for the bonds, and the state is getting a little uneasy in spite of the fact that a certified check for one-tenth the issue was deposited with the bid and is held as a guarantee of good faith. Bankers about over the state have received circulars from Harris & Co. offering their bonds as an investment, and it is supposed that they will come across with the cash in a short while. In the meantime the school teachers of the state are waiting for their money.

The board of trustees of the University of Mississippi held a meeting Saturday. At the June meeting of the board three vacancies on the faculty were left, and this special meeting was for the purpose of filling them. Professors J. W. Johnston, A. L. Bondurant and Dabney Lipscomb were the members of the faculty who failed of re-election, and they were present asking for reinstatement.

Professors Bondurant and Johnston were re-instated. Lipscomb was not re-elected. Just what the charge against him was is not stated.

Professor Bishop, of Millsaps college, was selected to fill the chair of English.

Indians are Starving.

An appeal was made to President Roosevelt Saturday by a committee representing the Presbyterian board of home missions in behalf of the Pima Indians in Arizona, who are said to be perishing because the waters of the Gila river have been diverted from their reservation. The Indians, who number about 5,000, are said to be on the verge of starvation because of failure of their crops. The president promised to consider the matter, which has been before the interior department for a long time.

Injured by Explosion.

As the result of an accident at the furnaces three negroes were severely burned with molten pig iron and Hoke Perkins narrowly escaped serious and perhaps fatal injuries. One of the large pots in which the molten metal is carried to the casting machine was turned half over, in order to clean out the accumulation in the bottom, when a slight explosion occurred which spattered the molten metal.

Mississippi Buttons.

Samples of the buttons made by the Aberdeen, Miss., button factory are shown. They are made from mussle shells taken from the Tombigbee river and the lakes in that section of the state, and it is said that several of the fishermen have found pearls worth goodly sums while opening the shells.

Addition to Saw Mill.

At Huntsville the Lowe Manufacturing Company's new addition will be 50x140 feet and will contain 10,000 new spindles, making in all for this company 26,000 spindles.

Friday marked the termination of the agreement which was made by the powers at The Hague peace conference prohibiting the use of balloons for hurling explosives during a period of five years. Russia and Japan signed this agreement.

A fertilizer factory to cost $1,500,000 is to be established at Fairfield, Fla.

The treasury department received a check for $2,886,554.51 from the Central Pacific railroad company. This is in payment of twenty notes given by the railroad in settlement of its indebtedness to the government. The arrival of this check, together with the receipts from customs of over $1,000,000 and the ordinary income made the total treasury receipts for the day $4,907,101, while the expenditures were $1,247,000.

The Southern railway has surveyors in the field locating the line of a new railroad between Itta Bena and Belzoni, Miss. The work of construction will begin in a few weeks and will be rushed to completion.

The assassin of Minister of the Interior Von Plehve is said to have made a partial confession in which he declared that at one time he was a school teacher in a rural district and was greatly interested in the Zemstvo, for the curtailment of whose powers he blamed the dead minister. He still absolutely refuses to disclose his name. A watch is kept on him day and night, not only to prevent his doing himself bodily harm, but in the belief that he may betray himself in his sleep.

ALABAMA NEWS.

John Yarbrough, who operates a saw mill above Ashville, came near losing his life while filing a saw. He was seated on a bench and in moving around the plank slipped. He fell through an opening and was precipitated into the creek twenty feet below. He struck a mud sill in falling and wrenched his back and was rendered unconscious while his head was beneath the water.

At Gadsden, Ala., the board of education of the public schools met for the purpose of electing a successor to A. K. McKennie as principal of the high school, Professor McKennie having been elected to a place in the schools of Montgomery. Professor C. H. Webster, of La Pine, was elected to the place and he will assume charge during the coming term.

It is practically certain that Gadsden's new steamboat will be completed and ready for service by October 1st. The work on the boat has been pushed with vigor and the only thing that has occasioned delay has been the lack of raw material. The boat will be ready for the cotton season.

Andrew Martin, the negro who made an assault on Motorman B. C. Waller, of the South Bessemer car line, has been arrested. He is suffering with a severe wound on the back of the head, made, it is charged, by Conductor Sorrell, who used an iron switch rod as he escaped from the car.

The annual reunion of Confederate Veterans of Calhoun, Etowah and adjoining counties, at Schenck's Springs, will occur on the 10th and 11th of August. The veterans of Etowah will hold their annual county reunion at Moore's Springs, August 17th and 18th.

A freight train was wrecked Sunday morning on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, three miles sorth of Boyles. Nine cars were ditched The engine was not derailed. A negro brakeman named Turner Cleveland was killed.

The baseball injunction was practically dissolved by Judge Sayre and ball will be played at Highland park, Montgomery, the remainder of the season unless the Montgomery Traction company further interferes.

The foundations of the Butler-Kyser oil mills, Huntsville, have been laid and the contractors will rush the main structure to completion at once. Several of the frame buildings have already been built.

Several gentlemen standing on a store porch near Bessemer were shocked by a stroke of lightning that struck near by. Strange to say every one in the party felt the shock in the left foot and side.

The Southern Manufacturing Company of Gadsden has been awarded the contract to furnish the columns, sash, doors and frames for the big cotton mill now being erected at Jacksonville.

The $10,000,000 bond issue by the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company was affirmed Monday by the board of directors and stockholders of the company.

Alex Marsh, a negro miner, was blown up by a premature explosion of powder at the mines at Argo. His body is badly mangled all over and he will probably die.

The members of company F, Huntsville, have employed counsel to prevent the military authorities from mustering them out if possible.

Great actors will probably continue to be as exceptional as ever, but if the present relations between church and stage continue there seems no reason why all the actors shouldn't eventually be good.

According to the latest and most authoritative reports the total number of Japanese Christians in 1902 was 129,134, of whom 46,000 were Protestants, 26,080 Greek Catholics and 55,824 Roman Catholics. In addition to these are thousands of children who are not included in the reports of the Protestant churches, so that the total number will easily be 200,000 for the whole empire. This, indeed, is only a small percentage in a population of 45,000,000; yet it represents a great achievement when it is remembered that it is the work of a single generation. It is barely thirty years since the law punishing persons for becoming Christians was abrogated, and the public warnings against Christianity as the "wicked sect" were taken down from the bulletin boards.

THE JOINT DISCUSSION.

The reason given by Democrats why a joint discussion should not be entered into at all during the campaign—that they would engender strife and possibly personal difficulties—shows this early in the campaign that the Democrats were right in their claims:

At Spring Creek (beat 2) last Thursday, the high sheriff of Shelby county became involved in a dispute and wrangle with Judge McMillan during the speech of the latter, and Mr. Cox climbed upon the platform in a belligerant manner, and only desisted upon the importunities of friends of the Sheriff. It is only fair to say that after returning to Columbiana Mr. Cox called Judge McMillan into his office and apologized for the way in which he had treated McMillan. The apology was accepted in the spirit that any gentleman will display in accepting an apology from one who had wronged him. The Sentinel mentions the episode merely to show that the position taken by the Democrats in opposing a joint discussion was the correct one.

Some two or three hundred people gathered at Spring Creek, among whom were quite a number of the South's prettiest flowers—beautiful womanhood.

A. H. Merrell was made chairman, and before the discussion was entered into prayer was offered by Rev. Joshua Davis which shows that the good people there have high and ennobling ideas, and believe in looking to the God of the Universe for guidance.

The people listened attentively and showed a decided interest in what was said. Judge McMillan gave a clear and unmistakable exposition of the present administration of the county. Especially did he dwell upon the unjust taxes heaped upon the people of this county by the populist administration, and which had been illegally levied and collected from the common people of the county by that administration, while the rich railroads legally evaded payment of the unconstitutional, therefore illegal, levy by carrying the matter into the courts. Thus had the common people been made, by the populist administration, to pay an illegal and an unjust tax because they were not financially able to contest it in the courts. Judge McMillan backed up his argument by a decision of the Supreme Court upon just such a levy in which that high tribunal says the levy is illegal because it exceeds constitutional law.

Then taking up the road machinery matter he read the contract for the same, signed by the Probate Judge of Shelby County (not a "trial" order) and which probably entails upon this county a debt of over seven thousand dollars. That it is a straight out contract, with but one provision, the instrument itself shows; the only provision of the contract is that the machinery shall do work as warranted. Judge McMillan then read a letter, which Judge Longshore admitted he wrote, wherein Judge Longshore says the road machinery is the best he ever saw for building roads, and freely recommends it to all who may desire to purchase road machinery. Another letter, signed by Judge Longshore and Commissioners Kendrick and Shaw, and which Judge Longshore, with some reluctance, admitted was true, was read by Judge McMillan which asked the agent of the Good Roads Machinery Co. to not press this claim because of political dissensions in the county.

Judge McMillan then took up the financial affairs of the county, and conclusively proved by the records that the condition of the county was better under Democratic administration with a three mill tax rate, than it is under a populist administration with a seven mill tax rate. Judge McMillan's speech was an arraignment, backed up with facts, of the populist party which cannot be successfully refuted to the satisfaction of a fair minded people.

Judge Longshore, in replying, attempted to justify every act of his his administration, and his remarks were based principally upon his own assertions and opinions. He held that the tax levies were legal in the face of the decisions of the Circuit and Supreme Courts; said the reason for his thinking so was because the road tax levy was made in January and the levy for general purposes was made in June of the same year. This statement in the face of Constitutional law which says the tax levy for county purposes shall not exceed five per centum, or five mills. The levy for road purposes, special levy, and which Judge Longshore says was made in January, was for two mills; the levy in June was four mills—a total of six mills, which is one mill in excess of Constitutional law, and consequently is illegal, and the Supreme Court has so held.

In his argument on the road machinery deal Judge Longshore jumped onto The Sentinel; said this paper had been unfair; that to prejudice the people The Sentinel had published the contract but had not published the order of the Commissioners' Court at all. Well, the Judge is up against it again. The Sentinel has never published the contract but one time, July 28th—and just above the contract, in the same column, will be found the Commissioners' order. The Judge also claims that his letter recommending the machinery was given the agent to aid him in selling this machinery to other parties, but the records do not bear him out. "And" says Judge Longshore, "it is the best machinery for building roads I ever saw because I never saw any other kind." His defense in the matter is worse for him than if he had wholly ignored the matter. He charge McMillan with trying to have an "infamous" City Court established in this county thereby disfranchising the voters of Shelby county. In turn McMillan charged Longshore with having voted for several just such "infamous" City Court bills while he was in the Legislature. Longshore denied it, and notwithstanding that McMillan proved by the House Journal that Longshore did vote as he was charged, Judge Longshore said he did not care what the House Journal said, he had never voted for any City Court bill. However, the records are against Judge Longshore.

In Judge McMillan's reply he wa interrupted a great deal, and it was at this time the unpleasantness occurred referred to in the fore part of this article. The Spring Creek meeting was of a nature that brought no comfort to the populist leaders, and it is deplored by the people of that community, regardless of politics, that any unpleasantness should have occurred.

At Day's Cross Roads on Friday the speeches varied but little from those of the previous days, except that a little more national politics was injected into them. Judge Longshore rode Cleveland, the gold standard and Alabama's new Constitution until he was hoarse and the crowd tired. He said all the negroes who had registered were Democrats—the Judge being in touch with them, possibly knows; Democrats do not. Said his ticket did not want them, but in the light of circumstances that have occurred at some of the places where the Registrars have been the Judge was evidently talking for effect.

In his speech Judge McMillan demonstrated clearly that Longshore and the other populists on his "County Ticket" were irregular and out of order in that they have fused with high tariff, gold standard Republicans in the county, while nationally Longshore makes a grand stand play for Tom Watson and free silver. Judge Longshore's inconsistency along this line is a standing joke.

The meeting at Shelby on Saturday was to have been at night, and was so understood by the speakers and the people at Shelby who had made arrangements for a night meeting. Saturday morning notice was served on Judge McMillan that the speaking would be at Shelby that morning. He demurred, but Judge Longshore insisted. It developed that the meeting had been worked up in the interest of the opposition the day before, but Judge Longshore nor his friends gained anything by the methods adopted to secure a predominating sentiment. It is taken as an indication that the opposition is a little "skeered" of a night meeting at Shelby—when all the voters can hear and judge for themselves.

Judge McMillan again showed up the shortcomings of the populist administration; the unjust and illegal taxes which have been heaped upon the people; the extravagance of and misuse of the counties finances: the great increase in the tax rate; the road machinery deal—every argument and assertion made by Judge McMillan was backed up by the records.

Judge Longshore opened up on the new Constitution and his remarks bordered on Socialism, and some of his utterances were surprising even to those of his own political belief. One expression of Judge Longshore's was of such a nature that we do not believe he, himself, had weighed the full import of its meaning. Holding his hand aloft he said: "I will not support that Constitution only so far as the law compels me to!" In other words that means compulsory patriotism. The Sentinel cannot believe that Judge Longshore believes in that kind of a declaration. He said that white men had been turned down—one at Wilsonville and one at Sterrett—when they made application to register, while negroes had been registered. He passed the matter of illegal taxes with but a slight reference—that he believed the tax levies, every one of them under his administion to be legal. The courts, however, appear to differ with the Judge In speaking of the road machinery deal, he still clung to the 'trial order" story, and then stepped outside the records to give personal conversations with the agent to show there was no purchase, but the contract will not wash out.

During Judge McMillan's reply he was frequently interrupted, as if there was a preconceived plan to deprive him the use of his time to close, and it was remarked by a number that such appeared to be the case. In replying to Judge Longshore's assertion that white men had been denied registration, Judge McMillan said that it was a little strange that no one seemed to have personal cognizance of the Wilsonville case except a leading populist of that beat. And in the Sterrett case a candidate on the fusion ticket appeared to be the only one who had personal knowledge of the matter.

The speakers were at Blue Springs yesterday, and are at Sterrett today. The fact that the Circuit Court in this county decided the special road tax levy was illegal and that the railroads were required to pay but one-half of it is causing the people all over this county to do some hard thinking, and they are asking each other "Why are we compelled to pay all this special road tax, and the railroads are required to pay but half of it?" Illegal tax levies, and the common people too poor to contest. So much for populist administration.

The speeches thus far made in the campaign have been vote winners for the Democratic ticket.

While in the Legislature Judge Longshore Votes to Establish City Courts on Two Separate Occasions.

During the campaign Judge Longshore is accusing D. R. McMillan of trying to foist upon the people of Shelby county "an infamous City Court Bill." In a straight forward, honorable manner, Judge McMillan does not deny that upon solicitation of the party who drew the bill he gave what assistance he could to secure its passage. The bill failed to become a law. McMillan did not vote for the bill; he was not a member of the Legislature. Compare this with Judge Longshore's record in connection with "infamous City Court Bills" while he was a member of the Legislature from Shelby County. The House Journal of the session of 1888-9, page 420, records him as voting for "an infamous City Court Bill" for Anniston: the Journal records him as voting for the same kind of "infamous" bills for Gadsden and Decatur, and they must be "infamous" for their tenure is the same as the one proposed for Shelby county several years ago. How does Judge Longshore meet the fact that he voted for these "infamous" bills? Just by saying that he did not vote for them, "I don't care what the Journal says!" Still the Judge says he stands on his record! The very fact that he decries and holds up for criticism the action of McMillan in lending his assistance to establish the very kind of an 'infamous" court which Judge Longshore voted for on several occasions, shows that the action of the latter is rank demagoguery. No matter how often or vehemently he denies voting for the establishment of the City Courts, the records show he did vote for them.

The Worst Yet.

"If The Sentinel has regard for fairness and justice to its fellowman, it would have known that the bridge fund is responsible for the taxes collected for the building of bridges, and that this matter has been postponed until all taxes assessed for that purpose are collected or turned down by the courts."—Advocate.

Well, this is a funny predicament, indeed! If the bridge fund is responsible for the taxes collected, who in thunder is responsible for the bridge fund? If the "matter" has been postponed, why, in the name of all that is "fair" and "just," has the repeated and interminable collection of special bridge taxes from the common people not been, likewise, "postponed" along with the railroad cases? If "fairness and justice" demands that we tell our poor fellowmen that the bridge fund is responsible for the taxes collected from them for the building of bridges, that have not been built, and that the aforesaid bridge fund has taken wings and gone hence, then we want our condemnation of the methods by which this was accomplished to go along with the information, as an evidence of condolence, at least.

Its Defense Does Not Defend.

"The populist are not trying to prejudice the people, but they are defending the administration against these infamous charges hatched up by The Sentinel and its gang for the purpose of misleading and prejudicing the people."—Advocate.

"The populist are" up against it good and hard. The "facts and figures" are too many for it, and the defense does not defend.

Another "Postponement."

"The matter has been postponed" by levying for the third time special taxes to build Laney's Ford and Parker's Mill bridges, and the second time for Beaver Dam Creek bridge, with a few new ones thrown in for good measure. The only things that have not, according to the Advocate's dictionary, been "postponed" are Walton's bridge, Beeswax bridge and Buck Creek bridge. The people in those communities ought to apply for a "postponement" of their "matters," too. The "postponement" argument of the Advocate is the veriest kind of rot. But you can't expect anything better of it.

Same Old Story.

"If The Sentinel desired to be fair and truthful, it would tell the people the reason the bridges it refers to above were never built, is because the taxes was refused to be paid by the railroads, and the cases are pending in the courts unsettled."—Advocate.

Not on your life The Sentinel has shown that the people, leaving out the railroads, have paid more than enough special taxes to have built all the bridges for which the taxes were levied; that some of these bridges have not been built, and all the money is gone. It is anything but fair and truthful, to say nothing of the willful deception practiced upon the people, to give them the explanation offered in the above by the Advocate, as to the failure to expend the bridge tax for bridge purposes. "Hatch up" something a little more plausible than that, please, brother.

It Dare Not Quote the Law Correctly.

"If The Sentinel was not trying to prejudice the people it would have said that there was a law compelling the Commissioners' Court to levy taxes for building bridges before the bridges are built."—Advocate

And in its assumption of fairness the Advocate dare not publish in full the law it refers to in such a self-righteous manner.

The Constitution limits the right to levy special bridge tax—over and above the rate allowed for county purposes—to the "payment of debts and liabilities now existing, or that may hereafter be created" for such purpose. It is for the purpose of discharging the "debt or liability," and not for the creation of a "fund" that the tax is authorized, and this for the plainest of very best reasons. It can be as lawfully levied after as before bridges are built. The people of Shelby county would have been vastly better off if the Constitution had been heeded by the present headlong administration. Taking the Advocate's hypothesis, how will it next proceed to justify two levies for "Lacy's Ford bridge" made AFTER it was built?

The People Disfranchised.

Judge Longshore has a great deal to say about the Constitution disfranchising the people, and how a one-time proposed City Court (he voted to establish several of them) for Shelby county would disfranchise every voter in the county. There are others Judge Longshore should not forget.

The functions of the Treasurer of Shelby County have been "postponed," in the sense of being in abeyance. The gentleman who erstwhile performed the duties of that office is now the fiscal agent of the money lenders by appointment of the Commissioners' Court (whereby every voter in Shelby County has been deliberately "disfranchised") and is engaged in buying warrants of the County in blocks of $1,000.00, for the aforesaid money lenders. How's this for "Dealing in County Claims?"

That's the way the present administration has of covering up loans it makes, and upon which the people of the county pay interest (see last semi-annual report of the Commissioners), and upon which the treasurer admits he receives a commission.

DAY'S X ROADS.

Rain, Rain, rain!
Crops are looking fine.

James Lybrand, of Creswell, was among his many friends here last Saturday.

G. B Wheeler was present at the speaking at this place last Friday, and before the speakers arrived he sang "Booker T. Washington, the Big Black Man." A little later the speakers arrived and we listened to Judge Longshore tell his June bug stories, but he did not tell why the poor people of this county are taxed so high. He next agreed to give Judge McMillan all the negroes in the county, as he had given the Republicans all the pops in the national election. He told us of several white men in the county who could not register in Shelby county, but we are reliably informed they are not qualified to register because they have not been in the county long enough. Next Prof J. B. Farrell, our present Supt. of Education, made us a nice intelligent speech, which we listened to with pleasure. After noon came Judge McMillan, who spoke about two hours, telling us something of the condition of county affairs which made Judge Longshore look sad. Well, it was so tough on the pops that they just had to show a little of their nature in disturbing Judge McMillan while he was speaking, but everything passed off nicely, and all enjoyed the day. The boys are in good spirits, and the grand old Democratic party will come out victorious in November. Observor.

CALVARY.

Health of this community is good.

R. W. Evans transacted business in Columbiana last Thursday.

Robert Farr and family visited W. Tinney and family on Fourmile last Friday.

Miss Augusta Farrell is visiting relatives in Gurnee, but will return in a few days.

T. W. Kimble and family visited relatives in this community Saturday and Sunday.

W. E. Miner attended the tent meeting at Camp Branch the greater part of last week.

Crops are very promising in this community, although we are having too much rain for cotton.

A protracted meeting will begin at Mt. Calvary Saturday next, and will be conducted by Rev. Benj. Hughes.

Mrs. Addie Burgess and daughter, Miss Amy, of Birmingham, who have been visiting relatives for the past week in this community, returned to their home Saturday.

The voters of this Beat who attended the joint discussion at Columbiana last Wednesday, came home determined more than ever to vote the Democratic ticket in November, and elect officers who will keep within the bounds of the Constitution of Alabama, and stop the illegal tax levies which have been placed upon the people of Shelby county by the populist administration. The good roads machinery, the present high tax rate and the indebtedness of the county is not pleasant to the minds of the voters of this beat. Snyder.

VANDIVER NEWS.

Rain in abundance.

Hurrah for the Democratic party

J. W. Rich made a business trip to Leeds Saturday.

J. L. Vandiver made a trip to Dunnavant Saturday

The Free Will protracted meeting began here last Saturday.

J. A. Howard and family visited relatives in Yellow Leaf last week.

J. M. Babb and J. B. Whitfield attended the speaking at Columbiana last Wednesday.

Chas. W. Mundine, of Vincent, visited friends and relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

Quite a number of our people attended the singing convention at Dunnavant last Saturday.

Crops in this part of the country are excellent; cotton is better than I have ever seen; corn good, potatoes fine, and watermelons aae plentiful.

CALERA.

Rain in abundance.
It has rained every day this month.

Hardy Nelson, of Columbiana, was in town Monday.

No church service in town Sunday on account of rain.

Almost a beef famine in Calera since the rainy season.

D. B. Adkins and wife are visiting their children in Anniston this week.

Our citizens will meet Bro. Crim at the cemetery the 18th and clean up.

Mrs. Davidson and son Charles, of Montevallo, are visiting F. M. Blake and family.

A new union depot for Calera is being discussed again. Don't know when it will be built, however; not until the roads get ready.

There is but little interest in politics in our beat, only for Justice of the Peace.

Died in this place on Friday last, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. ... Fletcher.

Robert Cargile and family are on a visit to friends and relatives in Sylacauga.

Haven't heard of any veterans going to the reunion at Talladega Spngs now on.

Mrs. F W. Gist and little daughters Pearl and Lillian, arrived from Washington last Wednesday, and all looking well. After two days Mrs. Gist left for Autauga county to visit her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Campbell.

The rainfall measured by Agent Privett at the freight depot from the 1st to the 9th, is 4 76-100 inches. Not such a bad showing for a quiet town like Calera.

On last Wednesday evening, several young people of Calera, chaperoned by J E Seale and Miss Lutie Blevins, went horseback riding to the palatial country home of Mrs. C. L. O'Neal Mrs. Wagner, of Anniston, assisted in receiving the party. A splendid band furnished sweet music for the dance, which was enjoyed until 11 o'clock. Then the young people visited 'Old Curiosity Shop." The prizes were awarded to Miss Alma Martin and Tipton Gunn. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening. Miss Effie Wagner, of Anniston presided at the punch bowl. Among those present were Misses Lutie Blevins, Alma Martin, Kate Holcombe, Lillian Moore, Laura Oliver, Annie Blevins, Alma Holcombe, Mary Wagner, and Messrs. Glenn, Seale, Cox, Gunn, Graham, Gunn, Graham, and Sheehan.

There was a continual pour down of rain all day Sunday, and for a time it will be impossible for farmers to do any kind of work in the fields in this section of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Latham, of Montevallo, were in the city last Friday and Saturday visiting their sons Howard and Henry, and their daughter, Mrs. Henry Chapman.

Misses Bertie Barnett, Georgia Thomas and Gertrude Glazener, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnston, attended the protracted meeting at Blue Springs last Friday night.

We are glad to state that Master Paul Wilson, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, is improving and it is hoped he will soon be out again. Dr. Acker is attending him.

Mrs. Max Lefkovits, who has been visiting in Virginia for several weeks, has returned home. The friends of Mrs. Lefkovits will be glad to know that she is much improved in health by her trip.

In this issue will be found the new advertisement of E. W. Burt, the liveryman. Mr. Burt prides himself on the excellence of his teams, and will furnish careful and experienced drivers whenever desired.

J. W. Farley, of Bridgeton, was in the city over Sunday visiting his son, W. L. Farley.

Robert O'Hara, who is mail agent on the Central of Georgia between Birmingham and Macon, is in the city visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. W. O'Hara.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Chapman, of Montevallo, were in the city Monday visiting their son Henry and daughter, Mrs. H. M. Roberts. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from Mr. Chapman.

The Registrars closed up their work yesterday for this round. They will be in session again the week beginning the last Monday in September, and in Columbiana the last three days before the election.

J. H. Abercrombie, of Woodlawn, brother of Postmaster Abercrombie, was in the city Tuesday and yesterday. He contemplates locating in Columbiana and go into business, but as yet he is undecided.

A. M. Piper and C. H. Mahaffey, two of The Sentinel's good friends of Montevallo, were in town last Saturday and paid this office a call. We are sorry that we were out of town and missed them.

Rolla Carter, who is an employe of the Standard at Marion, Senator Greer's paper, is at home on a visit to his mother in Shelby, and with friends at this place. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from Rolla.

J. P. Pearson, circuit clerk, was up lookiding over his farm near Bridgeton several days last week, and says he has the finest prospect for a crop he ever had. All of it stands well, and is thrifty and healthy in appearance.

Stormy weather of the past weak has delayed work on the new gin of H. M. Milistead somewhat, but the building is almost ready for the machinery. It promises to be one of the best is this section of the country, and farmers should bear this in mind.

The pleasure of the game of ball last Friday was marred somewhat by the actions of one or two individuals who were in no wise connected with the game. Especially was it unpleasant for ladies who were present, and The Sentinel hopes that it will not occur again.

Horace Hammond, of Birmingham, was in the city several days last week visiting his mother, Mrs. O. J. Hammond. Mr. Hammond is assistant to Col. T. G. Bush, president of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Co., and is one of Columbiana's boys of whom all our people are proud.

Mayor Browne informs The Sentinel that a gentleman by the name of Gordon has rented the room formerly occupied by Hall's drug store, and that he will open up a clothing and tailoring establishment in that room about the 15th of this month. There is no doubt but that a good tailoring establishment will pay in Columbiana.

The insurance company for which C. C. DuBose is agent in this section of the State, offered a prize to the World's Fair to the agent who would write $50,000 of new business, or thirty individuals in the month of July. It is gratifying to know that Mr. DuBose won the prize, he having written thirty-five individual policies during the month. The trip to the Fair includes $10 a day for expenses for a week. The Sentinel congratulates Mr. DuBose on his success.

T. A. Hustin, one of the oldest citizens of Shelby county, died at his home near Wilsonville last Wednesday, and was buried Thursday. Old age and an attack of fever were the primary causes of his death. He was about seventy years old, and was beloved by all who knew him for his many commendable traits of character, and his death is regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends. J. H. Mason, of this city, was in attendance at the funeral.

The Columbiana public school will open on Monday, October 3rd. There is every prospect that this school will have a most successful year the coming session, and it is a pleasure to those who are most interested in its success to know that the school has such a good reputation all over the county. Parents who think of sending their children to a good school should investigate the school here. The tuition is absolutely free to any child living in Shelby county. The faculty is made up of the best teachers that money can employ, and this together with the christian influences thrown around the pupil while attending school are things that all parents will be interested in.

Good Ball Game.

One of the best ball games ever played on the Columbiana diamond was the one of last Friday between Wilsonville and Columbiana.

From the first it was seen the game would be a pitchers' battle, and the large crowd present was not disappointed when anticipated a good game. Up to the fourth inning the batters fanned wind, but the ice was broken when Columbiana made one run. For the nex two innings batters went down before the pitchers like straw before the wind. In the sixth Wilsonville scored two; in the seventh an overthrow to first gave Columbiana two more, and in the same inning Wilsonville again landed a man on home plate, tieing the score—each team having three runs to their credit. At no time after that did Wilsonville score, but in the last half of the ninth, by a very close margin, the home team made another score, the game standing 4 to 3 in favor of the home team. It was a fine game, and no doubt another will be arranged between the teams for the near future.

A sensational feature of the game was a fly catch in center field by Henry Chapman when it looked as if the ball would go over his head, but Henry shot out his left hand and drew in the ball.

The batteries were Roberts and Albright, and Nichols and Johnson, and the work of both pitchers from the start was all that any could ask.

Dr. W. C. Williams, of Shelby, umpired the game.

MONTEVALLO.

Miss Ethel McMath has returned from a trip to St Louis.

Mrs. J. M. Reynolds is visiting her old home in East Alabama.

James McConaughy and family spent Sunday at Shelby Springs.

John Steele has enlisted with the U. S. army and will be stationed at Fort Riley.

Miss Lena North and Master Robert Terrell of Birmingham, are visiting with Mrs. Henry Wilson.

Dr. D. L. Wilkinson returned to Montevallo Sunday, after spending a week with his family at Point Clear.

Magnetic attraction is responsible for the disappearance of W. P. McConaughy. He is in South Alabama.

Messrs. Satterwhite and Read, saw mill men, located at Simpson's Springs, are building residences in Montevallo.

E. T. Peter is purchasing a herd of fine milk cows, and proposes to do an extensive dairy business on his fine farm near Wilton.

Mrs. T. P. Lane was with Montevallo friends a few hours Friday, returning to Columbiana to prepare for removal to Dalton, Georgia.

R. Sid Allen, one of Birmingham's Montevallo boys, and now a prosperous broker of that city, spent Sunday with members of his family who are visiting herer

Mr. W. B. McMath, who has been selling goods on the road for several months, is in Montevallo, and will go from here to Cincinnati, where he has accepted a position.

Miss Margaret McArdle, of Jasper, and Miss Pattie Barnett, of Montgomery, are visiting at Mr. G. W. Morgan's and Capt. H. C. Reynolds', respectively. These young ladies are graduates of the A. G. I. S., and have many friends here.

Rev. S. P. West, of the Alabama Christian Advocate, came to Montevallo Saturday, and attended a Quarterly Conference at Concord He will be at Ebenezer this week. Mr. West is a native of Montevallo, and retains his old time love for the place.

A Tent Meeting, under the auspices of the Methodist church, was begun at Ebenezer last week and is to continue through this week, (D. V.) Rev. J. L. Wyatt, formerly of this county, now pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Hopkinsville, Ky., will assist in the meeting.

Miss Kate G. Sampey, music teacher in the Industrial School, has been teaching a summer class in instrumental music, with a view to founding a permanent Montevallo orchestra. She will leave this week, and spend the remaining month of vacation with her mother in Evergreen.

Dr. H. W. Harrison of Dogwood, claims that on fifteen acres he will make 10) bushels of corn per acre. J. F. Hendricks, just south of town, conservatively estimates his probable yield at 75 bushels per acre. A-bale-to-acre cotton is not an unusual claim on all sides, reckoning the weather to be favorrble from now on.

A Shelby County Boy.

Rev. J. W. O'Hara, of Wylam, who was called to the pastorate of the Clayton Street Baptist Church in June, has arrived in Montgomery to take up his work and will preach his initial sermon to the congregation at 11 o'clock this morning.

At 8 o'clock tonight a welcome service will be held in the church and all of the Baptist ministers of the city will take part in the services. Rev. F. C. Moore, pastor of the Clayton Street Methodist Church, will close his church and join with the members of the neighboring church in the welcome to their new pastor.

Rev. Mr. O' Hara, though a young man, has attracted favorable attention from the Baptist clergy of the State by his excellent work in churches of which he has had charge and and has just left in a thriving and growing congregation at Wylam—the fruition of his work. He is a graduate of Howard College at East Lake, and of the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky. It is a peculiar coincidence that Rev. A. Y. Napier, who recently took charge of the Southside Baptist Church and Rev. J. W. O'Hara were classmates in the Baptist Seminary at Louisville, and were both called to pastorates in Montgomery about the same time. It is a source of pleasure to each to be associated here in their work.

Mr. O'Hara has had four pastorates since his graduation from the Seminary and in each case has made an excellent reputation with his congregation. He is a man of strong mind, fluent speech and a forceful speaker.—Montgomery Advertiser, Aug. 6.

□Rev. J. W. O'Hara is the son of Rev. C. W. O'Hara of this city.

Important Election.

The chairman of the several Boards of District trustees are hereby called to meet at the court house, in Columbiana on Saturday, Aug. 13th, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing four county school trustees. These four trustees, together with the county Superintendent of Education will constitute a county board of education. The said county board will have entire control of public schools of the county.

JNO. B. FARRELL,
Supt. of Education.

"The Royal Road to Happiness."

(The following paper was read by Miss Augusta Farrell before the Sunday School Association of Beats 8 and 11 at Union church on Sunday, July 17, 1904, and by request of the Association and consent of the writer it is offered for publication, and it is the wish of this Association that it not only be published in our home papers, but the different Sunday School and church papers.)

Happiness is something for which we are all striving. I believe I can safely say there is today a universal desire for happiness. The whole human family is in pursuit of it, but some are traveling the wrong road.

Moses, who was the greatest lowyer the world has ever known, and who was also a man of God, desired happiness, and in his prayer to the Father (which will be found in the 90th Psalm) he says: "O, satisfy us early with our mercy; that we may rejoice and be glad all our days." We all wish to "rejoice and be glad," all our days, and there are many reasons why we should rejoice. One is for the beautiful land in which it has been our happy privilege to live, where the birds sing so sweetly, the sun shines so brightly, the sky so deep and blue, the meadows so green and, the beautiful, sparkling streams and all nature seems so bright and cheerful, would indeed feel grateful to the Father of the universe for all these blessings which nature has so lavishly bestowed upon us, and not only these, but for the christian influence which predominates throughout the length of our country.

There are still other reasons why some rejoice. "Some rejoice and are glad when their corn and wine increase." "Some rejoice when their fame or honor is on the increase." The miser rejoices over his hoarded gold; the philosopher over his wisdom; the young man over his strength or athleteness; the young lady over her beauty or charming personalities. Those, if they keep their gold, their wisdom, their strength and their beauty, can rejoice and be glad for the present life. It is very nice to have wisdom, and the wonderful power to expatiate on the great problems of the day, as the great philosophers have, but this alone cannot satisfy their souls.

The miser can only enjoy his gold for the time being; he cannot carry it with him to eternity. It is said of a certain miser, who trusted in his gold for happiness, that he was taken ill very suddenly, and sent for a minister to come and pray for him before his spirit should pass into eternity. The good man came, of course, and kneeling down by the bedside reached out his hand to clasp that of the dying man, thinking the prayer would be more effectual with hands clasped, but the poor man with his hand closed withdrew it from the minister, and ere the prayer was ended his life was also ended. On examination, it was found that he died with the key in hand to the chest which contained his gold, which he prized more highly than he did his own soul. Where will this man spend all his days?

Those who trust in earthly things to make them happy are going to be miserably disappointed when only a few, comparatively, shall have passed away. Their souls are going to be "required of them," and then in who can they trust?

We shall, after making the statement that there is a "universal desire for happiness," try in part to find how to obtain this happiness. The Psalmist says; "O, satisfy us early with thy mercy; that we may rejoice and be glad all our days." We shall put great emphasis upon the word early. Early, according to Mr. Webster, means in good time or season. Then if we begin early in life to obtain the mercy of God we begin in good time. Is it not reasonable—agreeable to the Word of God that we begin early in life, for children really belong to the Lord: "Lo, children are a heritage of the Lord." This being the case, it is reasonable to suppose His mercy is equally free for them.

Again, early piety is important. Your real comfort in this life and in the life to come depends largely upon your conduct in your childhood days. "For if we live Godly lives we have the promise of the life we now live, and the one to come." There is a secret to this happiness which is known only by those who fear the Lord. Solomon has very wisely said "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." The young all have a desire for happiness, and should have a desire for wisdom. The promise is to them for the Bible says "seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Again it says, "those who seek me early shall find me." This early piety will afford not only happiness in youth, but contentment in old age. In old age memory will be a blessing. 'Life is a blessing if 'tis lived right."

Early piety not only means happiness in youth and contentment in old age; but it means "future blessings for God and the church. It prepares the soul for the duties of life, and sustains them in many dark shadows. It enables them to "Rejoice and be glad," even when the hand of God seems to rest heavily upon them.

Parents, are you teaching your children the importance of this early religious life? Bring them up in the way they should go and when they get old they will not depart from it. Teach them to love God and keep his commandments, and after they have left your tender care and have gone out into the world alone, they will not so often cause the briny tears to trickle down your cheeks; ploughing their deep furrows and leaving the marks of sorrow and disappointment as they would, had you not taught them to "love God and keep his commandments." Mercy in early life has the same effect upon the person as the rising sun does upon the horizon; it drives away the dark shadows, and causes us to scatter sunshine and gladness all along life's pathway.

Some of the noblest men we ever had began early in life to do that which was right in the sight of the Lord.

"Young Josiah was only eight years old when he began to reign as king; and he did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, and walked in all the ways of David, his father, and turned not aside to the right hand nor to the left."

Are you a young Josiah?

Do you love to listen to the word of God as he did?

Do you love to study the word of God, and do you invite boys and girls to come with you on Sunday morning to the "House of the Lord?" where you can spend an hour in studying His Word?

Do you love to sing His praise, and are you learning to love Jesus? The Bible says: "Remember now thy creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."

If you had a friend whom you loved, and wanted to give to him a bouquet of flowers, would you pluck them while they were fresh and sweet, or would you wait until they were all faded and withered and then give them to him? We think you would gather them while they were fresh if you really cared very much for him. Jesus is the best friend you have; then are you going to withhold from Him your heart and service while you have the bloom of youth, vitality of body, activity of mind, and after old age begins to creep upon you, turn and give Him the withered leaves of misspent life?

The prime of Jesus' life was spent in our service, he having completed His work at the age of thirty-four. It is much easier to give your heart to Christ while you are young. You may bend the twig, but it requires great effort to bend the trunk, for as "the twig is bent so will the tree be inclined." Every parent and teacher should bear this in mind, and try to lead the children to their Saviour while they are young, and let them also remember that the object of the Sunday School is to instruct children in the ways of righteousness and lead them gently to their loving Saviour.

Parents, if you want your children to get on this "Royal Road to Happiness," bring them early to the "house of the Lord," get little hearts filled with the love of God and the Sunday School, and their little lips will sing their Redeemer's praise and doubtless angels, praising in their songs shall shout back from heaven to "suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

KOREANS A PRETTY RACE

MOST STRIKING THING ABOUT THEM IS THE WAY THEY WALK.

The Korean Dude Is Said to Be Quite a Superior Article—Is Called "Yang Ban," or Noble, and He Oppresses the Common People Woefully.

Although months ago, it seems only yesterday that whenever I had half an hour to spare in Seoul I used to sit in a shop and watch the crowd of passers-by. It was situated in the main street, just inside the gate. A few small purchases had brought me the eternal friendship of the proprietor, who always had a long pipe ready for me, longer than my arm, so that he always had to light it. The people, as seen in everyday life, interest me more in a strange country than palaces or show places. If I had to choose, I would prefer to see a slum to a "Baedeker" "sight" in a new city.

My friend was a vender of brass pots of all sizes but of only three shapes, that shone like burnished gold on the shelves around, and were arranged outside the open front. There was no fuss or bustle about his business, or importuning for custom; he would sit calmly with his legs tucked under him on the platform, about two feet off the ground, smoking innumerable pipes and wrapped in Oriental calm and his voluminous white garments. The laundering of his other suit or suits, appeared to be perpetually in progress, as could be heard by the whack-whack of the sticks beating on a roller, which came constantly from the back of the premises telling that his wife was at work at the Korean method of ironing, by which the indispensable satin-like gloss is given to the surface.

It was a quaint and interesting procession that passed outside. The Koreans are distinctly a handsome race. They are not in the least like either of their neighbors, the Chinese or the Japanese. Although they have the oblique eyes of the Mongolian, their noses are, as a rule, straight, or slightly aquiline, their foreheads high, and their oval faces clear-cut and individual. The majority of a Chinese crowd look to me always as if their heads had been cast in bullet molds, while it is quite otherwise with the Koreans.

The most striking thing about the Korean is the way he walks. He carries himself better than the man of any place I know. There is practically nothing to indicate to a stranger difference of rank, but as you watch a man coming along the street there is a slight swing, redolent of immense dignity, that points out the patrician to the most casual onlooker. Some of them look as if they were always walking up the center of a palace chamber to the dais, amid admiring eyes. It is not swagger, but a very quiet, superlative self-consciousness of their own worth of position. The young "Yangban," or noble, is a delicious study. No London, Paris or New York swell, flaneur or dude is in it with him. His white suit is spotless—there is not a hair straying from his "Mang-Kun," a crownless skull cap of horsehair gauze coming well down over his forehead and fastened so tightly as to produce a permanent groove in his skin and frequent headaches, to be borne for the sake of fashion. On this his hat, also of horsehair, is poised and tied under his chin, by black ribbons. If he has brown hair, it has been darkened with lampblack to the fashionable shade. He is invariably attended by a servant, he carries nothing for himself, not even his pipe; even going to school their books are carried for them. When he travels he is attended by as many servants as he can possibly muster. When he rides, he does not even hold the reins of his diminutive horse. It is led, and servants attend him on either side of the high saddle on which he is perched. Seoul simply swarms with these young toffs, who come up from all parts of the country to this center of that political intrigue in which the Yang-ban lives, moves and has his being. He never all his life does any work himself; this would be the worst of bad form and altogether infra dig, but he is not above being supported by his relatives, and will even wink at the fact of his wife at home surreptitiously taking in washing to earn a little toward the household expenses of, perhaps a big pretentious yamen, covering a lot of ground and in a chronic state of dilapidation and decay.

These Yang-bans are the curse of Korea. The common people are woefully oppressed by them. If a peasant is known to have accumulated a little money it is not long before the local Yang-ban comes down on him, perhaps nominally for a loan, which is never repaid, or perhaps for a levy pure and simple. If the hind objects, he is promptly taken to the Yang-ban's yamen and kept there until he pays, or is imprisoned on some trumped-up charge and kept locked up until his relatives produce the required amount.

One great peculiarity of the streets of Seoul is that during the daytime practically no women are to be seen about. One occasionally sees an old woman of the lower class, dressed very much as the men, but wearing her cloak over her head, holding it with her hands, so as to conceal the lower part of her face. About 8 o'clock in the evening the great bell of Seoul tolls, which is the signal for men to retire off the streets, and gives permission to the women to emerge from their seclusion. This extraordinary regulation is strictly enforced, except as regards blind men, foreigners and persons going with prescriptions for the sick. Korean men are frequently found going about with sticks pretending to be blind; but such is the rigid seclusion that the majority of the ladies of Seoul have never seen the streets of their city by daylight. From 8 o'clock until 12 the streets are alive with women, most of them attended by servants carrying lanterns. During this time they go visiting their friends. At 12 o'clock the great bell tolls again, from which time they have to be indoors, and men are again at liberty to go out if they like.—London Chronicle.

LONELY CORNERS IN ENGLAND.

Places in Which a Strange Face Is Not Seen for Months.

Mr. James Blyth, writing of "Isolated England" in the London Daily Mail, describes some singularly lonely corners of the populous island. Says Mr. Blyth:

"I myself lived for two years in a village on the edge of Norfolk marshlands where there was no doctor within seven miles, where there was no telegraph office for delivery within five miles, where until recently the only village postoffice was a slit in a hollow elm against the churchyard, and where the great excitement during the Boer war was the dread lest the enemy should effect a landing and invade the marshes. And there are plenty of villages which are worse off than this, to say nothing of the houses of the marshmen dotted about the sodden flats, and the shepherds' huts on the fells and in the dales of the moor country. These lonely dwellings go weeks, aye, and months, without seeing any strange face to break the monotony of the eternal daily round—a monotony of which their inhabitants are happily unconscious.

"One of the Diamond Jubilee postal reforms was that there should thenceforth be at least one free delivery of letters at every house in the kingdom. And I find that (except where it is absolutely impracticable) where there is such a rarity as a letter for one of even the most secluded cottages every effort is made to carry out this reform. But there are some tracts of fenland the marsh houses on which are so secure from invasion in their strongholds of ooze, mud, and water that even now the letters addressed to them are left at the nearest public house—often three or four miles across the reeking level. I do not give the actual names of these places out of consideration for the postmaster, who was honest enough to admit the fact and vexed that it should be a fact. To all these isolated corners news of the world comes through the postman. When this disseminator of knowledge has no letter to deliver in the neighborhood the news stays away. Where even he never penetrates rumors are picked up (often in strange and garbled forms) on visits to the nearest market town or favorite inn."

The Simple Career.

My wife and I rise daily at 3 a. m. and clothing ourselves as lightly as the absurd conventionalities of modern civilization permit, we go into the garden and work hard for two hours. The garden is small and we frequently have to dig it up and replant it two or three times a month to get the requisite amount of exercise. This, together with deep draughts of fresh air and distilled water, constitutes our breakfast.

The simplifying of our diet made life too easy for my wife, so I concluded to let her help me in business. Therefore at 5 o'clock we start on our 25 mile walk to town. We work in my office, with the window wide open, until noon, when we rise, brush the snow off our backs, if any has drifted in, and take our luncheon of fresh ozone. At 5 p. m. we walk home to dine. This third meal is our heartiest. It consists of two cents' worth of beans, peas or lentils, eaten raw, and masticated, very, very thoroughly; five cents' worth of distilled water. Occasionally we vary this repast by substituting an apple, orange or two figs for the beans. No one who has not tried the diet can have any idea how delicious food tastes to us.

Thus, as you see, our table costs us only about 49 cents a week. We are saving up for a $50,000 home, and we feel that we will almost reach the record made by the Ladies' Home Disturber home-builders.—Life.

A Tiger's Charge.

A writer in the Bombay Gazette describes the rare experience of seeing the charge of a famous man-eating tiger, which ended harmlessly. "A camel with a slipping load had," the writer says, "been halted not far from his lair, when with a 'wrouff' (once heard never to be forgotten) the tiger charged for the man leading the camel. The tiger, I have no doubt, would have carried off the camel man, but when he saw the long, and to him unfamiliar, neck of a camel coming between him and his intended victim I daresay he thought things were not quite as he had calculated. Anyway he paused casually surveyed the whole party, and with tail erect calmly walked back into the jungle. The camel man was either so frightened or the whole thing from beginning to end had occupied so short a time (less than a minute, I should judge) that he did not stir from the place where he was when the tiger first made his attack."

Conundrum in His Brevity.

A comical story is just now going about among London journalists. It concerns one of their number whose "copy" is so charged with amazing abbreviations that sub-editors and compositors have difficulty in wrestling with it. The contractions, as a rule, are understood; but the other evening sub-editors and compositors were "floored," for, in a report of a sermon made by this particular journalist there was this—"tu." Solution was sought in vain, so the writer had to be seen in order that an explanation might be got. "What's this—tu?" asked the chief sub-editor, "Simplest thing in the world," said the abbreviationist: "What else could it be but 'transsubstantiation?'"

World's Highest Waterfall.

For a long time the highest known waterfall in the world was the Cerosola cascade in the Alps, having a drop of 2400 feet. But a waterfall in the San Cuayatan canyon, in the state of Durango, Mexico, now claims first place. It was discovered by some prospectors ten years ago in the great barranca district, which is called the Tierras Desconocidas. While searching for the famous lost mine Naranjal, a great roar of water was heard. With much difficulty the party pushed on and up the mighty chasm until they beheld the superb fall, which is said to be not less than 3000 feet high.

THE FUTURE MIKADO.

LITTLE PRINCE MICCHI, WHOSE HOROSCOPE IS CAST DAILY.

The Training of This Mighty Atom Shows That While Japan is Up to Date in Many Things There is Always a Blend of the Oriental With the Western.

They have a mighty atom in Japan—for the future Mikado will not be three years old until April next.

Grandson of the present emperor, His Royal Highness Prince Micchi, is a strong, healthy, lusty boy, whose pranks are already chronicled and narrated throughout Japan, even as are those of the youngest princes of the English reigning house.

Japan is up to date in many things, but in everything there is always a quaint blend of the oriental with the western. The Mikado is not the least little bit superstitious, and in spite of early influence, when he was taught poetry and the arrangement of flowers, prefers everything about him to be European. It is curious to learn, therefore, that on the birth of Prince Micchi court astrologers were set to work to cast the baby's horoscope. Indeed, it has been done every day since. The real fact is the people demand that this should be done. A horoscope has been made for other royal princes for 25 centuries, and every one in Japan was most anxious to know what fate had in store for the new baby. It was a small matter, and both the Mikado and the Crown Prince gave their consent to the mystic rites and elaborate incantations being performed, though they have not the smallest belief in the published results.

Before little Prince Micchi was six months a most elaborate imperial seal had been made for his "use." Here again the ancient customs of Japan were too powerful for the new western ideas. In the land of the chrysanthemum a man's seal is his most important possession. Forgery of a seal is punished more severely than robbery. Consequently, baby Prince Micchi's seal became a matter at once of the greatest importance. It had to be different from that used by his father. Special artists worked at it for months before a suitable emblem was made. Now it is affixed to everything worn or used by the prince.

The heir presumptive to the great eastern throne has the distinction of being the first baby of the royal house of Jimmu Tenno who has been allowed to grow his hair like an English baby. Both his father and the Mikado, when babies, had their heads shaved daily by their nurses. It is on record that when the emperor was seven days old his mother displayed her talent as a barber by shaving her son's tiny head. Then, as the hair grew, her chief delight was to experiment with various designs to discover the most becoming. Sometimes she shaved the top and the rim, and left a tonsure, sometimes she left only the rim, and sometimes a scalp lock and two other locks only. This went on for quite six years. Although Prince Micchi has 22 of the prettiest little Japanese nurses imaginable, they are not allowed to practice their decorative tonsorial powers on the wee prince. Count Kawalmura, a lifelong friend of the Crown Prince, is superintendent of the royal nursery, and he regulates matters in a very stern fashion for Prince Micchi's well-being. Not even a silken cushion goes into the nursery unless the count has first seen it, and has set his own hall-mark of approval and the prince's seal to it.

Soon after the prince's birth measures were taken to eliminate the "almond eye" of his race. A painless little surgical operation was performed. An incision was made on the outer point of the baby's eyelids in a straight line for the barest part of an inch. The lashes were then drawn into shape and held firmly by a piece of chemically-prepared sticking plaster. The wound healed in less than a week, and the effect now is that Prince Micchi does not look a bit like a son of the eastern island empire. The embryo Mikado Micchi's wedding is already under most serious discussion, and quite three noble young ladies goo-gooing with might and main in Flowery Land nurseries have been selected as candidates for the future ruler's partner in life. By the time Prince Micchi wants a wife matters may have progressed so much that he will possibly be allowed to contract a love match. At present, however, the law forbids it. Prince Micchi's wife will be, may be has been, selected from the daughters of the five highest families in the land. In addition, he is also entitled to choose inferior wives to the number of eleven from the best families, and the position of such wives is recognized.

Curiously enough, custom will condemn Prince Micchi to buy his bride's trousseau. At present he is not thinking much about the matter, but, according to an English paper published in Kobe, has for a long time been in possession of a number of toy battleships, which he impartially smashes up, be they flying the flag of Russia, England, France, Germany, or even of Japan.

The prince has learned to ride a beautiful Shetland pony, and is always delighted to be on its back.

Breathlessness.

The runner who sets out on a two-mile race usually passes through two distinct stages of exhaustion. In the first quarter, if the pace be fast, he feels the first symptoms of breathlessness—the throbbing temples, the surging in the ears and the tightness about the chest that makes so many men drop out before completing half the distance. This might be called acute fatigue; but if he can keep on the distress passes away. The heart and lungs work a little harder, and at last succeed in catching up with their task of purifying the increased stream of sewage brought to the lungs by the blood, to be carried off in the form of gases by respiration. The distress disappears from the face, the lungs seem to regain the power to expand and a crushing weight appears to have been lifted from the chest. The head becomes clear, and the muscles act with renewed vigor and elasticity. The man has got his second wind.—Outing.

A Deduction.

The late Channing Clapp of Boston was for some years after the civil war a cotton planter in the south.

Mr. Clapp had on his plantation a little boy in buttons called "Sam."

"Sam" one afternoon pointed to a bottle on his master's bureau and said:

"Mars Channing, am datt hair oil?"

"Mercy, no, 'Sam,' that's glue," said Mr. Clapp.

"I guess dass why I can't git mah cap off," said "Sam," thoughtfully.

Denounces Khaki Uniforms.

Mayor Jameson said in the British parliament the other day that the sudden resort to khaki uniforms was a "senseless craze." Because the Boers wore khaki and slouch hats the whole army was slapped into similar costume. If the Zulus had beaten it, the army would have gone about in feathers and paint. Three streaks of paint and an ostrich feather would have been the uniform of a field marshal.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble, of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

WAS EVERYTHING TO HIM.

Whisky Not Alone Meat and Drink, But Washing and Lodging.

Mrs. John A. Logan, who has succeeded Miss Clara Barton in the presidency of the Red Cross, was educated in Kentucky.

In condemning intemperance Mrs. Logan said recently.

"Alcohol vitiates the mind that the degradation it imposes on its victims hardly seems like degradation to them. The woes of these men are changed to blessings in their besotted brains.

"For instance," said Mrs. Logan, smiling, "there used to live in Kentucky an old man called Fawcett Jones. Fawcett drank to excess, and he used to declare that whisky was meat and drink to him. But one hot summer night he drank so much that he fell into a puddle on the way home, and in this puddle he lay snoring until dawn.

"A clergyman who had risen early found him with his head in the mud and his legs and body in the water, and the good man woke him up.

"'Ah,' he said, 'so whisky is meat and drink to you, is it, Fawcett?'

"Fawcett rose to his feet and began to wring out his clothes.

"'It certainly is,' he said, and washing and lodging, too, sir.'"

Emperor Menelik Flattered.

Sir John Harrington, who has been made minister plenipotentiary from King Edward's court to that of Menelik of Abyssinia, was appointed British agent in Abyssinia in 1898. He has done many things to establish cordial relations between the two countries. One of his great achievements was to persuade her late majesty to speak into a phonograph a message to Menelik and his empress. It was the only time she ever consented to such an experiment, and it was done then on the express understanding that when the message had once been spoken the record should be destroyed. Menelik was so excited when he heard the great queen's message in her own voice that he repeatedly stopped the machine in order to have a salute fired and his empress was so flattered to hear her own name mentioned that she called out her bodyguard as a mark of respect.

PARKER IS NOTIFIED

And Accepts the Democratic Nomination for the Presidency.

THE EXERCISES WERE SIMPLE.

The Day Was Rainy, but a Large Crowd Was Present at the Ceremony.

Judge Alton B. Parker was formally notified Wednesday of his nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the presidency.

The ceremony occurred on the lawn of Rosemount, his country home, and in addition to the members of the notification committee and many prominent men of his party, hundreds of friends and neighbors assembled to witness the event.

The weather was not auspicious. The sky was overcast and threatened a downpour.

There was no wait in the ceremonies. As soon as the party reached the stand Representative Clark began his address.

Mr. Clark was enthusiastically cheered throughout his address, and at its close was accorded an ovation, which was merged into the reception extended to Judge Parker. During the speaking rain began to fall fitfully and many umbrellas were raised. Realizing that the ceremonies might be interfered with Representative Clark left out a portion of his speech as originally prepared.

Judge Parker, with bare head, stood on the platform throughout the speech, with utter disregard of the rain, which dampened him from head to foot. His composure was unruffled, and he smiled with the spectators at the witticisms with which Mr. Clark interspersed his address.

Before beginning his address of acceptance Judge Parker advised the crowd to get under the trees out of the rain.

"We don't mind the wet," was the spontaneous reply. Judge Parker began his address at 2:18 p. m. and concluded at 2:54. He was given tremendous and continuous applause.

Esopus, N. Y., August 10.—In reply to the speech of Hon. Champ Clarke, notifying him of the nomination, Judge Parker spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee:

I have resigned the office of chief judge of the court of appeals of this state in order that I may accept the responsibility that the great convention you represent has put upon me, without possible prejudice to the court to which I had the honor to belong, or to the eminent members of the judiciary of this state, of whom I may now say as a private citizen I am justly proud.

At the very threshold of this response and before dealing with other subjects, I must, in justice to myself and to relieve my sense of gratitude, express my profound appreciation of the confidence reposed in me by the convention. After nominating me and subsequently receiving a communication declaring that I regarded the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established, a matter concerning wrich I felt it incumbent upon me to make known my attitude so that hereafter no man could justly say that his support had been secured through indirection or mistake, the convention reiterated its determination that I should be the standard bearer of the party in the present contest. This mark of trust and confidence I shall ever esteem as the highest honor that could be conferred upon me—an honor that whatever may be the fate of the campaign, the future can in no degree lessen or impair.

The admirable platform upon which the party appeals to the country for its confidence and support clearly states the principles which were so well condensed in the first inaugural address of President Jefferson, and points out with force and directness the course to be pursued through their proper application in order to insure needed reforms in both the legislative and administrative departments of the government. While unhesitating in its promise to correct abuses and to right wrongs wherever they appear or however caused; to investigate the several administrative departments of the government, the conduct of whose officials has created scandals, and to punish those who have been guilty of a breach of their trust; to oppose the granting of special privileges by which the few may profit at the expense of the many; to practice economy in the expenditure of the moneys of the people, and to that end to return once more to the methods of the founders of the republic by observing in disbursing the public funds the care and caution a prudent individual observes with respect to his own; still the spirit of the platform assures conservative, instead of rash action; the protection of the innocent as well as the punishment of the guilty; the encouragement of industry, economy and thrift; the protection of property and a guarantee of the enforcement for the benefit of all of man's inalienable rights, among which, as said in the Declaration of Independence, are "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Liberty, as understood in this country, means not only the right of freedom from actual servitude, imprisonment or restraint, but the right of one to use his faculties in all lawful ways, to live and work where he will and to pursue any lawful trade or business. These essential rights of life, liberty and property are not only guaranteed to the citizen by the constitution of each of the several states, but the states are by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States forbidden to deprive any person of any one of them without due process of law.

Occasionally, by reason of unnecessary or impatient agitation for reforms, or because the limitations placed upon the departments of government by the constitution are disregarded by officials desiring to accomplish that which to them seems good, whether the power exists in them or not, it becomes desirable to call attention to the fact that the people in whom all power resides, have seen fit, through the medium of the constitution, to limit the governmental powers conferred and to say to departments created by it: "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." To secure the ends sought the people have by the constitution separated and distributed among the three departments of government—the executive, legislative and judicial—certain powers, and it is the duty of those administering each department so to act as to preserve, rather than to destroy, the potency of the co-ordinate branches of the government, and thus secure the exercise of all the powers, conferred by the people.

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to William C. Jarvis, touching the perpetuity of our institution written many years after he had retired to private life said: "If the three powers of our government maintain their mutual independence of each other, it may last long, but not so if either can assume the authority of the other." It must be confessed that in the course of our history executives have employed powers not belonging to them; statues have been passed that were expressly forbidden by the constitution and statutes have been set aside as unconstitutional when it was difficult to point out the provisions said to be offended against in their enactment; all this has been done with a good purpose, no doubt, but in disregard, nevertheless, of the fact that ours is a government of laws, not of men, deriving its "just powers from the consent of the governed." If we would have our government continue during the ages to come, for the benefit of those who shall succeed us, we must ever be on our guard against the danger of usurpation of that authority which resides in the whole people, whether the usurpation be by officials representing one of the three great departments of government, or by a body of men acting without a commission from the people.

Impatience of the restraints of law, as well as of its delays, is becoming more and more manifest from day to day. Within the past few years many instances have been brought to our attention, where in different parts of our beloved country supposed criminals have been seized and punished by a mob, notwithstanding the fact that the constitution of each state guarantees to every person within its jurisdiction that his life, his liberty or his property shall not be taken from him without due process of law.

In a struggle between employers and employes, dynamite is said to have been used by the latter, resulting in the loss of life and the destruction of property. The perpetrators of this offense against the laws of God and man, and all others engaged in the conspiracy with them, should, after due trial and conviction, have had meted out to them the most rigorous punishment known to the law. This crime, added perhaps to others, led to the formation of a committee of citizens that, with the support of the military authority, deports from the state, without trial, persons suspected of belonging to the organization of which the perpetrators of the dynamite outrages were supposed to be members.

In both cases the reign of law gave way to the reign of force. These illustrations present some evidence of the failure of government to protect the citizen and his property, which not only justified the action of your convention in this regard, but made it its duty to call attention to the fact that constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, to acquire and to enjoy property, or to reside where his interests or inclination may determine; and the fulfilment of the assurance to rebuke and punish all denials of these rights, whether brought about by individuals or government agencies, should be enforced by every official and supported by every citizen. The essence of good government lies in strict observance of constitutional limitations, enforcement of law and order and rugged opposition to all encroachment upon the sovereignty of the people.

The foregoing suggestions but emphasize the distinction which exists between our own and many other forms of government. It has been well said, in substance, that there are but two powers in government, one the power of the sword, sustained by the hand that wields it, and the other the power of the law, sustained by an enlightened public sentiment. The difference in these powers is the difference between a republic—such as ours, based on law and a written constitution, supported by intelligence, virtue and patriotism—and a monarchy—sustained by force exerted by an individual, uncontrolled by laws other than those made or sanctioned by him; one represents constitutionalism, the other imperialism.

The present tariff law is unjust in its operation, excessive in many of its rates and so framed in particular instances as to exact inordinate profits from the people. So well understood has this view become that many prominent members of the republican party, and at least two of its state conventions, have dared to voice the general sentiment on that subject. That party seems, however, to be collectively able to harmonize only upon a plank that admits that revision may from time to time be necessary, but it is so phrased that it is expected to be satisfactory to those in favor of an increase of duty, to those who favor a reduction thereof, and to those opposed to any change whatever.

Judged by the record of performance, rather than that of promise, on the part of that party in the past, it would seem as if the outcome, in the event of its success, would be to gratify the latter class. With absolute control of both the legislative and executive departments of the government since March 4, 1897, there has been neither reduction nor an attempt at reduction in tariff duties. It is not unreasonable to assume, in the light of that record, that a future congress of that party will not undertake a revision of the tariff downward in the event that it shall receive an endorsement of its past course on that subject by the people. It is a fact and should be frankly conceded in the coming contest that we cannot hope to secure a majority in the senate during the next four years, and hence we shall be unable to secure any modification in the tariff save that to which the republican majority in the senate may consent. While, therefore, we are unable to give assurances of relief to the people from such excessive duties as burden them, it is due to them that we state our position to be in favor of a reasonable reduction of the tariff; that we believe that it is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer, and that a wise and beneficent revision of the tariff can be accomplished as soon as both branches of congress and an executive in favor of it are elected, without creating that sense of uncertainty and instability that has on other occasions manifested itself. This can be achieved by providing that such a reasonable period shall intervene, between the date of the enactment of the statute making a revision and the date of its enforcement, as shall be deemed sufficient for the industry or business affected by such revision to adjust itself to the changes and new conditions imposed. So confident am I in the belief that the demand of the people for a reform of the tariff is just, that I indulge the hope that should a democratic house of representatives and a democratic executive be chosen by the people, even a republican senate may heed the warning and consent to give at least some measure of relief to the people.

The combinations, popularly called trusts, which aim to secure a monopoly of trade in the necessaries of life, as well as in those things that are employed upon the farm, in the factory and in many other fields of industry, have been encouraged and stimulated by excessive tariff duties. These operate to furnish a substantial market in the necessities of eighty millions of people, by practically excluding competition. With so large a market and highly remunerative prices continuing long after the line of possible competition would naturally be reached, the temptation of all engaged in the same business to combine so as to prevent competition at home and a resulting reduction of prices, has proved irresistible in a number of cases. All men must agree that the net result of enacting laws that foster such inequitable conditions is most unfortunate for the people as a whole, and it would seem as if all ought to agree that the effective remedy would be to appropriately modify the offending law. The growth of monopoly, of which complaint is justly made, cannot be laid at the doors of the courts of this country. The decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the court of appeals of this state and the courts of last resort in many other states warrant the assertion that the common law as developed affords a complete legal remedy against monopolies. The fact that they have multiplied in number and increased in power has been due, not to the failure of the courts to apply the law when properly moved by administrative officials or private individuals, but to the failure of officials charged with the duty of enforcing the law to take the necessary procedure to procure the judgments of the courts in the appropriate jurisdiction, coupled with the facts that the legislative departments of some of our state governments, as well as congress in the manner already referred to, have, by legislation, encouraged their propagation. What is needed—in addition to the passage of a statute revising the tariff duties to a reasonable basis—is not so much other and different laws, as officials having both the disposition and the courage to enforce existing law. While this is my view of the scope of the common law, if it should be made to appear that it is a mistaken one, then I favor such further legislation within constitutional limitations as will give the people a just and full measure of protection.

It is difficult to understand how any citizen of the United States, much less a descendant of Revolutionary stock, can tolerate the thought of permanently denying the right of self-government to the Filipinos. Can we hope to instill into the minds of our descendants reverence and devotion for a government by the people, while denying ultimately that right to the inhabitants of distant countries, whose territory we have acquired either by purchase or by force? Can we say to the Filipinos, "Your lives, your liberty and your property may be taken from you without due process of law for all time," and expect we will long glory in that feature of Magna Charta, which has become incorporated, in substance and effect, into the Constitution of every state, as well as into the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States? Can we hope for the respect of the civilized world while proudly guaranteeing to every citizen of the United States that no law shall be made or enforced which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, or deny to any person the equal protection of the laws, and at the same time not only deny similar rights to the inhabitants of the Philippines, but take away from them the right of trial by jury, and place their lives and the disposition of their property in the keeping of those whom we send to them to be their governors? We shall certainly rue it as a nation if we make any such attempt. Viewing the question even from the standpoint of national selfishness, there is no prospect that the twenty millions of dollars expended in the purchase of the islands and the six hundred and fifty millions said to have been disbursed will ever come back to us. The incident of war brought the Philippines into our possession and we are not at liberty to disregard the responsibility which thus came to us, but that responsibility will be best subserved by preparing the islanders as rapidly as possible for self-government and giving to them the assurance that it will come as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it. There need be no fear that the assertion so often made of late, that we have now become a world power, will then be without support. Ours is a world power, and as such it must be maintained, but I deny that it is at all recently that the United States has attained that eminence. Our country became a world power over a century ago, when having thrown off foreign domination, the people established a free government, the source of whose authority sprung, and was continuously to proceed, from the will of the people themselves. It grew as a world power as its sturdy citizens, to whose natural increase were added immigrants from the old world seeking to obtain here the liberty and prosperity denied them in their own countries, spread over the face of the land, reduced the prairies and forests to cultivation, built cities, constructed highways and railroads, till now a nation which at the formation of the government numbered only three millions in population, has become eighty millions, and from ocean to ocean and the lakes to the gulf, the country is the abode of a free and prosperous people, advanced in the highest degree in the learning and arts of civilization. It is the liberty, the advancement and the prosperity of its citizens, not any career of conquest, that make the country a world power. This condition we owe to the bounty of Providence, unfolded in the great natural resources of the country; to the wisdom of our fathers manifested in the form of government established by them, to the energy, industry, moral character and law-abiding spirit of the people themselves.

We are not a military people, bent on conquest, or engaged in extending our domains in foreign lands, or desirous of securing natural advantages, however great, by force; but a people loving peace, not only for ourselves, but for all the nations of the earth.

The display of great military armaments may please the eye and, for the moment, excite the pride of the citizen, but it cannot bring to the country the brains, brawn and muscle of a single immigrant, nor induce the investment here of a dollar of capital. Of course such armament as may be necessary for the security of the country and the protection of the rights of its citizens, at home or abroad, must be maintained. Any other course would be not only false economy but pusillanimous. I protest, however, against the feeling, now too prevalent, that by reason of the commanding position we have assumed in the world, we must take part in the disputes and broils of foreign counties; and that because we have grown great we should intervene in every important question that arises in other parts of the world. I also protest against the erection of any such military establishment as would be required to maintain the country in that attitude. We should confine our international activities solely to matters in which the rights of the country or of our citizens are directly involved. That is not a situation of isolation, but of independence.

The government of the United States was organized solely for the people of the United States. While it was contemplated that this country should become a refuge for the oppressed of every land, who might be fit to discharge the duties of our citizenship, and while we have always sympathized with the people of every nation in their struggles for self-government, the government was not created for a career of political or civilizing evangelization in foreign countries or among alien races. The most efficient work we can do in uplifting the people of other countries is by the presentation of a happy, prosperous, self-governing nation as an ideal to be emulated, a model to be followed. The general occupation of our citizens in the arts of peace, or the absence of large military armaments, tends to impair neither patriotism nor physical courage, and for the truth of this I refer the young men of today to the history of the Civil War. For fifty years, with the exception of the war with Mexico, this country had been at peace, with a standing army most of the time of less than ten thousand men. He who thinks that the nation had grown effeminiate during that period should read the casualty rolls of the armies on either sides at Shiloh, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, at Stone River and Chickamauga. I would be the last man to pluck a single laurel from the crown of any one of the military heroes to whom this country owes so much, but I insist that their most heroic deeds proceeded infinitely more from devotion to the country than from martial spirit.

As I have already proceeded at too great length, other questions suggested in the platform must await my letter of acceptance.

Mr. Chairman: In most graceful speech you have reminded me of the great responsibility, as well as the great honor of the nomination bestowed upon me by the convention you represent this day. Be assured that both are appreciated—so keenly appreciated that I am humbled in their presence.

I accept, gentlemen of the committee, the nomination, and if the action of the convention shall be endorsed by an election by the people, I will, God helping me, give to the discharge of the duties of that exalted office the best service of which I am capable and at the end of the term retire to private life. I shall not be a candidate for, nor shall I accept a renomination. Several reasons might be advanced for this position, but the controlling one with me is that I am fully persuaded that no incumbent of that office should ever be placed in a situation of possible temptation to consider what effect the action taken by him in an administrative matter of great importance might have upon his political fortunes. Questions of momentous consequence to all of the people have been in the past and will be in the future presented to the president for determination, and in approaching their consideration, as well as in weighing the facts and the arguments bearing upon them, he should be unembarrassed by any possible thought of the influence his decision may have upon anything whatever that may affect him personally. I make this statement, not in criticism of any of our presidents from Washington down who have either held the office for two terms or sought to succeed themselves; for strong arguments can be advanced in support of the re-election of a president. It is simply my judgment that the interests of this country are now so vast and the questions presented are frequently of such overpowering magnitude to the people that it is indispensable to the maintenance of a befitting attitude before the people, not only that the Chief Magistrate should be independent but that independence should be known of all men.

Selma's first new bale of cotton reached the city Friday evening at an hour too late to offer it for sale. It was raised by A. A. Simms at Boguechitto and weighed 425 pounds. The bale was consigned to R. H. & W. C. Agee, and was auctioned off, being knocked down to the Mabry Securities company at 12 cents. The cotton classed strict low middling. But for the continuous rains a new bale would have reached Selma a week ago.

Rev. Dr. Francis Mitchell Grace, aged 73 years, one of the oldest residents of Jefferson county and a prominent Methodist minister, died Saturday morning at his home in Owenton. He was ill only about twenty-four hours and his death was very unexpected. He was professor of Latin and Greek at Owenton.

Ed McLendon was found guilty of assault with a pistol and was fined $500 by a jury in Cullman circuit court. He and his father, Henry McLendon, were charged with assualting William Felkins last fall. They demanded a severance and Henry McLendon will be tried at the next term of the court.

B' Gosh, Sir!

"Judge Longshore further showed that all the charges brought against the populist administration were absolutely false."—Advocate.

How Handy Andy can have the consummate nerve to make the above absurd and absolutely false assertion can only be accounted for by its predetermination to willfully mislead and deceive the people, and that, too, in the face of court records.

The populist administration stands charged with placing illegal tax levies upon the people of Shelby county, and the Circuit Court of this county has so decided. Even Judge Longshore admits in his speeches that the Circuit Court held that the railroads could not be made pay but one-half of the special levy for roads. Why? Because the levy was in excess of Constitutional law, therefore illegal. The railroads paid only one-half of this levy against their property, but the common people of this county were made to pay all of it. Did Judge Longshore show that this charge against the populist administration was false and untrue? He gives his unsupported opinion that the levies were legal, yet the fact remains that the people have paid all this illegal levy, while the railroads, supported by a ruling of the Circuit Court, were compelled to pay but one-half of the levy. That is a discrimination by the populist administration against the common people, and in favor of the railroads.

The populist administration stands charged with having made repeated illegal levies by placing upon the people of this county levies to the amount of six and seven mills for county purposes, and this, too, in the face of Supreme Court decision which says that a levy for county purposes in excess of five mills is unconstitutional and therefore illegal. Upon this very decision the Commissioners' Court of Shelby county, and of which Judge Longshore is the presiding officer and legal advisor, refunded to the Southern Mineral Land Co. the excess and illegal tax collected from this company under the six mill tax levy (which the Supreme Court has held is illegal) made by the populist administration. Has any refund of this illegal tax been made to the common people—the poor people of Shelby county? Not a copper cent! Does Judge Longshore show, or attempt to show the above is not true? No! He just gives his opinion, unsupported by any law, that the levies are legal; and yet his inconsistency is shown when he told the Commissioners' Court that under the decision of the Supreme Court, referred to above, a refund of the excess tax collected from the Southern Mineral Land Co. would have to be made, and the Commissioners' minutes show the refund was made Did Judge Longshore show the above to be false or untrue? Not a bit of it.

The populist administration stands charged with levying and collecting taxes, time and again, from the people of Shelby county to build bridges which were never built nor contracted for. Did Judge Longshore show that this charge is false or untrue? He did not, nor can he.

The populist administration stands charged with having transferred over seven thousand dollars from the road fund to the general fund contrary to expressed law forbidding the same. (See State Examiner Gorman's report to the Governor.) Does Judge Longshore show that the above charge is false and untrue? He cannot. for the records are against him.

The populist administration stands charged, that notwithstanding the increase in assessed values in the county, the tax rate has almost doubled in the six years of its reign—going frein four mills under Democratic administration, to seven mills under populist administration—the highest rate ever known in the history of the county. Did Judge Longshore show that this charge is false and untrue? He did not, nor can he. The records are against him.

About the only thing Judge Longshore did show was the utter incompetency of the populist administration to administer the affairs of the county in a business like manner, and to the best interest of the people.

The Advocate is worried; it has every reason to be. Of course, Handy Andy does not appreciate this fact a little bit, but The Sentinel wants to admonish him to look up a nice, easy place upon which to fall on the 8th day of November, next: It's coming to him.

The Peoples Advocate, with malice aforethought, and which had been brewed, steeped and simmered in the cauldron of misrepresentation, and heated by the fire of prejudice, willfully and falsely accused democratic administrations in this county of paying a county officer more than the law allowed. The burden of self-righteousnes and immaculate purity of thought and truthfulness of expression is a great strain upon even its elastic conscience, and it has become so wabbly that is no longer a "middle-of-the-roader."

AN ADDRESS TO VOTERS.

To the Voters of Shelby County:

In the begginning of the present campaign, appeal is made to every voter to carefully weigh the issues presented, and reflect upon the grave responsibilities that are his in the consideration and performance of his patriotic duty.

Events of the past few years have removed every cause for, and have largely allayed the differences and feelings that have heretofore separated the white people, and at the same time they have demonstrated the absolute necessity for their standing together. This is one of the few counties in the State where a perfect reunion has not been completely effected, and the manifest desire now shown here for realignment is highly pleasing and encouraging.

The declaration of the Roosevelt administration for political and social equality of the races, emphasized by an exhibition as abhorrent and disgusting as the most bitter hatred of the white man could devise, should speed the day when every white Southern man, at least, without regard to past differences, shall boldly declare himself for White Man's Rule. The Democratic party of Alabama sounded the keynote of the campaign in the Nation, when it adopted for its motto, "White Supremacy." Let Shelby County not be found firing on this emblazoned banner.

The opposition ticket in this county was nominated in part, and approved in its entirety, by that wing of the Republican party whose nom de plume, "Black and Tans" marks them indelibly as upholders of the Black and Tan plank in their party's platform. In so far as a vote can be construed as an endorsement of "principles," a vote for that ticket must mean a preference for political and social equality, and a recurrence of the avalanche of black ballots of which we have just been happily relieved.

Fusion government in this county has proven a disastrous and inglorious failure. It has succeeded only in loading with debt and oppressive taxation, without parallel in the history of Shelby County. Your rate of taxation has, within the past six years, been almost doubled, while your assessed values have increased in like proportion. Repeated levies and collections have been made for the same purposes, and those purposes still unaccomplished. Questions of Constitutional right to demand such excessive taxes have been raised by a few of the largest taxpayers, some of which have been, and all of which may be, determined in their favor; thus throwing the entire burden of over-taxation upon the shoulders of the poor man, with crushing discrimination. Obligations beyond your ability, have been entered into, and put upon you without your knowledge, consent or desire. Contracts for special improvements made, beyond the amount of revenue authorized by the Constitution for such purposes, and your revenue derived from the general rate of taxation will not meet the running expenses of the County, and repay the money borrowed, upon which you must continue to pay interest. In short, the County has been rushing towards strangulation, with increasing speed.

These results have been brought about by errors, lack of foresight, want of consideration, over-estimation of resources, and defiance of laws and business principles, on the part of those entrusted with authority. Thoughtful men must—they will—pause and retrace their steps. Look not to the authors of these evils, for their remedy.

The Democratic party presents for your judgment and suffrages, nominees of acknowledged probity, proven qualifications and tried efficiency; men with full appreciation of their responsibility and obligation to the people; with deference to the law and the Constitution; who will act within their legally prescribed limits; whose induction into office would inspire a renewal of confidence in the integrity of our great County, and bring its affairs out of confusion into order; men backed and supported by principles, tried and true, which have been since our free government began—which are eternally right.

We appeal alike to your race pride, your political principles, your interest in the material welfare of the people, to restore in Shelby County, rational, conservative, safe, constitutional government and policies.

Very respectfully,
R. E. BOWDON,
Chairman Democratic Ex. Com. Shelby County.

THE DEADLY PARALLEL.

You Must Levy Before.	You Cannot Levy Before.
"If The Sentinel was not trying to prejudice the people it would have said there was a law COMPELLING the Commissioners' Court to levy taxes for building bridges before the bridges are built."—Advocate, July 28, 1904.	"You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges and create a debt."—Extract from the speech made by Judge Longshore, at Dunnavant, Saturday, Aug. 12, 1904.

And there you are. The Advocate says a law compels that the levy be made before the bridges are built; Judge Longshore says you cannot levy a tax for bridges under the Constitution "until you first build the bridges and create the debt." It is a well known fact that Judge Longshore shapes the editorial expressions of the Advocate, but in the above that paper and the Judge seem to have their things mixed—gotton the wires of their think tanks crossed, as it were.

It is well known also, that tax levies have been placed upon the people of Shelby county, under the populist administration, for bridges which have never been built, nor even contracted for. Judge Longshore will not deny this is true. Yet, the Judge says under the Constitution you cannot levy a tax for bridges "until you first build the bridges and create the debt." What, then, is the deduction in relation to the tax levies which have been made for bridges which have never been built: That they were simply unconstitutional (admitted by Judge Longshore), therefore illegal, just as claimed by The Sentinel. Not being in accordance with Constitutional law the railroads are justified in contesting payment; but the poor people of this county have already paid these unconstitutional and illegal levies, and they are forever barred from recovering the same. Where does the blame lie? With the Constitution? No, for the levies were not in accordance with constitutional law. The blame must and does rest upon the populist administration, for under it the levy was made and collected from all but the railroads. In his speech at Dunnavant Judge Longshore in attempting to avoid and dodge Scylla, fell headlong into Charybdis. Judge Longshore is doing well, and before the campaign is over he will be ready to admit that the populist administration is out of joint.

Wrong, as Usual

By a distortion of facts, and following its usual course of attempting to prejudice the minds of those who do not think for themselves, the Advocate attempts to create the impression that while he was Probate Judge, D. R. McMillan discriminated against populist officials in making their bonds. In its tirade it starts out with an unqualified falsehood by saying that McMillan raised W. A. Tallant's bond from $20,000 (the amount of W. A. Thompson's bond as treasurer) to $27,000.

As W. A. Thompson's bond was $25,000 instead of $20,000, as claimed by the Advocate, Handy Andy has another guess coming to him. As to McMillan raising Mr. Tallant's bond to $27,000, let us see. Mr. Tallant, as County Treasurer, was required to give bond in the sum of $27,000 because the law required it, but McMillan did not fix the amount of that bond. Section 1428 of the Code provides that the County Treasurer's bond must be "in double the estimated amount of the annual revenue of the County to be determined by the Court of County Commissioners." The Court of County Commissioners, as the law requires, fixed Mr. Tallant's bond, and not McMillan.

The amount of County tax for that year was $16,574 89. Double this amount, (as the law requires the bond shall be) would be $31,149 78. The County Commissioners fixed the bond of W. A. Tallant at $27,000. It cannot fairly be considered as the Advocate contends.

In 1896, the bond of J. H. Robertson, Tax Collector, was fixed at $30,000. Section 3994 of the Code provides that the Tax Collector's bond shal be "in double the probable amount of the taxes (State and County) that may at any time be in his hands, to be determined for each County by the State Auditor." The State Auditor fixed the amount of Mr. Robertson's bond, and not McMillan. The State, County, special and poll tax for 1896 amounted, approximately, to $40,000. The amount of the bond of Tax Collector Robertson for that year, of $30,000, as fixed by the State Auditor, was low.

In 1900, when Mr. Robertson was re-elected, the present Probate Judge accepted a bond of $20,000 in lieu of the one for $30,000 which he had been required to give four years before by State Auditor. In 1903, when it became necessary for Mr. Robertson to make a new bond because of the withdrawal of his sureties on the old bond the present Probate Judge again accepted a bond from the Tax Collector for $20,000.

The Advocate propped up a straw man and the State Auditor and Commissioners' Court have knocked Handy Andy's campaign thunder into the middle of next month.

As to approving the bonds of Tax Collector and Treasurer, Judge McMillan only did his duty. It was only his purpose to require such bonds as were solvent. The Sentinel is informed by him that he gave the said officers the benefit of every dollar the sureties owned as shown by the tax books, and as soon as the aggregate amount reached the amount of the bond, he approved. The greater part of the sureties were small tax payers, and of necessity it took a goodly number of them to make the bond good. As an evidence that it was not his purpose to give Messrs. Tallant and Robertson any more trouble than was necessary, the bond of E. F. Vest, as sheriff, was approved on presentation, because of the fact that one of the sureties on his bond, George Kroell, alone made the bond perfectly good The other officers' bonds were approved promptly and without any trouble. Judge McMillan returned also to be strengthened the bonds of two prominent Democratic Justices of the Peace.

The law provides a remedy where a bond is good and solvent and an officer refuses to approve it, to compel him to do it. Judge Longshore was a lawyer, and the legal advisor of all these officers, and he should not have permitted them to be imposed upon as is contended they were.

Judge McMillan's efforts to require good bonds of these two officers will commend him favorably to the voters of the county, rather than reflect against him, the prejudicial sop and snivelings of the Advocate to the contrary notwithstanding. In its baby act it is an object of pity.

Contrast the action of McMillan with that of the populists in reference to the bond of the present Tax Collector in 1900. He was required to make a new bond. His bond was fixed only at $20,000—not by the State Auditor, but by Judge Longshore. Then again in 1903, when the same officer's sureties withdrew from his bond, Judge Longshore again approved his bond of $20,000 and accepted the same. The State and County tax in 1900 was approximately $52,000, and in 1903 the State and County tax was approximately $61,000.

Let the Handy Andy of the populist administration answer the question: Which officer was looking the closer after the interests of the people in the bond matter—Longshore or McMillan?

A Political Contortionist.

Written for The Sentinel.

Some very amusing things occur at the joint discussions, and to the mind of a layman political contortion acts of Judge Longshore are not the least amusing. When addressing a crowd where there are but few, if any, Republicans the Great Expounder of free silver doctrine in Shelby county stands with both feet planted upon a block of the white metal and sings the praises of Tom Watson. But if there are a goodly number of Republicans present, as was the case at Dunnavant, he says to the free silver tempter, "Get thee behind me, Satan, for you are in bad odor here" Then he proceeds to throw bouquets at the Roosevelt administration, and fastened himself to the gold standard in the following:

"If we have plenty of gold, that is all I want. I am not so much for free silver as you might think."

It is not improbable that Judge Longshore is planning to follow the lead of a former populist leader in this county, G. B. Deans, who, after working the populist party here for all it was worth to him, deserted it and took a plunge into the Republican party because it promised him something. Judge Longshore says:

"The Democratic party always gives us less than it promises, while the Republican party always gives us more than it promises."

As the Demotratic party is promising nothing to Judge Longshore, and he, after trying to deliver the populist vote in this county to Roosevelt as he is pledged to do, he no doubt will cast aside the populist lemon from which he has sucked all the nourishment possible for his personal advancement. Mark the prediction of one who has known Judge Longshore for years. To weld himself still closer to the Republican party in which he hopes ultimatly to find a resting place, he says:

"On these great principles I stand where Blaine stood; I stand where Grant stood; I stand where Lincoln stood"

And in the light of the course of this great political contortionist in Shelby county politics no doubt the great men to whom he refers, were they permitted to come back to earth, would at once want Judge Longshore put in quarantine.

In an attack upon the Constitution he used the same expression which I am informed he used in his speech at Shelby:

"I will not support such a Constitution only so far as I am compelled by law so to do!"

And yet if through some misfortune Judge Longshore is re-elected he must hold up his right hand, in taking the oath of office, and swear that he will support the Constitution of the State of Alabama. I would ask the voters, the patriotic citizens of Shelby county can you afford to elect a man to the chief office of our county; to sit as the administrator of justice in our County Court, who has said he will not support the Constitution of the State unless compelled to do so by law? His past action proves his assertion to be true. That he has subordinated the laws of the Constitution is proven by his own acts and words. Tax levies have been put upon the people of this county to build bridges which have never been built, and for which no debt was ever created, and which the Constitution expressly stipulates must be done before a special levy can be made. Judge Longshore says the Probate Court holds these levies to be legal, and Judge Longshore is the Probate Court in its entirety. But in his speech at Dunnavant he executed a complete somersault which gives his official decree as Probate Judge on the tax levies a flat contradiction. In his speech, he said:

"You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution until you first build the bridges and create a debt."

In the above expression Judge Longshore admits that the levies heretofore made for bridges which have not been built were illegal, and that the money collected under those levies was wrested from the taxpayers of this county, many of whom are poor people, in direct violation of Constitutional law. The Judge would have been consistent with his actions if he had said: "I will not support the Constitution, law or no law."

VERITAS.

Wilsonville, August 15th.

Soon Have Time to Rest.

"It makes one tired to read the double column 'clap trap' argument of The Sentinel on what it terms 'the illegal tax levies.' Here The Sentinel is setting itself up as an encyclopedia of wisdom and writes the opinion of the circuit court many months before the court convenes."—An Advocate Wail.

Yes, it is growing more apparent with each succeeding issue of the Advocate that its editor(s) are becoming very tired, and more and more worried over the illegal tax levies for the people all over the county are aroused over the wholesale hold up.

As to The Sentinel's wisdom in the matter—it comes from decisions rendered some three years ago by both the Circuit Court of Shelby county, and the Supreme Court of Alabama. The common people of this county would be much better off today had the head-strong, self-willed populist administration paid a little attention to the court decisions referred to. Instead of doing so, it plunged headlong into the pockets of the poor people of Shelby county and in four tax levies unlawfully took therefrom between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars. It does not require any great stock of wisdom to read and understand plain English. Is the Advocate lacking in a talent which is in the possession of every ten-year-old school boy? If so, its editor(s) should enter the primary grade of the Columbiana public school which opens October 3rd. Tuition free to any child in Shelby county.

Miss Gertrude Roberts, of Birmingham, is in the city visiting relatives for a while. Miss Roberts will probably go to Boston this winter and take a post graduate course in some school of expression.

Dobson & Bynum, the Montgomery contractors who are to build the new jail, commenced operations in earnest last Monday morning. Mr. Bynum was a pleasant caller on The Sentinel last Saturday, and left an order with us for some job work.

Lost.—One day last week, a gold medal, upon which is the word "Scholarship." It is the property of Miss Mariana McGraw, and was won by Miss McGraw at school, and it is prized very highly. Finder will confer a favor by returning to Mrs. J. S. Pitts.

Eddie Barnett, the youngest telegraph operator on the Southern Railway, has charge of Agent Davis' work during that gentleman's absence at the World's Fair. Eddie is but fifteen years old, but is classed among first class agents when it comes to railroad work.

Miss Rosser Christian is camping with a party of friends at Sulphur Springs, near Jacksonville, after which she will go to White Plains to visit Miss Amy Scarbrough, and from there to Oxford to visit Miss Lena Christian. Miss Rosser will be gone for several weeks.

Master Joe Peters, of Montevallo, is in the city this week visiting his father, Judge J. L. Peters. Joe was an employe of The Sentinel for several months while we were in Montevallo, and is a young lad of whom his father has every reason to be proud. He came to see us Monday.

Rolla Carter returned to Marion last Saturday, after a pleasant visit with his mother in Shelby, and with friends here for the past two weeks. He is an employe of the Marion Standard, and thinks he is working for the best man on earth. We are free to say that Senator Greer is one of the most whole-souled men we ever knew.

Max Lefkovits, of the Columbiana Mercantile Co., left last Sunday morning for New York to buy the fall and winter stock for his firm. He informs The Sentinel that he expects to buy the largest stock ever brought to this section of the country. Mr. Lefkovits expects to be gone for several weeks, and will return by way of St. Louis and take a peep at the big Fair.

C. A. Killough, of Anniston, and Geo. W. Morgan, of Montevallo, were in Talladega yesterday looking over the field, contemplating going into the general merchandise business. Mr. Killough says he'd rather live in Talladega than any place on earth and wants to go in business here.—Talladega Mountain Home.

J. H. Abercrombie, of Woodlawn, has purchase the lot adjoining the Latham Drug Co. from J. R. White, and the next one to it from T. F. Atkison and will begin at once the erection of a brick building 40x90 feet. When finished Mr. Abercrombie will put in a stock of general merchandise. He hopes to be ready for business by the first of October.

F. E. Resler, of Birmingham, traveling land and industrial agent of the Southern Railway of this section of the State, was in town Monday of this week, and The Sentinel received a very pleasant call from him. Mr. Resler was here for the purpose of securing data about Columbiana for an article soon to appear in the Southern Field, the official organ of the Southern Railway.

Shelby county parentss can find no better school for their children than is found here in Columbiana. Tuition is free to any child in Shelby county, and board can be had at a very reasonable rate. Write to Mayor Browne or Prof. Dowell for any information regarding the school. It is time to be thinking about it. The Columbiana school opens on October 3rd, for the session of 1904-5.

In this issue will be found the advertisement of Gordon, the Tailor, who is putting his goods on the shelves this week, and will be ready for business next Saturday. Mr. Gordon will carry a complete line of gents' furnishing goods, and is prepared to furnish tailor made suits for both ladies and gentlemen on short notice. He guarantees his work to be first class, and his goods of the best grades. He invites your patronage.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott informs The Sentinel that he will remove to Tuscaloosa some time next month. With the exception of five months at Piedmont, Rev. W. I. Sinnott has been pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city for the past fifteen years, and in all those years has not missed a half dozen Sundays holding services in the church here on the first Sunday in each month. We doubt if there is a minister in Alabama can beat the record of Rev. Mr. Sinnott in the regularity of his services and constancy to his church and people here. All of Columbiana people will regret when he leaves here; he is a noble man; a good man, and one whom every person knowing him is better for having known him. His mother and the Misses Sinnott go with him, and they carry with them the best wishes of all our people.

School Trustees.

At an election held in this city last Saturday, Prof. C. H. Florey, of Harpersville, J. E. Ruffin, of Helena, W. S. McEwen, of Wilsonville, and H. W. Harrison, of Dogwood, were elected a board of trustees, who, together with the County Superintendent, will have charge of the public schools of Shelby county.

New Church Bell.

The new bell for the Methodist church arrived this week and is being placed in position. Including the frame it weighs seven hundred pounds.

This bell takes the place of the old one which has been on the church for the past forty-seven years, but which was cracked some time ago while being tolled for a funeral. The bell is thirty-four inches in diameter—ten inches larger than the old one.

Central Hotel sold.

T. S. Millsap, of Pell City, was in town last Friday and Saturday, and while here he purchased the Central Hotel property from Mrs. Weaver.

Mr. Millsap paid The Sentinel a pleasant call Saturday, and says he intends to refurnish and refit the hotel throughout, and make it a place of real comfort to patrons. He is an old hotel man, and is the owner of two other hotels.

Mr. Millsap has four daughters, and he gives as his reason for coming to Columbiana—a desire to school his girls. He says the Columbiana public school has the reputation of being one or the best public schools in the State of Alabama. He expects to take charge of the hotel on the first of September.

Wedding at Vincent.

Written for The Sentinel.

The marriage of Mr. Charles Von Trost, of San Antonio, Texas, and Miss Lulie Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Elliott, of this place, last Wednesday evening at the Baptist church, was one of the most beautiful social affair that has ever been the writer's pleasure to witness.

The decorations wer artistic in design, profuse and rich, and were indicative of Parthenia's description of true love to the bandit king.

At an early hour an eager throng began to assemble, and long before the bridal party arrived the spacious house of God was filled with friends and who had come to see their school mate and life long associate given in marriage to the man of her choice. At 8:30 the bridal party arrived and the organ, under the skillful touch of Mrs. W. T. Kidd, pealed forth the wedding march, and to its measured time they marched slowly down the aisle. The happy twain, whose lives were now to be joined, paused before the flower decked altar where their pastor arose and in a voice well modulated to the gravity of the occasion, spoke the beautiful words that welded the life-links that bound them until "death do us part."

The attendants were Mr. G. C. Pitts and Miss Haynes, Jas. M. Kidd and Miss Annie Kidd, Dr. J. Harris and Miss Annie M. Kidd, Oscar McGraw and Miss Mary Kidd, Frank Nichols and Miss Ella Elliott. The bridesmaids were the picture of loveliness. The gentlemen were in full dress and presented a handsome appearance. After the ceremony the bridal cortege was driven to the home of the bride's parents where congratulations were extended and a reception tendered.

The bride is a young lady of amiable disposition, and is possessed of many of those graces which fit her for a help-meet indeed.

The groom is one of Childersburg's most highly respected young business men, being the trusted and efficient book-keeper for the well known firm of J. A. Nichols & Co., and comes from his native state with the highest recommendations.

We extend our sincere congratulations and wishes for their future happiness, and hope for them all the joys that so auspicious a union indicates. May the roses bloom ever in their pathway, and by its side flow the crystal waters of pure and holy love.

Election of County Trustees.

The chairmen of the Board of Trustees of the various school districts for the county of Shelby, met at the court house, in Columbiana, Saturday, August 13 1904, in answer to the call of Supt. John B. Farrell, as prescribed by law.

The county superintendent called the meeting to order at 10:30 o'clock a. m., stating the object of the meeting, it being to elect a county board of education. After reading the law authorizing such election and explaining the duties of the board to be elected, he admonished the people not to be influenced by any personal or political preferment, but that they should take into consideration the common good of the cause of education to be subserved by said board. John B. Farrell acting chairman, appointed A. D. Miller secretary of the meeting.

On motion of C. C. Seale, which was duly seconded and carried, it was resolved; That a representative from each Commissioner's District be elected to membership on this board, and that the districts be taken up separately for nominations and election.

Resolved urther: That when more than one name be put in nomination the vote be cast by ballot.

The chairman declared the meeting open for nominations:

District No. 1 was taken up and nominations made as follows: W. S. McEwen was nominated by C. M. Williams, Irwin Wingard by J. P. Harkins, G. H. Averyt by J. W. Garris, and W. E. Riddle by W. A. Lyons.

Messrs. Lucas and Harkins were appointed tellers, and after having taken up the ballot, W. S. McEwen, receiving a plurality vote, was declared duly elected.

District No 1 was taken up and nominations called for, resulting in the nomination of J. E. Ruffin by J. W. Ray and J. McAllen by W. H. Sturdivant. J. E. Ruffin having received a majority of all the votes cast, was declared duly elected.

On going into District No. 3, H. W. Harrison was nominated by N. T. Lucas and S. W. Ellenberg by R. M. Payne. H. W. Harrison received a majority of votes, was declared duly elected.

District No. 4 was then taken up and C. H. Florey's name was put in nomination by B. D. Miller. On motion nominations were closed, and on motion of B. D. Miller, the said C. H. Florey was elected by acclamation.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

NOTIFICATION SPEECH

Delivered by the Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri, at the Home of Judge Parker.

A CHARACTERISTIC ADDRESS

Interspersed With His Witticisms. Committee's Letter to the Nominee.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 10.—In notifying Judge Parker of his nomination for the presidency, Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri, was spokesman for the notification committee.

Mr. Clark said:

Judge Parker—The most momentous political performance known among men is the quadrennial election of an American President. The supreme executive power of 80,000,000 free people changes hands with simplest ceremony and most perfect order. While the contest for votes is waged with earnestness and enthusiasm—sometimes with much heat and with bitterness—the ready acceptance of the result by the defeated is the surest augury of the perpetuity of our institutions.

Presidents come and Presidents go; but the great republic—freighted with the hopes of the human race for liberty—goes on forever.

All history proves that a government bottomed on popular suffrage is a government by party. Experience shows that he serves his party best who serves his country best. The names most fondly cherished are those of men who unselfishly devoted their time, their energies, their talent, their fortunes and their lives to the promotion of the public weal. Stronger incentive to high and patriotic endeavor no man hath than to stand through all the ages in that goodly company.

Out of the masterly debates and profound deliberations at the St. Louis convention emerged a reunited party, which goes forth conquering and to conquer. The flower of the democracy assembled there to consult on the state of the country and to take measures for restoring the government to the principles enunciated by the Fathers, from which it has drifted far in these latter days.

Every phase of the democratic opinion was represented and advocated by brave, honest and able champions in that great conclave of free and patriotic men. The St. Louis convention carried out on cut-and-dried program. its delegates were not mere automatons or marionettes, moving and talking when the strings were pulled by one man. Speech and action were absolutely free, and the great debates which took place there will constitute part of the permanent political literature of the country. No effort was made to gag or bridle any one. If a delegate had a pet idea which he wished to exploit, he was given an adequate and respectful hearing before either the platform committee or the entire convention. Every man had his say. To none was opportunity denied. Out of it all there grew such unity as encourages lovers of liberty and of pure government everywhere.

We enter this campaign with the strength which grows out of the union of a mighty party; with the enthusiasm born of truth; with the courage that emanates from a righteous cause; with the confidence befitting men animated by noble purposes and lofty patroitism.

Democratic principles are grounded in eternal truth. As formulated by the father of democracy, they are not for a day, but for all time, and are as applicable at this hour as when he proclaimed them in his first inaugural address, which has become a classic.

The necessity for putting them into practice is as pressing now as it was then. To once more make them the basis of our political action is the pleasant but arduous task assigned you by the democracy of the land.

To serve the whole American people, without discrimination, faithfully and well; to distribute the blessings of the federal government impartially to all our citizens; to lighten the burdens of government by reducing taxation to the minimum and by rigid economy in the public service; to administer the powers conferred by the constitution justly, wisely, fearlessly, vigorously and patriotically, without diminution or usurpation; to maintain freedom of thought, freedom of speech and freedom of the press; to promote the sacred cause of human freedom everywhere by the wholesomeness of our example; to vindicate and glorify the theory and the practice of representative government; to secure its blessings to our posterity for all time—these always have been, are, and forever must be the aims and purposes of democrats.

These aims and purposes of the democracy have been carefully, clearly and comprehensively set forth in the declaration of principles which was unanimously reported to the St. Louis convention in July last by the platform committee after more than sixteen hours spent in its consideration, in which every great live issue is frankly, boldly and fully discussed, and which was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted by the convention, composed of delegates from every constituency under our flag.

There was a splendid array of Presidential candidates before the St. Louis convention supported by loyal friends and ardent admirers. An unusually large number of men were placed in nomination for the greatly coveted honor.

You were chosen with such enthusiasm as foretells success. Having, on the only ballot, received the two thirds majority, indispensable by democratic usage, your nomination was made unanimous with the heartiest approval of all your illustrious competitors. "Absolute acquiescense in the decisions of the majority, the vital principle of republics" has ever been a cardinal tenet of democracy, and the signs of the times indicate that you will be supported at the polls by the democratic hosts with the same unanimity with which you were nominated.

The hope is not too extravagant for entertainment that in this campaign our candidates will have the support, not only of every democrat in the land, but also of every voter by whatever political name called who believes that the constitution of the United States is a living reality and that it is binding equally on high and low, great and small, public official and private citizen. They will also be supported, let us hope, by all men, without regard to political affiliations, who favor maintaining the lines of demarcation between the legislative, judicial and executive departments of the government, the separation of which has been generally conceded to be the wisest, most salutary and most difficult achievement of the masterful statesmen who framed the constitution. It is believed and hoped that, when President, you will use every legitimate influence at your command to restore and preserve the just and healthful equilibrium among the departments established by the constitution.

HON. CHAMP CLARK OF MISSOURI

The most marked characteristics of the bulk of the American people are reverence for the constitution and obedience to law.

Your long and conspicuous career as a jurist in one of the highest courts in the world—the period which you have spent in expounding constitutions and statutes—causes your countrymen to believe that into that more exalted position to which they are about to call you, you will carry with you that profound respect for the constitution and the law which with you has become a confirmed mental habit and upon which depends the perpetuity of our system of government—the best ever devised by the wit of man—a system whose beneficent results have made us the most puissant nation on the whole face of the earth.

To preserve in its integrity and its full vigor this system which was bought with a great price is the grand mission of the democratic party whose head you have become.

Into your hands the great historic party of constitutional government has committed its standard with abiding faith in your courage, your integrity, your honor, your capacity and your patriotism, believing that under your leadership we will achieve a signal victory; hoping that your administration will be such a fortunate, such a happy epoch in our annals as to mark the beginning of a long era of democratic ascendency and that you will so discharge the duties of your high office as to rank in history with the greatest and best-beloved of American presidents.

The convention, according to democratic custom, appointed a committee—of which it did me the honor to make me chairman for which I am deeply grateful—to convey to you official information of your selection as the democratic nominee for president of the United States.

Speaking for the committee, with pleasure, I hand you this formal notification of your nomination together with a copy of the platform unanimously adopted by the convention. In its name and by its authority, I have the honor to request you to accept the nomination unanimously bestowed.

May the nomination find fruition in election. May the God of our Fathers guide, protect and bless you both as a candidate and as the chief magistrate of the republic.

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Clark handed Judge Parker the following:

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1904.

"To the Hon. Alton B. Parker:

"Sir:—As the regularly appointed and duly accredited committee of the national convention of the democratic party, held at the city of St. Louis, Mo., on the 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th days of July, 1904, we, the undersigned, have the honor, and it is our pleasure to convey to you as we now do, the official announcement of your unanimous nomination by that great and historic body of the people, as its candidate for the exalted office for the president of the United States, at the election to be held on November 8, 1904, a nomination manifestly wise and appropriate that already the country has indicated its approval of it, and the most convincing auguries are rapidly increasing of its formal endorsement by the American people.

"In requesting your acceptance of this nomination, we are, with assurances of our high esteem and sincerest good wishes.

"Yours respectfully,
CHAMP CLARK, of Misouri,
Chairman."

It was also signed by all other members of the notification committee.

COMPLETING MUSTER ROLL.

Of Confederate Soldiers—Camps Have Greatly Added to Information.

As is known, the United States war department is engaged in the effort to compile complete rosters of the troops from the several states in the union and confederate armies. This work was undertaken more than a year ago under an act of congress of February 25, 1903, as follows:

"That under the direction of the secretary of war the chief of the record and pension office shall compile, from such official records as are in the possession of the United States and from such other authentic records as may be obtained by loan from the various states and other official sources, a complete roster of the officers and enlisted men of the union and confederate armies."

In Alabama the task of collecting the data necessary for this roster has been committed to the department of archives and history. Director Thos. M. Owen has made extensive inquiries by personal appeal, by correspondence and through the press, and has had very general co-operation.

Building Houses.

It is announced that the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company will build a number of houses for their employes at No. 4 and No. 5 mines, Pratt division. These mines are in the vicinity of Wylam and Ensley, and the miners have been carried to their work from their homes and again on a train operated by the Birmingham Southern and paid for by the company. It is claimed that the building of the houses near the mines will obviate the running of this train and be a saving to the Tennessee company of something like $20,000 per annum.

The building of houses at the mines will be of injury to Pratt City, and as many of the miners own their homes at Pratt City, it will have considerable effect on them. However, President Bacon states that it is a business proposition and the idea mentioned will be carried out.

The Panama canal was practically begun in 1883 by the French company. They had completed about two-fifths of the length, when, because of fraudulent management, the company failed, and the work ceased in 1889.

Disobeyed Orders.

Friday night two freight trains on the Atlantic Coast Line met in a head-on collision at Elba Junction.

The trains were a local, east-bound, and a through passenger, west-bound. The wreck was caused by disregard of orders by the local engineer, who ran by the meeting point. The engines were locked tightly together, and Engineer McLaughlin was killed. A fireman and two brakemen were bruised.

Burned to Death.

Charles Pitts, a well-to-do colored farmer of DeKalb county, Georgia, with his wife, attended a meeting and before leaving home locked all their children, ranging from 2 to 10 years of age, in the cabin for safe keeping.

Some time during their absence a lamp, left burning, is supposed to have been knocked off, causing an explosion which set the house on fire, and caused the burning alive of the four children, who were powerless to escape.

Little Girl's Lucky Find.

While at an open air bazaar and fete in the Estrella gardens recently, the queen dowager of Portugal lost a gold bracelet set with diamonds, which she greatly prized as the gift of the late King Luiz on their wedding day. A close search of the grounds for the missing ornament met with no success.

It was found by a little girl who will now receive royal attention.

James McLaughlin, president of the Merchants' National bank of Nashville, Tenn., died after a protracted illness. Mr. McLaughlin was 70 years of age, and a native of Ireland.

There will be five twin locks of concrete masonry in the Panama canal, each lock 738 feet long and 82 feet wide, with a lifting capacity of 30 to 32 feet.

On August 1st there were 164 coke stacks in operation as against 188 one month before.

THE AFRICAN SPIDER TREE.

Extraordinary Plant Which Grows One Foot High in a Century.

One of the most curious plants in the world is one described by travelers recently returned from the Cape Negro colony, a little known region of Africa, and called the spider plant, says the Chicago Chronicle. These travelers often heard from the natives of a plant that was part spider, and that, growing, threw its legs about in continual struggles to escape. It was the good fortune of Dr. Welwitsch to discover the origin of the legend. Strolling along through a wind swept tableland country, he came upon a plant that rested low upon the ground, but had two enormous leaves that had twisted about it in the wind like serpents; in fact, it looked as the natives had said, like a gigantic spider.

Its stem was four feet across and but a foot high. It had but two leaves in reality, that were six or eight feet long, and split up by the wind, so that they resembled ribbons. This is probably the most extraordinary tree known. It grows for nearly, if not quite, a century, but never upward beyond a foot, simply expanding until it reaches the diameter given, looking in its adult state like a singular stool on the plain from ten to eighteen feet in circumference.

When the wind came rushing in from the sea, lifting the curious ribbon like leaves and tossing them about, it almost seemed to the discoverer that the strange plant had suddenly become imbued with life and was struggling to escape. When a description and picture of the plant were sent to England it was, like many other discoveries, discredited, but soon the plant itself was received, and now Welwitschia mirabilis is well known to botanists.

Level Best an Unworthy Aim.

Only by getting above our usual level can we make the progress we ought. The man who merely maintains the level to which his life has hitherto risen is, at the best, standing still—and that means falling behind. "I did my level best" is not enough. Our average ought to be constantly higher, and an average is never raised by being merely equaled. Only by beating our average can we raise our average. "Better than my best" is a worthier standard than "my level best."

Two Interesting Inscriptions.

In Russia, beside an old highway, is a bronze tablet bearing this inscription: "Napoleon Bonaparte passed eastward along this road in 1812 with an army of more than 600,000 men." And beside another road only a few miles distant is another tablet, on which these words are inscribed: "Napoleon Bonaparte passed westward along this road in 1813 with an army of less than 200,000 men." That's all.

Tame Reindeer.

The range of the tame reindeer has been widely extended in northern Asia by the tribes that number him among their valuable assets; and now he is in process of being widely introduced into Alaska. Civilization, therefore, has done much to extend the habitat of this animal to the South, but the domesticated reindeer has not been introduced into most of the great regions of the Arctic, where the wild animal roams at will.

A Business Term.

"Now, this is an old antique," explained the dealer.

The professor took off his glasses, smiled quizzically, and glancing at his wife to see if she was listening, said, "My dear man, that is tautological. If it is an antique, it must be old."

"In the dictionary, yes," conceded the dealer. "But we carry three grades—antiques, new antiques and old antiques."—Woman's Home Companion.

Washington's Wheat Crop.

The wheat farmers of Eastern Washington expect to harvest a crop of 30,000,000 bushels this season. They planted a larger area than ever before, and have a favorable season. Much of the harvesting is performed by modern machines, which head the grain and thresh it at the same time. Five men and thirty horses harvest twenty acres a day.

The Farmer With an Umbrella.

A farmer in Indiana rode up to the village store on a bright spring day. As he dismounted it was noticed by the crowd that he carried an umbrella, and after much fun was made over it he said: "Any fool knows enough to carry an umbrella when it's raining, but it takes a smart man to go prepared."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Killed by the Lights.

Seth Sinnot, of Saco, Me., found upon entering his parlor recently that the two lower lights in his window, which were sixteen by thirty-two, were broken in fragments. A dead partridge lay under the window. It is supposed that the bird hit the sash when flying at great speed and was killed by the shock.

Gypsies on their first appearance in England, about the beginning of the sixteenth century, were mistaken for Egyptians and so called by men of education, but the common people, finding some difficulty in mastering the name, rendered it "gypsies," and so the wandering people have ever since been called.

Owners of vicious dogs in Dresden have been informed by the postoffice that unless they remove them at once there will be no further deliveries of letters. This is done to save the cost of the leather leggings which the government had to provide for the postmen.

Westchester, Pa., boasts a Quaker who has spent $60,000 erecting gravestones to relatives and historic characters. Twelve monuments have been erected by him.

In order to preserve the features of those who have died it is proposed by a Russian to embalm corpses by casting around them a solid mass of glass.

Sheriff Injured.

While returning from a drive to Section Ferry, Jackson county, Sheriff D. O. Austin's team became frightened, caused by the breast yoke breaking, and ran away, throwing the sheriff out and dragging him under the carriage for several hundred yards.

Mr. Austin had his left arm broken in two places.

ACHED IN EVERY BONE.

Chicago Society Woman, Who Was So Sick She Could Not Sleep or Eat, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Marion Knight, of 33 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Orator of the West Side Wednesday Club, says: "This winter when I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills I ached in every bone and had intense pains in the kidneys and pelvic organs. The urine was thick and cloudy, and I could barely eat enough to live. I felt a change for the better within a week. The second week I began eating heartily. I began to improve generally, and before seven weeks had passed I was well. I had spent hundreds of dollars for medicine that did not help me, but $6 worth of Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to perfect health."

The world's best timekeeper is said to be the electric clock in the basement of the Berlin observatory, which was installed in 1865. It is encased in an airtight glass cylinder, and has frequently run for periods of two or three months with an average daily deviation of only 15-1,000 of a second. Yet astronomers are not satisfied even with this, and efforts are continually made to secure ideal conditions for a clock by keeping it not only in an airtight case, but in an underground vault where neither changes of temperature nor of barometric pressure shall ever affect it.

The most extraordinary pearl—or, rather, cluster of pearls—known as "the Southern Cross," is owned by a syndicate of Australians, who value it at $500,000. So far as is known, it occupies an absolutely unique position. It consists of nine pearls naturally grown together in so regular a manner as to form a perfect Latin cross.

Of the eight taverns in Bennington, Vt., that entertained man and beast prior to and after the revolution only one, what was known as Harmon tavern, is now standing. This was built about 1769 by Daniel Harmon, and for nearly a century it was kept by himself or some of his descendants. For fifty years it has not been occupied except as a storehouse. It was in this house that Gen. John Stark took his breakfast the morning of the battle of Bennington.

The Cherokee Advocate is one of the oldest and most remarkable newspapers in the United States. It is the official organ of the Cherokee nation, and is published at Tahlequah at the nation's expense. It is a weekly, half of which is printed in the Cherokee language. It is strictly non-partisan and forbidden by law to deal in politics. Its purpose is to perpetuate the Cherokee language.

Until forty years ago an English book was practically unknown in Japan. The only foreign literature studied was the Chinese, and the first language to be taught in the schools was the Dutch. Now, while English is the most common among the people and is studied by all high school pupils, German and French are favored generally by scholars and physicians.

In the employ of the United States in 1903 were 271,188 persons. Of these 25,810 hold positions in Washington. The total includes all who draw pay from the national government excepting elected officers. About one-half the number, 134,549, obtained their appointments under competitive conditions.

The Doctor Was Out.

She was a maid who had been with the doctor for years, and the habitual expressions of those years could not be easily laid aside.

When the doctor died she remained at the house. An old friend of the doctor, who had been abroad and had not heard of his death, called and was admitted.

"I would like to see Dr. H.," he said.

"I'm sorry," said the maid, "but the doctor is dead!"

Stricken by this dread intelligence, the visitor sat silent for some minutes.

After waiting some time the maid ventured timidly:

"Will you—will you—wait?"—Lippincott's.

Pure Food Demanded.

Uncle Sam is very particular to prevent, so far as it is possible, the importation of any food stuffs containing injurious ingredients. This is excellent work, indeed, but if home products should be submitted to the same careful scrutiny given foreign products the work would be even better. Adulteration prevails in almost every line of food products, and it does not meet the complaint to declare that the consumers never know the difference. Pure food is demanded and it should be made possible.—Wilmington, Del., News.

Miss M. Cartledge gives some helpful advice to young girls. Her letter is but one of thousands which prove that nothing is so helpful to young girls who are just arriving at the period of womanhood as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly, for it is the only medicine I ever tried which cured me. I suffered much from my first menstrual period, I felt so weak and dizzy at times I could not pursue my studies with the usual interest. My thoughts became sluggish, I had headaches, backaches and sinking spells, also pains in the back and lower limbs. In fact, I was sick all over.

"Finally, after many other remedies had been tried, we were advised to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am pleased to say that after taking it only two weeks, a wonderful change for the better took place, and in a short time I was in perfect health. I felt buoyant, full of life, and found all work a pastime. I am indeed glad to tell my experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it made a different girl of me. Yours very truly, MISS M. CARTLEDGE, 533 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga." — $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

FIGHTING AT PORT ARTHUR.

Action of United States Torpedo Boat Chauncey at Shanghai Criticized.

Japanese Loan.

The first detailed news of the general assault on Port Arthur indicates that a tremendous conflict is raging and that victory is hanging in the balance.

The Japanese have swept the Russians from Pigeon Bay and captured the northernmost fort of the western line of inner defenses at Port Arthur. The Russian artillery prevents the Japanese occupying the fort on Pigeon Bay.

The belief is increasing that the Japanese do not intend to make a direct attack on General Kuropatkin's position at Liao Yang. The movements of the Japanese and other information indicate that they will try to force an engagement in the vicinity of Mukden.

Shanghai was thrown into excitement by the arrival of a Japanese torpedo boat. She passed Woo Song at full speed and started up the river Ju for Shanghai. The United States torpedo boat destroyer Chauncey slipped her cable and followed the Japanese destroyer.

The Japanese boat was cleared for action. She anchored off the Cosmopolitan dock, where the Russian cruiser Askold is undergoing repairs. The Chauncey came to anchor practically between the dock and the Japanese destroyer.

The dock where the Askold lies is owned by British interests. On one side of this dock is German and Dutch property and on the other side American property. There are eight American, one German, two British and four French warships here.

The intervention of the American squadron at Shanghai, in the Japanese operations against the Russian cruiser Askold, created considerable surprise in official and diplomatic circles in London.

An official said: If the report is not untrue the American officer must have had good reason for his action, such as the protection of the American interests, which would have been endangered by flying shells. Whatever reason actuated the American commander, if he really did as reported, it is certain that no complications will follow.

An official dispatch from Vladivostock shows that every officer on the Rossia and Cromoboi was either killed or wounded. Rear Admiral Jessen narrowly escaped the fate of Admiral Withoft. He was standing on the bridge of the Rossia when it was wrecked by a shell. The two Russian cruisers were literally riddled, their guns and engines being partly dismantled. The escape of the Russian vessels from Admiral Kamimura's four armored cruisers is regarded as a wonderful piece of luck. It is presumed that the pursuers of the Russian ships did not dare go far north, fearing that some of the vessels of the Port Arthur squadron would break through the straits of Korea.

A dispatch to the Japanese legation from Tokio announces that a reply was received from the commander of the Russian forces at Port Arthur refusing either to surrender to the besieging force of Japanese or to send out the non-combatants.

William Martin, United States consul at Nankin, China, is quoted to the effect that immense bodies of Chinese troops are now drilling in the central portion of the kingdom under the direction of Japanese officers well versed in the art of modern warfare. The soldiers have been supplied with the mauser type of rifles and the most up-to-date machine guns obtainable are now being purchased for their use.

Referring to the issue of a new loan in the form of state notes amounting to $50,000,000, the realization of which it says is already provided for, a Russian paper points out that the official return issued May 13th showed that upward of $150,000,000 was available for military purposes at the beginning of the war. Up to August 16th the military expenditure had absorbed only $128,725,500, and therefore the money obtained by the recent loan of $160,000,000, taken up by France, is not yet touched.

A Mississippi jury gave judgment for $30 against a railroad for killing a dog.

A report from Paris states that Russian revolutionaries declare that the Czarina's child was a girl, not a boy, and that the son of a peasant was substituted. The peasant woman, they say, was smuggled into the royal palace a few days before the Czarina's accouchment was expected. The czarinas' child, a girl, was given to the peasant woman and the peasant's child, a boy, was placed in the royal cradle

COUNTERFEITERS CAPTURED.

$30,000 in Bad Bills Recovered, Together with the Plates.

As a result of nearly two months work by the secret service department, four men were arrested at Atlanta charged with making and circulating counterfeit ten dollar bills of the "Buffalo" pattern; the plates from which the bills were printed were surrendered and about $30,000 of the bills were recovered.

The men under arrest are Oscar L. McMichal, a pressman in the local establishment of the La Hatte Printing Company; Clarence W. Rebb, a printer employed by the same firm; J. N. Little, an artisan, and P. S. Coffey. There is still one man to be arrested and it is believed he lives in St. Louis.

The spurious bills were printed at night in the La Hatte establishment, although the proprietor knew nothing of it until he was informed by the officers. He gave material assistance in preventing the men from escaping. Rebb confessed his part and his confession led to the arrest of the others.

From him it was learned where the money that had not been passed was to be found. The bills it is reported are fairly good, sufficently so to have been accepted by a number business houses, including one bank in this city. All the men were brought together and admitted their guilt. The inspector in a statement said that Little and Coffey met an engraver who is believed to have lived here, but who has moved to St. Louis. From him they bought the plates for $500, each paying one-half. Four plates were used, one for the front of the bill, one for the back, one for printing the numbers and the fourth for printing the seal.

CLAIMS HE ROBBED LOOMIS.

English Police Have a Prisoner, But His Story Is Not Believed.

A man giving the name of Franz Schneider surrendered himself to the Birmingham police accusing himself of stealing papers "from a person about Hampton, believed to be F. Kent Loomis."

The man's story is being investigated by the police, but the latter attach no credence thereto, it being pointed out that Mr. Loomis is not believed to have reached Southampton, and that no papers are reported to be missing.

The alleged confession, which is a vague account of how he and two other foreigners were hired by a man speaking with a Russian accent to steal important papers from a passenger arriving at Southampton on a German liner. Schneider says they waited at the pier and when the passenger reached the gang plank he was pointed out by their employer.

Schneider, according to one statement, abstracted from his pocket a large envelope containing papers bearing the seal of the United States government.

He gave the police the name of a man who is alleged to have employed him to secure the papers and also the names of two others said to be concerned in the theft. He now asserts that this employer was a Russian and says that after the robbery all four slept in a ware house, before leaving which he and his two associates received $25 each.

Floods in Arizona.

Seven lives at least were lost in the flood that swept through the town of Globe, Ariz., and surrounding country. The Gila Valley, Globe and Northern railroad tracks were washed out for a distance of three-quarters of a mile. Telegraphic communication with Globe is interupted.

New Railroad.

The charter of the Delta Southern Railroad company, a new corporation recently organized in Mississippi, has been favorably passed on by Attorney General Williams and is now filed in the governor's office awaiting his approval. This railroad will do business only in Mississippi, extending through the counties of Washington, Bolivar, Sharkey and Yazoo. The applicants ask five years for its completion, and the road will begin at Elizabeth in Washington county, run north to Kuhns in Bolivar county, and then in a southerly direction to its terminal at Campbellville in Yazoo county. Capital stock $50,000.

Soldiers Killed.

Two soldiers, members of the military of Durham, N. C., were instantly killed while returning from the national guard encampment near Moorehead City.

Their heads struck the covered bridge at Stoney creek. The bodies did not fall from the train.

The discovery of the accident was made by the dripping of blood past the windows.

DEATH AND DAMAGE.

Cyclone Strikes Minnesota's Twin Cities. Fifteen Persons Killed.

GREATEST LOSS IN THEATERS

Total Property Damage Estimated at $3,000,000—Path Eight Miles Long.

Five reported dead, twenty injured and property loss estimated to reach $2,000,000 are the results of a fierce tornado which swept down on St. Paul, Minn., about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

The Tivolo theater was demolished, the Empire theatre razed, the high bridge, an immense steel structure crossing the Mississippi river at a height of 200 feet was almost totally destroyed and 244 buildings are more or less damaged.

A report at midnight is that the House of Good Shepherd, a Catholic institution, was wrecked and twenty-five injured. All communication with outlying districts is cut off and it is impossible to say whether or not the damage there has been as great as that done in the city.

The property damaged at Minneapolis is said to have been nearly as great as at St. Paul. The storm was of short duration lasting not more than fifteen minutes.

The wind according to the government observer blew thirty miles an hour coming from the southwest. Buildings were unroofed and blown in, the interiors being flooded by the rain which came in great waves along with the wind. Electric wires were prostrated and many persons injured by contact with the current from electric light and trolley wires.

An excursion steamer towing a barge on the river below St. Paul is reported to have been wrecked. Relief parties in steam launches have been dispatched to the rescue.

Wm. Donaldson & Co., big department store in Minneapolis was badly damaged by the storm. The loss is said to be $300,000. Later reports from Minneapolis are to the effect that no one was killed but many were injured.

The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha round house building collapsed. Five engines and a steam wrecker were damaged. Numerous cars were blown from the track. Damage estimated at $20,000.

LATER—Fifteen people were killed in the fierce tornado which overwhelmed the twin cities and which wrought devastation in other parts of the state. The aggregate property loss is placed at $3,000,000. Of this St. Paul suffered to the extent of about $1,000,000. Minneapolis' damage estimated at $1,500,000, while in the outside districts it is feared that $500,000 will not cover the damage.

Both the Tivoli concert hall and Empire theater were fairly crowded with men watching the performance. Both theaters stood on the edge of the bluff overlooking the river, with the sides of the buildings open, and were wrecked. The full force of the tornado struck them.

DYNAMITE EXPLODED.

Two Persons Killed and Three Injured by Shock of Explosion.

Two persons were killed and three injured, two perhaps fatally at Minden, Mo., by the explosion of fifteen cases of dynimite piled on the Missouri Pacific depot platform being struck by a freight engine. The depot was completely demolished.

The engineer, fireman, station agent and his wife were either killed or fatally injured.

The dynamite was consigned to a mining company. It had been unloaded carelessly and had been on the platform for two hours when a southbound freight train struck a case that projected over the tracks. A terrific explosion followed. The depot was wrecked and a hole made in the ground large enough to bury a box car while the engine was dismantled and the track torn up for a distance of 200 feet.

Desperate Criminals Escape.

Two desperate convicts, Pearl and Horace Wallace escaped from Rankin convict farm, taking guns with them. They were sent up from Franklin county for twenty years and life, respectively for murder. A reward of $200 has been offered for their capture and sergeants with dogs are pursuing them through Pearl river swamp.

After a severe engagement with the protected cruisers Chitose and Tsushima the Russian cruiser Novik has been vanquished. The fight occurred Sunday, but the details are not yet known.

The Georgia railroad commission meets Friday to take up the matter of offering a reduction in railroad fares within Georgia to a maximum of 2 cents a mile.

The attendance at the world's fair for the past week almost equals that of the week previous, although the past week was not marked with so many attractions. The total number of admissions was 641,283, and the total for the previous week was 866,607.

GRADE CROSSING FATALITY.

Four Killed and Twenty-three Injured. Brakes Failed to Work.

Four people were killed, another fatally hurt, and twenty-three severely injured in a collision between an express train and a train of three trolley cars in Chicago. The train, according to some witnesses of the accident, was running at a high rate of speed. Others and the train crew declare that it was not going over twenty miles an hour.

The trolley train approached the crossing at a rapid rate of speed, just as the train came around a sharp curve to the west of the crossing.

Ryan put on the brakes with all his strength in the effort to stop his car, but the brakes refused to work, and with undiminished speed the motor car ran upon the tracks at the same time that the locomotive came up. The car struck the train between the engine and tender, the motor car was torn to splinters, the car immediately behind it was knocked over, smashed nearly to pieces and dragged along the track for 100 feet. The third car was not dragged from the tracks.

Motorman Ryan remained at his post to the last and was fatally hurt, his skull being fractured.

WILL BUILD LINK.

Southern to Complete Line Between Bessemer and Mobile Junction.

The engineers of the Southern railway are making preparations to begin active operations on the road to run from Mobile Junction to Bessemer. The right of way has been secured with the exception of two short tracts of land. The route has already been surveyed and the maps completed. The company intends to commence on the road in the near future, and rush the work until it is completed. The road will not be hard to build, as it passes over almost level ground, leaving very little grading to be done. When this is finished the Southern will have its own tracks all the way into Birmingham from Mobile. They have been using the Alabama Great Southern track since the Three B division of the Southern was built from Mobile Junction into Birmingham.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Fatility In Mississippi Attributed to a Feud.

A special from Laurel, Miss., says that while W. C. Windham, E. Windham and J. T. Blakley were going home from Tallahala Swamp, about two miles from Bay Springs, Miss., they were fired upon by an assassin from ambush, and W. C. Windham was shot in the breast by a Winchester rifle bullet.

His horse ran about eighty yards, when Windham fell dead. The shooting is believed to be a result of the Ainsworth-Windham feud in Smith county, Sloan Ainsworth having recently been killed by one of the Windhams. There is no clue to the assassin

From Statesboro, Ga.

Captain R. M. Hitch, of Savannah, who was in command of the troops at Statesboro, will demand, so it is reported, a court of inquiry of his conduct, and that of his soldiers.

Captain Hitch in his official report alleged that Sheriff Kenrick and his deputies betrayed all his plans to the mob. The sheriff has entered a most emphatic denial of every charge, and in effect charges the military with neglect of duty. The matter is in a state of rest until the return of Governor Terrell from St. Louis.

BOOKS ARE RIGHT.

But Money is Due the State for Convict Hire.

The books and accounts of the state convict department have been examined by Examiner of Public Accounts George F. Sedberry, and reported correct in all particulars. The examiner found, however, that some of the lessees of the convicts of the state had not been prompt in settling their indebtedness to the state.

The convict department, he says, is using every diligent effort to secure a complete settlement. The largest debtor to the state is the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, which owes the state $3,033.40.

Some of the items in the account are in dispute between the board of inspectors and the Sloss company people. These differences are now being considered by the board and an early adjustment of the matter is hoped for.

There is a movement on foot at Corona to make a new county, taking in part of Fayette, Walker and Tuscaloosa.

Twelve locomotives are now being built at the Baldwin works for the Central of Georgia railway.

Coal mines in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma Territory are closed because of too much rain.

A democratic primary will be held in Montgomery county September 26, to select a nominee for treasurer of the county, to take the place of W. E. McGehee, who died two weeks ago.

Bids for the construction of Montgomery's new hotel will be opened September 15th. The building is to be a modern fireproof, seven-story building.

Pensacola is to have a new $100,000 wood working plant.

TORNADO AT ST. LOUIS

Kills Three Persons, Injures Many and Destroys Much Property.

IT CAME WITHOUT WARNING.

Crossed the Mississippi River and Injured Illinois Points and Shipping.

A tornado of extreme fury swept down upon the residence portion of North St. Louis Friday, resulting in the death of two persons, injury to probably fifty and damage to property estimated at $100,000.

A shower passed over St. Louis early in the day, but there had been no rain in North St Louis. The sky had cleared and the atmosphere had become very murky and hot when citizens in North St. Louis noticed a dark cloud approaching from the southwest.

Suddenly, without the slightest premonition, an arm seemed to shoot to the ground like a gigantic cable, twisting and turning. The end touched the ground at Nineteenth and Angelrodt streets, and with incredible swiftness and force swept east along Angelrodt for ten blocks, then turned north and swept three blocks along Broadway, when it jumped eight blocks northeast to the foot of Breman street and the river, where considerable property along the river front was destroyed.

The tornado then jumped to about the middle of the river and encountered a ferry boat, which was turned and tossed about, but was not sunk.

Leaving the ferry the capricious tornado once more jumped and struck the Illinois shore near Madison, where it demolished several dwellings, the Leiderkrans hall and blew down a portion of the Madison Cooper works, killing John Ellington. Severe damage was done also to the buildings in Venice and Granite City, which adjoin Madison, and a number of persons were injured.

The width of the tornado was about a block and a half and houses were unroofed, window panes were generally demolished, several large manufactories partially demolished and the streets littered high with debris.

A Broadway car was suddenly buried under six telegraph poles, which crashed into the top and wrecked the car. The passengers had a remarkable escape from injury and only the motorman received slight bruises.

Probably the heaviest loss suffered by a single concern was the destruction accomplished at the Neidringhaus rolling mill. The plant covers two squares. The big smokestack was blown down and half the plant was demolished, entailing damage estimated at $25,000. Six employes were injured in this place

A concert was in progress at Festival hall at the exposition grounds during the heavy thunder storm, when suddenly there was a flash of lightning and immediately all the lights went out. A panic was only prevented by a woman's voice taking up the strains of "America" and others joining in.

In the Chinese village on the Pike 360 Chinamen, just arrived, were being watched over by the immigration officers temporarily when the storm struck. The celestials became panic-stricken, and the officers were forced to draw revolvers to subdue the excitement. Lightning struck near by and one Chinaman was severely shocked, while another jumped from the roof of the building and broke his arm.

The tornado that swept across the river at Venice killed one person, injured ten others and caused considerable damage to property. The tornado was of short duration, but was remarkably destructive in force.

The tornado was seen jumping across the river, but almost before a word of alarm could be given it swept into Illinois north of Venice, turned, and the next moment was plowing its way through the streets.

A terrific thunder storm broke over St. Louis at night and rain fell in torrents, accompanied by a heavy wind. The weather bureau reported that .67 of an inch of rain fell within ten minutes and the velocity of the wind was 52 miles an hour.

Line Completed.

The work of constructing the Northern Alabama railroad, which is really a part of the Louisville and Nashville and built at its expense, is now completed. The main line extends from Boyles westward to the Warrior river, a distance of thirty-five miles and it has spur tracks aggregating fifteen miles.

This line was built at a cost of about $1,000,000.

SEEKS $3,000,000 DAMAGES.

George Rice Alleges That Standard Oil Company Ruined His Business.

George Rice, of Marietta, O., commenced suit in the United States circuit court for $3,000,000 damages against the Standard Oil company for the alleged ruining of his oil business by the defendant company.

Rice charges that the Standard Oil company compelled him to charge his customers exorbitant freight rates; that the company opened grocery stores to break down his competition, and in other ways succeeded in taking away from him 4,000 customers, an oil refining plant worth $750,000 and a business worth $50,000 a year.

This suit is brought under the interstate commerce act of 1890, and is similar in character to one entered in the court or chancery of New Jersey by Rice in which he seeks to compel the revocation of the company's charter under the laws of New Jersey. While the damages claimed are $3,000,000, the actual amount is $1,000,000.

MOB KILLS NEGRO

Who Had Shot the Town Marshal of Cordova.

City Marshal J. C. McNelson, of Cordova, while attempting an arrest was shot and almost instantly killed by Ed Avery, a negro. The negro was captured and placed in the city jail and a mob overpowered the city officers by breaking down the doors of the jail, secured the prisoner and killed him with bricks and pistols.

Mr. McNelson had been on the police force scarcely two months. He was reared at Cordova and was well known and liked by the entire community.

Town Marshal McNelson went to the house where the negro lived to collect 25 cents due the town of Cordova by the negro, and the negro shut the door in the marshal's face, whereupon he knocked again for admittance. He was answered by the negro opening the door and shooting him with a pistol.

TESTIMONY COMMENCED

The hearing of testimony in the Louisiana-Mississippi boundary dispute commenced Thursday. Louisiana is represented by Mr. Zacharie and others, while Mississippi is represented by Attorney General William Williams and ex-Attorney General Monroe McClurg. It is not likely that any more hearing of testimony in this case, which is one of the greatest ever launched in Mississippi and involves vast sums of money, will be held at Jackson, but there will be several more meetings yet, the next one taking place in Louisiana to last for two or three weeks.

Brighton's Progress.

Preparations are being made to begin work on the new water works system at Brighton. Arrangements will also be perfected in a few days with the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power company to furnish the town with electric light.

The new waterworks company was organized with a stock of $10,000, all of which is composed of home capital. Brighton was incorporated about three years ago and since that time the population has grown until it numbers over 1500.

The Brighton water works company will get its water from Parker Springs, an unusually bold spring near the city. The elevation is higher than most of the town and a fine pressure can be gotten without going to very much expense

Unrestricted Passports.

The United States government has again formally proposed to Russia the opening of negotiations for the unrestricted recognition of American passports. In accordance with the law of the empire, only foreign Jews, of specified classes—merchants having business connection in the country, etc.—are allowed to enter Russia, but quite a liberal policy has been pursued in making exceptions to the rule where legitimate reasons therefor are given. The exceptions, however, are seldom made in the cases of Russian Jews, who have been naturalized abroad. The inhibition is not against the United States alone, but extends to the Jews of every country.

Populists Notified.

Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, the populist leader, and Thomas E. Nebetts, of Nebraska, the candidate for vice president, were formally notified of their nomination Thursday night at Cooper Union.

Mr. Watson opened with the statement that there was never a time when the plain people of America were more dissatisfied with the conditions which prevail in this republic.

After a formal notice that he would soon prepare a formal letter of acceptance, Mr. Watson gave up a great portion of his address to a discussion of the democratic and republican platforms and the candidacy of Judge Parker.

PLUMBERS ADJOURN.

Convention Goes to Toronto in 1905.

The fourteenth convention of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers adjourned Saturday afternoon after a session of nearly a week in Birmingham. Toronto, Canada, was selected as the next place of meeting.

FROM PORT ARTHUR

Russian Vessels Were Driven by Hot Fire from the Japanese Positions.

RECALLED GEN. STAKELBURG.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says Emperor Nicholas has decided to recall General Stakelburg, who was defeated by the Japanese at Vafangow and Telissu in his attempt to relieve Port Arthur.

To cover the deficiency in the estimates created by the increased cost of labor and material, the Japanese government has decided to loan the Seoul-Fusan railway an additional $750,000. The loan runs for five years and bears no interest.

One of the acts of grace signalizing the birth of an heir to the Russian throne will be the total abolition of corporal punishment throughout Russia.

The Russian ships at Port Arthur made a sortie early Tuesday. They are now reported being pursued by the Japanese. A severe engagement is expected.

This movement is regarded as a confirmation of previous reports that the Japanese have occupied an important land position, the fire from which compelled the Russian vessels to leave the harbor. It is not certain that they returned to their former anchorage after the sortie.

A dispatch says that the big oil house at Port Arthur is blazing furiously and that the position of the besieged is such that the Japanese are urging them to surrender.

Russian anxiety regarding the fate of the ships of Rear Admiral Witthoft's squadron remaining unaccounted for is still unrelieved.

St. Petersburg continues to be entirely dependent on foreign sources for news, the Russian authorities claiming to be quite as much in the dark as the public. The admiralty neither confirms nor denies the report that a majority of the squadron returned to Port Arthur, although it does not fail to point out that only the most desperate situation after the sea fight could have compelled the vessels to return for refuge to that port.

There is a rumor afloat that the cruisers Diana and Pallada have reached Port Arthur, but the source of the report can not be traced and it receives little credence.

The opinion is growing that the heavy losses sustained by the Port Arthur fleet may completely alter the plans regarding the Baltic squadron, a division of which is cruising in the gulf of Finland ready to sail.

Advices from Port Arthur say that the Japanese during a bombardment occupied strongly fortified positions with a number of siege guns.

After two hours several of the Japanese guns were silenced. The Japanese, the advices say, are no longer trying to place their guns in the higher positions which are too easily reached by the fire from the fortress, but are busying themselves with mining operations against the defenses.

Although the export of woolen goods to Russia have fallen off for several months past the orders which have been received from Japan never have been so large. They are of such proportions as to keep the woolen mills busy for some months to come.

Count Kamimura is reported dead. He was regarded as the father of the Japanese navy.

It is reliably reported that the Russian cruiser Pallada was sunk on the night of the 10th of August.

Chilton county commissioners have inspected and received the bridge built across Yellow Leaf creek at Salem by Contractor Bean. The commissioners were requested to have the bridge built by several citizens who are desirous of getting rural mail delivery along the road.

Big Coke Contract.

The Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron company has made a contract with Mexican and western smelters for 35,000 tons of coke, and delivery of same begins at once. There was close competition for this contract by the Virginia coke companies, who have heretofore supplied the smelters.

The First National bank of Piedmont will begin business October 1, if the expectations of the officers are fulfilled.

W. P. Roberts has broken the record in his part of Mississippi for growing strawberries. He recently raised 6,012 quarts on one acre, and cleared $353 after paying all expenses.

By a vote of 65 to 1 the town of New Albany, Miss., has decided to issue $20,000 worth of bonds for the establishment of an electric light plant and water works system.

After listening to an address on better education by State Superintendent Whitfield a few days ago the stock-school held a meeting, organized, elected officers, adopted plans and raised a capital stock of $4,000 for a new country school building, whose charter will be applied for from Governor Vardaman in the near future.

Where Does the Fault Lie?

Complaint comes to The Sentinel from some of its subscribers at Vincent that they rarely get this paper before Saturday, and sometimes not until Monday. Our county mail goes into the Columbiana postoffice in time to catch both mails on Thursday, and the Vincent package should reach that office Thursday night by the way of Childersburg. We have received information again this week that our readers in Vincent did not get The Sentinel until Saturday last week. As the paper was mailed here in plenty time to go into Thursday's up mail, we have filed complaint with the Department at Washington, and asked that the matter be investigated. We might say something as to the probable cause why our readers up there do not get their paper when they should, but we prefer to wait until we hear from the Department.

A government by "man damn-us" correctly describes the article we are now getting in Shelby county.

The attorneys of Shelby county would like to see Chancellor R. B. Kelly succeed himself. He has made a good, clean official.

Tom Watson, in his Lincoln speech, rips up the back those of his party who believe in fusing. Ah, there, Judge; your patron saint seems not to approve of your brand of populism.

The "brass tax" spoken of by the Advocate must be that collected for the bridges that were not built, reference being had to the "nerve" that was necessary to pull it out of the pockets of the people.

As one of the populist leaders is figuring on a job in a neighboring State, it is fair to conclude that he thinks he will be out of a job in this county after the November election. For one time he is right in his conclusions.

All the efforts of the populist bosses are now directed toward electing their candidate for Probate Judge, no matter if they sacrifice every other man on the ticket. That's characteristic of the populist leaders—self, and the people be durn d.

The Advocate works itself into a frenzy because it is charged with bearing false witness. Well, really, The Sentinel thought this fact so thoroughly and generally understood, and admitted, that we did not think a simple and incidental mention of the fact would cause Handy Andy to turn a fit.

Shelby county wants capital to open up its undeveloped wealth. According to Judge Longshore, this is not true. He said in his speech in Columbiana: "There are no rich men in Shelby county, and I hope to the good Lord we'll never have any." The coming of capital to this county means work for the poor man, the laborer, the miner, the mechanic, and plenty of work makes a happy, contented, prosperous people. Laboring men, do you approve of Judge Longshore's way of thinking?

While McMillan was Probate Judge no complaint was ever made that he did not attend to the duties of the office, and was not courteous and kind to the people of the county. He never was guilty of having said to a taxpayer of this county who had business with his office: "If you are not satisfied with the way this office is conducted, you can send your mortgages to some other county for record, or wait seven years until some other man is elected to the office." No charge was ever made against McMillan that he advised illegal tax levies, or ever attempted to go beyond the authority that the law gave him. He was always governed by the "thus saith the law." The people of Shelby county remember these things, and will not be slow in expressing themselves by their votes.

It Hardly Needs a Key.

The Sentinel, in a recent issue, referred to the metamorphosis of the County Treasurer into a purchasing agent for the money lenders; a "shifting of the key," so to speak (thanks, Handy Andy, for the very apt expression). Evidently the comment struck a sore spot somewhere, and the Handy Andy organ, last week, doles out a column of sympathetic avoidance for the Treasurer.

The Sentinel did not reflect upon the honesty of the Treasurer, much as the Advocate labors so hard and draws upon its elastic conscience to make appear; neither did The Sentinel impugn his motives, although it threw out a suggestion that his friends may have laid a pit fall for him. We would regret as much as anyone, if he all unwittingly, stumbled into it. A public officer who knows no law and bends to no Constitution until forced to do so, is a dangerous leader for a co-ordinate officer to follow. But to get back to the question, which the Advocate so discreetly shied around: The record, which formed the basis for The Sentinel's remarks is interesting reading. The present administration, we are told, proposes to stand by the record, albeit, we note that it reserves the privilege to amend nunc pro tunc, as the lawyers say, when the record is contrarywise.

At a special term of the Commissioners' Court, March 21, 1904, the following order was entered on the minutes:

"On motion it is ordered by the Court, that the County borrow Eight Thousand Dollars from the First National Bank of Ensley, Ala., for which the County will, on this date, issue to said Bank a warrant for Three Hundred Dollars as interest; said Bank to forward to the Treasurer, the money, and the Treasurer, AS AGENT OF SAID BANK, is to pay out the said money on LEGAL CLAIMS AGAINST THE COUNTY. The first installment of Two Thousand Dollars shall be forwarded to the Treasurer on April first, and upon that sum being expended and the warrants FORWARDED TO SAID BANK, Two Thousand Dollars more is to be sent, and upon the warrants for that amount being sent to said Bank, One Thousand Dollars more will be sent the Treasurer, and upon warrants therefor being sent to said Bank, the Bank will, on July 1st forward to the Treasurer Two Thousand Dollars, and upon the receipt of warrants will send the Treasurer One Thousand Dollars, making a total of Eight Thousand Dollars, and upon paying out of the last thousand the Treasurer will immediately send to said Bank the warrants therefor, and the Bank is to hold said warrants until January 1, 1905, upon which date the Treasurer will pay said Eight Thousand Dollars at said Bank."

Dickens, in transcribing the doings of the Circumlocution Office, never conceived of a more grotesque or painful example of "HOW NOT TO DO IT" than the above. If this does not present a clear case of whipping the devil around the stump; bear the unmistakable impress of hypocrisy and deception in its every feature; make the treasury a sham—a mere place for the "tables of the money changers," then no dependence can be put in language.

The Sentinel does not believe the Treasurer ought to have marked out for him so devious a way, just for the appearance of having money in the treasury and of paying claims against the County. It is, to say the least of it, a dangerous predicament for the Treasurer. According to the record the claims are not being really paid and discharged; but trafficed in; simply bought and sold. Let Handy Andy say something for the record maker, where the fault lies. Let him explain why the highest rates of taxation allowable under the Constitution—the highest ever paid in Shelby County, railroads always excepted—are insufficient to pay the running expenses of the County, and why such circuitous methods must be resorted to, to keep up appearances?

Evidence fast accummulates, as the tortuous tracks of the present administration are uncovered, that it does not deal fairly and openly with the people whose servant it is: that it is grossly inefficient, and that it deserves the defeat awaiting it in November.

That City Court Bill.

The populist leaders and bosses realize that their only hope to win in the November election is to stir up the prejudices of the people. They try very hard to make much out of nothing, and in the Advocate's treatment of even the little things it bases its arguments upon misrepresentations, falsehood and prejudice.

For instance: last week, it professes to publish the much talked of City Court Bill, which is the only argument it has to offer the people why Judge McMilan is not the man for Probate Judge. But following its usual course of deceiving the people where there appears a shadow of an opportunity to make a point for its bosses, it publishes only such portions of said bill as suits their purposes—to deceive. It takes occasion to publish Section 5, which provides that there shall be four regular terms in each year of ten weeks each, making in all forty weeks. And for no other purpose than to mislead the people, it leaves out Section 10, which provides that "there shall be four regular jury terms in said Court each year, to commence on the third Mondays in January, April, July and October, respectively; and said jury terms may continue until the business of the court on the jury shall have been disposed of, not to exceed, however, TWO WEEKS AT ANY ONE JURY TERM."

The object of the Advocate and its bosses is to leave the impression with the people of the county that there will be forty weeks in which this court would have juries; and it shows their cause is weak when it suppresses the truth.

The provisions of Section 5 have been explained. It only means that the court shall be open for the trial of causes, and for the transaction of business, for forty weeks in the year, and during these forty weeks, and as a part thereof, the jury terms provided for in Section 10, are held. The balance of the time the Judge of the court simply keeps his office open, and there is no expense to the taxpayers.

The laws of Alabama requires that the Probate Court shall be open at all times for the transaction of business—fifty-two weeks instead of forty. There is no complaint as to this.

The attack of the Advocate on the said City Court Bill, and upon Judge McMillan, is the rankest of demagoguery, especially so when it is known that the boss of the whole gang, Judge Longshore, voted for several City Court Bills while he was in the legislature, which contained precisely the same features that are so much objected to by this most righteous (?) Boss. The Journal of the House (1882-83, page 429) shows that Judge Longshore DID vote for the City Court of Anniston; he also voted for the City Court of Gadsden; and he voted for the City Court of Decatur, and for several others. Each of the bills establishing those courts provide that the jury tax of four dollars shall be deposited, and also that the Judge of said court shall be appointed. When McMillan produced the House Journal showing that LONGSHORE DID VOTE FOR THOSE BILLS as charged, there was no way for this wily wiggler of whoo bub to get out of the uncomfortable hole into which the House Journal placed him except by exclaiming: "I didn't do it; I didn't do it." Under the condemning circumstances, the people will take Judge Longshore's protestations of "I didn't do it" with a considerable degree of allowance. But the records are against him; and the Judge, you know, was going to stand by the records in this campaign. With him it is evidently a convenient case of lapsus memoriæ.

Consistency is indeed a cardinal virtue, but this jewel does not belong to the make up of either Judge Longshore or his Handy Andy journal. If their utterances in this campaign may be taken as a standard from which to draw conclusions.

Of course, the people fully understand that these reckless plunges on the part of the Advocate and Judge Longshore are made for no other reason than to divert the minds of the people from the infamous illegal tax levies they have been subjected to by the populist administration.

You Cannot Levy Before.

"You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges and create a debt."—Extract from the speech made by Judge Longshore, at Dunnavant, Saturday, Aug. 12, 1904.

Bosses and Ringsters.

Never was a party more completely handled by bossism and ringrule, than the hyphenated, double-tailed opposition to Democracy in Shelby county. There are, however, self-respecting and independent-thinking Republicans and populists in the county, calmly, grimly and determinedly waiting patiently for November, to register an emphatic and telling kick against being led, like so many political Fidos, to vote the wishes of the few men who pose as leaders. The plan was simply to get the offices for the favored few. Others were "cut out," or ruthlessly run over. Regardless of the wishes of the rank and file of the populist party, a self-appointed caucus arranged a division of the spoils with the Black and Tans. The prospective pie was cut, and a more generous slice than usual was handed out to the spotted brother—the Big Boss needed more strenuous assistance. The primary voters were denied the right to select nominees for several of the offices—that of Clerk among the number contrary to precedent, or expectation of the Republicans. Mr. Pearson announced for that office, as he doubtless thought he had a right to do. The bosses said Nay! and Mr. Pearson, knowing the power of the bosses, to save himself from humiliation, had to withdraw that a Black and Tan entry might be made.

A more forceful demonstration of the fact that the bosses diagramed and cut the patches of which the ticket was constructed, could not have been given than was done in Beat 9, where Mr. Holland was led into the shambles to be slaughtered, under instructions "saunt" from headquarters. An old citizen of the county, honored and respected by men of all parties, absolutely beaten and crushingly humiliated, in his own beat, by a stripling in politics, merely because the bosses decreed the office to the lower end of the county, presents a spectacle of unmitigated heartlessness and political brutality, that cannot be satisfactorily explained. It was no more nor less than the will of the bosses, wrought through their automatons, and had not the appearance, even, of an open and fair deal. Such methods will, assuredly, meet with deserved resentment.

Republicans and populists will have no opportunity to vote their principles. They are simply expected to boost into office, the court house caucus and the Black and Tan nominees, products of the ring within a ring.

Bad Case of Office Holding.

The Advocate has the termerity to say that McMillan has been running for Probate Judge ever since he has been in the county. This is but another illustration of the fact that the Handy Andy sheet is a total stranger to the truth; just how utterly false its statement is we show elsewhere in this issue.

But how about the Advocate's boss, Judge Longshore? The Sentinel is informed that he came to this county in 1884 or 1886, and at once began a hunt for office. He was a candidate for the Legislature in 1886, and was a member of that body for three or four terms. He was a candidate for congress, and then for Probate Judge. So, of the eighteen or twenty years Judge Longshore has been living in this county, at least twelve or fourteen of them he has been an office holder. But his days of office holding are near an end.

His Honor, Judge Longshore, has proven recreant to the trust imposed in him, and the people will say so by their vote in the November election.

It has cost the taxpayers of Shelby county, railroads always excepted, thousands of hard-earned dollars to pay the illegal tax levies placed upon them by the populist administration. That administration will be excused from further service after the November election.

The people of Shelby county have become involved in costly litigation beoause of the recklessness of the populist administration. Court records are the evidence.

Just Can't Tell the Truth.

"McMillan has been running for Probate Judge in this county "every" since he has been in the county. He did make out to get appointed to that office by the Governor, and with all his loving kindness while he was in the office, he couldn't get the people to elect him."—Advocate.

The white people of Shelby county are pretty thoroughly acquainted with Judge McMillan's career since he has been in this county. They do not need to be told that the above from the Advocate is willfully false. They know it.

It is general knowledge in Shelby county that McMillan came to this county in the early part of 1883. He never was a candidate for any office until 1892, when he was a candidate for Probate Judge before the Democratic primary election of that year, and was defeated by Hon. J. S. Leeper. He was appointed on November 5, 1895, to fill the unexpired term of Judge Leeper, who died before the expiration of his term. McMillan served as Probate Judge for three years. At the end of his term in 1898 he was nominated for the office by his party without opposition. It is too well known throughout this county to admit of mention here, that in the election of that year McMillan received an overwhelming majority of the white votes in that election. It is also well known that the negro vote, then nearly a thousand strong, was almost solid against McMillan, and Longshore was elected over McMillan by a majority of only 141. Even this would not have been but for the fact that three or four days before the election the populist leaders circulated a false report on McMillan that he was a stock law man, and if elected would declare a stock law in force throughout the county. The report was started just on the eve of election, and McMillan not having time to correct it, a great number of voters who would have supported him, either supported Longshore or did not vote at all.

The above is a true history of Judge McMillan's political career, and states correctly the number of times he has been a candidate for Probate Judge. Now, how about the Advocate's statement that he "has been running for Probate Judge ever since he has been in the county"? False, as usual. The Advocate is beyond redemption.

An Attack of Brain Fever.

"It is said a good populist in Beat 8, says the Democrats have patted him so much until he has got sores on his shoulders. After the election is over and the Democrats are beaten they won't know this man when he comes to town. Mark the prediction.—Advocate.

Really, after such a great strain upon the brain in producing the above brilliant(!) editorial(?) expression, we are are not in the least surprised to hear that the writer of it is threatened with an attack of brain fever. A little surgical operation in the way of trepanning might relieve his o'ertired brain of the pressure upon it by such deep thought and research. It's an extremely pitiful case, indeed it is, and some of his friends should invoke the law for the prevention of cruelty to animals. It is labor lost too, you know; for such rot has no influence with intelligent people.

Any cause that must be buoyed up by arousing the prejudices and passions of man is not worthy the support of honest people.

Every day from now until the election is over will add to the majority of the Democratic ticket. Democrats are enthusiastic over the bright outlook for success, from president down to constable.

The Advocate thinks the editor of The Sentinel can go back to Kansas after the election. No doubt but that Handy Andy would rather we would not wait until after the election. However, we will stay until the Advocate's boss counts the crossties back to Tallapoosa county, at least.

Time and again have the taxpayers of this county been compelled by the populist administration to pay tax levies for specifically named bridges which have never been built, and Judge Longshore admits the levies were not in accord with Constitutional law. And yet, he is asking for a re-election that his administration may, possibly, crack it to the taxpayers again.

The Advocate has a great deal to say about McMillan and a City Court bill. The House Journal of the Legislature records Longshore with having voted for the Anniston, Gadsden and Decatur City Court bills while he was in the Legislature. Of course this puts Longshore in an unpleasant position to say the least, for he makes a bitter attack upon McMillan in all his speeches. Longshore, however, denies voting for the City Court bills mentioned, notwithstanding the official record shows that he did vote for them. Now will the Advocate tell its readers something of an infamous road bill that a prominent populist leader wanted the present Representative of Shelby County to have enacted into a law? It is interesting. It might also tell its readers something about a bill championed in the Legislature by G. B. Deans, and which became a law, raising the ex-officio fees of the Probate Judge of Shelby County from $200.00 a year to $600.00 a year. Judge Longshore reluctantly admitted at Ebenezer that this was done with his knowledge and consent. In its immaculate purity and self-appointed championship of the people (the Lord help the people) will the Advocate tell its readers about these bills?

AUGUST - SWEEPING - SALE

—OF THE—

..COLUMBIANA MERCANTILE CO..

For the last seven days, the seven courteous salesmen, with SEVEN BIG BROOMS, have been sweeping everything in the Big Double Wholesale and Retail Stores of the Columbiana Mercantile Co. into great heaps and piles, where Mr. Erlick, with that unquenchable desire to see the goods roll and everybody get the most wonderful bargains of the season, is slaughtering the price of goods to the utter astonishment of not only the merchants and people of this town, but throughout the county. ARE THEY GOING TO BUST? Well, yes! Bust the very face off of trickery and competition, and give to each customer a guaranteed bargain. THE REASON for this great sacrifice of goods is explained in the following letter from Max Lefkovits, who is now in New York, buying the fall stock of goods:

New York City, N. Y.
Broadway Central Hotel.

Columbiana Mercantile Co., Columbiana, Ala.

Dear Boys:—Since arriving in New York, and partially viewed the most beautiful stocks of goods I ever saw, I have decided to buy the largest stock of goods ever shipped to Shelby County. The bargains I am buying will place us in a position to not only sell all the people as retail customers, but the merchants as well. The enormous trade given us during the past Spring by our genial customers, simply compels me to give them every advantage possible. The varied hues of the Silk and Woolen Dress Goods' line that that I have bought is the daintiest, softest and most fashionable I ever saw, also the Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Parisian effects and blocks are all dandies. I am just now beginning to buy, and there is no telling how many cars of goods I'll buy before I am through. Now, boys, I am hunting fall bargains for our customers, and I want you to advertise our WHOLE STOCK at a BARGAIN. Don't reserve a thing, and don't look at PRICES nor COST MARKS; let 'em go.

Yours truly,
MAX LEFKOVITS.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

A. C. Henderson, of Maylene, was in town Tuesday for a few hours.

J. W. Mason and family spent Sunday afternoon at Shelby Springs.

J. R. Beavers, of Birmingham, was in the city Monday and Tuesday.

Walter A. Brown, of Birmingham, was in town last Thursday and Friday.

Talk Columbiana's public school; 'tis the finest in this section of the State.

Miss Fletcher Sturdivant, of Shelby, is in the city a guest of Miss Ethel Glenn.

J. H. Fulton, one of the thoroughbred Democrats of Saginaw, was in town Monday.

The moonlight nights of the past week have been unusually bright and pleasant.

L. N. Bowdon, of Calera, was in town Sunday, a guest at the home of Mrs. T. M. Wilson.

There are rumors of another brick block for Columbiana. Just watch us grow this year.

Wilson Milner, of Anniston, has been in the city for the past week visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. H. E. Latham has gone to Montevallo to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs J. E. Hendrick.

Miss Bessie Moore, one of Marion's many charming girls, is in the city a guest of Miss Edna Nelson.

W. W. Wingard, of Wilsonville, is spending his vacation with friends and relatives in Atlanta, Ga.

The many friends of Mrs. W. A. Parker are glad to know that she is able to be out again, after an illness of two months.

Columbiana is a hive of busy workmen just now. A number of new buildings are in course of erection and more to follow.

Beginning with Wednesday Sept nber 7th the Union prayer meeting will be held in the Baptist church for the month of September.

Mr. G. T. Harris and children, who have been visiting relatives in Oxford for the past month, are expected home tomorrow or Saturday.

Camp W. H. Forney will meet at Wilsonville next Saturday, August 27th. It is hoped that every member will come out to the meeting.

Mrs. W. D Wilson who has been a visitor at the home of Mrs. T. M. Wilson in this city for the past week, returned to her home in Ocampo Tuesday.

Miss Lizzie Sinnott, who has been visiting friends at Alpine, Talladega and Anniston for the past several weeks, returned to Columbiana last Monday.

Supt. of Education John B. Farrell has been on the sick list for the past week, and went out into the country Saturday to spend a few days with his mother.

Mrs. Gordon DuBose and interesting sons, who have been visiting relatives in Columbiana for the past week, returned to their home in Ensley today.

If there are any stray canines in town, they should at once be started on a trip to kingdom heaven. All others ought to wear a muzzle through the heated term.

Cut down down the weeds along the streets. This should be done not only from a sanitary point of view, but they are so unsightly. Make a war on the weeds now.

NOTICE.—Builders and Contractors should see the Cook-Dominy Co., Fitzgerald, Ga., for lumber and shinglies. Yours truly,
Aug. 25-3m COOK DOMINY CO.

John Leeper, a prominent merchant of Montevallo, was in the city over Sunday visiting relatives, Mr. Leeper lived in Columbiana at one time and has many friends here.

Prof. C. B. Florey, of Harpersville, was in town Monday and Tuesday, and while here paid The Sentinel a very pleasant call. Prof. Florey is a member of the Board of Registrars for this county.

Sandford Falkner, Shelby county's next Tax Assessor, was down from Vincent last Thursday. Mr. Falkner is a competent, worthy young man and has friends by the score all over Shelby county.

E. Bowdon, of Keystone, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Shelby county, was in town Monday on business. The Sentinel acknowledges a very pleasant call from Mr Bowdon.

Miss Gertrude Roberts, after a short visit to relatives in this city, returned to her home in Birmingham last Friday. Miss Roberts expects to leave for Boston for a short visit where she will attend school.

Miss Maud Preston, who has been the guest of Miss Lillie Mae Liles for the past two weeks, returned to her home in Selma last Friday. Miss Preston made numerous friends while visiting here, and who hope she will again grace our little city with her presence.

Master Will Milner has gone to Birmingham for a visit with relatives.

J. H. Abercrombie spent Sunday in Woodlawn, returning Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Jno. A. Edwards, after a very pleasant visit at the home of Mrs. M. E. Mason, has returned to her home in Birmingham.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Friedberger has been quite ill for a week past.

Mrs. Margaret Edwards has gone to Sylacauga for a visit with relatives and friends.

C. W. Strain, the saw mill man, expects to make a visit to the World's Fair early next month.

L. M. Dyke, of Collinsville, arrived in the city yestdrday, and will spend a few days with relatives.

The friends of Mell Wilson will regret to learn that he is confined to his room with an attack of fever.

John P. Pearson was in Birmingham last Monday to attend the popullst convention. He returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. L. C Armstrong has gone to Birmingham for a short visit with relatives. She is expected home next Saturday.

Miss Ada O'Hara, of Wilsonville, is looking after the interest of the Columbiana Millinery Shop during Miss Florence Fallaw's trip to St. Louis, where she has gone to purchase the fall and winter stock for the firm.

Miss Ida O'Hara left for Bessemer on Tuesday morning where she will visit relatives and friends for a short time, after which she will go to Montgomery for a visit with her brother. She will be gone for several weeks.

H. K. Harrison, a prominent citizen and banker, of Brenham, Texas, is in the city, called here by the illness of his mother, Mrs. Lewis, who has been seriously ill at the White House for some time. She is reported as improving.

Master Paul Wilson, who has been very ill for the past month, has not improved any in the past week, but the fact that he is holding his own against the inroads of fever, makes the family very hopeful of his ultimate recovery.

Miss Gertrude Gordon and Harry Gordon have arrived from Birmingham and, with their father, will make their future home in Coumbiana. The good people of our little city extend a cordial welcome to Mr. Gordon and family.

LOST.—One day last week, a gold medal upon which is the word "Scholarship." It is the property of Miss Mariana McGraw, and was won by Miss McGraw at school, and it is prized very highly. Finder will confer a favor by returning same to Mrs. J. S. Pitts.

E. B Hatcher, a prominent farmer living between Harpersville and Vincent, was in town last Thursday. He made The Sentinel a pleasant call and renewed his subscription. Mr. Hatcher says his beat will give a nice majority for the Democratic ticket this fall.

As a medium through which to advertise their wares the merchants of Columbiana are beginning to realize that The Sentinel is a business bringer. If our patronage along that line continues to increase the management will be compelled to make the paper "all home print."

In this issue of The Sentinel will be found a change in the advertisement of Milner & Christian. This firm is now receiving its new stock of fall and winter goods, and Messrs. Milner and Christian cordially invite your inspection of the same. Courteous treatment, and prices just right. Drop in to see them.

C. C. DuBose was called to Indianapolis, Ind., on Monday by a telegram announcing a sudden and serious illness of his wife who, with her little girls, is visiting her parents in that city. The many friends of Mrs DuBose in this city trust that her illness will be of short duration, and that she will soon be restored to her usual good health.

The attention of our readers is called to the large advertisement of the Columbiana Mercantile Company in this issue. This firm is making a sweeping sale for the next two weeks in order to make room for the large stock which will be coming in in a few days. Read the advertisement; it may interest you and at the same time save you money.

The Shelby County Sunday School Association meeting at Shelby last Thursday and Friday was not as well attended as it should have been. Those present, however, report a very pleasant time, and say that the hospitality of Shelby was just what might be expected of the good people of that town. The next meeting of the Association will be held at Calera.

W. A. Thompson has gone into the bee business in rather an involuntary way. Bees have taken up quarters for the winter in the walls of his house, and are busy laying in their supplies against the coming cold weather. Mr. Thompson is already figuring on his crop of honey next year, and no accident preventing, hopes to supply the market to a certain extent. He is a little dubious about getting mixed up with them for they are in his sleeping apartment, and in a fight he is inclined to the belief they would be worse than a regiment of Japs.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. J. B. Farrington, of Montevallo, announces the engagement of her daughter, Florence Agness, to Mr. Robert Hayes McConnell. The marriage will take place in September.

Probable Fatal Accident.

Cliff Parish, a sixteen-year-old boy from Montgomery, while attempting to board an L. & N. train at Calera one day last week, was thrown against a rock, receiving wounds from which he may not recover. He was sent to a hospital in Montgomery, and when last heard from his condition was critical. This is but another of the accidents which frequently follow an attempt to steal a ride on the cars.

MONTEVALLO.

S. E. Bobo and John K. Kroell took in the St. Louis Fair last week.

Miss Kathleen Shivers has returned from a visit to friends in Marion.

Miss Mamie Allen, of Birmingham, is visiting at Mrs. Henry Wilson's.

Mick Kuffner, Assistant Mine Inspector, was in Montevallo last Wednerday.

Miss Nora Hawkins, of Birmingham, is visiting relatives at Wilton and Montevollo.

Mrs. A. E. Vandergrift and Miss Imogene, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Corbett have been to St. Louis.

Messrs. T. J. and Lewis Williams are up from Selma to recuperate on Montevallo ozone.

Miss Bliss, from Avondale, has been with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, during the past week.

Mrs. K. F. Lane has purchased attorney J. M. Reynolds' place. Mr. Reynolds contemplates moving to Sylacauga.

A base ball team from Blocton Saturday had a good big defeat marked up against them. The score was 23 to 10.

Mrs. M. Woolley has returned from her trip to Monteagle. Miss Maude Allen stopped over in Birmingham for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. West gave a delightful "At Home" to Miss Florence Thompson, their guest from Atlanta, last Thursday evening.

More attention has been given to lawns in Montevallo this season than usual, and it marks a great improvement in the appearance of things. It is hopod that the efforts to beautify premises will continue to spread.

Several car loads of poles have been unloaded here for the Southern Bell Telephone line, which will run from Shelby via Montevallo, to Blocton, connecting intermediate points with the long distance line at Calera. It is supposed that a local exchange will be put in here.

Wedding at Calera.

Sunday morning, August 14th, the marriage of Mr. Miles A. Collins and Miss Stella Holcombe was solemnized, Judge T. W. Whatley officiating.

The bride is the lovely daughter of Frank Holcombe, a successful planter of that vicinity. The groom is a prominent young business man of Calera, having moved to that place several years ago from Clanton. These young people have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for their future happiness.

HARPERSVILLE.

Fodder pulling this week.
Turnips are up nicely.
Cotton is beginning to open.
Watermelons will soon be gone.
Earl Martin and wife, of Birmingham, visited T. J. Martin's family last week.

Miss Hannah and Sam Caldwell visited their uncle, Dr. Sam Welch, at Talladega, last week.

George East spent several days in Birmingham last week.

J. C. Jackson is moving his sawmill down onto Yellow Leaf near Morgan bridge, but he will not remove his planer.

Our people are highly pleased in the election of Prof. C. B. Florey as School Trustee for this district; a better selection could not have been made.

I have been informed that the rural delivery route for this place has been established and will start the 15th of next month. Four-fifths of the people are opposed to this, and the other fifth don't want it. The Department and Congressman Bowie have been informed of this fact, but they do not seem to pay any attention to it. One or two private individuals are to be benefitted, while the people are to be made to suffer. Harpersville is one of the oldest towns in the county. It has three churches, one school and nice public roads leading into it. If this office is discontinued it will force some of our people to go six or seven miles for their mail, provided they put up no boxes on the route which has been established; and then some of them live two or three miles from the route. Is there any fairness in this? We think not. The humblest man, though he be ever so poor, should have his rights and ought to be protected. We hope, however, the Department will consider the wishes of the people, and let our office remain as it is. Uncle Sam knows his business best, but it does seem to me that if he has so much money to spend that he could find a more charitable course than to spend it on a free delivery route from Vincent to Harpersville, where a people do not want it. These are facts and cannot be disputed truthfully, JAKE.

LESTER'S CHAPEL.

Scott and Charlie Nolan made a business trip to Columbiana Saturday.

Henry made a trade with Peavine, and the news will come in Peavine name.

J. B. and Marion Vick, of Walnut Grove are visiting their mother this week.

Misses Clara and Mary Nolan, of near Wilton, are visiting relatives here this week.

Franklin Ray and Rufus Spearman, of Fourmile are visiting in this community.

Protracted meeting is going on this week. The attendance is not what it should be, due probably to politics.

Idis and Ellis Walton spent Wednesday night with their grandfather.

Corn is good in this section. I think if the people would raise more corn and less cotton, they as well as the whole country would be better off.

H. C. McDonald and two brothers, of Wilton, Bert and Franklin Ray and Rufus Spearman gave John Nolan's family a call Saturday night.

PEAVINE.

VANDIVER NEWS.

Fodder pulling time is near at hand.

The speaking at this place last Saturday was interesting; a large crowd being present.

Dr. J. B. Ware made a flying trip to Calcis last Thursday.

N. G. Brasher and family visited relatives at Vincent last week.

J. L. Vandiver was a visitor to Calcis one day last week.

Ben Wallace and family, of Leeds, are visiting friends and relatives here.

R. E. Cosper, of Sterrett, came up for the speaking Saturday.

We are sorry to state that Miss Annie Salsar is down with pneumonia, but hope for her a speedy recovery.

J. M. Rich, who has been teaching school here, has resigned his job and gone to Birmingham to work in the postoffice there.

News being scarce, Uncle Ned will proceed to apply the brakes. UNCLE NED.

In Memory of Carle Adams.

On the 14th of August, the angel of death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Evans at Shelby Springs, and claimed for its victim their three-months-old son. The doctor and friends did all in their power to sustain life, but God in His infinite wisdom saw best to take this little infant to enjoy that happy mansion which He has been preparing since the foundation of the earth. This was a sad scene, but how much more sad if there was no hope of meeting little Carle in the great beyond where storm after storm have passed away. We have the sweet assurance of that blissful rest over there; rest for such as are free from sin. Oh! what a consolation it is to know that this sweet little infant is resting in the bosom of the Lord. We realize that many have crossed over.

The remains of this infant were laid to rest in Mt. Tabor cemetery late in the afternoon of the 15th, the services being conducted by Rev. T. M. Nelson, of Columbiana, and the teachings of this good man of God should be taken to the heart of every one who were present. Our Heavely Father has given and has has taken away, so weep not, dear ones, for some sweet day we can go to it. We can hear it, "Calling, Sweetly Calling" to us, and our answer soon shall be, "We will be there." Oh! how happy it will be when we reach that unknown country out beyond the setting sun; where death and farewell never come. In that land of immortality and love where sorrow and grief are unknown.

This sweet little infant leaves a father, mother, sister and brother, and a host of relatives to mourn its death. At this juncture I am reminded of the rich man and who had a lovely flower garden: as he was passing along he plucked the loveliest flower in the yard, the workmen were uneasy at its disappearance, but soon learned that the owner had taken it. So it is with this infant: It was God's and He has only taken that which belonged to Him. May the Lord comfort the grieving ones in their sorrow. We extend heartfelt sympathy to them.

FARM AND FIELD AND GARDEN

A Garden Suggestion.

A good way to plant pole beans is with sweet corn says Country Life in America. Plant the beans in the same hill with the corn (after the corn is up); and the beans will clamber all over the corn-stalks after the ears are harvested. It saves the bother and expense of poles, and we think corn-stalks look better than bean poles.

The Squash Vine Borer.

The squash vine borer eats into the stem and does damage because it cannot be reached in the vines. The only remedy is to watch for them as they appear and destroy them. For the striped cucumber beetle kerosene emulsion, sprayed on the hills early in the morning is claimed to give good results, the ground to be also saturated so as to have the work thorough.

Forcing a Second Crop of Berries.

A Vermont farmer reports success in producing a second crop of strawberries last year by cutting off all the leaves and stems close to the ground after fruiting the first crop and applying a dressing of nitrate of soda. They blossomed again in September and produced a crop smaller in amount than the first one, but very profitable. The plan, however, could not be expected to work well except in cool, wet seasons.

Little Profit in Cooking Feed.

The utility in cooking feed for animals, and especially for pigs, was given most attention in the days previous to investigations by experiment stations. Cooking feed is no longer regarded as an economical practice for fattening animals. However, for breeding stock and sick animals, and for animals which it is desired to put into the very highest conditon, cooking may be practiced with good results, if expense is disregarded. Pigs so fed show marked thriftiness and health.

Care of Pastures.

Many pastures are ruined in the beginning by putting stock on the grass before the plants are well established. Trampling of the pasture by the feet of cattle does more harm than the eating of the grass. The first year of the pasture should be devoted entirely to its growth. When the grass reaches a height that permits of its being cut it is better to run the mower over it, cutting high. Fertilizers and manure should be used liberally, and should weeds make an appearance it will pay to pull them out, as under no circumstances should they be allowed to produce seed.

Middlings for Poultry.

Middlings (sometimes called "shorts" and "seconds" and also known as fine bran) should always be used as a portion of the soft food. A good proportion is ten pounds of ground oats, five pounds of bran and three pounds of middlings to which may be added a pound of bone meal, three pounds of ground meat and a quarter of a pound of salt. This makes an excellent food for laying hens and growing chicks, and not so fattening as an exclusive diet of cornmeal. It is a mixture that is almost complete in flesh-forming and bone making material and is not very expensive.

Cropbound.

A reader of Westminster, S. C., asks what will cure crop bound? Prevention is best of all remedies, and will save all work and worry. Exercise and grit will positively prevent all cases of crop bound, and as both are necessary to the health of the fowls, we can scarcely understand why crop bound should exist. Make the fowls work, and take their food slowly, and not gorge themselves at any time. Feed all grain so that the fowls will have to scratch for it, and even soft food should be given so that the fowls may not greedily devour it. Grit must be kept constantly before the fowls and nature will suggest the time for taking it. They will consume much of it, though but little at a time, but cannot possibly exist without it.—Home and Farm.

Clover Hay For Poultry.

One of the best green foods for poultry during the winter is clover hay, and when one can readily grow clover and knows how to cure it, it is a much cheaper crop to raise than vegetables for the purpose of supplying green food. Poultry thrive on it and it certainly increases the egg production. One plan is to cut the clover when it is in full bloom, doing the work late in the day when there is promise of fine weather for several days. The next morning the swath is gone over with the tedder and again later in the day so that all of it has a chance to become dry. It is then raked into small windrows and left for two or three hours when it is taken into the barn and packed in the tight mow, being left there with the doors of the barn closed to heat.

After it is heated another lot may be put in the mow to go through the same process. Almost every farmer has a way of his own of curing clover and any way which will give results is desirable, the object being to have bright hay to feed during the winter. Bear in mind that the hay must not be put under cover until it is dry enough, yet, on the other hand, it must not be so dry that the leaves and blossoms will be lost in handling.

Bleaching Celery.

We were living where we had quite a little garden plat and used a place that had been used for a wood pile to plant celery on. I raked aside the chips, then spaded the ground to about eight inches of depth. After breaking clods of earth I raked in stable manure and then marked the bed off in rows one foot apart, in June. As the ground frequently became quite dry we watered it by hand. We planted the self-bleaching celery, of which there are two varieties, the White Plume and Golden Self-bleaching, both of which are useful for early use. Plant late varieties if you intend to plant for market. I did not hill the celery to bleach it but when I saw the green color of the stalks was giving place to a yellow color I pinned newspapers around the tops. After being covered for a week or more I found the celery to be nicely bleached. Some tie matting around the stalks for the purpose of bleaching. The new system of bleaching, as it is called consists of setting the plants so close together that they will crowd each other and furnish their own shading from the sun's rays. Of course, with the late varieties and those other than the self-bleaching varieties the hilling will probably be the most satisfactory method of bleaching.—Cecil Abel Todd, in The Epitomist.

Embden Geese.

In the days of our forefathers geese were more commonly kept than at present. At least this was the case in Western Pennsylvania. The usual complement of poultry generally included a few geese. In favorable localities the flock would number from ten to twenty. Every thrifty wife had her feather beds, and often sold feathers each season to the local dealer, who, in turn, sent them to the city. But, owing to a change in taste and the country becoming more thickly settled, geese breeding is not as generally followed as in former years. This, in my opinion, is a mistake, says George Enty of Templeton, Pa., as there are few fowls that can be kept at as small cost as geese.

Embden geese are pure snowy white in plumage, with orange yellow legs and beaks and pearl eyes. They are very large, a pair often weighing fifty pounds or over. They grow rapidly and are easily restrained by a fence a couple of feet high. As layers they are fairly good, but not the best known. However, a good goose will lay twenty or more eggs in a season. For best results in hatching, the geese ought to be two or more years old. Four or five geese for each gander is a common allotment. The eggs will generally hatch well when geese are not made too fat during the winter. To avoid this make a large part of their rations cut clover, green vegetables and fruit.

Much water is not a necessity in goose keeping, although they appreciate a pond or stream once in awhile. They need plenty of pure water to drink and water enough to take a bath occasionally. These, with good pasturage and a very little grain food and fallen fruit will grow the goslings and have them in good shape for the fall market.

All geese are very hardy, and can stand almost any amount of cold or heat, but it is best to provide a building or shelter for them in bad weather and where weasels, minks and foxes are numerous the coop for the goslings' use should be rat proof.—New York Tribune.

Dairy Notes.

Now is a mighty good time to weed out the loafer cows.

Watch each cow to see that she eats her food up clean.

Better keep five cows on full feed than ten on scant fare.

If butter is worked too much it will have an oily and greasy look.

Make the most of the dairy wastes by feeding to young and growing stock.

Breed the heifers reasonably early and cultivate in them the habit of early maturity.

A cow in order to be a prolific yielder of milk, must be a nearty eater with good digestive powers.

Dairying, like any other business, is more successful when grown into gradually, as experience is gained.

A good herd of milk cows is a steady source of income, whether the product be sent to the market in the form of milk, cream or giltedge butter.

Insurance.

The repairs of the South Methodist Episcopal church, which was badly damaged several weeks ago by wind, have just been finished, and now the property is really better than it was before the storm. The building was insured against tornadoes, and when the adjuster made settlement is was agreed that the damage sustained was $1300, which sum was promptly paid over to the church officials by the company. The work of repairing was commenced at once thereafter, and after everything had been placed in statu quo it was found that there was just $300 of the insurance money remaining in the treasury of the church. The question then arose as to what should be done with the surplus fund. After much deliberation it was finally agreed that the money did not belong to the church, but to the insurance company. Whereupon the sum was paid back to the company.—Hobart (Okla.) News-Republican.

Our Daily Papers.

The first number of any American newspaper was Benjamin Harris's "Publick Occurrences both Foreign and Domestic," published in Boston on December 25, 1690. But the authorities suppressed it after the first issue. Fourteen years later on April 24, 1704, James Campbell, postmaster of Boston, issued the first number of the Boston News-Letter, a weekly newspaper, which lived for seventy-two years. The second American newspaper, the Gazette, was printed in Boston, and the third, the Weekly Mercury, in Philadelphia. The first New York newspaper, the New York Gazette, was established in 1725. Now there are more than 2000 daily newspapers and 15,000 semi-weeklies and weeklies published in the United States.—Kansas City Star.

A Huge House.

The largest dwelling house in the world is the Freihaus, in a suburb of Vienna, containing in all between 1200 and 1500 rooms, divided into upward of 400 separate apartments. The immense house, wherein a whole city lives, works, eats and sleeps, has 13 courts—five open and eight covered—and a garden within its walls.

The fleas of Peru are exasperatingsly annoying and insatiable. It is customary in that country for a group of human beings to have a lamb near them, to attract the fleas from themselves.

DEGENERATE MANCHU WARRIORS.

Hardy Courage of the Past Has Become Lazy Parasitism.

Three or four centuries ago the southern part of what is now known as Manchuria was occupied by Coreans and was a portion of their territory. It is not known how far north their rule extended, but there are traces of Corean architecture as far as Liaoyang, which is 120 miles from the present Korean boundaries. At this early period the Manchu element consisted of a few powerful tribes, who, though of the same general Mongolian stock, possessed many ethnological points sufficient to distinguish them from the great Chinese race which occupied China proper. The roving life in a wild country where young braves thought it no extraordinary achievement to kill with bow and arrow, single handed, the fierce northern tiger, developed the Manchu into a hardy, fearless warrior, with a love for courageous deeds.

The history of the Manchus is one of continued and rapid growth. From a small tribe their influence spread over the great plains of western Manchuria until they became a force which even great China deemed it advisable to conciliate. Their ambitions knew no limit, and early in the sixteenth century, they began an invasion of China. A century later, by methods which at times gave evidence of the most crafty and skilful diplomacy, and again were those of a cruel tyrant, the greatest empire that the world has known was acquired by a race of half savage nomads.

As the home of the Manchu dynasty, Manchuria, in the eyes of tho Emperor, deserved honored treatment, and the followers of the standard—there was scarcely a Manchu who had not seen service—were specially cared for. It was declared by special decree that all Manchus for time unending should belong to one of the eight banner corps and receive a small monthly stipend. The great home country should remain the exclusive property of all Manchus, and Chinese were forbidden to hold land in it. The Koreans had now been driven to the south and Manchuria extended virtually to the banks of the Yalu on the south and to the sea on the east.

The Manchu policy, which, in its conception, provided for the continuance and development of a great race of pure Manchus, who would always be at the beck and call of the Manchu dynasty, and would be a safeguard against the restoration of Chinese rule, brought on results quite the reverse of those desired. The Manchu found his small wage sufficient at first to provide food, and there was no longer the necessity to live the arduous life of a hunter or herdsman. In a generation or two the race had degenerated into a lazy band of parasites who in the absence of a strenuous life had lost all the cunning and warlike skill which had brought to them a great empire. They maintained a reputation for fierceness, however, and at the time of the late war with Japan it was predicted that the Japanese would find a match in the Manchu cavalry. The first engagement between the two dispelled forever this illusion.—The Century.

Willie's Sympathy.

The new clergyman was invited to dine with the family the other Sunday, and eight-year-old Willie, of course, made homself conspicuous during his stay. He seemed to be deeply impressed with the minister, and never let his eyes stray from him. He manifested as much interest as his elders in what was said, but regarded the minister with a somewhat sorrowful expression, which was altogether uncalled for, as he was of a jovial disposition and greatly amused his hearers. As the minister was about to leave Willie meekly approached him and sadly asked,—

"Why—why—how does it feel to be poor?"

"What do you mean Willie?" laughingly asked the minister, turning to the parents with an amused smile.

"Why, I heard papa say to mama that you was a mighty poor preacher," was Willie's startling declaration.

A Corner on Ice.

An extra piece of ice was wanted. An ice wagon was at a neighbor's door, but there was no small coin in the house wherewith to pay for the desired article.

"Well, never mind," said mamma; "you run out, Blanche, and get a nickel's worth, the man will trust you until tomorrow."

Now Blanche was not accustomed to dealing on credit, and did not take kindly to the idea, but was moving very slowly to do her mother's bidding when some words in large letters on the top of the wagon attracted her attention, and suggested an unanswerable objection.

"But he won't do it, mamma! Look there on the wagon! It says, 'Not in the Trust.'"—Margaret Sullivan Burke, in Lippincott's.

Where He Drew It.

Prof. E. G. Dexter of the University of Illinois, whose interesting investigations have proved football to be a harmless game, was popular on account of his geniality.

After a certain foot ball victory Prof. Dexter entertained one night a group of students at his residence.

A magnificent sword hung over the fire place of the library, and during a space of silence, Prof. Dexter took down this sword and brandished it impressively.

"Never will I forget," he exclaimed, "the day I drew this blade for the first time."

"Where did you draw it, sir?" a freshman asked, respectfully.

"At a raffle," said Professor Dexter.

A Peculiar Will.

In 1891 an old woman left to the British Lifeboat institution the sum of $2000, to be paid on the death of a favorite kitten which had survived her and which was to be provided for with the interest. In 1902 the cat disappeared and the courts have now decided to assume its death and let the institution have the money, on giving a bond to provide for the cat in case it should come back.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse, and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

When a native lady enters a Japanese railway carriage she slips her feet from her tiny shoes, stands upon the seat and then demurely sits with her feet doubled beneath her. A moment later she lights a cigarette or her little pipe, which holds just tobacco enough to produce two good whiffs of smoke. When the ticket collector, attired in a blue uniform, enters the carriage he removes his cap and twice bows politely. He repeats the bow as he comes to each passenger to collect the tickets.

The warm wave over the west has spread all over the country between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains and also over the southern states. It was particularly severe in South Dakota, where maximum temperatures reached 100 degrees. In the cotton belt the average maximum was 90 degrees and above, except in the Atlanta district, where it was not so warm. The maximum at Birmingham was 90 degrees.

When a Japanese girl marries she is taught that she is to reverence and obey her husband's relatives, his mother and father, as she has reverenced and obeyed her own parents. She must be able to cook rice properly, and her being unable to do so is considered not in the light of mere ignorance, but almost as a mortal sin; a young wife ignorant of the proper fulfilling of this domestic duty would very likely be returned to her parents' home.

The cost of the coronation of King Edward VII, establishes a record for modern times. It was considered until recently a lordly and magnificent thing for the subjects of George IV. to spend $605,000. William IV. and Queen Adelaide were content with a modest $250,000. It is not easy to understand in what King Edward's $1,795,000 was sunk.

Last year Oscar Zeller, of Zossen, started on foot from Berlin for a trip around the world. His plan was to go via Mukden, Vladivostock and Japan to America. The war frustrated that plan, and he has now started for Bering straits, along the northernmost Siberian telegraph line. His success is considered very doubtful.

IN THE BARREN LANDS.

Caspar Whitney's Experiences in an Unhospitable Region.

The Barren Lands, called by the Indians "Land of Little Sticks," are absolutely devoid, not only of trees, but even of brush, except for some stunted bushes to be found in occasional spots near the water's edge. These lands lie in British Columbia, near the Great Slave Lake. Mr. Casper Whitney, in describing a hunting trip through this region, in "Musk-Ox, Bison, Sheep and Goat," says that a venture into this north country, except in summer, means a struggle with both cold and famine. Yet the lack of food was not so hard to bear as the wind, and camping was a continual discomfort.

"One of the first lessons I learned," writes Mr. Whitney, "was to keep my face free from covering, and also as clean shaven as possible under such circumstances. It makes me smile now to remember the elaborate hood arrangement which was knitted for me in Canada, and which then seemed to me ore of the most important articles of my equipment. It covered the entire head, ears and neck, with openings only for the eyes and mouth, and in town I had viewed it as a great find, but I threw it away before I got within a thousand miles of the Barren Grounds.

"The reason is obvious. My breath turned the front of the hood into a sheet of ice before I had run three miles; and as there was no fire in the Barren Grounds to thaw it, of course it was an impossible thing to wear in that region. After other experiments, I found the simplest and most comfortable headgear to be my own long hair, which hung even with my jaw, bound about just above the ears with a handkerchief, and the open hood of my caribou skin capote drawn forward over all.

"The most trying hour in the twenty-four was at the camping time in the afternoon. The fire furnished no warmth; it was not built for that purpose; it was simply to boil the tea, and perhaps an idea of its size can be given by saying that by the time the snow in the kettle had melted into water and the water begun to boil the fire was exhausted.

"Having drunk the tea, we rolled up in our robes, lying side by side round the tepee, with feet toward the fire and head against the sledge, knees into the back of the man next to you, and with your snowshoes under your head, away from the dogs that would eat the lacing.

"Sleep never came until the dogs had finished fighting over us, for as soon as we were rolled into our robes the dogs poured into the tepee. There were twenty-eight dogs, and the lodge was about seven feet in diameter at its base. No hour in the day or night was more miserable than this, when these half-starved brutes fought over and on top of us before they finally settled down upon us.

"In extremely cold weather a dog curled up at your feet or back is not unpleasant; but to have one lying on your head, another on your shoulders or hips, or perhaps a third on your feet, and you lying on your side on rocky, uneven ground, is not a happy experience."

One of the largest and most noticeable business signs seen anywhere is that of the National Casket Co. on their mammoth new factory at Nashville, Tenn., made on a wire frame with aluminum letters six feet high and one hundred feet long, which can be read from a long distance by day, and when reproduced in electric lights, can be read even further at night. This is the concern that is called on to furnish Caskets for the most prominent people everywhere, including among its recent orders, Caskets for Presidents William McKinley, Benjamin Harrison and the late lamented Gen. John B. Gordon, and yet whose goods can be had through the smallest undertaker in every town. From the fact that they are called on to furnish Caskets for the best citizens everywhere, there must be some merit in their claim that their goods are the best, and the South should be proud to have a branch of such a high class establishment within her borders.

Miss Hapgood tells how she was cured of Fallopian and Ovarian Inflammation—and escaped an awful operation by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered for four years with what the doctors called Salpingitis (inflammation of the fallopian tubes) and ovaritis, which are most distressing and painful ailments, affecting all the surrounding parts, undermining the constitution, and sapping the life forces. If you had seen me a year ago, before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and had noticed the sunken eyes, sallow complexion, and general emaciated condition, and compared that person with me as I am today, robust, hearty and well, you would not wonder that I feel thankful to you and your wonderful medicine, which restored me to new life and health in five months, and saved me from an awful operation."—Miss Irene Hapgood, 1022 Sandwich St., Windsor, Ont.

Ovaritis or inflammation of the ovaries or fallopian tubes which adjoin the ovaries may result from sudden stopping of the monthly flow, from inflammation of the womb, and many other causes. The slightest indication of trouble with the ovaries, indicated by dull throbbing pain in the side, accompanied by heat and shooting pains, should claim your instant attention. It will not cure itself, and a hospital operation, with all its terrors, may easily result from neglect.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

"Before I wrote to you telling how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money in medicine besides, but it all failed to do me any good. My menses did not appear in that time, and I suffered much pain. I would daily have fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing down pain, and was so weak that it was hard for me to do my work.

"I used your medicine and treatment as directed, and after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, menses appeared, my womb troubles left me, and I have been regular ever since. I used fourteen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier together, and am now restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you, I would have been in my grave.

"I will always recommend your wonderful remedies, and hope that these few lines may lead others who suffer as I did to try your remedies."—Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, R. R. No. 1, Manning, Iowa.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

KUROPATKIN IN HOPE

Abandons Advanced Positions And Concentrates His Troops at Liao Yang.

LINES ARE CLOSER DRAWN.

Russians Being Driven Out Gradually From Port Arthur's Defenses.

All the advices from Liao Yang show that General Kuropatkin is gradually drawing in his advanced positions to the inner ring of his defenses.

After three days of heavy fighting, the latter part of which was impeded by rain, the Russians were compelled to disable six guns. which it was impossible to take from high positions over the muddy roads, but during the fighting on the southern front they captured some Japanese guns. It is reported also that they destroyed some Japanese mountain batteries.

General Kuropatkin has not yet disclosed whether he intends to make a decisive fight at Liao Yang.

General Kuropatkin seems to be well satisfied with the situation. One dispatch describes him as being in high spirits and laughing and joking at a meeting of the St. George society at Liao Yang.

The Russian losses to date are said to be about 1,500. The Russian batteries inflicted heavy losses upon the Japanese.

Information which to a very great extent confirms previous reports of the conditions at Port Arthur has arrived.

The most important statement agreed to confirms the reports that the Russians have been driven from the fort immediately east of the railroad. This fort is located in the tail of the dragoon hills, along the summit of which the eastern defenses of Port Arthur are built.

When the Russian forces retired from Fort Itzeshen they entered Fort No. 15, to the north of Chaochankou. During the nights of August 18th and 19th, while it was raining, the Japanese attempted to storm Fort Atzshen, which is a strong position adjoining Itzeshen, toward the city, but they were repulsed with heavy losses. During the night of August 22d an heroic band of five hundred Japanese attempted to capture Fort No. 15, in the midst of a storm Almost the entire detachment was killed. The Chinese declared, however, that the Russians have evacuated Fort No. 15, but whether by reason of this assault or the Japanese artillery fire can not be learned. The Japanese are unable to occupy Fort No. 15.

Twenty thousand more Japanese soldiers reinforced the beseigers at Port Artnur last week.

Following an inspection made by government engineers, the Japanese government has issued a proclamation making complete preparation to develop gold fields recently discovered in the province of Iwate. The foreigners estimate that these fields will yield gold to the value of $500,000,000, and they are now preparing to start mining operations. It is estimated that the annual yield of the mines will be $15,000,000,000.

ALABAMA'S GRETNA GREEN.

Columbus, Ga., Enjoys That Reputation—Ministers Talk.

At Columbus, Ga., a lively discussion is going on as to the propriety of issuing marriage licenses to and marrying young runaway couples, most of them elopers from Alabama. Ministers in self-defense are taking a hand in the discussion.

For many years it has been a custom for runaway couples in east Alabama to come to Columbus, this being the nearest city in the adjoining state, and the city has acquired the reputation of being the Gretna Green of Alabama couples who desired to be married under circumstances other than prosaic. Often the girls are under age. The ordinary, who says that when a young couple are a long way from home, in a strange city, with no friends or relatives who may aid and advise them, if they wish to get married the best thing to do is to marry them. The honor of the young girl often demands that the license be issued, for if it is not she would be placed in a most embarrassing position. Couples often arrive on the night trains from Alabama.

Local ministers, in explaining why they marry young couples from Alabama and other points, give practically the same reason.

Fifty-five per cent of the divorced women in this country earn their own living, 32 per cent of the widows and 31 per cent of the single women do likewise, while but 6 per cent of the married women have anything to do with the financial end of the livelihood making. The figures would indicate, however, that 94 per cent of the married men earn the family bread.

CORBIN IN COMMAND.

Troops to the Number of 2,500 Are at Manassas.

Major General H. C. Corbin assumed command of the maneuver camps at Manassas, Thoroughfare and Gainesville Sunday. The Fourth artillery band welcomed him with "Tenting on the Old Camp Grounds." Mrs. Corbin accompanied the general.

General F. D. Grant, in command of division No. 1 at Manassas, and General J. F. Bell, in command of division No. 2 at Thoroughfare, as well as all brigade commanders from the two camps, paid their respects to General Corbin during the afternoon. Reports from the two division commanders were requested. The strength of the two main camps is at present between 2,000 and 2,500 men. During the coming week this force, which will be augmented somewhat daily and will be occupied in this time in the laying out of two camps in skeleton form for the reception of the larger number of regular army troops and state militia to arrive next Saturday and Sunday.

EXPLOSION OF GAS.

Fatal Furnace Accident at Lafollette, Tenn.—Two Killed.

An explosion of gas in an iron furnace of the Lafollette Coal and Iron company at Lafollette, Tenn., resulted in the death of two men and the serious injury of one other.

R. S. Kinkannon, aged 35, of Max Meadows, Va.; leaves wife and child.

Fred Walker, colored, of Middlesboro, Ky.

C. W. Berry, of Lafollette, was desperately burned and can not recover. He had been married only a week.

The property loss will be light.

Their Emblems.

So far no political party in the state has complied with section 62 of the general election law passed by the legislature of 1903 requiring fac similies or copies of emblems to be filed with the secretary of state. Each party is required to have an emblem and a copy of such must be filed within sixty days before any general election in which state officers are to be voted for.

Murder the Charge.

W. S. Morgan, a prominent citizen of Richland, Webster county, Georgia, was taken to Americus and put in jail, after a commitment trial on a charge of murder, growing out of the killing of Joseph Phillips by William Ellis, both negroes, at Preston, recently. Ellis has made a confession, wherein he declared he was hired to kill Phillips and named W. S. Morgan as one of the parties thus employing him.

Didn't Hear the Cars.

John Rapier, a well known deaf and dumb citizen of Fort Payne, was instantly killed by being struck by a freight train on the Alabama Great Southern railroad.

Mr. Rapier was crossing the track on a bicycle and did not near the coming train. The body was terribly mangled.

Little in Charge.

George K. Little has been appointed government engineer in charge of all the locks and improvements on the Warrior river. Mr. Little has had charge of the Tuscaloosa office since the death of Richard McCalla and O. E. Strehloe has had charge of the Demopolis office. Mr. Strehloe has resigned and the two offices have been put in charge of Mr. Little.

Collector Resigns.

A. C. Chisholm, who for twelve years has been tax collector of Lauderdale county, has resigned and T. E. Jones, the democratic nominee, has been appointed by Acting Governor Cunningham to fill the unexpired term.

West Alabama Cotton.

Cotton has begun to come into Eutaw. About 75 to 100 bales were received last week. The crop is not as good as was expected, but something like a 75 per cent crop will be made. Corn is very good the county over.

Election Ordered.

Tuscaloosa county commissioners have ordered an election to be held on Monday, September 19th for the purpose of determining whether or not a special tax shall be levied for the next twenty years for the support of

A correspondent declares that the Japanese minister of war has confidentially informed his colleagues that there is no hope of taking Port Arthur by direct assault, and that long operations will be necessary. Therefore, the minister has ordered the field marshal, Oyama, to avoid entailing heavy loss of life. This, the correspondent says, has been concealed from the public.

The English postmaster general is considering a penny-in-the-slot machine by which the purchaser will be enabled to obtain stamps at all hours.

Japan, it is said, will consider it a breach of China's neutrality if the Russian ships Askold and Grozovoi, now at Shanghai, are not speedily disarmed.

By Pneumatic Tube.

Chicago's pneumatic tube mail service was formally opened Wednesday. After the first batch of mail had been sent through the bore the system was formally turned over to the government and was accepted on behalf of the federal authorities by Postmaster General Payne. The system consists of nine miles of brass tube through which bays of mail are transported by compressed air to various stations. The system is said to be the largest thus far installed in the United States.

Watson Retired.

Rear Admiral John C. Watson Wednesday was placed on the retired list of the navy, having reached the age of 62 years. He entered the service in September, 1855, and during the war with Spain was placed in command of the eastern squadron which was fitted out for a cruise across the Atlantic to bombard the coast towns of Spain, but did not sail owing to the fact that the war closed. He was appointed from Kentucky, of which state he is a native

Money for Crops.

The annual movement of currency to the west for crop-moving purposes began Wednesday when the New York sub-treasury shipped by telegraphic transfer to Chicago the sum of $500,000. It is not unlikely that direct shipments aggregating half that amount were made by the local banking institutions. A transfer of $150,000 was made to New Orleans through the subtreasury.

Served Thirty Years.

Rev. J. W. Hilliard, for thirty years pastor of Mt. Zion church, Huntsville, has resigned the position and will enjoy a well-earned rest, his intention being to preach no more. He had probably the largest country congregation in northern Alabama.

Enlarging the Mill.

Ground was broken at Sylacauga for the new buildings at the Central cotton mills recently purchased by the Avondale mills. It is proposed to double the capacity of the mills here and the working force will be correspondingly increased.

Burned by Mortar.

While plastering some coke ovens at Bice's Coaling L. B. Stowers had his face painfully burned with hot mortar. The mortar filled his eyes and almost burned them out before he could get assistance. He is in a dangerous condition.

First Rural Route

Postoffice officials have been notified that Tuscaloosa county's first rural free delivery will be started September 15th. The route is to Taylorsville and covers an area of twenty-one square miles.

Date Changed.

At the suggestion of General Harrison, of the United Confederate Veterans, the date of holding the state reunion of veterans in Mobile has been changed to November 15th and 16th.

Jones Succeeds Chisholm.

Governor Cunningham has appointed T. E. Jones tax collector of Lauderdale county to succeed A. C. Chisholm, who resigned.

Examining the Books.

Two of the state examiners are engaged on the books of Jefferson county officials, and will be reinforced by another examiner in a day or two.

Appointed Adjutant.

Captain S. H. Roberts has been appointed one of the three battalion adjutants of the Second regiment Alabama national guard to attend the Manassas maneuvers in September.

Trains Will Stop.

Superintendent Starks, of the Louisville and Nashville road, has granted the request of the people at Bice's Coaling to have all local trains to stop at that place.

Fruit Crop.

The enormous fruit crop and the handsome price received for it by Thorsby fruit growers and truck association has induced the fruit growers to put out many thousands of trees this fall. Many new fields will be cleared up and planted in trees.

Sunday afternoon on the farm of Roy Osborne, in Limestone county, Charles Beddingfield, a negro farmer, was shot and killed by Steve Tribble, a white farmer living in the same neighborhood. The negro had a roguish hog that trespassed on Tribble's crop and the row started about this.

Six companies of the provisional regiment from Alabama to participate in the Manassas, Va., maneuvers will be mobilized in Montgomery and the other six companies will be concentrated in Birmingham.

Sues the City.

Allen Clay, of Girard, Ala., has filed suit against the city of Columbus, Ga., for $5,000 damages. He drove off a bridge, resulting in breaking two of his limbs, injuring him for life, killing his horse and wrecking his wagon. He alleges that it was the fault of the city in that the guard rail on the side of the bridge was not properly kept up.

The Georgia, Florida and Alabama railroad is to be extended from Tallahassee to Atlanta.

IN MAIN DEFENSES

Of Port Arthur the Japanese Soldiers are Swarming. Port Must Fall.

BATTLE EXPECTED AT LIAO YANG

Fighting Night and Day With Heavy Losses—Russians Evacuate Anshanshan.

The Russians retired from Anshanshan Saturday after a fight which commenced on the morning of Friday and continued in a desultory manner all day and night.

Arrangements for a battle had been completed by night time, when the order to retire was given on account of the situation to the east.

The order was received with disappointment by the troops. The retirement was made in an orderly manner

The plain between Anshanshan and Haicheng was covered with Japanese troops, who burned the bridge and shelled the railway station after the Russian retirement.

Sunday the Japanese drove the Russians back from the first line of defenses outside of Anshanshan. The fighting was confined to an artillery duel and lasted all day.

It is expected that a big battle will occur shortly near Liao Yang.

The fall of Port Arthur is imminent. The Japanese are withing the main defenses and their guns command the town. Desperate fighting occurs night and day and the losses on both sides are enormous.

The Russians are making furious counter attacks, but the Japanese are clinging to the position they have won at so great a cost.

A dispatch dated Saturday says:

Following is the position of Port Arthur:

The Japanese have captured all the outlying fortifications, but the Russians still hold the citadel on Antzshan, Golden Hill forts, and the forts on Tiger's Tail and Liao Ti mountain. The Japanese are in possession of the parade grounds and barracks under the Antzshan fort on the outskirts.

The fall of Port Arthur is believed to be imminent. It is believed that the garrison will make a desperate sortie before the end comes.

Numerous reliable reports through a dispatch carrier and other persons are to the effect that despite the extreme Japanese measures of the past fortnight to perfect a blockade of Port Arthur by means of sinking all junks near that place, the Russians inside of Port Arthur are considerably underestimated, as is also the resisting power of the fortress, which is likely to hold out for two months, and possibly until January, even under such a strength of assault as the Japanese are using.

Contrary to the belief that the Japanese have taken the outer forts at Port Arthur, it is now understood that the Russians up to August 15th were successfully defending a five-mile circular zone, and that although the old town was receiving an average of twenty-five Japanese shells daily, the restaurants and clubs, properly safeguarded, continued open and there was order throughout the town. The Japanese occasionally shell the new town, and often attempt to rush the outer trenches, sometimes arriving to within 100 yards of them, when they are unable to hold their own owing to the mortality in the ranks.

Round House Completed.

At Boyles the new round house, coal chute and sand house of the L. and N. have been completed.

Lumber Deal.

Edward Hines, of the Edward Hines Lumber company, of Chicago, has just completed the purchase of 50,000 acres of pine land in Mississippi. The land lies twenty miles north of Grove Port and is penetrated by four railroads. It is said that the consideration was something more than $1,000,000 cash.

Building Not Accepted.

Except in a provisional settlement the city of Selma and the contractors of the new municipal building have not come to a complete closing up of the affair. Mayor Atkins, Chairman Norris, of the building committee, and Architect Chamberlain went over the building and made a note of the defects and non-failures to come up to the requirements of the contract. These were served on the contractor and his reply as to offsets is awaited. It is probable that some arrangements may be made whereby the city will provisionally accept the building, holding back enough of the bonds to insure their compliance.

Money to Cuba.

One million dollars was shipped to Cuba from New York Saturday.

Canadian Wheat.

Western Canada's wheat yield this year is estimated at 65,000,000 bushels.

Hon. B. M. Miller, of Camden, who was nominated judge of the fourth judicial circuit, incurred in the primary and the race an expense of $1,152.96.

Went the Wrong Way.

With hardly a cloud in the sky and against a light east wind, George C. Tomlinson, of Syracuse, and Professor Carl Meyers, of Frankfort, N. Y., the contestants for the $5,000 prize offered by the Louisiana Purchase exposition to the aeronaut who comes the nearest to reaching the Washington monument at Washington, made successful ascension from the fair Saturday.

The balloons gently inclined toward the west as they ascended and then, suddenly striking a heavy current of air sweeping from the east, they simultaneously headed due west at considerable speed. Both were stocked with provisions sufficient for two days. Each balloonist carried with him carrier pigeons which will be released periodically en route and convey messages to the world's fair grounds.

Cut in a Fight.

In a saloon fight at Jacksonville, Ollie Williams was badly cut by Ben and Frank White. Williams received one four-inch gash in the left back and an ugly wound of about three inches was made on the left cheek Ben White, father of Frank White, was cut through the hand as a result of his interference.

The cause of the fight could not be ascertained, but it is generally ascribed to a standing grudge which has long existed between the White and Williams families.

Getting in Line.

Thomas L. Lipsey has been appointed coroner of Pickens county. It is rumored that there is dissatisfaction with the sheriff and that he may resign or fail to qualify for his extended term. It is thought that the citizens asked for a coroner for the reason that the incumbent of that office is the only man in a county who can take the place of the sheriff if it is necessary to designate some one to do his work. There has been no coroner in Pickens county in many years.

Launchman Burns Hand.

Mr. George Nicolls, who has charge of the government naphtha launch, had his hand badly burned while attempting to put out the flames caused by a leak in the tank. He was making a trip to lock 9 and had in tow two barges and a drudge boat occupied by a number of workmen. His hands were severely burned, and it was only through hard work that the launch was saved.

Cotton Crop.

Last of the week reports from the various sections of the state indicate that cotton is really suffering in many places because of rains. There has been almost daily precipitation and the crops of the low lands are cut off very much. The highlands have been more fortunate, the water running off so fast that it had not time to settle between the rows and produce rust and rot to the low hanging bolls.

Talladega's Books.

Assistant State Examiner W. F. Wilkinson has reported on the books of J. B. McMillan, treasurer of the State Deaf, Dumb and Blind school at Talladega, and of the officers of the county of Talladega. There was found no trouble of any kind, save one little error of bookkeeping in the accounts of the probate judge.

New Industries in Mississippi.

New Albany—$25,000 brick and tile works.

Starkville—Telephone company.

Hattiesburg—Wood alcohol factory.

Utica—Electric light plant; water works.

Louisiana Launched.

The battleship Louisiana, sister ship to the Connecticut, building at the Brooklyn navy yard, was successfully launched at the Newport News Shipbuilding yards Saturday. Miss Juniata LaLande, of New Orleans, was the sponsor, and broke a bottle of wine across the prow of the new fighter.

Soil Survey.

Montgomery, Wilcox and Pike counties are to have a soil survey. W. E. McLendon, who is now at Saginaw, Mich., will begin the survey in Montgomery county October 1st. These surveys are being made in many southern sections at this time, and are done under scientific conditions.

Clergy Arrested.

Excitement has been caused by the fact that some of the Italian clergy have been summoned to appear before the court which is investigating the theft of the ancient cope in 1892, stolen from the cathedral of Ascoli and sold to J. Pierpont Morgan.

Lost Both Legs.

Walter Kellier, of Anniston, was run over by some freight cars and both of his legs were cut off, one above and the other below the knee.

Cotton to Russia.

The first of Texas' cotton crop was shipped to Russia—500 bales.

Rural Routes.

The following rural free delivery is ordered established October 1st: Blue Springs, Barbour county, one route, area fifteen square miles, population 444; Clopton, Dale county, one route, area 20 square miles, population 494.

At Denver Next.

Denver has been selected as the meeting place in 1905 of the American Mining congress.

CROP PROGRESS.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau—Alabama Section—For Week Ending August 22, 1904.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

The week as a whole was moderately warm, comparatively dry and favorable for all maturing crops, though showers were fairly general on Tuesday and Sunday, being heavy in a few localities; high winds and hail slightly damaged crops in portions of Chilton and Randolph counties. Early cotton continues to deteriorate in middle and southern counties from effect of previous wet weather. In some fields it has shed most of its bolls, has stopped fruiting and rust is still prevalent, with some rot. Boll worms are damaging in a few localities. There is also some blight, rust and shedding in northern counties, but the crop as a whole continues promising in that portion of the state. Late cotton is improving slowly and continues to fruit tairly well, though still making too much stalk in some localities. Early cotton is opening slowly and picking will not be general for about ten days. Corn is maturing satisfactorily and promises a large yield, though wet weather has caused some lowland corn to rot. Early corn is being gathered in southern and some middle counties. Fodder pulling has been completed in some southern counties and is well under way in the middle district, with prospect of a good yield of this forage being secured, though considerable has been damaged by rain. All minor crops are doing well. The gathering of early sweet potatoes and peanuts continues in some localities, both making good yield. Wet weather has retarded haying, but grasses are growing well and pastures are excellent. More late Irish potatoes have been planted and more turnips sown. Early sown turnips are doing well. Pears and grapes are yielding fairly well, though damaged somewhat by rot.

Extracts from Reports of Crop Correspondents.

(County—Place.)

NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Blount, Oneonta: Cotton running too much to stalk and shedding; corn best in years, though little fodder pulled; gardens doing well.—Aquilla J. Ketchum.

Calhoun, Anniston: Generally favorable week for cotton, some bolls opening; all crops doing well; some fodder being saved.—P. M. Watson.

Cherokee, Mackey: Very favorable week for all crops, though reports of cotton shedding; corn best in years; turnips being sown.—B. F. Mackey.

Colbert, Tuscumbia: Cotton holding its fruit very well; fodder being pulled from early corn; turnips doing well.—J. L. Tompkins.

Cullman, Wenzel: Very favorable week for maturing corn and cotton; some fodder being pulled.—C B Livingston.

Franklin, Hargett Mills: Very dry; rust spreading in cotton very rapidly; late corn almost a failure; minor crops very promising.—F. J. Byars.

Lamar, Pharos: Rain needed; prospects for corn never better; cotton doing fairly well; sweet potatoes doing well.—W. H. Dougherty.

Marshall, Minorville: Corn and cotton doing very well, though there is some rust and shedding in cotton; turnip sowing general.—N. B. Lusk.

St. Clair, Ashville: Corn and cotton benefited by rains; considerable shedding in cotton, though this adverse condition not serious as yet.—Geo. R. Cather.

Walker, Carbon Hill: Rain generally needed; lowland corn doing fairly well; cotton shedding rapidly on uplands and none is open.—J. P. Myers.

Winston, Elk: Corn continues promising; cotton still shedding; minor crops doing well.—Fred M. Wilson

MIDDLE DISTRICT.

Bullock, Flora: Coton picking, which is hastened by rust, has commenced in many places; fodder being pulled rapidly.—J. E. Collins.

Chambers, Lafayette: Light showers; fodder being pulled and some corn cut and shocked; a few scattered bolls of cotton are open.—W. Andrews.

Chilton, Maplesville: Heaviest rain of the season on the 15th, with high wind and hail, damaging both corn and cotton; cotton shedding rapidly.—W. Y. Nix.

Choctaw, Yantley: Unfavorable weather for saving fodder, though it is being pulled rapidly; all crops grassy; peas excellent.—J. A. Davison.

Clay, Dean: Too much rain for cotton and lowland corn; cotton shedding and rusting; upland corn excellent; minor crops good.—L. T. Campbell.

Dallas, King's Landing: Corn good; cotton has deteriorated considerably since August 1st.—W. T. Alison.

Hale, Newbern: One rain during week; some fodder being pulled; cotton deteriorated considerably; pastures excellent.—J. Huggins, M. D.

Lee, Gold Hill: Cotton rusting and shedding; no good fodder or hay being saved.—W. T. Andrews.

Marengo, Magnolia: Cotton is opening, though rusting and shedding rapidly on sandy lands; minor crops promising.—Henry Slade.

Montgomery, Hope Hull: Cotton damaged considerably by recent excessive rains; some fodder being saved; sweet potatoes excellent.—J. W. Smith.

Perry, Uniontown: Cotton shedding very rapidly from effect of recent rains; boll worms damaging.—J. M. Richeson.

Pickens, Stone: Cotton considerably injured by recent rains, difficult to estimate damage now; a great deal of fodder ruined by rain.—T. H. G. Cook.

Randolph, Napoleon: Wet weather damaging crops considerably; some damage by hail on 15th; cotton rusting, blighting and shedding; corn promising.—L. W. Townsend.

Russell, Hooks: Cotton seriously damaged by recent excessive rains, causing it to turn yellow and shed; early corn yielding well.—T. L. Mitchell.

Shelby, Vincent: Favorable weather; some cotton opening, though there is some rusting and shedding; corn doing well.—B. H. Samuel.

Sumter, Ramsey: Cotton almost ruined by too much rain; corn and peas rotting in the field.—T. L. Jenkins.

Talladega, Sycamore: Some complaint of cotton rusting and shedding; all minor crops doing well.—J. Williams.

Tuscaloosa, Fosters: Some fodder being pulled; peas excellent; some cotton opening, though none picked; potatoes promising.—L. E. Hill.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Butler, Garland: Week dry; cotton beginning to open, though shedding rapidly; very little fodder gathered; minor crops doing well.—J. C. McClure.

Clarke, Glover: Cotton opening on uplands, lowland cotton damaged by recent heavy rains; fodder being pulled; sugar cane very promising.—J. T. Day.

Conecuh, Belleville: Comparatively dry week; cotton rusting and shedding rapidly, though considerable of the early planted is opening; late cotton poor.—William Newton.

Covington, River Falls: Cotton shedding considerably; late corn doing well; fodder being pulled from early corn; all minor crops promising.—A. F. Powell.

Crenshaw, Lapine: Cotton has deteriorated considerably; late corn doing well; fodder being pulled from early corn; all minor crops promising.—A. F. Powell.

Dale, Verona: Cotton has deteriorated considerably; no top crop forming; other crops doing well.—J. F. Sammons.

Geneva, Tillman: Early cotton very promising, while the late is doing fairly well; most of the fodder saved; minor crops doing well.—J. O. McEachern.

Houston, Lucy: Fodder pulling almost completed; cotton considerably damaged by recent rains; cane, pears and potatoes doing well.—A. L. Cresby.

Monroe, Jones Mills: Dry week; cotton opening and picking begun, though some complaint of rusting and shedding.—W. L. Middleton.

Wilcox, Alberta: Cotton continues to deteriorate, some being picked; fodder pulling almost completed; minor crops unpromising.—W. A. Menaroe

Section Director, Montgomery, Ala.

SAFE ROBBED.

$3,000 in Securities Taken—Nitro-Glycerine Used.

Fruitton, a small station on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, 14 miles north of Florence, was visited by safe blowers Sunday morning. The burglars entered the store of Tom Pruitt by battering in the front doors, and succeeded in getting away with $100 in cash and $3,000 in notes and checks.

A quantity of nitro-glycerine was used to effect entrance into the safe, the iron door being blown a distance of forty feet across the store, where it struck the shelves and scattered their contents. It was doubled up and twisted. A piece of fuse and some wrapping paper were the only clews left by the burglars.

Colonel Machen Dead.

Colonel E. C. Machen, well known as a railroad builder, his latest work being the erection of the Brunswick and Birmingham, which was only a few days ago sold to the Atlantic and Birmingham, died Monday.

Parker, Peace and Prosperity.
Roosevelt, Rascality and Ruin!

The headless ticket without a tail that is asking for the support of the people in this county, will be breathless after November 8th.

The Roanoke Leader has recently been clothed in a new dress, and it presents a very handsome appearance. Editor Stevenson is making a good paper for his constituency.

The disaffection among the heretofore followers of the populist leaders cannot be healed, although the bosses are keeping the cowpaths hot day and night. The people are tired of ring rule, and are getting from under the lash of the populist leaders.

The populist leaders are treating the road machinery contract as a joke, but the taxpayers who have been drawn into litigation because of this "joke" do not consider it as such by any means. But it will be rather expensive to the populist leaders in November.

The people in Shelby county should remember they have been taxed time and again for bridges which have never been built. The tax levy is contrary to constitutional law, and the populist administration is deserving of condemnation for thus imposing upon the people.

Many of the counties in Alabama have voted a special tax for the benefit of their public schools. Shelby county cannot do this even if it desired so to do, because the populist administration has already gone beyond the constitutional limis, consequently the public schools of Shelby county are the sufferers.

A demagogue can make the unwary man believe his own mother is his worst enemy, and can whitewash the devil in such a clever manner that in some places he would pass for a saint. The populist leaders in this county are swimming in demagoguery, and are trying to work off the overflow on the people.

From all over the county comes the news that Democrats are growing more and more enthusiastic. A good majority this year means any easy victory for the Democrats in two years from now, when they will elect Sheriff and Representative, and that is a forezone conclusion.

Cannot Face the Issue.

Written for The Sentinel.

Under the tutelage of the ringsters of the populist party the Peoples Advocate is becoming almost as good a dodger as the Boss Buster whom it apes in sentiment and deception. It is unable to meet argument except by slur and deception, and because I read The Sentinel intimates that I am influenced by what I read. The fact is, I was reading the Advocate long before The Sentinel came to Columbiana, but if it will do the editor of the Advocate any good I can freely say that none of his writings influence anybody to any great extent; there is no beginning, no end, middle or bottom to anything that appears in his paper. Companionship with a blue back speller and a grammar for a year or two is what he needs most, for intelligent people will not stand for "brass tax," "hare rang" and "sich" like expressions.

The Advocate said a short time ago that the law compelled the commissioners to levy a tax for bridges before they are built. I heard Judge Longshore say that under the Constitution of Alabama a levy for bridges cannot be made until the bridges are built and the debt created. Now will the Advocate say that all of the bridges have been built that the people have paid tax for in the past two or three years? It cannot in truth say yes; the people know different. Then what has become of the money which the people paid for this purpose? It is not in the bridge fund, for if I remember correctly the last grand jury said there were but three cents in the bridge fund. It appears to me that some comprehensive explanation is due the taxpayers as to why they were taxed contrary to law to build bridges, why those bridges have never been built, and what has become of the money raised by those levies? These are matters taxpayers have a right to know of.

The commissioners purchased some time ago a thousand dollars' worth of fence wire. It is scattered all over one section of the county; part of it "strung" and part of it laying around in almost any old place. Some of it has been fastened to bushes and is no more effective than if none of this populist extravagance had never been purchased. As the matter now stands this expenditure of the money of the taxpayers was pure wastefulness. I mention this merely as another illustration of the utter incompetency of the present administration to economically attend to public affairs.

No such condition of county affairs ever existed when Democrats had the reins of government. Demagoguery, under the nom de guerre of "reform," has swept Shelby county like a sirocco fresh from the desert of Libyam, blighting the fair name and credit of Shelby county. Recent developments in the financial affairs of the county show some startling transactions. It has not been many months since a money lender said the credit of Shelby county was not good for ten thousand dollars! In half a dozen years the tax rate has gone from four to seven mills, and yet with all this great increase in taxes the county is compelled to borrow money to pay expenses! And all this in six years! And who is responsible for all this? What party has had the management of the county's affairs for the past six years? Disregard of constitutional law, and a lack of knowledge in the management of public affairs by the populist administralion has been the only cause, and the efforts of Judge Longshore to shift the responsibility are fruitless. VERITAS.

Wilsonville, Aug 29th.

Those Affidavits.

At the time of the joint discussion at Spring Creek (Beat 2), Judge McMillan was informed that a letter, which he was charged with having written Wm. Merrell, was being used against him. He was told that the letter he is charged with writing said he had been defeated (in the election six years ago) by the ignorant white voters and negroes.

In his speech at Spring Creek, McMillan said he would give ten dollars for the produc ion of any such letter, but for some reason best known, probably, to those who were circulating the story, the letter did not show up, and Judge McMillan says he has no recollection of writing any such a letter, and those who know Mr. McMillan know he is not given to making false statements.

In the last issue of the Advocate appeared affidavits from A. Z. and W. S. Merrell saying that their father did receive a letter from McMillan in which the latter said he had "been beaten for Probate Judge but that it was done by illiterate white and negroes," and that "this affidavit is made in defense of his father's word who is now passed away." There is nothing in the affidavits to show that the deceased Mr. Merrell had ever said he received such a letter from McMillan, and the object and purpose of these affidavits are plain on their very face. There is no issue between Judge McMillan and the dead, but the best evidence that he wrote the letter he is charged with writing is the production of the letter.

The face of the affidavits show that they are for no other purpose than to create prejudice, and to stir up strife and bitterness—the only foundation upon which the populist administration hopes for a re election—a weapon which has always been resorted to by these same populist leaders—the weapon of a party which cannot go before the people upon merit.

Messrs. Merrell may mean well in making those affidavits, but afterthought will show to them that they have been trapped into making a defense or their father's word, when it has never been established that he made any such an assertion about McMillan writing such a letter to him, or that McMillan has ever contradicted Wm. Merrell, deceased, in any wise, and The Sentinel believes the affidavits referred to will have just the opposite effect desired by the populist leaders.

It is just such prejudicial actions that has brought Shelby county into its unenviable condition, but they will not divert the minds of the people from the true issues in this campaign. Strife, passion, prejudice and villification are the weapons best handled by the populist leaders in this county, but with them they have duped the people of Shelby county for the last time.

Past Master in Dodging.

The populist administration stands charged with levying illegal taxes," etc.—The Sentinel.

"You have charged the populist administration with all manner o things and God only knows what you hatch up next."—Advocate.

And the above is a fair illustration of the manner in which the Advocate meets the charges that are brought against the populist administration. It cannot meet the charge with a denial supported by the truth, and to admit the truth would be an acknowledgement that in making the illegal levies the populist administration willfully violated constitutional law, and overrode the constitutional rights of the taxpayers of this country.

The court records point with condemnatory finger at the populist administration, for the courts have held that the levy of 1899 was illegal, being contrary to constitutional law, yet, notwithstanding this decision the populist administration continues to place these illegal levies upon the people. What else can be expected when the head of that administration says: "I will not support the Constitution of Alabama only so far as the law compels me to."

The above are the words of Judge Longshore uttered time and again in his speeches in this campaign. What kind of justice, if his constitutional rights were in jeopardy, could a man hope for in a court presided over by a Judge who says he will not support the Constitution of the State only so far as he is compelled by law? There would remain to him but one of two things to do: submit to the wrongs heaped upon him, or go to a higher court and invoke the law to COMPEL the Judge of the lower court to support the Constitution and give him his rights thereunder. That is the attitude in which Judge Longshore stands before the people of Shelby county today, and his inflammatory words should condemn him in the minds of all patriotic people. Constitutional law, the patriotism of the American people are the two things which prevent anarchy from devastating this country. When a man's patriotism is fired only when the law compels it, suspicion of such patriotism is pretty well founded.

The Sentinel believes that any man in any State who says he will not support the Constitution of his State only when compelled by law to do so is unworthy to hold any public office. Give such a leader a following which he would consider sufficient to accomplish it and the organic law of a State—aye, of a Nation, would be overthrown and ours would be a land of revolution, of rebellion and riot; it would be a land governed by the torch and the sword, and not by motives prompted by a desire to see justice meted to all alike.

These are some of the things that patriotic people of this county should consider when they vote in November, and they will.

A False Accusation Reacts,

To the Voters of Shelby County.

Last week, as I read that unprovoked insult which, through the columns of the Advocate, was thrust directly into the face of the State of Alabama, and more directly, if possible, into my face, as an officer of Shelby county, I am moved by a patriotic spirit to appear in the columns of the public press, in bold defense of myself, and in defense of the great State of Alabama, of which you all form a part.

Premeditatedly and maliciously some man, under the assumed name of "Plunket," asked the question "Why did so many teachers fail to get certificates in the July examination?" The answer to this question is easy and simple: They didn't make the grade. Young "Plunket" would lead you to believe that all Republicans and populists, regardless of qualifications, we e rejected by the State Board of Examiners, and that all Democrats were given certificates.

Now the young man who made this unjust charge against our great State must have been dreaming, for when he awakens to his sensibilities, and is reminded of the fact that he, too, was an applicant on that occasion, and doubtless knew the political sentiment of every member of his class, he knows his accusation is false on its face.

He says "not a single populist or Republican passed." Now let us see who got certificates, and who did not.

In this examination we had eight white applicants, five of whom represent Democratic families, two represent populists, and one Republican. Of these, three Democrats passed, and two failed: one populist passed, and one failed, and the Republican likewise failed, and he was not surprised, for he admitted in the beginning that he was not prepared. So far as the politics of the negroes is concerned, I know nothing about that. Really, he is not manipulating the politics of this county nowadays.

Young "Plunket" did me and justice to say there was something wrong in Montgomery, insinuating that I had reported to the Examining Board the political complexion of my class of applicants. This I have never done, nor even thought of doing.

I know that young "Plunket's" article does not express the sentiment of the populists concerning my administration. While they do not agree with me politically, they have frequently commended me for the impartial manner in which I have discharged my official duties. Instead of having prejudiced the minds of the people against me, he seems to have won for himself the contempt of those who have been his best friends. May the Lord help "Plunket" to repent of his sins, and confess his guilt both to God and to man.

JNO. B. FARRELL,
Supt. of Education.

VINCENT.

Many shouts still ring in my ears:
smiles from pink lips and bright eyes sparkling with innocent glee still haunt me. Rosy cheeks burning with young life's blood, have closed their bloom till another sun. The week's toil only bears me away from fair faces and glossy locks. Father Time's fleet foot-fall comes with feathery heel. The wasted week's sun sinks to soar no more till labor gives up to a holy day of rest. His golden rays fall softly on an ocean of green leaves bathed with glistening drops of but one fled day, ready to offer snowy locks to eager fingers and send down their shade on empty burs

The maize has on his yellow shield;
the war must soon begin. His warriors many—the battle hot. His armor must be stripped from and as trophies in the triumphal train borne away in bundles.

Strown upon the mother's breast
the mower's knife leaves its dead. No bones to moulder in the sun; no grave their bodies fill; but entombed their mounds shall slumber sweet till herbivorarum lows and neighs shall awaken them. Scorched vines, once green where sweet melons grew, the twilight now finds bare. Lamenting swine whose shares the rind with cries demand their fare.

Boughs robbed of a summer's load gives dewy night nimble limbs. Virile hands filched their riches, smuggled them for winter's chills. In sealed cells the cellar holds them prisoners till a Christmass feast. But, farewell, sweet evening—never no more of thee! The river's shoal has begun its wailing and its sighs gentle breezes waft to me. Slumber is trampling my eyes. "Great Nature" her "second course" demands. The katy-dids have begun their lays; the crickets chirp me dreamy.

But one more word for Plunket, my friend, my neighbor's son,
It seems that in a hard fought race
the prize he lost, not won.
I, too, was in that race, dear friend,
the goal I reached at last;
It was by honest strides, dear friend,
and not a Party Class.
The hours grew wee while my lamplight fell on pages full of toil.
The midnight bell rang its knell and lower sank my oil.
Your words once captivee have escaped you,
In armored host they challenge me;
But, be deaf, mine ears, you shall not hear them,
Anger surely set them free.

WILSONVILLE.

There is some sickness in and around our town we regret to report.

Mrs. Mary E. Riddle is very sick at the home of her daughter Mrs. Iris E. Taylor, in this city.

Rev. C. W. O'Hara, of Columbiana, filled the pulpit at the Baptist church Sunday, and from here Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara left for "New Prospect" to attend the Shelby Association which convened there Tuesday.

E. Williamson, of Talladega, was here among friends and relatives Sunday.

The carpenters who have been engaged in Talladega for several weeks returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson, of Longview, visited relatives here several days last week.

Claud Ray is reported very sick with fever at his home near town, also his sister is said to be very sick.

Rev. O. P. Bentley and daughters, Misses Emma and Hattie, visited here Sunday and Monday, to the delig t of all.

William and S. G. Gwin, of Lamison and Maplesville, visited homefolks Sunday and Monday. The latter is among the youngest operators on the Southern Railroad.

The ginning outfit at this place has undergone repairs all summer, and now the ginners say they can gin 75 bales a day.

The cotton crop is reported as failing very fast due to drought, and then a great deal of rain. The corn crop, however, is very fine.

J. L. Riddle and son, W. E. Riddle, visited relatives here Sunday afternoon.

Clarence Smith, of J. F. Pope's, visited your city Sunday; the attraction you understand.

Bill Ray and son, Henry, of Weldon, visited in town Sunday.

Thomas Stamps and Miss Alma Stone eloped Sunday and drove to Weldon and were quietly married in the public road, J. E. Adams officiating. Our best wishes attend them.

W. J. Weldon and Miss Blanche Clark made a business trip to Birmingham the latter part of last week.

Miss Annie Boyer, after making a thorough canvas of the town, sold near one hundred copies of "The New York Boston Horror" and "Easy Steps for Little Feet." Miss Annie is a most active agent.

Mrs. J. H. Robinson, after a two weeks' visit to Cullman, returned home last week.

Mr. Editor, this being your first communication, we will try to cut it short, and write again should this appear in print. Your correspondent, Mr. Wingard, having gone to Atlanta to attend a business college, we decided some one should write, and thus this short letter this week.

Before we close please let us say that the Presbyterians held a successful meeting here last week, eight accessions, and on next Sunday the Methodists begin their meeting. Will be glad to have all Sentinel readers attend.

WERE THE LEVIES LEGAL?

The Sentinel has charged that the populist administration had levied and collected an illegal tax from the people of Shelby county, and Judge Longshore admits the truthfulness of the charge in the following extract from his speech at Dunnavant: "You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges, or create a debt." For the past two years the people have been taxed for bridges which have not been built, and at the time the levies were made were not even contracted for. Will the Advocate tell its readers those levies were legal?

COMPULSORY PATRIOTISM!

In his speech at Shelby, Judge Longshore, in an attack upon the Constitution of Alabama, said: "I WILL NOT SUPPORT THAT CONSTITUTION ONLY SO FAR AS THE LAW COMPELS ME."

Baseball fever seems to be on the wane in Columbiana. Too hot to play ball nohow.

Mrs. Simon Friedberger and children have gone on a visit to relatives in Wilcox county.

Oscar Lawley, of Birmingham, was in town several days last week for a visit to friends.

Don't knock against your town whatever else you may do. Knocking never built up a town.

Brasher Walls, of Birmingham, was visiting his brother Sam in town the fore part of the week.

Clean the decayed cabbage out of your garden, if there is any there; it breeds fever and a doctor's bill.

Mrs. Sam'l Erlick and children, of Bessemer, are in the city guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Erlick.

The usual semi-monthly services were held at the Methodist church last Sunday morning and night.

Mrs. S. V. McCauley, of Montevallo, is in the city for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Whitaker.

Horace Hammond was down from Birmingham Saturday and Sunday for a short visit with his mother.

Miss Keeto is making Columbiana her annual visit, and as usual is making life miserable for everybody.

Supt. John B. Farrell, who had been suffering with a slight attack of malarial fever last week, is all right again.

W. E. Riddle, our next commissioner from this district, was in town Saturday and made this office a pleasant call.

Mrs. I. W. Bailey, after a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Weaver, returned to her home in Calera last Sunday.

Tom Norris has gone to Marion Junction where he has accepted a position as telegraph operator with the Southern Railway.

Don't think that every criticism in the paper is directed against you because it happens to fit your case; there are others.

The Shelby ball team passed through Columbiana last Friday, en route to Montevallo to play a double header with that team.

Clarence Smith was down from Wilsonville Sunday visiting friends. Mr. Smith is well pleased with his position with J. F. Pope.

Will Harrell, who has been agent for the Southern at Flat Top for the past month, is at home for a visit with his wife and children.

L. N. Bowdon, of Calera, was a visitor at the home of Mrs. T. M. Wilson last Thursday. The serious illness of Master Paul called him here.

Miss Rosser Christian who has been visiting friends at White Plains, Anniston, Oxford and Shelby for the past few weeks, has returned home.

The cool weather of the past few days has made one think it is time to get the boys and girls ready to go to school. Columbiana is the place to send them.

H. M. Millstead is just finishing up one of the finest gins in this section of the country. Farmers should remember this when they begin picking their cotton.

Mrs. Tommy Dump, who grumbles a good deal because of the hot weather, should go in cold storage and not complain so much. Other people have troubles of their own.

Tommy Dump says contractors expect a man to work ten hours just as hard as if the job would last but half that time. Tommy is a chronic grumbler any way you take him.

The friends of Mrs. E. W. Burt are glad to know that she has almost recovered from injuries received by being thrown from a bus some three months ago. She is able to be out again.

John Merrell was up from Shelby last Thursday for a few hours. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call. Mr. Merrell left Auburn Tuesday where he will go to school the coming session.

Work on the new jail is progressing rapidly.

Amos Glaze, of near Vincent, was in town the fore part of the week.

Morgan Bro's Mercantile Co., of Montevallo, have a reserved space in this issue of The Sentinel. Mr. Geo. W. Morgan is now in Cincinnati purchasing a fall and winter stock for the firm, and as soon as he returns will tell the people of Shelby county all about it. Watch this space.

The Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo opens on September 15th, and we are informed that the attendance promises to be even greater than last year. A great deal of work has been done on the buildings and the grounds this summer, and it is much more pleasant than heretofore.

The Sentinel received a pleasant call from Woodfin Shivers, of Montevallo, who came up to play ball with the Montevallo boys. Woodfin was employed in The Sentinel office in that city for several months. He will go to Marion next week to attend the Military Institute at that place to fit himself for the Military School at Annapolis.

Pretty Ball Game.

The Montevallo ball team came up Tuesday for two games with our home team.

The game Tuesday afternoon resulted in a victory for the visitors by a score of 6 to 4. It was a battle between the two batteries, and both of them did pretty work. Roberts for the home team struck out seventeen men, and Garner for the visitors struck out eight. Several Shelby boys played with both teams.

Will Averyt and Dr. Williams, of Shelby, umpired the games and gave good general satisfaction.

Yesterdays's game was a victory for the home team, score, 10 to 5. Tom Tinney was in the box for the home team.

These are the last games of the season with Montevallo, as a number of the boys in the will go away to school next week.

The batteries were Garner and Shivers for the visitors, and Roberts, Tinney and Albright for the local team.

McMahan Killed.

Just before we go to press we learn that Manager McMahan, of the Shelby Springs summer resort, was shot and killed yesterday morning by George Porter, of Calera. The Sentinel was unable to learn the particulars of the shooting.

Mrs. L. N. Bowdon, who has been at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. M. Wilson, for the past three weeks because of the serious illness of her brotners, Melvin and Paul, returned to her home in Calera Monday.

J. W. Bandy, of Montevallo, was in town Tuesday and yesterday, managing the Montevallo ball team. The team is composed of gentlemen, and they know how to play ball.

Rev. Mr. Hamner, of Waverly, is in the city visiting his brother Dr. Hamner.

A baby boy has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bandy.

Miss Mary Peters went to Birmingham, Saturday, with Miss Lena North for a return visit.

Miss Cora Morgan, of Columbiana, returned home Monday after a short visit with the Misses Kroell.

Miss Myrtle Lawrence, who has been visiting here for a few days, returned to Woodlawn Sunday.

Miss Nellie Ozley, after a short visit with relatives and friends here, returned to her home in Bessemer Sunday night.

F. W. Bandy, of Savannah, Ga., and H. A. Bandy, of Birmingham, arrived in the city Sunday for a short visit with their mother, Mrs. M. J. Bandy.

Capt. and Mrs. H. C. Reynolds are in St. Louis enjoying the Fair. After a short stay there they will make a trip through California, Oregon and Washington, touching at Vancouver's Island.

Montevallo and Shelby lined up on the local diamond Friday afternoon. Rain stopped the very interesting game at the end of the third inning, when the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of Montevallo. Saturday morning Shelby took the first game, 9 to 2, and Montevallo the second, 6 to 1.

The first new bale of cotton appeared in Montevallo last Friday. It was raised by L. B. Carter, on Thomas Hand's farm in Chilton county, and weighed 530 pounds. C. L. Merones & Co. opened the bidding at 12 cents, and it was bought by George Kroell for 12¼, about two cents above the market. Montevallo expects to do a bigger cotton business this season than ever before.

HARPERSVILLE.

Mrs. Strock is at Cook Springs.

Our school will open up the first Monday in October.

Joe Florey and sister, Miss Minnie, are both sick with fever.

Col. Kidd and his son Jamie have gone to the World's Fair.

The cotton crop in this section is not any better than it was last year.

Mrs. Mallory, of Klien, is spending some time with E. V. Caldwell's family.

For some unknown reason Rev. O'Neal failed to fill his appointment at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Farm hands are very scarce up here. Have not you a few idle clerks you can spare to pull fodder and pick cotton?

Mrs. W. J. Ray, of Newton, Ala., who has been spending the summer here, returned to her home last Monday accompanied by Mr. Ray's sister, Miss Lena, who will spend the winter with them.

Our farmers saved quite a nice lot of fodder last week, and a great many are preparing to save big lot of hay, peavines and such like. The more roughage the less corn will be required, and this means not so much western corn will be bought another year. Raise your own corn; raise your own meat; elect Parker and the whole Democratic ticket and times will be better.

Please do not understand me as being opposed to the R. F. D. route. I am not, if all the people are to be benefitted, but where there is just a few who are to benefitted and majority are not I do not endorse it. I repeat again that Vincent and Harpersville route does not accommodate more than one-fifth of the people who live within its territory, and it should never be started.

In a recent letter from one of the parties who went to Texas from here some time ago, I find the following: "This is the prettiest country I ever saw; the land is so level, but I do not see that crops are any better here than they are at home. I did not go to church last Sunday because the wind was blowing so hard, and the sand flying so bad that it was almost impossible for anyone to be out."

Sunday School Association.

The Shelby County Sunday School Association met with the Shelby Baptist church, August 18th, at 11 o'clock.

The first on the program was a praise service conducted by J. F. Averyt.

At 1:30 the time having arrived arrived for the regular meeting Mr. A. H. Avery was elected to take charge in the absence of the President, The subject, "Problem of the Superintendent" was taken up.

"Order in School" was discussed by Miss Minnie Kennedy, A. H. Avery and Miss Agnes Averyt.

"How to Secure Accurate Records," by Judge Carthel. "How to Remedy Weak Points in the School," by Rev. G. T. Harris, followed.

After the enrollment of delegates, the Association adjourned until 2:30.

At the afternoon session the praise service was conducted by A. H. Avery.

The Home Department and the Sunday School Revival, which means a revival in Sunday School work akin to the revival to which we are accustomed in church work, were both taken up by Judge Carthel.

At 4:15 we had a most interesting and instructive talk upon Primary Methods by Miss Minnie Kennedy.

At 8:00 the praise service was conducted by J. S. Falkner.

A telegram was received from R. F. Lewis of Birmingham, District President, stating that he regretted that illness prevented his being present. At this time Prof. Dowell, the County President, took charge of the meeting. The rest of the session was devoted to Judge Carthel's exceedingly interesting account of the World's Sunday School Convention, and the journey through the Holy Land.

Pledges for State work were also taken, and as much was pledged as in past years from the schools represented. It was resolved to call upon schools not represented, but usually contributing, to give their usual amount which would give us as much as is asked of Shelby county.

On Friday morning the praise service was conducted by J. S. Falkner.

A Reasonable Year's Work, by Judge Carthel, gave us points to be gained in county work.

1. A County Association with annual meetings.
2. Beat Associations with annual or quarterly meetings in each beat.
3. Contribution to State and County work.

"How to Advertise our County Conventions" was ably discussed by J. S. Falkner.

"The Sunday School as a Developing Agent for the membership of our Churches, by J. F. Averyt. The speaker stressed the point that few members come into the churches from without the Sunday Schools.

"The Teacher During the Week," was discussed in a paper read by Mrs A. H. Averyt.

At the afternoon session the praise service was conducted by Judge Carthel.

The subject of Teacher Training was discussed by the Association in general, and many valuable points were given.

At 3:30 Miss Kennedy gave a model primary lesson, teaching the lesson of Elijah on Mt Carmel to a class mostly under the age of 10. This was one of the most interesting features of the Convention.

"Looking for Absentees, was discussed by J. J. Jackson and others.

"FORGET IT."

Forget about the sun spots
And you'll find the sun is bright.
Forget about the darkness
And deny there is a night.

Forget the day is rainy,
Sure, to-morrow will be fine.
Just brush aside the clouds yourself
And make your own sunshine.

A Trying Predicament.

By H. D. G. PARSONS.

In the winter of 187—, when business was very dull, I unfortunately happened to be out of a situation. I had travelled through several western cities in quest of employment, but without success. At last I found myself in one of the hotels in Louisville, studying the state of my finances and prospects.

Having received a good education, I could keep a set of books with any man; few could excel me as a salesman. My lot seemed to be doubly unfortunate. Why was I not a mechanic? I could then have easily obtained what I wanted.

In the midst of my revery, a short, stout, nervous looking gentleman, who had been eyeing me for some time, asked me if I had been long in Louisville.

Being out of sorts with myself and every one else, I did not answer him with extreme politeness.

"You seem down-hearted," he continued, still gazing at me as if he not only wanted to know my business, but my height, size and wearing apparel; even my boots were closely scrutinized.

I evaded his question by remarking on the dull business season.

"Are you looking for work?"

"You have anticipated my wants correctly," I replied, in hopes of ending the conversation, as he did not look like a man who hired either clerks or bookkeepers.

"Are you a powerful man?" he said, continuing his examination. "If so I might hire you.

'There is not a man in the city I am afraid to grapple with," I replied eagerly, overjoyed at the sudden prospect of getting a situation.

"I think you will answer my purpose," he said, walking round me as if he were purchasing a horse.

Having finished the inspection, he took me aside and informed me in the strictest confidence, that he had a sick brother who required a nurse. From what he could see, I was competent to fill the berth.

"As to salary," he continued, "if you suit me, I will make it liberal; but one thing you must promise me."

I at once expressed my willingness to make the promise, if it would not, at any time, involve me in trouble.

He set my fears at rest at that point, as all he wanted was that while I was in his employ I would not make the world wiser as to what I was doing. There was nothing unreasonable in any employer's exacting such promise. I accepted his offer.

Bidding me follow him, we traversed several streets until we arrived in front of a large mansion in one of the principal thoroughfares. My guide using the latchkey, we entered the house without ceremony.

After dinner I was introduced to my charge, who was the exact counterpart in looks of his brother. I glanced from one to the other wondering how it was possible for two men to be so much alike.

"My name is William Harrison," said the brother who hired me, "and this is Mr. Charles Harrison."

"Twin brothers," I said, looking from one to the other.

"Yes, we are twins," said Mr. William. "Unfortunately, Charles is peculiar in his manner, and I wish you to look after him—in fact to be his constant companion."

"His constant companion," I repeated. What! Is he crazy?" I asked, aside of Mr. William.

"Yes, a little out of his head," he replied. "You must be careful not to let him get the upper hand of you in any way, and when he is violent, there is a straight jacket," he said, showing me the article on a sideboard.

"All right," I said. "Now, as I understand you, I must use this when I think proper to do so."

"Yes," he replied, "whenever you have occasion to. Of course you must use proper judgment, and not be too violent. I can see by your looks that you are a very powerful man—in fact, I pride myself on being so fortunate as to secure you."

He was right in his judgment as to my powers; I have met few men in my lifetime who equaled me in strength.

During our conversation, Mr. Charles sat still, without saying a word. I again compared them. The similarity of features, build, even their hair, which was gray, was remarkable; both wore their whiskers alike. It was the first time in my life I was puzzled in making a distinction whereby I could tell one man from another.

As a last resource, I was obliged to make a note of their different costumes, in order to know Mr. Charles apart from Mr. William.

What if I was to mistake (in my routine as keeper and nurse) one brother for the other? A dread of the fearful consequence that would follow came over me, and I can assure you it was some time before I could rest easy in mind.

Mr. William retired, leaving me with my charge. The change, at least, furnished the pressing requirements for the time. Unsuited though it was to my taste, I soon fell into the dull routine the life of a nurse to a madman furnishes, and, before a week was up I felt myself perfectly able to take any first-class position that offered as keeper of the unfortunate insane community.

Mr. Charles, at times, was violent and rough in his manner, but after I had given him a taste of the straight jacket a few times, he troubled me very little. Occasionally he would go down on his knees and plead love for an imaginary lady, then start up with a blustering air, and order me out of the room as if I had no business there. And really, I must say there was very little need of my staying by him all the time; but I was paid for it so I was obliged to obey.

They were both bachelors, having considerable property. Mr. Charles became insane a few years previous. His brother preferred taking charge of him instead of sending him to an asylum.

At times, Mr. William did not appear as rational as he should be, but it was his peculiar manner. I learned from the servants that he had been for years paying his addresses to a Miss Stebbins, an elderly maiden lady belonging to one of the first families of Louisville. She often visited the house. He would be very tender in his manner toward her, and would offer her his arm when they walked in the garden, but marriage, or any arrangement to that end, was never hinted at. He seemed to be content with paying the polite addresses due from an engaged swain to the object of his choice, and there it ended. It was evident that he was either too bashful to proceed with his suit beyond that mark, or else the lady objected to him and preferred single-blessedness to the duties and cares of married life.

The latter seemed improbable, as Miss Stebbins, when they promenaded on the piazza, hung lovingly on his arm, and threw such sweet glances at her escort that they betrayed her willingness to unite her fortunes with his. Then it was clear that the fault was on the part of Mr. William.

As the summer advanced Miss Stebbins came oftener. The greenhouse required rearranging before winter set in. The alterations were begun and carried out under her plans. Mr. William was a willing slave to her ideas; and as I watched him from my window receiving her suggestions about how the dome in the centre was to be built, I really believed that had she proposed carrying it up a hundred feet high, he would have had it done.

It was evidently coming to a climax. Mr. William intended getting married; if not to Miss Stebbins, certainly some lady would soon be mistress of his establishment.

At present, no other female appeared. The only conclusion therefore to be drawn was that Mr. William Harrison and Miss Clarinda Stebbins, both of the city of Louisville, were about to commit matrimony.

As for myself, during the hot weather having little to do, I was fast growing fat and lazy, and the financial prospect before me looked decidedly cheering. So well had I managed my charge, that Mr. William hired me by the year; an agreement was made out, which we both signed, that I was to continue in the capacity of nurse to his brother for the space of twelve months, beginning June the first, at a salary of one hundred and fifty dollars a month.

Immediately after we had made this permanent arrangement, Mr. William left Louisville for a few days and I was alone with Mr. Charles.

One fine afternoon he was taking his after dinner nap, which generally lasted for a couple of hours. I foolishly left him and went out for a walk. I was gone about an hour. When I returned to the house, a sight met my eyes that made my blood run cold. Mr. Charles was in the room, not his own, kneeling at the feet of a lady.

I always prided myself on being a gallant, and would never allow a lady to be insulted, much more to see her at the mercy of a madman. I rushed in and secured him.

"How dare you come in here and behave in this manner, you rascal?" he said, in his usual crazy manner.

"I'll show you," I replied, taking the straight jacket out of my pocket, where I always carried it, ready for instant use.

"Unhand me, sir, and go out of the room," he exclaimed, pointing to the door.

By this time the lady had fainted. Seeing her drooping head, as she sank on the lounge, was enough. I grappled with him, and in spite of all he could do, I quickly put the straight jacket on him, and he was incapable of doing any further harm.

Having secured my charge, I turned my attention to the lady. Taking the water pitcher, which always stood in the room, I sprinkled her face; when she revived, and looked at Mr. Charles chafing in the straight jacket, she gave an unearthly scream, and fainted in earnest that time. I thought she was dead.

What could I do? The servants were out, and I alone with a madman in a straight jacket, and a lady in hysterics. If ever mortal was in a more trying predicament, I should like to know it.

"Let me out of this, you villain!" he thundered.

"When I get ready," I replied, taking my knife and cutting open the lady's tight dress, to ease her. I fairly drenched her in water, to no purpose. I could scarcely distinguish her breathing. Taking a lump of ice from the pitcher, and holding it to her forehead, the chill revived her a little.

I was congratulating myself on having saved her life, when she looked at Mr. Charles.

"Oh, my darling!" she sobbed out, then, giving another shriek, off she went again.

I was in a worse fix than ever, with a crazy woman as well as a man to take care of. I believe, at that moment, if I had had another straight jacket in my pocket, it would have gone on her.

I rubbed her forehead with the ice, and chafed her hands whilst my knife had perfectly loosened her dress from neck to waist.

I was afraid she would die under my hands; then what should I do? I rang the bell for the servants, but they were out, so no help came from that quarter.

Going to the sideboard, I took some brandy and held it to her lips; my charge was raving all the time.

"If you don't stop your row, and let me attend this lady, I will gag you!" I said, threatening him.

The brandy had the desired effect. She started up and rushed to him. Her dress, which before was a perfect fit, now hung in shreds. She clasped him around the neck, declaring I should not kill him.

I gently disengaged her from him.

"Come," I said soothingly, "it pains me to see you so excited. Calm yourself; I will soon get some one to take charge of you."

Seating her on the lounge, I again rang the bell for help; visible signs of hysterics appeared; she was having a relapse. I shouted for some one to come. Judge of my astonishment when she began calling me a villain for serving her darling in that way.

"My good lady," I replied, "although you are old enough to be my mother, I beg to disagree with you; it is for his good."

How far I should have gone, or what other means I should have taken to quiet my two mad people, I really cannot say, had not one of the servants entered at that moment. She too gave a scream at our ludicrous appearance.

"What! are you mad as well?' I said. "Come here and help me out of this plight."

She came up to us. A word was enough to reveal to my blundering eyes the mistake I had made. It was Mr. William I had been handling. To take the straight jacket off him and retire to my room was the work of a moment. I locked the door after me.

The imprecations I overheard heaped on my head were certainly enough to frighten any man of moderate nerve. Miss Stebbins' new mauve silk was all cut to pieces; even her fancy corsets were ruined by my cutting them in two, not to mention a splendid sash of watered silk, costing I don't know how much, and the shock to her nerves was irreparable.

I found my charge, the real manaic, sleeping quietly in his bed. Leaving him to finish his nap, I began to ruminate on the chances of my going to the penitentiary. Just then I overheard Mr. William ordering the servant to fetch a policeman, when Miss Stebbins interrupted him.

"Do not send for the police," she said. "We shall have to go to court, and our love be made public in the eyes of the gaping world; the Clarances will torment my life out of me."

"I will get rid of him at once," said Mr. William. "The rascal! It was only the other day I hired him for a year. Come out!" he continued, knocking at the door of my room.

My overhearing their conversation had set my mind at rest on the jail question. Miss Stebbins being in high social standing, money could not have hired her to be cross-examined in a public court, and the result of my blundering interruption of their interesting tete-a-tete made known to her friends. She was quick-sighted enough to see that, in the midst of her trouble.

When I thought their passions had cooled a little, I opened the door, and at the sight which met my eyes it was impossible for me to repress a hearty laugh, which did not raise me any higher in their opinion.

Mr. William was wiping the perspiration off his face, and declaring to Miss Stebbins that the disagreeable affair should have no effect on their engagement, while she stood by holding her dress, the splendid mauve silk, in anything but graceful folds about her lovely person.

"Villain!" said Mr. William, "get out of the house!"

"Yes, scoundrel that you are!" said Miss Stebbins, getting decidedly passionate. "I'll teach you to cut my new mauve silk and sash all to pieces! And my French corsets have not escaped; you shall be hung for it!" she shrieked.

I stood still, unable to say a word in defence.

"What are you staring at?" said Mr William.

"I am going to stay my year out," I replied doggedly. "I shan't budge until the first of next June without my salary."

"Get rid of him," said Miss Stebbins, "or I leave Louisville."

Her word was law. He went to his room and returned in a few minutes with a check, which he handed me, saying:

"There, sir, now go, and never darken my door again."

I took the check, which was for my year's salary, and went out of the house and situation in five minutes. Eighteen hundred dollars are quite an item for the loss I sustained. I came to northern Ohio, started in business, and, in spite of Mr. Harrison's maledictions and the ruined mauve silk, I am doing well from the proceeds of my "trying predicament."—Waverley Magazine.

The World's Goods.

Irving Bacheller, author, tells with glee of a recent visit to the old farm up the state where he spent his boyhood days. The place was in a poor condition, the buildings being dilapidated and everything giving mute evidence of long neglect. On the porch of the ramshackle house sat an old man, bowed with the weight of years and a big mortgage on the farm. After exchanging greetings Mr. Bacheller said:

"Well, I fancy this place might have looked a little better if I had stayed here."

"Mebbe 'twould," replied the old man, with a sigh. "The old farm might have looked a bit spruce, but it's dollars to doughnuts that you wouldn't be wearin' sech good clothes as you've got on!"

Our Wages Are Higher.

Hungarians, Germans, Slovaks and Jews all emigrate from Hungary because the wages are higher in the United States than in Europe; on the other hand, a larger proportion than formerly return by direct instigation of relatives, who are constantly stimulated by the Hungarian press, in order to spend the higher American wages on cheaper European manufactures in their old age. While in the larger cities of Hungary food and rent are becoming nearly as dear as in the United States, they are not so high in the country places, to which most emigrants return.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger

J. B. CORTON.

J. B. Corton, farmer and lumberman, of Deppe, N. C., says: "I suffered for years with my back. It was so bad that I could not walk any distance nor ride in an easy buggy. I do not believe I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe. This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me, and now I am never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago. I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors, and they have also found good results. If you can sift anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to any one suffering from kidney trouble you are liberty to do so."

Mr. Astor's Joke.

In a speech that William Waldorf Astor delivered before the London Clubmen's Benevolent Society he told of a costermonger who lay dying. Nevertheless, he expressed a desire for something to eat, and his wife asked him what he would like. "Well," said the costermonger, "I seem to smell a ham a-cookin' somewheres. I think I could eat a bit of that." "Oh, no, John, dear," said his wife; "you can't have that. That's for the funeral."—Argonaut.

The Japanese are considered to be among the very strongest people on earth. They are strong mentally and physically and practically they eat no meat at all. Their diet consists almost wholly of rice, steamed or boiled, while the better to do add fish, eggs, vegetables and fruit. For beverages they use weak tea without sugar or milk, and pure water, alcoholic stimulants being rarely indulged in.

Rueben Laycock, the atheist sage of Danville, Iowa, is dead. Just before his death he wrote his own funeral oration, setting forth his religious views at length, picked four girls of the village to sing at his funeral, and composed the music and wrote the words of two or three philosophical poems, setting forth his views of life, death and immortality.

The treasurer of the United States on May 6, 1903, redeemed two half-cent pieces. This is the first time in the history of the country that any such coins have been presented for redemption. It is more than a century since the first half-cent piece was coined, and it is nearly fifty years since the government discontinued minting them.

Until recently it was almost universally believed that petroleum was, like coal, derived from fossil vegetation or possibly from animals or fishes of some long past age. Now it is asserted by many scientific men that it may not be of organic origin, but may be due to subterranean chemical action.

It Walked In.

Early in the morning L. H. Haney, landlord of the City hotel at Barnsboro, Cambria county, was aroused from his slumbers by a crash in his room. Opening his eyes, he was startled to see a big bear. The noise had aroused Mrs. Haney, and she screamed for help. Her husband sprang out of bed and seized a chair to protect himself and wife.

Bruin came toward them, and Haney swung the chair. Mrs. Haney was still screaming and the guests of the hotel were coming from their rooms. About this time the bear concluded that things were getting too interesting and he decided to leave. As he emerged from the landlord's room into the hall there was a rush to get out of the way. Arms were quickly obtained, and the bear driven off.

Perhaps the most remarkable bridges in the world are kettle bridges, of which Cossack soldiers are expert builders. The materials of which they are constructed are soldiers' lances and cooking kettles. Seven or eight lances are passed under the handles of a number of kettles and fastened together by means of ropes to form a raft. A sufficient number of these rafts, each of which will bear a weight of half a ton, are fastened together, and in the space of an hour a bridge is formed on which an army may cross with confidence and safety.

In the royal mausoleum at Frogmore near Windsor castle, repose the remains of Queen Victoria and her consort Prince Albert, in one tomb. When the prince died the queen had a recumbent statue of him made and placed upon the tomb. At the same time a statue of the queen was made, by the same sculptor, and when she died this was placed alongside of that of her husband, in the space that had been reserved for it. The queen is depicted in regal robes, wearing a jeweled crown and holding a scepter in her clasped hands.

A Story of the Pope.

"My life has been strangely ruled by the number nine," Pius X. is quoted as saying previous to being chosen Pope. "Nine years I was a schoolboy at Riese; nine years a student at Padua; nine years a curate at Tombolo; nine years a priest at Salzano; nine years a canon at Treviso; nine years a bishop at Mantua; now for nine years I have been a cardinal-patriarch at Venice. As Pope—as long as God wills; perhaps another nine years."

Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C.S.A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

CROP PROGRESS.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau—Alabama Section—For Week Ending August 29, 1904.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

The week, as a whole, was favorable for growing and maturing crops, except in some middle and southeastern counties, where locally heavy to excessive rains occurred; elsewhere, the rainfall was in scattered, light to moderate showers, and rain would be beneficial in some northern and western counties; about the average warmth was received, though the last two nights were quite cool for the season. Cotton has continued to deteriorate quite generally in middle and southern counties from effects of rust and shedding, though these adverse conditions are on the decrease in some localities; in some places plants are still blighting and bolls rotting; there are a few reports of damage by boll worms, and several reports of damage by "black root" in central and southeastern counties; late cotton continues to fruit fairly well in some places, but in a number of fields it has stopped fruiting; in some northern counties damage from rust and shedding has increased, but the crop, as a whole, continues promising in that portion of the state; cotton is opening rapidly in southern and some middle counties, where picking is active; a little "top crop" is forming in some localities. While it is too early to estimate the prospective yield, it is now thought it will be a little above that of last year. Corn is maturing satisfactorily, except late corn needs rain in northwest counties, and has been damaged by excessive moisture on some lowlands; gathering of early corn continues, with a very good yield; fodder pulling is being pushed to completion, with a generally good yield, though more of this forage has been damaged where rains were heavy. The hay crop continues promising, though showers retarded cutting; all minor crops and fall gardens are generally satisfactory.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS OF CROP CORRESPONDENTS.

(County—Place.)

NORTHERN DIVISION.

Blount, Royal: Cotton full of rust, shedding is increasing, little top crop, and none opening.—P. A. Amhurson.

Calhoun, Duke: Rain needed; cotton doing fairly well, though some rust and shedding.—W. M. Curry.

Cherokee, Gaylesville: Favorable weather; shedding of cotton decreasing; late corn doing well.—Robert S. Hudson.

Cullman, Cullman: Cotton continues to shed, none opening, bolls small; fodder pulling not begun; rain needed.—James Kemp.

DeKalb, Round Mountain: Too much rain for all crops; cotton continues to shed, bolls small; corn maturing slowly.—A. F. Brock.

Etowah, Keener: Cotton doing fairly well; corn continues promising; all minor crops doing well.—F. M. Tabor.

Franklin, Churubusco: Rain needed; cotton shedding; late corn damaged by drought; fodder being pulled from early corn.—J. A. Benson.

Lauderdale, Cloverdale: Cotton fruiting fairly well, some shedding, but no rust; corn above an average.—H. L. Reeder.

Lawrence, Fern Bank: Cotton opening rapidly, some rusting and shedding; late corn unpromising.—G. S. Barksdale, M. D.

Morgan, Lacon: Generally dry week, causing cotton to shed; some blight, though very little rust.—D. N. Patterson.

Walker, Kansas: Shedding in cotton increasing, some blight and considerable rust; late cotton not fruiting.—A. H. Blackwell.

Winston, Mellville: All crops need rain; cotton shedding rapidly; corn doing well; good stands of turnips.—H. J. Wilson.

MIDDLE SECTION.

Autauga, Mulberry: Cotton yellow with rust, and shedding rapidly, some complaint of black root; no top crop; picking in progress.—A. B. Jones.

Bullock, Inverness: Rust and blight spreading rapidly, though shedding in cotton decreasing; late cotton fruiting nicely, picking begun.—H. McLean.

Chambers, Lafayette: Heavy rain 24th, damaging lowland corn; cotton opening slowly, some shedding, yield promises above an average.—W. Andrews.

Choctaw, Tullis: Latter part of week unfavorable, considerable forage being lost; cotton rusting; pastures and minor crops doing well.—J. A. Bell.

Chilton, Lomax: Cotton shedding rapidly, opening slowly, and none picked; late cotton not fruiting well; beneficial shower on 25th.—A. A. Jackson.

Clay, Barfield: Cotton shedding, some blight; late cotton not fruiting well, though average yield promised, none open.—Y. C. Barfield.

Coosa, Hissop: Rust and shedding in cotton increasing, some blight, and a good deal of black root; late cotton not fruiting well.—F. M. Darsey.

Dallas, Orrville: Cotton not growing, and shedding rapidly; some rust; yield will be less than last year's.—W. W. Berry.

Elmore, Coosada: Cotton deteriorated considerably; no top crop forming; some open and picking begun; other crops backward.—H. F. Anderson.

Greene, Boligee: Cotton has shedded fruit a great deal, and is badly damaged by boll worms in places; moderate rains would be beneficial.—E. F. Bouchelle.

Lee, Opelika: Too much rain for cotton, which has stopped blooming; rust spreading and shedding is increasing.—E. H. Floyd.

Lowndes, Letohatchie: Cotton still shedding rapidly, picking in progress; very little fodder saved; pastures improving.—T. L. S. Grace.

Montgomery, Myrtle: Continued showers, causing rust, shedding and general deterioration of cotton; corn promising; minor crops good.—H. H. Barnes.

Randolph, Pittman: Rains continue; cotton rusting, rotting and shedding; none open, and no top crop forming.—J. H. Pittman.

Sumter, Gainesville: Considerable rust and shedding in cotton, though it is blooming well, and opening on sandy lands.—S. T. Jones.

Talladega, Chandler Springs: Cotton shedding, some complaint of blight, none open; yield will be less than the average.—M. F. Chandler.

Tallapoosa, Camp Hill: Corn being cut and shocked, picking and ginning general; pears, cane and potatoes doing fairly well.—E. Y. Dent.

Butler, Forest Home: Cotton still rusting, shedding increasing, and some black root; late cotton doing fairly well; picking general.—J. P. Benson.

Clarke, Thomasville: Cotton opening rapidly and picking progressing, some fields yielding satisfactorily; potatoes, peas and minor crops doing well.—T. N. Davis.

Coffee, Brockton: Rust and shedding in cotton increasing; late cotton doing fairly well; early cotton opening.—W. D. Dawkins.

Conecuh, Brooklyn: Rust spreading in cotton, which continues to shed rapidly, some picked; minor crops doing well.—M. H. Saunders.

Dale, Ozark: Too much rain; cotton deteriorated considerably in last 20 days, some picking; corn promising; pastures excellent.—Daniel McNeal.

Mobile, Citronelle: Some damage by rain; some rust and shedding in cotton, though this crop, as a whole, is doing well.—R. H. Dickie.

Monroe, Turnbull: Too much rain, considerably damaging cotton; peas and potatoes doing well.—J. H. McCray.

Pike, Troy: Too much rain, checking all progress in cotton; rust and blight in most of the county.—J. Wood.

Wilcox, Catherine: Cotton opening rapidly, no blight, rust not spreading, and shedding decreasing, yield will probably be better than last year's.—W. L. Bruce.

(Note.—The "black root" mentioned above has been previously reported in these bulletins as "black rot" and "root rot.")

Killed in Vaccuo.

Advices from Tokio state that the Japanese government has abandoned the electric chair method of executing criminals, which was copied after that used in various parts of this country, in favor of a method which is considered more advanced and humane than that employed by any other nation. Under the new method death is dealt out by means of a "vacuum" chamber, in which life is extinguished in record time, and with a minimum of suffering, by the almost instantaneous exhaustion of air.

Death Rate Low.

The physicians on five of Mississippi's convict farms in the delta report to the board of control that during the month of August only four convicts have died.

Fruit Growers Incorporate

The present prospects for Cullman's fall crops of fruit and sweet potatoes are that they will be better this year than ever before. This section is already shipping three carloads of potatoes per day and the number will be increased before the end of the week.

Won't Have to Borrow.

Announcement is made semi-officially by members of the world's fair management that the $1,000,000 loan applied for more than a month ago to be used in case of emergency will not be needed. It is stated the revenue to the world's fair has exceeded expectation and the total daily receipts amount to about $75,000, with the expenditure of about $65,000 per day.

Acquitted of Dynamiting.

Henry Martin, charged with dynamiting and trespassing on the property of the Woodward Coal and Iron company, was acquitted of both charges.

It appears that the company failed to make out any charges against Martin in either of the counts.

Martin was charged with placing dynamite under the house of a non-union miner at Dolomite last Wednesday night.

ITS FALL ADMITTED

Port Arthur's Commander Telegraphs Czar Garrison Will Die Fighting

FOUR MORE NEW REGIMENTS.

Will Go Forward to Reinforce Kuropatkin. Troops Arrive at Mukden.

It is reported from a reliable source that Lieutenant-General Stoessel, commander of the Russian military forces at Port Arthur, has telegraphed to the emperor thanking him for the recent message of encouragement sent to the garrison of Port Arthur saying that the defenders of the fortress are ready and willing to lay down their lives, but adding that the garrison has already suffered severely and intimating that it is hardly possible to hold out for more than a month or six weeks.

Four more regiments will be raised in the Caucasus. The first contingent of the first army corps has arrived at Harbin. This corps was destined for Vladivostok, but upon urgent request of General Kuropatkin it will be diverted to Mukden.

From an excellent source it is stated that the ill fated battleship Orel which already has suffered two accidents will not be able to join the Baltic squadron. According to reports when her engine trials began it was discovered her engines had been practically wrecked by workmen introducing iron fillings into the valves and cylinders. It will probably require many months to repair the damage. This is the secret of the Orel's failure to go out on the trial trip with other ships last week.

An official dispatch from Liao Yang to the general staff reporting the continued Japanese advance on Sunday, confirms the report that General Routkovsky was killed during the rear guard engagements and adds Col. Von Reaben was also killed.

The total of the Russian losses on Sunday is not known, but 400 have passed through the first aid stations. The losses of the Japanese were considerable.

The Russian army has effected its retirement with transport and artillery on Liao Yang, and is now in position awaiting the advancing Japanese. In the attack on the Siaolindy position one Japanese battalion lost all of its officers.

The retirement of the Russian transport of four corps across the plain while the artillery and troops in the rear held off the Japanese afforded a magnificent spectacle. All along the extended lines there was a roar of batteries, the Russians working their guns with great coolness, and not retiring until the transport was in safety.

On the Japanese advancing to attack Anping the Russians evacuated the place, abandoning large quantities of stores.

It is roughly computed that the Russian force around Liao Yang consists of thirteen divisions.

In the fighting of August 26, the One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Sraisk regiment with a battery, executed a particularly successful flanking movement on the Japanese extreme right.

The Russians, unperceived, got in the rear of the Japanese, whole columns of whom were mowed down before they were able to extricate themselves.

Eye-witnesses agree in admiring the fanatical bravery of the Japanese. Many of the wounded committed suicide rather than fall into the hands of the Russians.

Russian losses in the fighting of August 25th and 26th, east and south of Liao Yang, were 3,000 killed or wounded. The great majority of the casualties were sustained in Anping. The withdrawal of the Russians from their front at Anshanshan and from their eastern position was made simultaneous for strategic reasons.

German military men are discussing the situation of General Kuropatkin with intense interest. They have information that the defences of Liao Yang are of extraordinary strength. The fortifying of the town was entrusted to General Melishtko, who enjoys the reputation of being a master of military engineering.

During the past two months he has fortified all the strategic positions around Liao Yang in a manner well-nigh impregnable. Triple lines of trenches crown every height where artillery could be effective. The entire line of fortifications is connected through passages for facilitating the re-inforcements of endangered points, while bomb-proof retreats covered with steel rails protect reserves.

All important points have telegraphic communications with headquarters.

Boll Worm Damages.

The damage being done to the cotton crop in Mississippi by the little pest known as the boll worm is causing the farmers much anxiety and worry. A number of planters from the northern portion of Rankin county report that many of the fields in that neighborhood have been completely ruined by this little worm, and that nearly every cotton crop has suffered more or less from this source.

TENNESSEE TOWN BURNED.

Total Loss Will Reach $60,000. Court House Gone.

For three hours a fierce fire raged in the little town of Hartsville, Tenn., Sunday- causing the greatest loss of any conflagration in its history. The total loss is estimated at about $60,000.

The handsome new court house, ten business houses, the principal hotel, two livery stables and five residences were destroyed, the fire making ruins of an area of four or five acres in the central part of the town. The insurance is very light on account of the high rates charged.

The town had a disastrous blaze several years ago, when a large loss was incurred by insurance companies. The court house was then destroyed, and other buildings in the same section devastated Sunday. The rates of insurance are from 3 to 6 per cent and the town has no facilities for fighting fires.

SOUTHERN BANKS.

Alabama Reports Six New Ones as Her Record for July.

There were fifty-seven new bank companies reported in the south during July, and later information shows that many other financial institutions are also proposed and will soon apply for incorporation or charter. For July, Texas reports nine, North Carolina 8, Alabama and Tennessee six each, Mississippi five, Georgia, Indian Territory, Kentucky and Virginia three each, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and South Carolina two each, and Florida, Louisiana and West Virginia one each. The total capital represented by these institutions is nearly $2,000,000. A list of those in Alabama is as follows:

Bank of Andalusia, Andalusia, incorporated, capital $50,000; Interstate bank, Florala, organized, $50,000; Oneonta Trust and Banking Company, Oneonta, incorporated, $25,000, First National bank, Headland approved, $25,000; Central Trust Company, Birmingham, incorporated, $50,000; Citizens' National Bank, Thomasville, organized, $25,000. Total capital, $225,000.

HOUSE DYNAMITED.

Negro Miner's Home at Adamsville Blown up. No one Injured.

Dynamite was exploded under a house at Adamsville, late Sunday night. The house was occupied by a negro working in the Murray mines at Blossburg, a short distance away, but neither he nor any member of his family was hurt. No statement is made as to the perpetrators of the deed.

It is understood that the dynamite was exploded so that the full force would not be felt. Further developments will follow.

THROUGH A MISTAKE.

Father and Son Seriously Wound Each Other in Shooting Scrape.

Dr. R. B. Austin and son, Will, of Zion, Miss., are suffering from wounds received by the unintentional shooting of each other. The doctor had some trouble with a negro workman on the place, and while he was in the house looking for a gun with which to run the man away, Will took a stand behind the negro's cabin without telling his father. Dr. Austin then approached the house from the front, and both father and son, taking each other for the negro, fired several times, with the result that they were painfully but not dangerously hurt.

FIRE AT DECATUR

Destroyes Several Stores and Injures Hotel. Were Weel Insured.

On Sunday night, fire at Decatur caused a loss of fully five thousand dollars to Bank street property. The fire originated in the colored saloon of Smith & Thompson. Losses: Three buildings owned by L. M. Falk, loss $1,500, insurance, $600; R. M. Purcell, restaurant, loss $1,000, partly covered by insurance; G. F. Barnesfield, grocery, loss $700, insurance $275; Dr. W. E. Sterrs, colored, drug store, loss by water $200, covered by insurance. Just before the fire occurred the Brooklyn hotel caught fire and the fire company responded. When they reached the scene this fire was out, but immediately the Bank street fire occurred and they responded promptly. Damage to Brooklyn hotel, $200. Origin of fires unknown.

Wood Alcohol Plant.

In a few weeks Mississippi will have in successful operation the only wood alcohol factory in the world using yellow pine in the distillery. The factory is being built by the Lignum Product Company, and when completed will employ about one hundred and fifty hands. Experiments have shown that the yellow pine makes an excellent article of alcohol, and the chances are that in a short while there will be more than one such factory in the piney woods section of Mississippi.

Reward Offered.

Governor Cuningham has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of the dynamite outrage at Dolomite.

Mississippi Contracts.

The secretary of the Mississippi prison board of control reports that the total population of the penitentiary at present is 1,041, a total net loss of nine men having been experienced during the month of August.

A NATURAL ROMAN CANDLE.

Something of the New Metal Radium and Its Wonderful Properties.

The new metal, radium, which has been so much talked and written about during the last few months, turns out to be a sort of natural Roman candle, since, in addition to giving light, it also shoots off bodies of two different sizes. The light itself from this mysterious substance is not like ordinary light. Even a small fragment sealed up in a glass tube shines with a weird glow like a firefly, but bright enough to read by. Moreover, if these rays fall on certain other substances, as, for example, diamonds, it causes them also to glow with a similar unearthly radiance; and like the "X rays," which enable one to see his own bones, they will go through a plank or a dictionary. We never use metallic radium, because it has never been entirely separated from other material. We haven't it to use. We are therefore compelled to be content with some salt (a mixture) of the metal. One experimenter consequently placed the least pinch of radium bromide in a glass tube, and screwed it tightly inside of a rubber thermometer-case. This he put in an iron box, with a silver soup-tureen and four sheets of copper above it, yet in some ways the rays got out. After all, I don't know that it is any more difficult to understand why this light goes through iron than why the light of a candle goes through glass.

But a piece of radium, in addition to giving off these peculiar rays, sends out such a shower of particles that it is like a sort of exploding battery of tiny rapid-fire guns. These, as I said at the beginning, are of two sizes. The smallest are the smallest particles known to science. Indeed, as they travel some two hundred times faster than a bullet from a rifle, they must needs be pretty small not to wipe out everything within range. The others are much larger, perhaps by a thousand times, and they do not travel so fast. But even these are so small that, after millions upon millions of them have been shot off, the most careful weighing with a balance for which a hair is a heavy weight cannot detect any loss. Now these smaller bodies are the mysterious "electrons" which as they stream against the walls of a Crookes tube, produce the X-rays. So they seem quite like old friends. The larger ones come still nearer home. They are like the minute particles of vapor which are always being sent off by any substance, such as water, or alcohol, or camphor, or ice, which is drying up or wasting away. But the remarkable thing about radium is that, while the gas which goes off into the air from these familiar substances is still water or alcohol or what not, the gas from radium is not radium at all, but helium.—From Edwin Tenney Brewster's "Radium" in St. Nicholas.

Champion Jumping Dogs.

Perhaps the most vigorous and agile dogs in the world are Russian wolfhounds. Built something like a greyhound, but with more muscular limbs and shaggy coats, they are capable of feats of agility duly astonishing.

In Barnum & Bailey's show there are six of these hounds, which have been trained to leap over and through barriers of great height. Two have acquired such proficiency that one leaps through a square hole scarcely large enough to permit the passage of his body. This hole is cut through the barrier about 12 feet from the bottom.

A black and white hound, however, surpasses this performance by leaping entirely over a 15-foot barrier, clearing it in some instances by at least a yard. The performance is directed by a woman, whose word "Go!" the hounds obey the alacrity of foot racers at the start of a 100-yard dash. A thick mat is spread on the ground just beyond the barrier, and the dogs are allowed to see and smell it before the first order to leap. Without this assurance of safety they could not be induced to leap—so, at least, the trainers say. The start is a run of about 50 feet, and the leap is made from a short incline covered with soft material to afford a footing for the dogs. There appears to be no spring in this device, which is from 18 inches to two feet in height at the highest part.

Typewriters for Blind.

Many inventions have been made to bridge the distance between those who have their sight and those who have not. But none has been more practical and successful than the production of a typewriter which can be manipulated by the blind. The letters on the keys are raised and the sensitive touch of the blind man can tell the character on a key as soon as he touches it. The ringing of the bell when the margin is reached works as well for him as for the man with sight, and the sense of touch makes the manipulation of the various keys for setting the paper a comparatively simple matter.

The Ideal.

"Madam, you've already overdrawn your account."

"What's that?"

"You haven't any more money in the bank."

"The idea! A fine bank, I think, to be out of money because of the little I've drawn! Well, I'll go somewhere else."

One of the favorite dishes of the natives of the Philippines is a dish called by them sinarapan. The largest specimens are half an inch long, the smallest one-fifth of an inch, and it takes 6000 to make a pound.

BATTLE OF LIAO YANG

Is Now Raging with 40,00 Men Engaged. Russian Guns Captured.

ARMIES ARE EVENLY BALANCED

Russians are Well Intrenched and Japanese Assaults Have Been Repeatedly Repulsed.

The great battle of Liao Yang, which began early Tuesday, which was the birthday of the mikado, raged throughout the day with increasing intensity, but no official details, beyond two brief telegrams given out in the afternoon, have been received.

Every confidence is expressed in General Kuropatkin's ability to meet the Japanese assault on ground of his own choosing, but St. Petersburg is hungrily awaiting further news of the progress of the fight. The Japanese forces engaged in this battle can only be estimated, but they are believed to number about 20,000.

General Kuropatkin is known to have six army corps, besides 147 squadrons of cavalry in which great confidence is reposed, bringing up the Russian total to about the same number that the Japanese have. How the armies compare with regard to artillery is not definitely known, though throughout the war the Japanese have shown great preference for this arm and skill in its use.

Reports from the front credit the Japanese with having about 1,200 guns and many mountain batteries, and it is known that they have recently shipped 24 heavy guns to Yinkow. Four of the guns already have been mentioned in the dispatches as being in action.

General Kuropatkin, in addition to his field batteries, has a number of very heavy guns emplaced at important positions at Liao Yang, where the Russians have been strongly fortifying for some time.

The Japanese claim to have captured two field batteries during the past two days. Russian official accounts admit the loss of only six guns.

It is stated that a Japanese battery was captured south of Anshanshan during the preliminary fighting and that several Japanese guns have been captured since then.

A dispatch says:

The Japanese artillery fire only ceased at 8 o'clock this evening. The casualties have not yet been ascertained.

The Russian corps repulsed a hot Japanese assault, the Japanese being hurled back by bayonet charges no less than six times.

Two Japanese companies which succeeded in occupying a position were mistaken for Russians and annihilated by Japanese artillery fire.

There has been an immense quantity of ammunition used throughout the day, especially on the southern front against the Russian third corps.

It is believed that the Russian loss so far has been not shrdlu un nnnn so far has not been very heavy, except to the regiments which sustained bayonet charges. All the men serving one Russian gun, except one, were killed by shrapnal. The survivor who was badly wounded, heroically brought his gun to headquarters and then refused to quit his place until the general peremptorily ordered him.

A dispatch from Mukden says that in the stubbornly fought battle which has been in progress near Liao Yang all attempts of the Japanese to turn the Russian flank have been repulsed. It is said at Mukden that the Japanese lost over ten guns, but details have not been received.

The news from Port Arthur up to August 26th was reassuring. The account of the battleship Sevastopol having gone out on August 28d to bombard the Japanese in Tahe bay does not mention that vessel as striking a mine.

The finance ministry has practically arranged with German bankers for a new loan of 500,000,000 roubles (approximately $250,000,000) at a higher rate of interest than that on the last loan. Only minor details remain to be settled, and the date of issue is not stated, but it is not likely that the loan will be floated until after the fall of Port Arthur.

River Gauges.

Weather Observer, L. A. Denson, announced that the government has approved and accepted the bids of contractors, for installing river gauges at points on the Pearl and Pascagoula rivers, and their tributaries. The guages are to be put in at once at Columbia, Hattiesburg, Merrill, Shubuta, Enterprise and Jackson and will vary in construction.

RATTLER IN HIS BED.

Henry Hall, a little Elba boy, was bitten on the finger by a rattle snake as he retired. He promptly cut the finger off. He lost much blood by the crude amputation, but it saved his life.

The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II. broke her own best westward passage by two hours and twenty-six minutes, making the time of passage five days, twelve hours and forty-four minutes.

7,000 PERSONS.

Will Be Thrown Out of Employment at Pullman.

The great shops of the Pullman company are to shut down on September 1, and thousands of men employed in the various departments of the car-building corporation will be without work.

Thirty thousand people at Pullman and in the surrounding towns will be affected. When the Pullman company is working on full time, 7,000 persons are employed. During the last few months, owing to a lack of new orders, men have been laid off 300 and 400 at a time, until now the force does not aggregate more than 2,000.

These men are engaged in finishing the construction of cars already under way, and when these are ready for the rails the shops will be closed and the plant rendered idle.

The plant may remain closed for more than a month.

GRIFFIN COMES HOME.

Not Known Whether He Will be Selected Panama Secretary.

Letters received from Secretary Virgil Griffin, of the Alabama railroad commission, announces that he will be back from the canal zone, Panama.

It is not yet known whether Mr. Griffin will be selected as the clerk of the Panama judiciary or whether he will continue as secretary of the railroad commission. Secretary Griffin left Montgomery six weeks ago with Judge Osceola Kyle, who was appointed a member of the judiciary for the canal zone by the president. The intervening time Secretary Griffin has spent with Judge Kyle in his new home in Panama.

WITH AN AX

Prisoner Cuts His Way Out of Jail. Father Remained.

Ben White, who with his father, Frank White, was arrested at Jacksonville, Saturday for an assault with a knife upon Ollie Williams, succeeded in making his escape from the local prison.

White effected his escape by means of an axe which was slipped into his cell during the night by some unknown person and the local authorities are unable to discover a clue as to his whereabouts. Insisting on his innocence and having a firm faith in his acquittal by the court the elder White refused to go with his son. If young White is caught he will be removed to Anniston.

SULTAN'S BROTHER DEAD.

Declared Insane and Was in Solitary Confinement for 28 Years.

Former Sultan Murad V, of Turkey, died Monday, reports say of consumption.

It was reported in May that Murad V, the thirty-third sovereign of the house of Osman, was dying, and that his adherents all over Turkey, known as the young Turks, were secretly arming and awaited the signal to rise in insurrection.

Murad V was born in 1840, and ascended the throne after the murder of the Sultan Abdul Aziz, in 1876. In July of that year Murad was placed under the regency of his brother, the present Sultan Abdul Hammid V, and in August was dethroned. Outwardly this act was performed legally by the council of ministers, on the ground that he was insane. The real facts of the case, however, will probably never be known, but it has been claimed that Murad was a good deal more sane than his brother.

One of the greatest terrors of Abdul Hammid's existence was the fear that his brother might escape.

The confinement of Murad has been one of the cruelest character. Only his jailers were allowed to see him, and every precaution was taken to prevent any intelligence of what was going on in the outside world from reaching him.

DR. FARLEY ACQUITTED

Grand Jury Indicted Him After an Exoneration.

Dr. John R. Farley was acquited of the charge of murder in the first degree after a trial of two days in the circuit court. The jury was out twenty-seven minutes. The verdict was received with applause.

Dr. Farley killed Davis Johnson, a well known young man last Christmas. He was exonerated after a preliminary hearing. The probate court and the grand jury made a notable case of it by returning an indictment against the defendant charging first degree murder. Dr. Farley was in jail a week. He proved self defense.

It Was Brilliant.

A large meteor fell not very far east of Ellisville on Sunday night. It appeared very suddenly, like a huge ball of fire, and when seemingly close to the earth burst with a report similar to, though not quite so loud, as a cannon-cracker.

After Oil.

Near Hazel Green the New York-Alabama Oil company has a well which has been plugged, having a pressure of natural gas of 118 pounds to the inch, and a second well at a depth of 950 feet, has a strong pressure of gas and flattering prospects of oil. The purpose of the company is to strike oil if possible and if not the natural gas from several wells will be piped to Huntsville, a franchise having been secured several months ago.

Falsehood, Deception and Prejudice.

The above frames up the sum total of all the populist leaders and the Handy Andy of the Advocate have to stand upon in this campaign. The utter disregard of the truth in their statements is a subject of public comment; the deception they have practiced upon the people in the management of county affairs is notoriously rotten, and to secure, if possible, an endorsement and re election they appeal, not to the sober, thoughtful judgment of the people, but endeavor to arouse the passions of men; attempt to array neighbor against neighbor and friend against friend; through strife and a wreckage of the friendly relations which exist in this county they hope to again ride into office no matter at what cost. They meet argument with vituperation expressed in the vilest of billingsgate; malign and villify honorable men, and in the most contemptible manner cry out in agony which seeps from consciences made restless as the defects in their administration come to light, and the unlawful methods adopted by which the people of this county have been held up for thousands of dollars through illegal tax levies. The populist leaders even have the effrontery to deny that any illegal tax levies have been made, and this, too, in the face of a judgment rendered against them in the Circuit Court of Shelby county. Even though a decision of the Supreme Court upon an identical case says the levy was without authority of law, yet Judge Longshore goes before the people of the county and says every tax levy under his administration has been a legal one. If such is the case, why did Judge Longshore say to the Commissioners' Court that the excess tax collected from the Southern Mineral Land Co. must be refunded, and it was refunded and Judge Longshore will not deny it. If the levy was a legal one why should any of the tax paid in by the Land Company be refunded? If it was an illegal levy, and the Supreme Court says it was, where is the justice in making the people pay it, when the rich land corporations and the railroads are relieved from paying by a judgment of both the Circuit and Supreme Courts? The action of the populist administration in these tax levies is simply a discrimination in favor of the railroads and against the people, for the populist administration goes right along levying and collecting the illegal tax from the people because each individual taxpayer is not financially able to employ attorneys and carry it to a court of JUSTICE, while the railroads did go into court and win.

The Advocate says The Sentinel "wrote the decree of the Circuit Court on the tax levies," and by the same token the statement is as false as the writer of it is wholly void of truth. The judgment of the court is already written, and it is based upon the Constitution of Alabama, the organic instrument which Mr. Longshore holds in such utter contempt that he says he "will not support it only so far as the law COMPELS me." That same Constitution says a levy for bridges cannot be made until you "first build the bridges, or create the debt." That expression of the law is within the understanding of any school boy, yet, notwithstanding this stipulation of Constitutional law, the populist administration levied a tax upon the people of this county in 1902 of $3,200 to build a bridge, "in conjunction with Jefferson county, across the Little Cahaba River." In 1903, this same populist administration again hits the taxpayers with another levy of $2,800 for this same bridge under another name (bridge at Parker's Mill). Here are tax levies upon the people aggregating $6,000, for a bridge that has never been built, which was not contracted for, and for which no debt had been created when the levies were made. Under the Constitution of Alabama were they legal? Will the Advocate tell its readers that the bridge levies of 1902 and 1903 were legal? It will probably say it is not a lawyer, not competent, etc. Well, according to the Constitution they were "not authorized by law," and because they were not authorized by law the railroads hooked up again with the populist administration. did not pay the tax, and have not paid it. The matter is now in the courts, and with the precedent established by the Supreme Court in June, 1901, and in the Circuit Court of Shelby county in March, 1902, both courts having held the levies in violation of the Constitution, it is only fair to conclude the courts will hold the same opinion again.

But the people are not yet done with this Parker's Mill bridge for which taxes have already been levied to the amount of $6,000. This year, 1904, there is a levy of $1,375 for this same bridge.

Judge Longshore evidently became wabbly on his interpretation of Constitutional law, so the administration employed a competent lawyer to draw up the levy and told the lawyer how it wanted it. The attorney said that under the Constitution such a levy would not stick. Longshore then told the lawyer, and, who, by the way is a Democrat, to make a levy that would stick—a tacit admission that the levies made under his advisement will not stick. In other words—the taxpayers, railroads excepted, have been so unmercifully and unjustly squeezed by the populist administration that the leaders must do something to counteract the storm of indignation that is sweeping them off their feet, so they are telling just any old thing, regardless of truth—anything that will divert the attention of the public from their own shortcomings. Prejudice is their chief weapon.

Judge Admits Tax Was Not Legal.

The Advocate says Judge Longshore did not say in his speech at Dunnavant that:

"You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges and create a debt."

Well, as is usually the case, the Advocate is under a "misapprehension," to use a genteel term, for the above are the exact words of Judge Longshore at Dunnavant. But in giving what it claims Longshore did say, the Advocate places the Judge in an embarrassing position, and creates an opportunity for His Honor to do a little more of his "splanin." The Advocate says Judge Longshore used these words:

"You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution until you first CONTRACT to build the bridges and create a debt."

The Sentinel would like to ask the Advocate and Judge Longshore if Parker's Mill bridge was CONTRACTED for and the debt created when a tax levy of $3,200 was placed upon the people of this county to pay for that bridge in the year of our Lord. 1902? We would like to ask if Parker s Mill bridge was contracted for and the debt created when another levy of $2,800 for this same bridge was placed upon the people in Shelby county in 1903? A plain yes or no will answer either or both of these questions.

The truth of the matter is that Parker's Mill bridge was not contracted for when the levies 1902 and 1903 were made, and no debt was created for that bridge at the time the levies were made. The bridge wasn't contracted to be built until this year, and another levy of $1,375 is again placed upon the people of this county for this same bridge, making a total levy upon the people of Shelby county of $7,375 for Parker's Mill bridge alone. Judge Longshore says "under the State Constitution you must first contract to build the bridges and create a debt" before you can levy a bridge tax. In view of the fact that there was no contract in 1902 nor in 1903 for Parker's Mill bridge, will Judge Longshore say the levies of those years for that bridge are legal?

The Advocate and the Judge both have made a fumble, and "out of their own mouths" have they convicted themselves.

Can the Advocate find a plausible excuse for Judge Longshore reducing the bond of the Tax Collector in this county from $30,000 to $20,000 when that official had to make a new bond? The Code says the Tax Collector's bond must be "in double the probable amount of the taxes (State and County) that may at any time be in his hands, to be determined for each County by the State Auditor." The State Auditor fixed Mr. Robertson's bond at $30,000. When that gentleman was required to make a new bond why did Mr. Longshore accept and approve it when it was $10,000 iess than that fixed by the State Auditor as the law requires? The fact of the matter is: the populist administration has had little regard for any law except of its own making.

WERE THE LEVIES LEGAL?

The Sentinel has charged that the populist administration had levied and collected an illegal tax from the people of Shelby county, and Judge Longshore admits the truthfulness of the charge in the following extract from his speech at Dunnavant: "You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges, or create a debt." For the past two years the people have been taxed for bridges which have not been built, and at the time the levies were made were not even contracted for. Will the Advocate tell its readers those levies were legal?

COMPULSORY PATRIOTISM!

In his speech at Shelby, Judge Longshore, in an attack upon the Constitution of Alabama, said: "I WILL NOT SUPPORT THAT CONSTITUTION ONLY SO FAR AS THE LAW COMPELS ME."

Petty Prejudice.

The Sentinel calls the attention of its readers to statements in this issue made by Hon. B. F. Wilson, of Selma, H. J. Falkner, of Dunnavant, and G. F. McGibony, of Shelby. Mr. Wilson was Solicitor of this Judicial Circuit, and Messrs. Falkner and McGibony were members of the Grand Jury at the Fall Term of the Circuit Court. 1899, at which time Judge McMillan is charged by the populist leaders, who are hard pushed for something to stand upon in this campaign, with having appeared before that body and saying that if a man was on one bond he was not good on another bond.

The charge of itself is so nonsensical that only those who wish to believe any story "saunt" forth by the populist bosses would for a minute believe that any man of reasonably fair intelligence would make such a statement.

The statement is made by the populist bosses for two purposes only, and one purpose is to create a prejudice against McMillan—to leave the impression with those who are looking for something to be impressed with, that McMillan discriminated against populist officials in making their bonds. The Commissioners fixed the amount of the Treasurer's bond, and the State Auditor fixed the amount of the Tax Collector's bond. All that McMillan had to do with it was to see that the sureties made the bond a solvent one; his actions were conscientious in the matter, and not prompted by malice as the populist bosses would have the people believe and that is all there is to it. The other reason is to divert the attention of the people from the unenviable actions of the populist administration.

Contrast the action of McMillan with that of Longshore when the latter accepted and approved the bond of the Tax Collector (when he had to make a new bond) for $10,000 less than the amount fixed by the State Auditor. Who was looking the more closely to the interest of the people in this bond matter, McMillan or Longshore?

The charge against McMillan is for the purpose than of creating a prejudice against him. We believe a large majority of the voters will commend McMillan for his course in protecting the taxpayers' interests in demanding that the bonds given should have sufficient surety to make them solvent.

McMillan carried out the spirit of the law, and with no inconvenience to those of whom bond was required, but there are those who pay little attention to law when it reads different from their own narrow views.

The Advocate says Longshore "was overwhelmingly elected to congress," but was counted out by the blackbelt counties. That is on a line with the same kind of argument(!) as when the Advocate designated the Democrats of Shelby county as being thieves and ballot box stuffers. According to the populist leaders and Advocate there are no honest men in the county except "we 'uns." Well, brother, this is a contest between white men; and your ticket will beaten by white men. Your black henchmen will not save your bacon this time.

Solicitor and Grand Jurors Say:

SELMA, ALA., Aug. 15, 1904.

Hon. D. R. McMillan,
Columbiana, Ala.

My Dear Sir:—Yours of a recent date duly received. I was present at the Fall Term, 1898, Circuit Court for Shelby County, and as the law required, we investigated the bonds of the county officers.

My recollection is that we called you before the Grand Jury for the purpose of ascertaining from you as Probate Judge, the sufficiency of the sureties on the official bonds. I remember you were asked if a man could be on more than one bond, and you replied "that it depends on what the surety is worth—that if a man is worth considerably more, or much more than the amount of the first or even the second bond he might be on, then he could be surety on other bonds." You said it depended entirely on what the surety was worth—that he might be a good surety on several bonds, provided his estate was sufficient. And of course this is correct.

Some men are not good sureties on any bond, and some men are good sureties on several bonds. It is owing entirely as to what they are worth. This was the idea you expressed before the Grand Jury, and intimated that a millionaire might be a good surety on a number of bonds. Your friend,

B. F. WILSON,
Solicitor 7th Judicial Circuit at the time in question.

Shelby, Ala., Aug. 13, 1904.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This is to certify that I was a member of the Grand Jury at the Fall Term, 1898, of the Circuit Court of Shelby County. I remember that D. R. McMillan, then Probate Judge, was called before the Grand Jury and asked whether a man who is surety on one bond is worth anything as surety on a second bond. My recollection is that his answer was in substance that it depended on what the surety was worth financially, and also the size of the bond; that a man of wealth might be a good and sufficient surety on several bonds, whereas a man of small means as surety on one large bond might be worth nothing on a second bond. He never said that a man who is a surety on one bond is not good on a second bond, regardless of what he is worth financially.

Respectfully,
G. F. McGIBONY.

L. M. Moore ground the corn into meal here Saturday. When you want good meal just bring your corn around and let Levi grind it, besides, if you want to talk politics he is ready....The woods are almost bare of muscadines and grape but the mosquitoes—there is no ending, and oh, my! how they do sing, buzz and bite....The Baptist negroes went to Locust Creek Sunday to do their baptizing, and I was told that quite a number went into the water... Quite a number of our people are making preparations to attend the Coosa River Association, which will convene with the Coosa Valley church on next Wednesday....This section of the country was visited by a fine rain Sunday, which was quite beneficial to most all kinds of crops, and no doubt it will lay the hot weather aside to some extent....The speaking here last week passed off very quietly, and a very large crowd was present. Everybody appeared in a good humor and the very best of order prevailed during the entire speaking. There are still a few would-be smart fellows who are always ready to yell and jeer at every little thing that happens and after it is over with they can't tell what was said or done. But this is fast passing away and the people are listening and thinking for themselves, and will vote for whom they please regardless of bosses and bossism. JAKE.

Is there another county in the State where the Probate Judge has permitted an accummulation of two hundred unrecorded mortgages? Such has been the condition in Shelby county within the past year.

J. N. Wyatt, Democratic candidate for commissioner from the third district, was in town last Saturday, and paid The Seutinel a pleasant call.

Howard Latham went down to Montevallo last Sunday afternoon for a short visit with his wife and his parents. He reports his brother Henry, who has been sick for some time, as being better.

Dr. C. T. Acker left for St. Louis last Saturday for a short visit to the World's Fair. J. W Bandy, of Montevallo, joined him at Birmingham.

NOTICE.—Builders and Contractors should write Cook-Dominy Co., Fitzgerald, Ga., for lumber and shingles. Yours truly.
Aug. 25-3m COOK-DOMINY CO.

Prof. S. Dowell left yesterday for Virginia where he will visit with relatives. Accompanied by his family he will return in about two weeks.

J. F. Norris, of the Advocate, and wife departed for St. Louis last Sunday to spend a week at the Fair. The Sentinel wishes for them a delightful time.

L. S. Cross, from near Harpersville, was in town Saturday and while here made this office a call. Mr. Cross thinks of locating in Columbiana for the purpose of schooling his children.

E. B. Nelson, who has been at home for a week on the sick list, was able to return to Walker county Friday where he is superintendent of a coal mining company.

With a new railroad, won't Columbiana be up and coming? From present indications this town is likely to have a new road within the next twelve months.

Dr. H. M. Wells, formerly pastor of the Methodist church at Montevallo, passed through the city last Sunday on his way to Anniston. Dr. Wells is now a superanuate and is living in Birmingham.

Walter Pitts and Harold C. Crane, of Birmingham, were in the city over Sunday, visitors at the home of John S. Pitts Both young men are employes in the printing establishment of Roberts & Sons.

Will Albright and Tom Tinney went to Prattville last week with the Shelby ball team for two games, Jim Robertson went along to see that the boys done their best. It took ten innings to decide one game and twelve innings for the other. Prattville winning both.

Hon. J. R. White attended the committee meeting of the Northeastern Chancery Division which met in Anniston last Wednesday. The committee nominated Hon. W. W. Whitesides for Chancellor to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the death of Hon. H. J. Gilliam.

The Sentinel received a message from Capt. and Mrs. H. C. Reynolds Sunday, who are at Bamff, Alta. Canada. in which they say: "We are enjoying the bracing air up here in the Rockies. Will leave tomorrow for Vancouver's Island, Tacoma, San Francisco, and then home."

Dr Brunk from Selma will make regular visits to Montevallo the first Thursday of each month, and to Columbiana the following Friday and Saturday, to see Eye, Ear and Throat cases. In Montevallo at Dr. Wilkinson's office, at White House in Columbiana. Next visit October 6th. 7th and 8th. S pt 8-1m.

Little Miss Lucile Mason, of Ashby, was in the city from Friday until Thursday visiting with Mrs. H. E. Whitaker. Lucile is blind, yet, notwithstanding the beautiful sunlight is shut out of her sight, she is one of happiest little mortals in the world. She will go to Talladega in a few days to attend the School for the Blind for the next year.

Several communications received this week are crowded out for want of room. We are making arrangements to print The Sentinel all at home, and then we hope to have room for our correspondents

Paul Wilson Dead.

Last Thursday, just as the clock was striking the hour of noon, Master Paul Wilson, aged 12 years and 11 days, son of Mrs. T M. Wilson, breathed his last.

For several weeks little Paul had been ill with an attack of malarial fever, and almost from the very first despite all that physicians could do, or that the best of nursing could accomplish, he continued to gradually grow worse until the end came as stated above. He was a fine little boy, the idol of his mother, sisters brother, and his death is a great loss to them and one which is most keenly felt In this the second great sorrow that has come to them in a few months, the family has the sincere sympathy of the entire community. Words of mortal are weak at such times, but let us hope that in time the griet of the mother, sister and brother will be softened, and that they may find comfort in the thought that "some sweet day" they will meet the loved ones who have gone before in the world bevond, and when the union then will be more joyous because of the sadness caused by the separation here.

The funeral occurred at the Methodist church in this place, Rev. G. T. Harris conducting the services, after which the beautiful white casket with its burden of precious clay was taken to Montevallo, and buried by the side of the father who had gone before some months ago. Quite a number of relatives and friends from this place and Calera accompanied the remains, and they were met at Montevallo by large number of people who offered whatever aid possible to comfort the living as well as to care for the dead.

The First Bale.

The first bale of cotton to come to the Columbiana market this season was marketed Tuesday by Messrs. Wingard and Lyons, and was bought by the Columbiana Mercantile Co for 12¼ cents. It weighed 586 pounds, and brought the producers the handsome sum of $73 25.

On the strength of the sale Mr. Wingard came up to this office and subscribed for The Sentinel.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of the Columbiana Graded School which appears in this issue of The Sentinel. The school opens for the session of 1904 5 on Monday, October 3rd, and now is the time when parents should be making arrangements to send their children to this school. The tuition is absolutely free to any child of school age in Shelby county, and board can be had at from $8 to $10 per month. The faculty is made up of instructors who have schooled and prepared themselves for teaching, and they are among the best educators in Alabama. There is every indication that the coming session will even surpass the very succesful one of last year, and parents should make preparations to have their children enter on opening day. Any information regarding the school will be most cheerfully furnished by addressing Supt. S. Dowell, or Mayor W. B. Browne, President of the Board.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott delivered a most interesting sermon at the Presbyterian church last Sunday night, and which every Knight of Pythias in Columbiana would have been glad to hear. Among the illustrations he used in his sermon, which showed the great friendship Christ has for all humanity, was the beautiful story of Damon and Py hias. It is regretted by all that Rev. Mr. Sinnott and his family are soon to leave us—going to Tuscaloosa to live.

NOTICE

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 15th. 16th and 17th of September, the Hammond Millinery Company will have their opening of Fall and Winter stock. Everyone cordially invited to come and inspect their line, than which there is none prettier, more stylish nor complete.

Sheriff Cox will arrive in the city with Lark Johnson today, who is to hang tomorrow for murder of John Lawley in March, 1903. Johnson has been confined in the Jefferson county jail since his conviction.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bird, who have been visiting relatives in the city for the past two weeks, will return to their home in Birmingham today.

Mrs. Floyd M. Wilkins was down from Wilsonville Tuesday and yesterday for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nelson.

The stores of the Columbiana Mercantile Co., will be closed on on the 10th and 17th of September, on account of Jewish holidays.

Max Lefkovits, who has been in New York for the past two weeks buying goods for his firm, returned home Tuesday.

J. W. Johnston is talking shoes to the public through his advertisement in The Sentinel this week.

The cotton crop is opening fast and soon we'll have cotton and cash circulating.

H. E. Smith, of this place, is on the road again in the interest of the Helm Portrait Co., of Woodlawn.

We are glad to note that Mrs. J. L. Riddle, who has been quite sick at the hotel, is improving nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and son, Pierre, of Tallapoosa, Ga., are visitting relatives here this week.

Miss Sammie Taylor has accepted a position with J. F. Pope as trimmer in the millinery department

Miss Olive Densler left Sunday afternoon for Talladega, where she will visit her sister, Mrs E Williamson

Misses Minnie Weldon and Vera Jackson will leave in a short time for Marion where they will attend the Judson Institute.

Hermie Stoudemire returned from South Alabama last week. Hermie has been engaged as telegraph operator for the Southern Railway, but was compelled to resign his position because of poor health.

A series of meetings began at the Methodist church Sunday morning. The pastor, Rev. G. W. Hamilton, is assisted by Rev. H. M. Stevenson, pastor of First M. E church at Alexander City. Rev. Mr. Stevenson is a fine pulpit orator and has given us some most excellent sermons.

ROBIN REDBREAST.

Grateful Hearts.

I thank the dear people of Columbiana who, through the severe illness of my little darling, patiently wrought such faithful and untiring service. Favors like these are never forgotten, and I ask God's choicest of blessings upon them all.

The sympathy of our friends at Calera and Montevallo was also appreciated and it is comforting to know that dispersed here and there are loved ones who lament with us during our great affliction.

JENNY L. WILSON.

Sad Ode.

Ah, hearts that pine on this sun-molten sphere,
There's never no grief like Death's solemn drear;
It comes with regret, and a sorrow is met,
And even our souls at Providence fret.

How choice seem the angels with envy they call.
And soon—far too soon the loveliest fall;
Our hearts all but break when the fairest they take
And left is our souls to sorrow and ache.

Yet bright was his life—so void of all sin,
And a soul pure and righteous gladly entered in;
And a father was there, and what can compare
To the Heavenly meeting of "Redeemed" saints fair?

'Twill be lonely—so lonely since he had to go,
But rejoice that in Heaven no sorrow he'll know:
Tho' It's hard to restrain from this gnawing pain.
But It's comforting to know we'll meet him again.

Covet not Heaven of its beautiful treasure,
But bear all this trouble with a kind of pleasure:
For it was all best, and may be a test
That will bring our tired souls an eternal rest.

A SORROWING SISTER.

While there was a strong desire in this county, and especially with the members of the bar, to see R. B. Kelly nominated for Chancellor, the same cordial support will be given Mr. Whitesides, the nominee, as would have gone to Mr. Kelly had he been the choice of the committee. Mr. Whitesides is capable in every way, and he will make a good Chancellor.

A Prominent Club Woman of Kansas City Writes to Thank Doan's Kidney Pills For a Quick Cure.

Miss Nellie Davis, of 1216 Michigan avenue, Kansas City, Mo., society leader and club woman, writes: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, for they effected a complete cure in a very short time when I was suffering from kidney troubles brought on by a cold. I had severe pains in the back and sick headaches, and felt miserable all over. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills made me a well woman, without an ache or pain, and I feel compelled to recommend this reliable remedy."

Makaroff's Culture.

Admiral Makaroff was something more than the typical cultured Russian, says the Westminster Gazette. One might talk with him almost without suspecting that he was a foreigner, so easy was his command of English. His longest stay of late years in England was during the building of the ice-breaker Yermak, which he designed and which he saw constructed at Newcastle-on-Tyne, giving personal superintendence to every detail. Admiral Makaroff was an enthusiast in regard to that vessel. He believed that she was the forerunner of a type by means of which the secrets of the Frozen North will ultimately be given to the world, and he talked with light dancing in his eyes of what the ice-breaker might ultimately be expected to achieve.

ENORMOUS SIZE. BIGGER THAN EVER. 9x12 inches, over 100,000 quotations, over 10,000 illustrations. Our new and marvelously low price making policy fully explained; 56 vast merchandise departments fully represented, much larger than ever before; prices much lower than ever before. New and lower prices on everything carried and sold in the largest store in the world. Makes all other catalogues look very small. MAKES ALL OTHER PRICES LOOK VERY HIGH.

WHAT BELONGS TO YOU is shown in one section of the Big Book. If you have ever bought anything from us, or if you ever do buy anything from us, then something in this big business belongs to you, and it is all explained in a 16-page section OF THE BIG BOOK. THIS PART OF THE BOOK IS YOURS, not OURS. The most liberal offer ever heard of.

OURS IS THE LARGEST MAIL ORDER HOUSE IN THE WORLD. We sell and ship more goods than all other mail order houses in the United States combined. Other mail order houses are mere side shows compared with ours. If everyone only knew how much greater values we give on all kinds of merchandise than any other house, no other mail order house would ever again get even a single order.

THE ONLY MAIL ORDER HOUSE that owns or controls a vast number of factories located north, south, east and west, situated so that we can ship many goods from our factory or warehouse nearest you, making quick delivery and very low freight charges. Southern factories and warehouses for southern people. Northern factories and warehouses for northern people, etc.

16 PAGES—YOUR PAGES devoted to explaining how you can make money by sending to us for goods. How you can make money by getting others to send to us. A big chance for dealers. Money making made easy for everyone. The greatest offer of the age. An opportunity that is yours—something that belongs to you.

QUICKER SHIPMENT than any other house. As we carry in stock constantly all kinds of merchandise in amounts far greater than all other mail order houses combined and we have factories and warehouses for immediate shipment South, North, East and West, we can ship you goods much quicker than any other house. If you send your order to us, no matter where you live, you will get your goods in just a few days, usually less than one-half the time it takes to get goods from other houses, and on a great many goods you order from us you will have less than one-half the freight charges you would have to pay if you ordered from any one else, for if your order contains goods we can ship from one of our factories or warehouses near you, we will ship from the warehouse nearest you, bringing the goods to you in a day or two at a very low freight rate, explains why, as compared with any other house, we can make prices so much lower, ship so much quicker, freight charges so much lower, quality so much higher, why we can give every customer a big money making opportunity.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Supposin' 'at you had fished all day
An' you hadn't got a bite,
Supposin' th' shadders wuz gettin' long
An' it was a-comin' night;
Supposin' 'at then you tho't of your friends
Who would laff and jeer at you;
What would you do in a case like that,
What do you s'pose you'd do?

Wal, we'll say 'at you'd give it up
An' doggedly row ashore,
Declarin' 'at fate wuz ag'in you so
It was useless to try no more;
But supposin' you see a man on the bank
With some bass, say a dozen or two,
An' supposin' he'd sell 'em to you fur a song,
What do you s'pose you'd do?

Wouldn't you kind o' smile at him,
An' ca'tiously look about,
Before you reached deep down in your clothes
To haul your wallet out?
An' wouldn't you lower your voice to say,
"This, you know's, 'twixt me an' you"?
Isn't that just th' way you'd act?
Isn't that what you'd do?

An' then when down thro' th' streets of the town
Your admirin' friends, as they'd pass,
Would stop to congratulate you an' ask
Fur th' secret of catching bass,
Wouldn't you tell 'em fishing wuz kind of a knack
'At wuz only acquired by a few?
Isn't that what you'd say now?
Isn't that what you'd do?

JUST FOR FUN

"Is Jenks one of the early settlers?" "No. He has owed me $10 for as many years."—Detroit Free Press.

Fuddy—I hear somebody has discovered the microbe of senility. Duddy—It must be a mean old thing.

"What was it Franklin said? 'If you'd have a thing well done—'" "Tell your cook you like it rare," interrupted Subbubs. — Philadelphia Press.

Kuropatkin—"I wait the Japanese advance with confidence." The Czar—"But why wait?" Kuropatkin—"How otherwise can I show my confidence?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Editor—We will pay you either at the rate of one dollar per word or five thousand dollars per idea, as you elect. Distinguished Author—The former is—er—the better way, I think.—Puck.

Grimes—A woman's wearing of an engagement ring is a queer custom, when you come to think about it. Grant—It is a left-handed way of telling the world she is going to be married.

"Mrs. Gettum is going to give a stocking shower for her daughter. That's practical, isn't it?" "No." "Why not?" "Because after a shower there is no use for the hose."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Shinestand Customer—Why do you charge only a nickel for a shine, my lad? Shinestand Kid—So that th' guy wid only a dime t' spend will have a nickel left fer a tip—see?—Baltimore American.

Lawyer—Then, too, there will be the court-crier's fee. Fair Litigant (breach of promise)—Oh, I shall do my own crying. I should never think of trusting anybody else to do that. Goodness, no!—Puck.

"Father," said the small boy, "what is an investigation?" "An investigation, my son, is usually an effort to locate the responsibilities for a disaster after it's too late to make any difference."—Washington Star.

Mrs. McCall—Is Mrs. Gassaway at home? The Servant—Faith, she is not, ma'am, be great good luck; but ye'd best l'ave yer card an' skedaddle away fur she's like to be in anny minyute now.—Philadelphia Press.

Long-Tailed Dog—Don't you get tired of everlastingly wagging that little stump of yours? Stump-Tailed Dog—No; it feels just as if the tail was all there, and I get just as much fun out of the exercise as you do, with a good deal less work.—Chicago Tribune.

"Did you encourage your daughter's literary ambition?" "Decidedly," answered the matter-of-fact woman. "If she has the gossiping instinct it is bound to come out, and she'd better be making up stories about imaginary people than about the neighbors."—Washington Star.

Bessie—Harry is a dear boy, and I have made up my mind to marry him. Kitty—You've changed your mind all of a sudden. Bessie—Yes; last night he told me his mother was, probably, the poorest cook that ever lived. After that, you know, I couldn't help feeling drawn toward him. I'm sure we shall live very happily together."

Badger—Should think you'd be afraid somebody would shoot you when you asked "Is your life insured?" A man might mistake your meaning, you know, and think you had dropped in to murder him. Browser—I never had anybody offer to shoot me; but on several occasions I have only escaped being kicked out by presence of mind and nimble heels.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Myrtilla, as she returned from the book shops, "summer fiction is so very expensive." "I get all the summer fiction I can read," replied the wise young man, "and it costs me only a quarter." "Gracious! How is it possible?" "Oh, I write twenty-five postal cards to the same number of beach and mountain resorts, requesting them to send me their descriptive booklets."—Chicago Daily News.

Marconic Verse.

Marconic verse is verse written in more than one language or one language twisted to appear like another. For example, a long poem on wine, datin gfrom early in the sixteenth century, begins:

The best tree, if ye take intent,
Inter ligna fructifera,
Is the vine tree by good argument,
Dulcia ferens pondera.

IN THE PRESS BOX.

Where Professional Scorers and Reporters Keep Track of Our National Game.

At the grounds where the professional clubs play baseball, you may have noticed a small boxlike structure perched on the roof of the grand stand. Its position directly back of home plate and on a line with the pitcher is the best possible for a view of the game, and if you are lucky enough to be invited up by some of those who have a right there, you will be surprised to find how much better you can watch what is going on than from a seat nearer the ground.

This little house with the wire netting over the front to guard against foul flies is called the press or scorers' box. The young men who sit there have need of every facility for observing the game, because afterward they must present an absolutely accurate record of it. If the contesting nines belong to an important league and play in a large city there will be an official scorer for each club, besides reporters from each of the daily newspapers. The scorers have to record every move of the game and, when it is over, present to the managers of their clubs a complete set of figures, from which everybody who understands the sport can tell exactly what each player has done—how well or how poorly he has played.

Watch a scorer at work. Before him is an open book with the names of one club written down the left-hand side of one page and those of the opposing team inscribed on the page opposite. After each name is a line of checker board squares, curiously marked off, and at the end of these on the right of each page are several perpendicular columns headed A B, R, 1 B, S B, S H, P O, A and E for the summary. These stand for, respectively times at bat, runs, the times a player has reached first base, stolen bases, sacrifice hits, put-out, assists and errors. The symbols used by professional scorers are comparatively few and easy to remember, and any one familiar with the game ought to be able to use them after half an hour's study followed by a little practice.—From Allan P. Ames's "How to Keep a Baseball Score" in St. Nicholas.

Drove Away Hungry Lynx.

As Roland Scribner of Stafford, Vt., was out fishing the other day in a stream within sight of the house, he happened to glance behind him and saw a lynx coming toward him from the woods, growling and snarling, his mouth open. The boy waited until the animal got within a few feet of him, and as it crouched to spring, dealt it several blows with his fishing rod, whereupon the lynx turned and ran back into the woods.

If the priest's consodt sneezes, a mild panic ensues in the household.

The Oldest Car in America.

The car that stands in the roundhouse at Plainville, Mass., is the oldets railroad coach in the United States and as such makes a pathetic appeal to all people who remember the earliest days of railroading. It recalls the days when it was admired by all the countryside as it rolled over the rails between Boston and Providence at a pace which to-day would be regarded as almost funereal. To-day it stands neglected and many years, and enmeshed by countless cobwebs—a rusty, useless old thing in a remote corner of the roundhouse.

To the younger generation it seems almost incredible that this primitive vehicle could possibly have been the predecessor of the magnificent Pullman of to-day. Its outlines suggest a stage coach rather than a railroad car, and the jolting of the crude structure was but little broken by the delicate-looking springs beneath it.

The roof of this venerable conveyance was used to accommodate passengers on days when travel was "heavy" or the weather fine. Time has made many ravages on this old coach, and to keep it from further injury it has been necessary to nail boards across the sides and over the wheels that mar the quaint effect.

Black Snakes Guard Southern Homes.

It is true that the rattle snake and the black snake are mortal enemies, and the black snake is the victor in their battles, breaking the neck of his adversary before the rattler has time to strike. The black snakes of this country are as harmless as frogs. On many of the large plantations in the south they are tamed and kept as a protection from their enemy, as the warm climate prevents keeping the houses closed so as to keep them out.

Miss M. Cartledge gives some helpful advice to young girls. Her letter is but one of thousands which prove that nothing is so helpful to young girls who are just arriving at the period of womanhood as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkam's Vegetable Compound too highly, for it is the only medicine I ever tried which cured me. I suffered much from my first menstrual period, I felt so weak and dizzy at times I could not pursue my studies with the usual interest. My thoughts became sluggish, I had headaches, backaches and sinking spells, also pains in the back and lower limbs. In fact, I was sick all over.

"Finally, after many other remedies had been tried, we were advised to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am pleased to say that after taking it only two weeks, a wonderful change for the better took place, and in a short time I was in perfect health. I felt buoyant, full of life, and found all work a pastime. I am indeed glad to tell my experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it made a different girl of me. Yours very truly, MISS M. CARTLEDGE, 533 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga."

At such a time, the grandest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the necessary changes, and is the surest and most reliable cure for woman's ills of every nature. Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address, Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. Estes, of New York City, says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to you because I believe all young girls ought to know how much good your medicine will do them. I did dressmaking for years before I was married, and if it had not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I do not believe I could have stood the strain. There is no other work that is such a strain on the system. Oh, how my back used to ache from the bending over! I would feel as though I would have to scream out from the pain, and the sitting still made me so terribly tired and weak, and my head throbbed like an engine. I never could eat after work, I was so worn out. Then I was irregular, and had such frightful cramps every month they would simply double me up with pain, and I would have to give up working and lie down. But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound changed me into a strong, well woman. Yours very truly, MRS. MARTHA ESTES, 513 West 125th St., N. Y. City."

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female troubles cured. Sold by druggists everywhere. Refuse all substitutions. Remember every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., SEPTEMBER 15, 1904. VOL. 30. NO. 3

DISCONNECTED RAILS

Cause Fatal Railroad Wreck on Seaboard Air Line in North Carolina.

SEVEN KILLED; 35 INJURED.

Train Went Through a Trestle and An Engine Following Crashed Into the Wrecked Cars.

Seven persons were killed and many injured in a wreck on the Seaboard Air Line at Catawba Junction, S. C. A passenger train, five cars and a sleeper, went through a high trestle over a small stream. An extra freight train following the passenger piled on top of the wreckage a few minutes later. The dead so far as known are:

Engineer Barksdale and Trainman Ferguson, of the freight; Ed Robertson, colored fireman, and four women who were in the passenger train.

The train had crossed a bridge over the Catawba river and was on a trestle when it fell in. The train with the exception of the Pullman car fell 25 feet to the ground.

The locomotive had crossed the place in the track where it was subsequently discovered, according to a a report from an officer of the road that some person had disconnected the rail connections at the trestle. The train broke in two. The engine toppled over the embankment south of the trestle, while the rest of the train appears to have gone through the trestle to the ground about 25 feet below. This was followed by the light engine, which fell through the broken trestle, presumably falling on the Pullman, which was the rear car of the train.

50,000 LOSS

Said to be Conservative Estimate of Liao Yang Mortality.

A correspondent who has returned to Mukden with the Russian rear guard, after having accompanied the army the whole time since the battle of Liao Yang, says the losses on both sides were enormous. As a moderate estimate he places them at 50,000.

When the Russians left Liao Yang the town was strewn with corpses of the slain. The Japanese shell fire continued until September 4th, when the bridges over the Taitse were destroyed.

The Russians admit that their positions at Liao Yang were too extended for their army to hold.

The greater portion of the Russian forces crossed the Taitse during the night of September 2d and engaged General Kuroki with two corps. The sideration at the navy tederaptnm m fighting on the first day was favorable to the Russians, but the conditions changed at night. The Russian infantry suffered heavily from shrapnel and rifle fire.

The condition of the road rendered the retreat slow and troops and horses were tired out. The Japanese seemed to lack enterprise and failed to recognize the serious situation of the Russians, the morale of their troops having been severely tried.

A Japanese army of 40,000 men is reported to be west of Mukden and it is considered likely in view of the conditions of the two armies that hostilities may be indefinitely prolonged until the Japanese are able to push on and force the Russians to give battle.

New Cars.

In Mississippi the Mobile and Ohio railroad has added 1,900 new freight cars to its equipment this year and will have a large amount of new passenger rolling stock in a short time.

New Sights for Guns.

While the battleships of the north Atlantic fleet are in dock this month it is hoped the work of re-sighting their guns may be begun. The bureau of ordnance has asked for bids for from three to four hundred 3-inch sights. The sights for the larger guns have not yet been made.

Geographers' Congress.

The first session of the eighth International Geographical congress was called to order Thursday in the auditorium of the George Washington university by Commander R. E. Peary, United States army, president of the congress. Dr. Charles D. Walcott, director of the geological survey, welcomed the congress to America on behalf of the president.

The Jury Prays.

Opening with prayer, the grand jury called together to investigate the lynching of Horace Maples, the Huntsville negro murderer, began taking evidence.

Crushed by Monument.

While kneeling beside a grave in N. Y. Yetta Beikowitz, 18 years old, was crushed to death by the family monument, a heavy granite shaft, which toppled over.

Investigation led to the belief that the foundation of the monument might have been undermined by the digging of a grave near by, and two of the grave diggers were arrested.

MONEY RECEIVED

And Payment of Mississippi Warrants is Resumed.

Temporary financial relief has been received at the treasury, and the state will be able to keep the wolf from the door for a few days, at least, and in the meantime the officials are still devoutly hoping, but almost against hope, that the Chicago syndicate will yet see its way clear to take up the half million dollar bond issue.

The depleted vaults were relieved by Insurance Commissioner Cole, who paid over $10,000 derived from fees and collected in his department. Several county tax collectors have also made settlements for privilege taxes collected, and Treasurer Miller is once more able to meet outstanding warrants.

The officials are not yet able to figure out how they are going to pay the school fund and pension appropriations, amounting to nearly a million dollars, unless the half million dollar bond issue is sold. County superintendents of education are becoming anxious over the school fund distribution, which has been delayed more than three months, and report that many of the districts are badly in need of money, for the school terms will open within the next few days.

RESIDENCE BURNED.

Fire Believed to Have Been of Incendiary Origin.

Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, totally destroyed the residence of Attorney R. L. Leatherwood. The loss is about $6,000, which includes the building and contents. The house was unoccupied, as Mr. Leatherwood is away fromBirmingham and his wife was stopping at the home of a neighbor. The loss included the home and office library of Mr. Leatherwood, which he valued at $2,000.

Mrs. Leatherwood does not consider the destruction of the home as the result of threats on their property. She says that no threats have been made to burn the property, but that she had received four anonymous threats over her telephone at the home upon the life of her husband.

PRIZE MONEY

Divided Among the Men Who Whipped Montojo at Manila.

The treasury department has begun sending checks to the officers and men of Admiral Dewey's fleet in payment of the awards of prize money made for the victory of the American fleet at Manila bay. It is expected that all the 2,000 officers and men who were in the battle of Manila bay will get their checks within six or seven weeks.

The check to Admiral Dewey is for $18,511. The next largest sum was to Mrs. Gridley, whose husband commanded the largest ship in the battle—the Olympia. This is for $9,413. The pay is proportioned to the size and armament of the ships that took part in the engagement.

The total amount to be divided is $370,336. The smallest amount to any member of the crews is $69.

Bite Communicates Insanity.

Apparent proof that insanity may be communicated like hydrophobia is shown in a case which is attracting attention among physicians at Bellevue hospital, New York city. A trained nurse was bitten by an insane patient nearly a year ago. Since then the wound frequently has given great pain and never completely healed. About two months ago she began to show signs of mental disturbance. These grew longer, and finally her friends had the young woman removed from her home in the hospital. She now suffers severe convulsions resembling the manifestations of rabies, while the mental delusions are almost continuous.

Diplomatic Relations.

Mexico will shortly establish a legation at Pekin. Don Carlos Lera, now Mexican minister to Japan, will also be minister to China. The establishment of the legation is not connected with any special object, but is for general purposes, mainly to promote mercantile agencies.

At Bull Run.

The final day of maneuvers begun at midnight, when the forces under General Bell, the aggressor in the movement against Washington, were pushed forward toward the lines of defense.

General Corbin brought the maneuvers to a close at 9 o'clock Friday morning. At that time General Bell, with his brown army, had advanced across Stone bridge, pushing General Grant back, and also had swung a large part of his force from the left wing to the entire right flank of General Grant, and put them across Bull Run at Sudley Springs.

Asiatic Torpedo Squadron.

The proposition to send to the Asiatic station a torpedo boat flotilla as an adjunct to the flotilla of destroyers sent out in the spring is under consideration at the navy department. Lieutenant Commander Lloyd H. Chandler, who was sent to Japan to study torpedo boat development, has advised the department of his arrival in this country.

THIRTY ARE INJURED

And Three Men Killed In Rock Island Railroad Wreck in Illinois.

SIX COACHES WERE DEMOLISHED

Some of the Injured Still Imprisoned Under the Wreckage—Collided With a Freight.

The Kansas City fast passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island Pacific railroad was wrecked one-half mile east of Tiskitawana and more than thirty persons were badly injured, three of whom have since died. Others are penned under the wrecked passenger coaches and as yet have not been rescued.

The passenger train collided with the rear end of a freight train that had broken in two. The engineer escaped injury, and the fireman was seriously hurt. Half a dozen passengers were thrown in every direction, eight landing in a corn field at one side of the track.

FIGHTING AT MUKDEN.

St. Petersburg Believes the Russian Army Safe.

A great battle is going on before Mukden. The first and seventeenth corps are engaged against Kuroki. General Kuropatkin, with the bulk of his troops, is moving toward Tichling.

Russia's general staff is not displaying great anxiety over the reports that General Kuropatkin is in serious danger of being cut off, but if they had any information from the front Wednesday they have not revealed it. The members decline to say, even if they know, whether General Kuropatkin proposes taking his army north of Mukden.

Kuropatkin's movements after all must depend chiefly upon the tactics of the Japanese with whom lies the initiative. If the Japanese continue to press north in the hope of cutting off the Russians and bringing them to bay, then Kuropatkin will be obliged to move north.

The bulk of both armies are already terribly exhausted, and if they again come into grip the result will depend largely upon which of them is able to throw the most fresh reserves into the fight. If there is a race northward, it is apparent that the greatest danger will come at the narrow defile of Tiehling, north of Mukden.

JUDGE GRAY ARBITRATES.

Eastern Miners Contending Against Collections from Their Wages.

Judge Gray, who was chairman of the anthracite coal commission, as umpire heard argument by the members of the board of conciliation on the question of the rights of operators to collect money from employes with which to pay check weighmen and dock bosses unless a legal assignment of the amount is made by the employe.

The miners claim when a majority of the employes vote for the employment of check weighmen and docking bosses, the wages are to be deducted from the pay of all. This, the miners claim, is in accordance with the decision of the strike commission and is substantiated by Umpire Wright.

During Mr. Warriner's presentation of the operators' position, Judge Gray interrupted several times with interrogations. The judge desired to know whether the operators collected from the miners' wages the pay of any one else connected with the mines. Judge Gray cited as an example the physicians and blacksmiths. Mr. Warriner contended that the pay of the doctor was collected by the operators on an assignment made by the miners and they also collected when requested by legal assignment payments for clergymen. The miners insisted their pay was collected without an assignment and whether the miners had made use of the blacksmith or not.

A New Fighter.

A trial of the new sheathed cruiser Chattanooga's engines has begun at the New York yards. Commander Alexander Sharpe, Jr., who has been detailed to command, and some of the other officers were on board preparing to put the vessel into commission later in the month.

The Chattanooga is a sister ship to the Denver, which was put into commission in May.

Mississippi Busted.

The Mississippi state treasury went broke Wednesday morning and payment on warrants was suspended. Only one dollar and fifty-six cents was on hand.

No Negroes Registered.

Tuscaloosa's board of registration has concluded its tour of the county except for the trip to Cowden's. Since the registration began on July 1, 473 names have been registered, not one of these being a negro.

Schools Open.

Attalla's public schools opened Monday with an attendance of 239.

COTTON REPORT

Shows Slight Decrease in Total Bales. Higher Prices Received.

Secretary Hester's annual report has been issued in full. He puts the cotton crop of 1903-04 at 10,011,374 bales, a decrease of 716,185 under that of 1902-03.

He says that compared with last year, in round figures, Texas, including Indian Territory, has increased 45,000 bales. The group known as other gulf states, consisting of Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Utah and Kansas, has lost 430,000 and the group of Atlantic states, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and Virginia, has fallen off 332,000.

Mr. Hester's report on the cotton crop of the different states is given as follows in thousands of bales:

Alabama 1,000 against 1,500 last year.
Georgia 1,325, against 1,470.
Florida 55, against 55.
Louisiana 824, against 884.
Mississippi 1,387, against 1,404.
Tennessee, etc., 451, against 509.
Total crop 10,011, against 10,728.

He puts the average commercial value of the crop at $61.68 against $44.52 last year.

He puts the spindles in the south at 8,615,369, an increase of 367,094 These include 685,268 in new mills not yet completed. The net gain in the number of southern mills over last year has been twenty-two, making the total now 762. Of these 671 have been in operation during the year, fifty-seven are idle and thirty-four in course of erection.

The use of foreign cotton in American mills, Mr. Hester says, has again materially decreased, the total mostly of Egyptian, amounting to the equivalent in American weights of 94,729 against 144,242 last year and 180,802 the year before. Of this year's total northern mills consumed 85,390 and southern mills 9,339. The value of the foreign cotton consumed in this country amounts to over eight millions of dollars.

Referring to the progress of the cotton manufacturing industry of the south, Mr. Hester says the growth of the spindle continues, but not to the extent of the few years immediately preceding. A number of mills in the not completed list last year have been put in operation, and these, with material additions to many of the old concerns, have increased the total spindles in active mills 762,044, while there are in course of erection 34 new mills, which when completed will contain 685,682 spindles.

MOB MEMBERS

Are Asked to Resign from Statesboro, Ga., Methodist Church.

The Methodist Episcopal church of Statesboro, Ga., has passed a resolution calling upon every participant in the lynching of Reed and Cato last month to resign membership in the church unless "a public confession of wrong be made with expression of penitence and contrition."

The resolutions denounce the burning of the negroes in very strong language, and state that the church wishes to be put on record as opposed to mob violence, calling it a "shameless violation of law."

Rev. Whitley Langston, who, at the court of inquiry gave names of several participants in the mobbing, and who has been strongly concerned in the affair generally, is upheld and commended for his "Christian conduct."

MURDERED FOR MONEY.

Pedler Attacked Near Huntsville on Site of Former Assault.

With his head smashed almost beyond recognition, the body of an old pedler named Waldrop was found on the public highway near Belle factory, ten miles from Huntsville.

The body was found during the night in a dark place in the road and the team driven by the murdered man was found a short distance beyond. The old man sold a wagon load of country produce Tuesday and started for his home with the money realized from the sale. It is believed that Waldrop was held up and was offering resistance and a fight ensued. Waldrop was held up and robbed at the identical spot about a year ago.

A suspect was later jailed and Wednesday night a mob attacked the jail, and in attempting to smoke out the prisoners fired the building. The fire department was driven off by shots, the negro was captured, confessed, implicating two other negroes and a white man and was then hanged in the court house yard.

Married Again.

Ex-Governor Robert L. Taylor, of Tennessee, and Miss Mamie St. John, a beautiful young lady of Chilhowie, Va., were married Wednesday at the home of the bride. Miss St. John is distantly related to ex-Governor Taylor. Mr. Taylor was only a few months ago divorced from his second wife.

North Pole Expedition.

The Norwegian steamer Viniocola, arrived at Hammerport, Norway, reports that she met the Zeigler relief expedition steamer Frithjof August 17th in latitude 79 north and longitude 52 east. The Frithjof up to that time had been unable to reach Franz Josefiand.

The Frithjof sailed August 5th for Franz Josefiand with coal for the America.

REINFORCEMENTS

Will be Sent Forward from St. Petersburg. Baltic Fleet Delayed.

CONFIDENCE IN KUROPATKIN

Still Expressed by His Countrymen. Troops are in Good Spirits. Telegraph Interrupted.

It is stated that by the end of October the Fourth, Eighth and Thirteenth army corps, totaling 192,000 men, will reach the front. Before the end of September 1100 guns will have been dispatched to General Kuropatkin.

A Russian correspondent telegraphs the following:

Our retreat is being carried out under heavy pressure and with the Japanese at our heels. The task is additionally difficult owing to the terrible condition of the roads and the rivers, which are flooded.

The fighting has now been almost continuous since August 24, and how much longer it will last it is impossible to say, as the initiative is in the hands of the Japanese.

The number of lives sacrificed and the loss of supplies by burning, bridges blown up, etc., can only be explained when we once more have concentrated, and this will occupy some days.

The emperor has received the following dispatch from General Kuropatkin, dated September 5:

The army is advancing northward. It has extricated itself from the dangerous position in which it was placed, being threatened by the enemy and having a narrow front.

The enemy throughout the day cannonaded our rear guard, especially its left flank, but without much effect.

We lost about one hundred men.

There has been no news from General Kuropatkin since Monday afternoon. This is attributed to the interruption of direct communications with the commander in chief owing to the transfer of the telegraph office to Mukden, where messages have to be sent by courier.

The utmost confidence prevails at the war office that the Russian army is slowly but surely affecting the retreat without serious risk of being cut off. Nevertheless, anxiety is felt throughout the nation and the feeling is shared by the emperor.

According to an unconfirmed report, the Baltic fleet will not be able to sail before November owing to the discovery of considerable defects in some of the vessels which recently underwent their trial trips.

ARMY PRISONER

Makes His Escape While Sentries Laugh at His Costume.

Private Frank Reese, an army prisoner serving one year on Governor's island for desertion, escaped in an unusual manner. Reese was a model prisoner, and had acquired the confidence of the quartermaster of the island, who left for Manassas, Va., to take part in the meneuvers. A company of coast artillery not familiar with the prisoners was detailed to the post in place of the troops sent south so that Reese's flight was greatly facilitated. When the captain went away he gave the prisoner a key to his house and ordered him to take care of things.

After Reese disappeared a search of the captain's quarters showed that the prisoner had gone away in a peculiar disguise. He had donned a dress coat and shirt, a big red necktie and riding breeches. This novel outfit he topped off with a silk hat and boldly walked to the landing place and took the next boat to New York. His odd costume caused much amusement.

BUSINESS MEN'S LEAGUE.

Decatur Merchants Have Formed an Organization Wwhich mahm mofoln Business Men's League.

Decatur merchants have formed an organization which has been given the name of the "Business Men's League." The charter membership included about thirty of the leading business men of the city. The officers elected were: President, James Edwards; secretary, Walter J. Nesbit.

The league will meet again next Tuesday night, at which time the organization will be perfected and then the league will get down to business in earnest.

Strike May End.

It is reported from Chicago that in anticipation of an agreement about 1,000 strikers in the packers' strike have returned to work.

Americans Win in Swimming.

The closing events of the Olympic swimming tournament were held Wednesday. Fancy diving, one-fourth mile, breast stroke half mile championship, 440 yards championship and the team relay race made up the programme.

American swimmers have won a majority of the points, due partly to the fact that there are more American entries than foreigners.

VERMONT'S ELECTION

Shows Republican Gains Over the Figures of 1900.

Returns indicate that the republicans in Vermont's state election elected the head of their ticket by a plurality equal if not greater than that returned for William W. Stickney when he was elected governor in 1900. Stickney, however, received the support of many gold democrats and the republicans generally did not look for more than 28,000 plurality this year. Stickney had 31,282 plurality. This year Bell, the republican candidate, has 33,128 over Porter at last count. Compared with the figures of the election of 1900, the vote shows a republican gain of 1 per cent and a democratic loss of 5 per cent.

COTTON CROP.

Conditions are Worse—Too Much Moisture Causes Rust.

The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says:

Heavy rains proved detrimental during the week in portions of the Carolinas, Florida and Alabama, while the northern portion of the central gulf states, Tennessee, the Ohio valley, need moisture.

As a whole the corn crop has advanced satisfactorily, especially over the southwestern portion of the corn belt. In Arkansas, Tennessee and portions of the Ohio valley and middle Atlantic states late corn needs rain.

A quite general deterioration in the condition of cotton is indicated, although improvement is reported from limited areas, principally in the central districts. Rust and shedding is very generally prevalent. Drought proved detrimental in Tennessee and drought and heat in Oklahoma and Texas, although rains too late to be beneficial have fallen recently over a large part of the last named state, where boll weevils are destroying practically new fruit except in the north central counties. Damages by boll weevil in Louisiana are restricted to a few small areas. Cotton is opening rapidly throughout the cotton belt and picking is general, except in the northern portions.

The weather has been very favorable for cutting and housing tobacco, a good crop of which is being secured in Ohio and the middle Atlantic states.

GOV. JEFF DAVIS

Re-elected to the Highest Office in Gift of Arkansas.

Sufficient returns from the state election in Arkansas have been received to indicate the election of Governor Davis to a third term by a plurality of 20,000. Several other states officers were voted for, but all the other democratic candidates had an open field, Davis alone having opposition.

GRANDSON OF JEFFERSON

Foully Murdered in Florida—Shot from Behind.

Hon. N. W. Eppes, of Bradfordville, Fla., was assassinated in the public road two miles from home and eight miles from Tallahassee.

He was riding alone in a buggy and was shot from behind, the charge entering the spinal column, tearing away the base of the brain and killing him instantly. Mr. Eppes was aged about sixty years.

He was a great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson and served in the confederate army. A wife, four daughters and one son survive him.

Our Mineral Resources.

The annual report of mineral resources of the United States for 1902, recently issued, shows an increase and activity in mineral industries. During the year 1902, for the third time, the total value of the commercial, mineral products of the United States reached the enormous sum of $1,260,639,415, which, as compared with $1,086,584,851 in 1901, shows a gain of 16.02 per cent.

As heretofore, iron and coal are the most important of our mineral products. Nearly all the important metals increased in both output and value.

Stole Cash Register.

Some one stole the cash register belonging to Pappageorge, who runs a restaurant in Bessemer, and carried it across the street and robbed it of its contents, leaving it in the gutter. The place was open at the time of the robbery, but the proprietor was asleep. The thief had nothing to do but to pick the register up and walk off. Fortunately the register had just been checked up, and all of the cash taken out but some change amounting to about $5.

Cruiser Will Disarm.

The French minister formally notified the Japanese government that the cruiser Diana will disarm at Saigon, French Indo-China, where she sought refuge August 20th after taking part in the battle of August 10th off Port Arthur.

Navy Additions.

The board of construction has approved the plans and specifications for the armored cruisers North Carolina and Montana, and the battleship New Hampshire, which were authorized by the last congress, and as soon as they have been approved by Secretary Morton they will be published. The armored cruisers, save in their interior arrangements, follow closely the lines of the Tennessee class and the New Hampshire the Louisiana PLAYED POLICEMAN.

Had a Loaded Gun and Didn't Know It. Brother Shot.

Near the Carelton cotton mills two little white boys, aged 12 and 14 years, and the sons of Mr. Joe Frith, were playing policemen. One of the boys had a shotgun and he told his brother he would be the officer to capture him. The other little fellow ran and the other pulled down on him with the shotgun, badly wounding his brother in the arm. It is feared amputation will be necessary. The little fellow with the gun did not know that it was loaded.

OPINION RENDERED

By Attorney General Upon Terms of Judges and Justices.

In an opinion rendered at the request of Acting Governor Cunningham Attorney General Massey Wilson held that the justices of peace whose offices were abolished to make way for an inferior court would not hold office until November as is the case in many instances with other officials. The attorney general says:

"The legislature having provided a court for the transaction of the business formerly done by the justices, I do not think that it could be said that the legislature wanted to continue them in office until the November election."

A second opinion by the attorney general held that judges of probate would continue in their offices until their successors had been elected and qualified. These officers will not have to give any new bonds until November 3d, and only then until their successors will have had time to qualify.

Knights Templar.

Ten thousand sir knights marched for miles through the gaily decorated city of San Francisco Tuesday. In the procession were forty bands. The commander of the parade was Sir Charles L. Field, grand captain general of California and his chief of staff, E. Sir Geodirak. In this section were two carriages, the first carrying Most Eminent Sir Bates Stoddard, grand master of the grand encampment of Knights Templar of the United States of America, and Most Eminent the Earl of Fuston, grand master of the priory of England and Wales. The latter was the center toward which all eyes were focused, the throngs seeming to be eager to catch a glimpse of the noble gentleman who represented King Edward of England.

Tuscumbia's New Gas Company.

The North Alabama Gas company, controlled by a Chicago syndicate, and owning the franchise in Florence, was granted a franchise for a gas plant in Tuscumbia. The company had a representative at the council session, who asked for a thirty-year franchise The company now owns the gas plant at Florence and hopes to secure a concession from the city of Sheffield at an early date. The company agrees to begin the work of construction within the next sixty days and to have the plant completed and in operation within nine months from the date of the franchise.

Relighted.

The Tennessee company relighted 150 of its coke evens at Robertstown Monday. The other 150 will be started this week. It is stated that preparations are under way to start one of the iron furnaces this week. The resumption of work at these plants means employment to several hundred men.

School at Gordo.

Citizens of Gordo have by a special act of the legislature organized a school district giving the board of trustees a right to levy an incidental fee of $2 for each resident student of the district between the ages of 7 and 21 years. Last year this school had an attendance of 192, but not less than 225 are expected this session, which opens on September 12.

ALMOST SWAM CHANNEL.

Burgess, the French swimming champion, who Tuesday made an ineffectual attempt to swim the English channel, started again Wednesday. He left the water at 5:45 p. m., when within two miles of the French coast, failing in his attempt, but establishing a remarkable speed record.

Steel Billets Lower.

It is reported that steel billets were reduced Wednesday in price from $23 to $19 a ton and the report was generally credited in steel circles.

New Colliers.

Formal announcement is made at the navy department that the colliers authorized by the last congress will be built, one at the navy yard, New York, and the other at the navy yard, Mare Island.

Cheerfulness is a small virtue, it is true, but it sheds such a brightness around us in this life that neither dark clouds nor rain can dispel its happy influence.

The race of man would perish did they cease to aid each other. From the time that the mother binds the child's head till the moment that some kind assistant wipes the death damp from the brow of the dying we can not exist without mutual help. All, therefore, that need aid have a right to ask it from their fellow mortals. No one who holds the power of granting can refuse without guilt.

JOINT DISCUSSION.

According to arrangements made by the joint committee from the different political parties, the following appointments have been agreed upon for joint discussions.

K. Springs, Thursday, Sept. 15
Wilsonville, Saturday, Sept. 17.

Speaking begins at 10 o'clock, a. m., except as otherwise stated in this notice. Everybod invited to attend these meetings.

Within the past week Democrats from nearly every beat in the county have been in our office, and all are enthusiastic over the prospect of Democratic success.

Word comes from Montevallo the meeting there on Tuesday was enthusiastically Democratic. The majority for the Democratic ticket in that beat will be close to 100.

Just pass it along the line that the Democratic ticket is a winner with a nice majority this fall, and every Democrat in the county is working to give that majority the biggest kind of a boost.

From present indications Democrats are determined to make the majority for their ticket at least five hundred. Don't mark it down unless you want to rub out and raise the figures, for that is what you will probably have to do.

The Democratic ticket is gaining new adherents all over the county, and there is a friendly rivalry between Democratic committeemen as to which beat will show the greatest per cent. in the increase over the vote of two years ago.

The discussions held at Helena, Bamford and Gurnee, last week, were well attended, and at Bamford an excellent dinner had been prepared and which all thoroughly enjoyed. The people came to listen, and gave attentive hearing to each speaker. The Democrats are very much gratified at the result of these meetings.

With the knowledge and consent of Judge Longshore, a bill was worked through the Legislature by G. B. Deans, who was Representative at the time, raising the ex-officio fees of Probate Judge in this county from $200 to $600 without regard to service. Judge Longshore admitted in his speech at Ebenezer that the bill was passed with his knowledge and consent, and said the onerous duties placed upon him in the distribution of pension warrants to soldiers entitled him to it. It resolves itself into a salary, then, of $600 for distributing pension warrants to the old soldiers in this county. We wonder how many old Confederate soldiers in Shelby county get one-twentieth the amount of this salary in a year as a pension from the State to help him over the rough places in his old age?

Dr. Brunk from Selma will make regular visits to Montevallo the first Thursday of each month, and to Columbiana the following Friday and Saturday, to see Eye, Ear and Throat cases. In Montevallo at Dr. Wilkinson's office, at White House in Columbiana. Next visit October 6th, 7th and 8th. Sept 8-1m.

The People Pay, the Railroads Don't.

"The people of Shelby county at large have received the benefit of their taxes since the populist administration has been in power, and this is more than can be truthfully said of the Democratic administration. When did the Democrats build steel bridges and good roads? Never; the taxes for years and years since the organization of the county have been collected, and what benefit did the people receive from them? We answer, absolutely nothing"—Advocate.

Here is another attempt to mislead and deceive the people. Never under a Democratic administration was there a law for special tax levies for bridges and roads, and the Advocate knows it. But under the illegal levies the populist administration has placed upon the people, using the road law as a subterfuge behind which to entrench itself, thousands of dollars have been wrongfully and unlawfully wrested from the people of this county. The railroads refused to pay the levies; the populist administration tried to run a bluff on the railroads and brought suit in the circuit court to compel payment. The judgment of the court (see record in Circuit Clerk's office) was in favor of the railroads—they did not have to pay the tax for the very simple reason that the levy was an illegal one. The people of the county, however, were pinched by the populist administration for the illegal tax for the simple reason that they were financially unable to carry it into court and get justice. Here is a usurpation of power by the populist administration against the weak. In the many years the Democrats had control of the county's affairs was there ever a single instance when an illegal tax was levied upon and collected from the people.

Under Democratic administrations the same rate of taxation was levied upon the railroads as upon the people, and never was there a single instance of the railroads refusing to pay their taxes, for the very simple reason that the levies made by Democratic admistrations were constitutional and legal. On the other hand the railroads have refused to pay and have not paid four of the six levies made by the populist administration because they were in excess of the limit prescribed by the Constitution of Alabama, but you, dear people, were compelled to pay every one of those levies. This, too, from an administration that poses as the benefactor of the common people as against corporations. Wonder what the people think of this benefactor business as demonstrated by the populist administration? Thus far it has been a bluff at the railroads, and a hold up of the common people for their hard-earned money.

In 1892 and in 1893, the tax rate in Shelby county, under Democratic administration, was three mills, and never under Democratic administrations was the tax rate over over four mills. Compare this with the seven mill rate levied upon you by the populist administration, and this, too, with an increase in taxable values of a million or a million and a half dollars. That's reform movement with a vengeance, and the people bearing the burden.

Never under Democratic administrations were the provisions of the Constitution transcended or violated, while the populist administration has respected no law except that of its own making, and its frequent violation of Constitutional law has increased the burdens of the taxpayers. Section 3986 of the Code says:

"It shall be the duty of the court of county commissioners, at the term commencing on the first Monday in June, to levy the amount of taxes required for the expenses of the county for the current year, not to exceed one-half of one per cent. (five mills) on the taxable property, and the amount of other subjects of taxation in the county, as assessed for revenue to the state, as shown by the book of assessments after it has been corrected."

The populist administration put a levy of 6 mills upon the people in 1899; a levy of 6 mills each for the years 1901 and 1902, and for the year 1903 the populist administration squeezed the people of the county a little harder and pinched the people with a tax rate of SEVEN mills; the people paid all these levies—the railroads have paid none of them. That's the manner in which the populist admistration has buncoed the people.

The Legislature of 1898-9 passed an Act authorizing and requiring a levy of not less than one nor more than two mills on the dollar "to aid in the maintainance of and construction of public roads in this county, which levy SHALL BE A PART OF THAT WHICH IS AUTHORIZED BY THE CONSTITUTION FOR COUNTY PURPOSES." The Constitution says not in excess of five mills for county purposes. The populist administration levied six mills. Under the same law a similar levy was made in Franklin county. It was carried to the Supreme Court and that body held the levy to be an illegal one. This decision was recognized by the populist administration when it ordered a refund to the Southern Mineral Land Co. of the illegal tax collected from that corporation. No refund was made, however, to the common people. Why? Because, ignorant of the fact that the levy was an illegal one, or not being able to carry it to a court of justice, they did not pay under protest. Thus were they compelled to pay illegal tax by the populist administration that poses as a friend of the common people. Never was a trust more infamously betrayed!

What followed? With a decision of the Supreme Court staring it in the face even the populist administration decided that a tax levy similar to preceding ones might cause a revolt among the people, so a levy "for bridges and causeways" was tacked on to the levy for county purposes. Here again the populist administration transcended Constitutional law for there is no constitutional provision for "bridges and causeways," unless the bridges are first specified and the cost of each, and the "bridges built, or the debt created" therefore. The populist administration complied with none of these constitutional provisions. So the next year the administration tries another experiment in making the levy, and specifies particular bridges and the cost but failed to show that the "bridges were built, the debt created," or that they had been contracted for. This was another transcendancy of Constitutional law, and for three years the populist administration taxed the people of this county for bridges that have never been built, for which no debt had been created, nor had they even been contracted for. And for one of these bridges alone tax levies have been placed upon the people to the amount of $7,375, and this amount for a bridge that the minutes of the Commissioners' Court says "to cost $3,200." The Advocate and the populist leaders will tell you the above is a decree of the courts written by The Sentinel, but it is only plain constitutional law which anyone may read if he desires, and even Judge Longshore admits in his speeches that "YOU CANNOT LEVY A TAX FOR BRIDGES UNDER THE STATE CONSTITUTION UNTIL YOU FIRST BUILD THE BRIDGES AND CREATE THE DEBT." In view of the fact that the people were taxed for Parker's Mill bridge in 1902 and 1903, when no debt had been created for it, or contract made for its erection, the above declaration of Judge Longshore is an admission that the levies were contrary to law.

Now, then; figure up the total valuation of your property as assessed for the years 1899, 1901, 1902 and 1903; from the total amount take one-half cent from every dollar and you will know much illegal tax you have been made to pay by the populist administration, and the railroads have paid none of it.

The Spring Creek Difficulty.

The Sentinel would, probably, have never again referred to the unpleasantness which occurred at the Spring Creek joint discussion but for the distorted account of it in the Advocate two weeks ago, in its endeavor to counteract public sentiment caused by the affair, which is not at all creditable to the populist leaders. When The Sentinel referred to it at the time, after learning that Sheriff Cox had apologized to Judge McMillan, we did so only to show that the position taken by the Democrats as to a joint discussion was the correct one; that it would bring on strife and difficulty. The position taken by the Democrats was the correct one as is proven by the affair at Spring Creek. The fact that the sheriff, the chief peace officer of the county, was the aggressor, is what pinches the populist leaders, and the condemnatory feeling of the people all over the county placed the populist in such an unenviable position that a month after the affair occurred the Advocate endeavors to quell the feeling that is condemning the action.

The Sentinel said that "Mr. Cox climbed upon the platform in a belligerent manner." This statement is corroborated by populists and Democrats alike, and we may add still further that Mr. Sewell, a Republican, followed the sheriff and tried to dissuade him from doing anything further, and taking him by the arm pursuaded him to leave the platform. This statement is also corroborated by populists and Democrats alike.

The Sentinel also said Sheriff Cox had invited Mr. McMillan into his office and apologized for the manner in which he had treated the latter. This is admitted by the Advocate. If The Sentinel had had any desire to elaborate upon the affair in the first account of it, we might have said that if Sheriff Cox thought he was due an apology to Judge McMillan (and he must have thought so or he would not have apologized) it should have been made in as public a manner as the affront was offered; that would have been the just and proper manner in which the amende honorable should have been made.

The apology was made in the sheriff's office where Mr. Cox invited Judge McMillan, and no one was present except the two gentlemen in question. As Mr. Cox closed the door, he said to Judge McMillan:

"I reckon I owe you an apology; I don't know whether you will accept it or not."

"Why, certainly; that is all one gentleman can exact of another, Bob," replied McMillan.

"Yes," said the sheriff, "I reckon I done you wrong, by going upon the stand. I suppose when you denied it, and I told you, 'you did,' I should have turned round and walked off."

This is the conversation between McMillan and Cox, in relation to the matter, and we not believe either of the gentlemen will say to the contrary.

The Advocate did not refer to the affair at the time it occurred. Why it did not do so is very readily seen. And it made no attempt at an "explanation" until more than a month has elapsed. The whole matter is deplored by the good people of Beat 2, regardless of party affiliation, and the distorted interpretation of it at this late day by the Advocate will do its cause no good—in fact, its twisting of the true happenings there on that day will not meet the endorsement of its own party following.

WERE THE LEVIES LEGAL?

The Sentinel has charged that the populist administration had levied and collected an illegal tax from the people of Shelby county, and Judge Longshore admits the truthfulness of the charge in the following extract from his speech at Dunnavant: "You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges, or create a debt." For the past two years the people have been taxed for bridges which have not been built, and at the time the levies were made were not even contracted for. Will the Advocate tell its readers those levies were legal?

COMPULSORY PATRIOTISM!

In his speech at Shelby, Judge Longshore, in an attack upon the Constitution of Alabama, said: "I WILL NOT SUPPORT THAT CONSTITUTION ONLY SO FAR AS THE LAW COMPELS ME."

To Stay at Home.

"The majority for the populist ticket will not be less than three hundred mark this."—Advocate.

The Advocate is again whistling to keep up its courage. It needs bracing, for on the morning after the election it will be found that the three hundred majority which the Advocate now claims for its ticket will have fallen short about six or seven hundred. Handy Andy is squirming now, but on November 9th the Advocate will be throwing all kinds of fits, and the populist leaders will find that the multifarious strings they are now pulling were not greased quite enough to have them slide safely across.

From Superintendent Farrell.

To the Voters of Shelby County.

It is with a superlative degree of reluctance that I again appear in the columns of the public press. But in justice to myself, and to my friends who have so kindly entrusted me with the educational supervision of Shelby County, I am forced to respond to "Young Plunkett's" false attack upon my official record, which appeared in last week's issue of the Peoples Advocate.

In his first accusation he charged that in the recent State Examination all populists and Republicans failed to get certificates, and that all Democratic applicants were given certificates, insinuating that I was responsible for it. To this accusation I took the facts and figures in the case and proved to every sane man who read my article that every word of his accusation was false, false, false beyond compare.

And still, in the face of the facts which cannot be denied, he comes again to the Advocate, claiming every word he said to be true. Furthermore he disclaims any intention to excite the prejudices of the people against me as Superintendent of Education. Now, it is not mine to examine the heart of man; so I do not know whether it was blackness of heart, or weakness of intellect that called forth those false accusations. But when we scan his lengthy articles in the Advocate and enumerate the many grammatical errors and disconnected sentences which he suffers to go to the public press, we join with him who said, "man is wonderfully and strangely made," realizing that about "Young Plunkett's" well shaped head there is an inward weakness. In his efforts to ridicule, due of course to the shallowness of the upper story, he sometimes compliments him whom he would ridicule.

He says he supposes "everybody read the article to The Sentinel signed by Jno. B. Farrell." In answer to that proposition permit me to say that I did not expect it to spread so rapidly that it would reach the homes of all, even in Shelby county, within one week's time; but there is consolation in the thought that truth will grow and spread like the green Bay tree, when falsehood will fall abruptly to the ground.

"Plunkett" admits that I have always treated him fairly and squarely, but when I ask him why he takes such an unjust stand against me, his reply is: "I want you to know that I am not working for the Democratic party." So you can readily see what the inference is.

I had hoped that I would not be forced to bring "Plunkett's" real name into publicity. But for the satisfaction of my friends of all political persuasions, and to remove any probable suspicion that might be resting upon any of the good boys about Coalville, I now, reluctantly, give the name of none other than Henry Gilbert, my neighbor boy.

May God bless Henry, and help him to yet build upon the solid rock, "Truth."

Geo. E. Peter, the genial coal operator at Maylene, was in our town Monday, and paid The Sentinel a pleasant call. Mr. Peter is one of the stanuch Democrats of Shelby county, and predicts the election of the Democratic ticket in November.

Misses Zemma and Clara Pitts departed yesterday for Rome, Ga., where they will again be pupils at Shorter College for another year. The young ladies are favorites among our young people, and their departure is regretted by their numerous friends.

In this issue of The Sentinel, Morgan Bro's Mercantile Company, of Montevallo, tells the public something of their new stock of clothing. It might be a saving to you of money to call on them and see what they have. Good goods at fair prices is what they are offering you.

Miss Carrie Rowe was elected by the Board of Education last Monday night to teach the third and fouth grades in the public school. For several meetings the vote had been a tie—Browne, Nelson and Glenn voting for Miss Loulah Wilson, and Cox, Longshore and Pitts voting for Miss Carrie Rowe. Monday night E. B. Nelson was absent from the city and in the vote Miss Rowe had one majority.

A Pretty Montevallo Wedding.

One of the prettiest home weddings was that of Miss Florence Agnes Farrington, of Montevallo, and Mr. Robert H. McConnell, of Athens, at the home of the bride's mother on last Wednesday evening at half past six o'clock.

The parlor had been beautifully decorated in palm and ferns and the soft candle light added much to the effectiveness of such a graceful arrangement, making the scene one indeed worthy of a bride.

Owing to the recent death of the bride's father, the marriage was a very quiet one, only the relatives and a few near friends being present. The only attendants were Miss Ethel Farrington, sister of the bride as maid of honor, and Mr. W. A. Bulware, of Athens, the groom's best man.

Miss Maggie Allen at the piano rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party came down the hall and entered the parlor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Willis, pastor of the Baptist church, and was made quite beautiful in a few well chosen words. After the ceremony congratulations were offered and the guests spent a very pleasant hour, light refreshments being served.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and was simply attired in a pretty dress of white mousseline, which was changed immediately after the ceremony for a traveling suit of gray.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell left on the evening train for Birmingham. After a few days at Blount they will be at home in Athens, where the groom resides. The bride is a young woman of rare excellence of character. To know her is to love her. She has many warm friends who regret her departure, but rejoice in her new found happiness. Mr. McConnell is a prominent young business man of Athens and also a man of very sterling worth. He has many friends there who will welcome his bride to her new home.

We wish for them all the happiness that can possibly be centered in two lives that are rightfully wedded together.

JOHNSON PAYS THE PENALTY OF CRIME.

He Was Executed in Jail Yard Last Friday.

Larkin Johnson, a negro convicted of murder, was hung in this city last Friday at 12:16. The execution was witnessed by but a few; for half an hour before, the negro was given an opportunity to bid his friends goodbye.

He walked to the scaffold alone, and just before mounting it he had his photograph taken, after which, accompanied by Sheriff Cox, Deputy Norris, Jailor Farley and wo negro preachers, he marched up the steps where the preachers prayed and sang with him. On being asked by the sheriff if he had anything to say, Johnson made one step to the front of the scaffold, and said:

"None of you fellows down there on the ground have the nerve to have this rope put around his neck, unless he is born of God. Four witnesses swore against me over in that court house for the State, but I will be a witness to condemn them in glory. When my body drops through this door I know my soul will go straight to heaven and when the sun shines tomorrow my soul will shine even brighter for I will be with Jesus. I committed the crime for which I am to hang, but it was done in the heat of passion, for there was no desire in my heart to hurt any one. I hope to meet you all in heaven."

As Johnson finished, he stepped back and his limbs and hands were tied. Deputy Norris placed the noose over his head and put on the black cap. As he finished he stepped to one side and said "ready," and Sheriff Cox then sprung the trap. It is said Johnson's neck was broken, and he was pronounced dead in twenty minutes. The body was claimed by relatives and taken to Montevallo for burial.

The crime for which Johnson was hanged was for the killing of John Lawley, an old ex-Confederate soldier living near Montevallo, on March 2, 1903. Johnson was hunting on Mr. Lawley's farm, and was ordered off. He said he would not go until he got ready, when Mr. Lawley said he would put him off, and started toward the negro when the latter shot him down. Johnson escaped, and was captured a year later in the Indian Territory.

Those who lived near old Mr. Lawley's home will not soon forget the pic ure presente l a few moments after he was shot.

With bared heads a little group of friends stood about two central figures—the wounded and dying man with his head pillowed within the arms of his aged wife. With a smile upon his face, a great love-light beamed from his fast dimming eyes as he looked into the face of her who had walked by his side for nearly a half century. She tried to be brave; her trembling fingers pushed back from his forehead, upon which had already gathered the dew of death, a stray lock of gray hair, and as that awful pallor, the forerunner of dissolution, crept over his countenance, words of endearment came from the lips of her whose hair had become frosted by the winters of more than three score years.

It was a scene to move a heart of stone, and it is not wondered at that the fountains of a great sympathy and pity opened up and tears chased each other quickly down the cheeks of the brave men who stood near. "Goodbye" came from the cold yet smiling lips of the dying man, and the echo of that last word was caught up by the angels of heaven—even the leaves on the nearby trees seemed to be whispering goodbye to one who would know them no more; one long sigh, and the beating heart was stilled—the soul of noble John Lawley had gone to meet his God. When the end came a great sob convulsed the form of his bereft wife as if her very heart-strings had been rudely torn from their fastenings. Tenderly, oh, how tenderly, they carried the dead man to the home from which he had come so strong and vigorous only a short time before. Many a battle had he fought during the civil war—an honorable, fearless soldier—and then to come home, live for years among neighbors and friends who loved him for his goodness of heart—only to be shot down at last by a cruel, vicious negro. Cruel, indeed, is fate sometime.

Miss Lillie Mae Liles will leave next Tuesday for Tuskegee where she will be a pupil in the Alabama Conference College for the next year. Miss Liles is one of Columbiana's charming girls of the younger set, and her presence will be missed for the next few months by her friends.

J. T. Heard, from the Birmingham district, will on the first of October, open up a complete line of gents' furnishings goods in the Lester building, formerly occupied by the Mason drug store. He says he will have one of the most complete lines in this section of Alabama.

Out on Bail.

As a result of the habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Longshore last Friday and Saturday, wherein Geo. Porter was charged with the killing of J. W. McMahon, of Shelby Springs, the judge decided that Mr. Porter be released on bond, and said he would fix the bond at whatever amount the attorneys agreed upon. The attorneys refused to agree upon a sum, and Judge Longshore fixed it at $2,000. The bond was made and approved in a few minutes, and the prisoner was released subject to the action of the grand jury.

Messrs. Browne & Leeper and Collier appeared for the defendant, and Solicitor W. R. Oliver prosecuted.

COLUMBIANA MERCANTILE CO.

Our merchants are busy unpacking and marking up their new stock of fall and winter goods. From the amount of goods coming in one is lead to believe that our merchants intend to have something doing about their establishments from now on.

Parents, no better training school can be found in this section of Alabama for your boys than the Columbiana Graded School. When they finish the course here they are fully prepared to enter the Freshman class in the State University without further examination.

W. E. Holcombe lost his little two-year-old daughter last Friday and she was buried Saturday at Good Hope. Rev. G. T. Harris conducting the service. Mr. Holcombe has been unfortunate in the past year—death having claimed three members of his family within that time—having first lost his wife, then a daughter eleven years old, and his baby girl last Friday. He has the deep sympathy of his neighbors and friends.

Death of Mrs. C. C. DuBose.

DuBose, Mrs. Annie—Died Sept. 1, 1904, at the residence of her father William W. Robberson on the National road west of the city, Mrs. DuBose was the wife of C. C. DuBose, of Columbiana, Ala. The funeral will be from West Washington Street M. E. Church at 9 a. m., Saturday Sept. 3. Interment at Crown Hill. Friends invited to attend services at the church; private at residence because of sickness.

The above notice from the Indiana olis Star, will be read with deep regret by all of Columbiana's people.

About three weeks ago, Mrs. DuBose, accompanied by her three little girls, departed for Indianapolis to visit her father. She was apparently in the best of health when she left Columbiana, but was taken seriously ill just after her arrival at the home of her father. A telegram was at once sent to her husband, C. C. DuBose, and who left on the next train after its receipt, but we are told that at no time did Mrs. DuBose recognize her husband. Death came on the first of September, as stated above.

The calendar had marked but forty-two years in the life of the deceased, and while to those who loved her best it seemed all too short, but "that life is long which answers life's great end." In her home life Mrs. DuBose was a loving wife and a most affectionate mother. She carried sunshine with her wherever she went; her life was a living testimonial to christian humility; she won all for her friends whom her heart had touched and she will ever speak to them through the memories she has left behind. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church of this city, and her church life is reflected in the life of her three little girls.

In that far away northern city, tender and kindly hands bore the remains of the devoted wife and mother to a resting place among the sleeping dead "the tribute left for love's sad giving." May the sweet christian love which characterized her life dispel the gloom that o'ershadows the home to which in her lifetime she contributed so much to make a happy one.

The deceased leaves a husband and three sweet little daughters to mourn her death, and to them in their great sorrow and grief is extended the sympathetic hand of a large circle of friends whose hearts weep with them in their sore bereavement.

It is heard with regret that little Carrie, the youngest daughter, is critically ill, and has not yet been informed of the death of her mother.

THE DOLLS AT SCHOOL.

The family of dolls were silently contemplating their young mistress at her nursery tea when Miss Franchon, the Parisian beauty, began rolling her eyes at the Young-Brave-of-the-Wabash, as the Indian doll was called. The Young Brave returned the glances with interest, and Miss Fanchon whispered:

"Do you know, I think she seems disconsolate to-night!"

When the dolls said "she," they always meant Mary Marcella, their little mistress, so the Young-Brave-of-the-Wabash looked over at Mary Marcella and grunted as intelligibly as a brave might do.

"An affair of the heart?" questioned the sentimental German gentleman doll, who reclined in an attitude of careless ease on the hearth rug.

"He, he, he," laughed the Dinah doll, whose duty it was to sit beside the infant in long clothes.

Just then Marcella finished her tea and came over to where the dolls were gathered. "I suppose I must begin packing you away," she said, looking sadly at the dolls, "for to-morrow will be the last day." She picked up Miss Fanchon tenderly, and two large, round tears rolled down her cheeks.

"Yes," she continued, "I must pack you away forever, for I am going to boarding school, and one is not supposed to take dolls to boarding school."

The speechless agony with which the dolls suffered at the revelation will perhaps never be understood. Dinah fell out of her chair in a faint, the infant uttered a shriek, and Fanchon forgot for once to roll her eyes and shut them instead.

But the India rubber doll took no part in their demonstrations, for he had rolled into the passage on an exploring expedition and was just in the path of Marcella's papa and his guests when they passed on their way to the laboratory, where Marcella's papa worked out all manner of wonderful things, which were so far ahead of the times that he forgot all about the present. Although he stumbled over the rubber doll, he would have passed it by had it not squeaked loudly and bounced very high when the professor took his foot away.

Even a professor cannot help being a trifle disturbed at such a demonstration.

"This must be one of Marcella's dolls," he said, as he picked the rubber doll up, and the remark seemed to recall something to his mind, for he added rather abruptly to the younger professor who was with him:

"My little daughter, you know, she's going away to boarding school in a day or two. I'll leave this in the nursery." He was so much aroused by the rubber doll, which continued to squeak, even after it had been picked up, that he actually noticed, while he was handing the doll to Mary Marcella, that she had been crying.

"Why, what is the matter?" he asked, and he looked in a puzzled way at the large packing case and the dolls on the hearth rug. "Are you packing your dolls to take to boarding school?"

"No," said Marcella, bravely; "they are not going. Great-Aunt Caroline says that one is not expected to take dolls to a boarding school. They make one's room so disorderly."

"But, perhaps," suggested Marcella's papa, who was about as clever about dolls as about anything else when he was once aroused to a sense of their paramount importance, "boarding schools have changed since Aunt Caroline's day. I am quite certain the one which you are going to will not object to dolls."

And when, a few days later, Marcella and her belongings were received at the boarding school, her papa was particularly anxious about a peculiar looking hamper and an even more peculiar looking frame box, out of which there emerged the entire family of dolls and a most commodius doll mansion, which exactly fitted into a corner of Mary Marcella's small dormitory division, and in which, at her papa's request, a particularly elegant apartment was reserved for the rubber doll.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

WREN DISCIPLINE.

Hidden in the grass, I tried to solve the secret of the father's petulant actions. Each time the patient mother returned he grew more restless and violent in his language. Soon I saw his wife whirl joyously by with an unusually large white grub—surely a prize for any bird. But, alas! for all her prowess, her spouse darted at her as if in madness, while she, trembling in terror, retreated down the limb and through the bushes. For a few moments it seemed as if the wren household was to be wrecked. I was tempted to take the mother's part against such cruel treatment as she quivered through the fern on fluttering wing toward me, but at that moment, as if thoroughly subdued, she yielded up the bug to the father. This was the bone of contention. A domestic battle had been fought and he had won. The scolding ceased. Both seemed satisfied. Mounting to the tree top, the little mother poured forth such a flood of sweet song as rarely strikes human ear. From that moment she seemed a different wren, released from all care and worry. Her entire time was spent in search for bugs. Each return was heralded by a high-sounding trill from the tree top, and her husband whirled out of the tangled vines to take the morsel she carried.

But what of his actions? He had either gone crazy or he was a most selfish little tyrant, for he flew about the alder stump, calling now in a softer tone to his children within, and finally swallowed the grub himself. Two or three times he did this, until I was so disgusted I could hardly endure him. If he were hungry, why could he not skirmish for his own bugs?

While I was chiding him for his infamous action, the mother appeared with a large moth, which he readily took. Among the alder limbs the father flew, and finally up to the nest hole, out of which was issuing such a series of hungry screams as no parent with the least bit of devotion could resist. Hardly could I believe my eyes, for the little knave just went to the door, where each hungry nestling could get a good view of the morsel, then, as if scolding the little ones for being so noisy and hungry, he hopped back down the tree into the bushes.

This was indeed cause for a family revolt. The brown nestling nearest the door grew so bold with hunger that he forgot his fear and plunged headlong down, catching in the branches below where the father perched. And the precocious youngster got the large moth as a reward for his bravery.

Not till then did it dawn upon me that there was a reason for the father's queer actions. The wrenlets were old enough to leave the nest. Outside in the warm sunshine they could be fed more easily and they would grow more rapidly, and they could be taught the ways of woodcraft. In half an hour, one after another, the little wrens had been persuaded, even compelled, to leave the narrow confines of the nest and launch out into the big world.

What a task the father had brought upon himself. Surely the old woman in the shoe never had a more trying time. The fretful father darted away to punish one of the wrenlets for not remaining quiet; he scurried here to scold another for wandering too far, or whirled away to whip a third for not keeping low in the underbrush, away from the hawk's watchful eyes. —From William Lovell Finley's "Rearing a Wren Family," in St. Nicholas.

THE OBSTINATE FLAME.

Of course you know what a "blower" is. The meaning that we have in mind is not to be found in the dictionary, but you are doubtless familiar with the term boaster, which is the same thing.

The next time you encounter him tell him that you don't believe he can blow out a candle placed only a foot from his experienced mouth without any other obstacle than his own breath between them.

If he accepts the challenge, seat him comfortably at the table, place the lighted candle in front of him, and putting to his lips a large tin funnel, with the centre of its mouth opposite and near the flame, and tell him to blow through that.

He may blow until he becomes black in the face without extinguishing the candle. The harder he blows the more it doesn't go out.

After he has given it up say, "It is easy enough when you know how," put the funnel to your lips and blow out the candle. How? Simply by bringing the rim instead of the centre near the flame.

When you blow through a funnel your breath spreads and follows the conical surface, leaving a region of dead calm in the centre. Your friend blew all around the flame without touching it, but you extinguish it with a puff.

There are a good many queer things about air currents that would never have been thought of if they had not been found out by experience. This is one of them.

CENTRAL AMERICAN STAMPS.

The stamps of Central American republics have always been favorites with young collectors. The bright colors and newly engraved specimens have made the pages of albums appear very attractive. The sets of stamps issued by some of these countries have been quite numerous, so that there has been little difficulty in securing a representative collection of the various issues. Such countries as Salvador have furnished also a large number of provisional stamps made by the use of different surchages. The regular issues have been printed in many instances in the United States, while the provisionals have been manufactured on a printing press in the country where the stamps have been issued. It thus happens that some of these stamps are not discovered by those making notes of new issues for the stamp papers, and they, therefore, may not be found listed in the catalogues. Collectors who have opportunities to secure large numbers of Central American stamps are fortunate, as they frequently succeed in finding new and scarce varieties.—From the St. Nicholas Stamp Page.

American Wages.

Wages in the United States on the average are more than twice those in Belgium, three times those of Denmark, France, Germany, Italy and Spain, and one and one-half those in England and Scotland.

APPLE PIE.

Let others praise the red, red rose,
Whose haunting scent none may forget,
But almost anybody knows
The apple pie is sweeter yet.
Let others sing the damsel fair
Who thralls them with bewitching art—
But apple pie drives off my care
And trips the highway to my heart.
And if it's cold—
Say one day old—
I want all of it I can hold!

When apple pie has held the shelf
Until it's cool and crisp and firm,
I'll eat a whole big one myself
And never murmur—not a murm'!
Why, when it's sliced it fairly smiles,
And chuckles when its honeyed juice
In tantalizing drips beguiles
The craving that it has set loose.
O, if it's cold—
Say one day old—
I want all of it I can hold!

I think I'd give away my crown,
Were I a man of royal birth,
To eat, while holding upside down,
The last piece of it on this earth!
Why, every summer smile and song
Is held within an apple pie—
And that's the place where they belong,
All peace and dulcetness! O, my!
When it is cold—
Say one day old—
I want all of it I can hold!
—W. D. Nesbit, in Ainslee's.

Suffered Agonies From Kidney Disorders Until Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

George W. Renoff, of 1953 North Eleventh street, Philadelphia, Pa., a man of good reputation and standing, writes: "Five years ago I was suffering so with my back and kidneys that I often had to lay off. The kidney secretions were unnatural, my legs and stomach were swollen, and I had no appetite. When doctors failed to help me I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and improved until my back was strong and my appetite returned. During the four years since I stopped using them I have enjoyed excellent health. The cure was permanent."

It is said that the word "tip" goes back a couple of centuries to the coffee houses of England for its origin. At the doors of eating rooms there hung brass-bound boxes engraved with the phrase "To Insure Promptness," and into the slit in the top customers were expected to drop coins for the waiter. The initial letters of that phrase came in time to be used as a word.

Between the mountains of Persia and India is a tribe among whom an extraordinary custom prevails. All a single woman has to do when she wishes to change her state is to send a servant to pin a handkerchief to the hat of a man on whom her fancy lights, and he is obliged to marry her unless he can show that he is too poor to purchase her at the price her father requires.

It is said that General Kuroki's father was a Polish nobleman named Kurowski, who, after the revolution of 1831, fled from Russia, and after being in the Dutch service in Borneo, settled down in Japan, where he married a Japanese woman. On his deathbed, Oshima adds, the father of General Kuroki charged his son to avenge the wrongs of Poland upon Russia.

THE BARBER'S SHEARS.

Chat With an Expert on One of the Important Tools of His Trade.

Mr. Glimmerton took notice of the fact that in the course of trimming his hair and beard the barber used three different sized pairs of shears.

"And why so many?" he asked.

"Why," said the barger, "simply for greater convenience in the work. I could do it all with the same pair of shears, but I can do it easier and better with three pairs of shears, each best suited for the particular part of the work to be done with it.

"Now, these heavy shears," he continued, as he held up the largest pair, "I use for the rough work; that is, the heavy work on the top of the head where the hair is thickest, and where the shape of the head makes the work all plain sailing.

"There such shears can be used to advantage; but for the back of the head, and around the neck and the ears, where there are more and shorter curves to cover, smaller shears are better and also handier to use. And then in trimming the beard I use smaller shears still.

"These shears with which I am now trimming your beard, I have had for fourteen years, using them continuously, all the time, and for some years now on beards alone. They were an inch longer in the blades when I first got them, but they have lost that in repeated grindings. But they are perfect shears for my use, and I would not part with them, half worn out as they are, for twice what they originally cost.

"How much do barbers' shears cost? Two dollars a pair, and they are not very large, either. So you see barbers' shears are rather costly. They must be of the finest material and perfectly made and adjusted in order to make them serviceable and adapted to their work. But, expensive as they are, and supposed to be all good and fine, they may really differ greatly in quality or character. They vary as much, in fact, as razors do.

"Of two pairs of shears of the same make and grade and same shape and size bought at the same time, one pair might turn out perfect shears and the other not nearly so good. One pair might need to be ground every two weeks, and the other might cut perfectly for a month or more before needing grinding.

"So on the score of economy, as well as because of their greater comfort and convenience in use, a good pair of shears over the shears that get dull and must often be put out of commission for repairs, is something highly to be prized. The good shears, less often ground, last longer to begin with, and then it costs less to keep them in order.

"The barber keeps his own razors in order himself, but when his shears need grinding he must send them to a grinder, and, to put it in figures, it costs twenty cents for the grinding of a pair of shears. So the difference in the cost of upkeep between two pairs of shears, one good and the other poor, may amount to dollars in the course of a year; certainly a consideration of importance.

"And so, taking everything together, the barber—who becomes attached to the tools of his trade, just as the men of any other craft or calling become attached to theirs—may easily come to have for a good pair of shears, that he has long been accustomed to, a feeling of decided attachment, as I have, for instance, for this pair that I have had since I began in the business, the pair with which I am now trimming your beard."—New York Sun.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, Miss Margaret Merkley, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., SEPTEMBER 22, 1904. VOL. 30. NO. 4

THE CASE A MYSTERY

Miss Bessie Roberts Dies from Her Injuries. Murder and Robbery Suspected.

HER BODY FOUND UNDER HOUSE

Laudanum Bottle Found Near by, but Suicide is not Suspected—Was Horribly Beaten.

Miss Bessie Roberts, a young woman who was found bruised and unconscious beneath a vacant house on Sixth street in Anniston,. died after she had been identified by her brother and sister.

Miss Roberts never regained consciousness and a deep mystery surrounds the whole affair. She had been horribly beaten and bruised and had lain under the house in a semi-conscious state for three days and nights.

It is believed that she was beaten and robbed while passing near the house Monday and was then dragged beneath the house. This theory is sustained somewhat by the bruises, which almost covered her body, by the absence of three rings which she was known to have worn and the absence of the purse she carried. She had left her brother's home Monday afternoon to go to her aunt's and had not been seen since.

Miss Roberts was a member of one of the oldest and most respected families and was a greatly beloved young woman. She was a sister of T. Gaines Roberts, naval constructor who is in charge of the government works at New Orleans, and of Conductor Oscar Roberts, of the Louisville and Nashville railway.

The suicide theory has been advanced, but little faith is placed in it, as she was of a very happy disposition and had no known cause for worry of any kind. A post mortem will be held.

The discovery was made by some children playing near. Bruises on her body indicated that she was assaulted and struck with a club or other blunt instrument, that the body was thrown over the fence into the back yard and that in a dazed condition she crawled under the house for protection.

Miss Roberts had been away from home since Monday evening. It is known that she was standing at the transfer station waiting for a car on that evening. It is supposed that the assault was made at that time and that she remained under the house Tuesday and Wednesday.

When the body was found the matter was at once reported to the police, who took her in charge. It was several hours before she was identified.

After she was discovered under the house an examination of the premises revealed a small bottle which had contained laudanum lying on the rafters near where she was lying. Physicians who have investigated the case, however, say there are no indications of her having taken laudanum, the bruises on the body indicating it was these which rendered her unconscious.

Cotton Ginned in Two States.

The census bureau has issued a report of the quantity of cotton ginned from the growth of 1904 prior to September 1, 1904. During that period Alabama ginned 26,456 commercial bales, 24,900 square bales and 1,556 round bales.

In the same period last year 1314 commercial bales were ginned. The number of active ginneries in the state this year is 1018 as compared with 243 last year prior to September. This year Mississippi ginned 2,703 square bales and 102 round bales.

Counties Show Increase.

Fifty-two of the seventy-six counties in Mississippi show an aggregate increase on their personal assessment rolls this years of $11,000,000, and the total increae for the state will be in excess of $15,000,000. Adams is the only county that has shown a decrease.

New Mines.

It is understood that Brewer and Jones have secured the contract from the Seaboard Air Line railroad to build the necessary spur tracks into the Black Creek and Cahaba coal fields. Coal is now being mined at Colonel H. F. Debardeleben's new mines near the forks of the Cahaba river and Black creek. It is also understood that the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company will soon open up coal mines on Snake branch and that the Southern Railway company and the Central of Georgia railroad, as well as the Seaboard Air Line railroad will build spur tracks to these new openings.

Teacher Resigns.

Something of a sensation followed the announcement that Professor L. P. Liles, principal of the Pratt City high school, had resigned, and that, too, on the very eve of the opening of the schools. Superintendent McNeill, who is authority for the announcement, had little to say with reference to this unexpected action of the high school principal, other than that the school board would meet at once, formally accept the resignation and take steps to secure a successor.

WORKING UNDERGROUND.

Japanese Said to be Tunneling at Port Arthur.

A telegram from Harbin says the following report has been received from Port Arthur: "Our garrison is in good spirits and there is no prospect of provisions failing. Port Arthur is prepared to make a long, obstinate defense.

"The Japanese are strongly fortifying their positions near the Kinchou isthmus and are entrenching before Port Arthur."

Rations at Port Arthur are said to be down to five weeks' store.

The Japanese troops between September 8 and September 10 captured a fort situated on a high hill two miles east of Golden Hill by assault. The fighting was not severe. The Japanese were able to remain in force because the quality of the powder used at Golden Hill was so poor that many shells fell short and others failed to explode. It is reported that the Japanese are tunneling under the Russian forts with the intention of blowing them up.

The house formerly occupied by Viceroy Alexieff was hit by a shell recently and partially wrecked.

Ammunition is growing scarcer, but there is plenty of bread. The price of flour is now nine roubles.

Another shell struck a destroyer which was lying in dock undergoing repairs, knocking it into kindling wood and killing seven sailors. This shell came from the Japanese fleet, which comes in much closer than formerly, daily throwing a few shells.

WILL RAISE THEIR OWN COTTON

European Nations Realize Value of Crop of United States.

The recent great cotton corner in America apparently has caused a permanent fright in Europe where all of the cotton using and manufacturing nations have set themselves to the task of producing their own cotton and relying no further than absolutely necessary on the American product.

Consul General Skinner at Marseilles is the last of several officers in Europe to call attention to this important movement which he does in the shape of a separate report to the department of commerce and labor.

He says that an association has been formed in France for the purpose of arousing and securing support for the projected development of the French colonial fields. This association has visited all the commercial cities and has pointed to the danger that the American cotton supply will be cut off by consumption by the United States of its entire cotton crop. This country now produces 75 per cent of the world's cotton. The association is seeking particularly to development cotton growth in the French colonies, in the Soudan and Madagascar.

Report on Troy School.

Assistant State Examiner W. F. Wilkinson has filed a report on the books and accounts and the general conduct of the State Normal college at Troy. He finds everything in excellent condition, finances in correct shape and outlook for the school bright. The time embraced in the examination is from May, 1901, to September 12, 1904. Among other things the examiner says that "This is the first year since 1901 that the college has been out of debt. There is a balance in bank of $1,449.31 to its credit. The affairs of the college are now in excellent shape and reflect great credit upon the administration."

Rowland to Report.

General Stephen D. Lee, president of the board of trustees of the Mississippi department of archives and history, has called a meeting of the board to assemble in Jackson on the 8th of October to receive the annual report of Director Rowland and to map out the work of the department for the coming year.

Zuber & McLarkey, of Ensley, have been awarded the contract for the construction of the new waterworks for Bessemer. The work is to be finished by December 24. The company will lay pipes from Hawkins Springs and will build a reservoir on Red Mountain. The reservoir will be of concrete and will have a capacity of five million gallons of water.

Mayo Disqualified.

Sheriff W. D. Mayo, of Clay county, has disqualified himself for the duties of his office and Governor Cunningham will appoint his successor within a few days.

Probate Judge S. J. Gay, of Clay county, certified to Governor Cunningham that Sheriff Mayo had failed to qualify by making bond for the extended term, thereby vacating his office. All bonds of sheriffs for extended terms, under the law, must be filed by September 10, and Sheriff Mayo is the first officer, as far as is known, who has lost his office by reason of his failure to comply with the law.

Fatally Hurt.

E. H. Hosey, night watchman for the Bessemer Foundry and Machine company, was found in the foundry near some scaffolding with his skull fractured and unconscious. He was carried to his home, where he was given medical attention, but died in a short while. It is not known just how he was hurt, as no one saw him when it happened, but it is thought he fell on the scaffold and struck his head. Mr. Hosey was 65 years old and leaves a widow and children.

DEEPER WATER

For Mobile Bay Desired by Commercial Bodies.

There will be a meeting in the early part of October of the committees appointed by the commercial bodies of the state to work for deeper water on the bar of Mobile harbor.

Judge H. Austell, chairman of the committee appointed by the Mobile chamber of commerce suggests the selection of a Birmingham man as chairman of this central committee, but says the chairman must be willing to go to Washington and work with Judge Austell and others.

EIGHT DROWNED.

Vessel Sunk in Delaware River—Were in Life Boat.

Eight men were drowned by the sinking of the tug Israel W. Durham in the Delaware river, opposite Wilmington during a heavy storm.

The rescued clung to the pilot house of the tug which became detached and floated away. They were rescued by the crew of a sand schooner.

The eight men who were lost clambered into the life boat, which, after being cast off from the tug, filled and sank with all its occupants. The other two men went down with the tug, but came to the surface again and clung to the wreckage.

COURT OF INQUIRY

Ordered for Huntsville's Military Company.

Acting Governor Cunningham has ordered a military court of inquiry to investigate the conduct of the Huntsville militia in connection with the recent lynching of the negro Horace Maples at that place.

The acting governor received a report from Captain R. L. Hay of the Huntsville company, in response to the demand from the chief executive and commander-in-chief of the national guard, for a complete statement of the conduct of the militia on the occasion of the lynching of the Maples negro. This report of Captain Hay was not made public, but it is understood that it does not conform to the statements made in the report of Sheriff A. D. Rogers, of Madison county. It is said that both reports contain the names of nearly every person who participated in the lynching.

It is believed at the capitol that the determination of Governor Cunningham to order a court of inquiry to investigate the conduct of Captain Hay and his company was based on the two reports received by the governor, the one from Captain Hay and the other from Sheriff Rogers.

Is It the Genuine Weevil?

The farmers of Cahaba valley are exercised over the appearance of a black weevil in their cotton fields, which are cutting up the cotton blooms and boring into the young bolls of cotton. Mr. L. O. Collins, of Leeds, an old Black Belt cotton planter, has made an examination of the cotton plants in this locality and is of the opinion that this pest is none other than the regular Texas boll weevil, which has played havoc with the cotton crop of the west in the last years.

Railroad Progress.

The Seaboard Air Line railroad is now running a work train from Irondale east as far as the Cahaba river. The big iron and steel bridge is now being built across the river near the old Revis mill place.

Two other iron bridges will soon be put in, one over Big Black and the other over East Black creeks. The two tunnels, one at the Roper Gap and the other at the Hardwick Gap, are being rushed to completion, and by the first of the new year will witness the running of trains over the route from Atlanta to Birmingham.

Ginneries in Operation.

The census bureau report shows 7567 ginneries operated this season prior to September 1, while the number operated to the corresponding date in 1903 was 2176. The report points out that in comparing the statistics of the two years due allowance must be made for the different conditions of the two seasons. The total commercial bales which would number but 374,821 if the round bales were counted as half bales, comprise 358,796 square bales, 31,187 round bales and 431 sea island crop bales.

Reappointed.

Governor Cunningham reappointed all the constables and justices of the peace in Talladega county to serve until November. They had vacated their offices by failure to file new bonds.

Extra Session.

It is announced that the supreme court will convene in extra session for the consideration of the Lusk judiciary act on September 29th. It was found impossible to get the court together sooner because of the absence of members on their vacations.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

While in a fit of despondency Henry Tyler, of Tuscaloosa, ended his life by taking a dose of carbolic acid. He died before the matter was discovered.

Spencer Charrington, a member of the English parliament, who is 86 years old, was recently given a handsome silver goblet by the prime minister, in commemoration of his attendance throughout an all-night sitting of the house of commons.

A CEMENT PRODUCER

Alabama Ranks High. Field Covers Much of the State and is Rich in Its Deposits.

GEOLOGIST SMITH'S REPORT

He Says That Raw Material All Over the State Will be Utilized.

Although until 1902 Alabama did not figure among the cement producing states of the union, it boasts an extensive series of limestones capable of furnishing excellent raw material for the manufacture of Portland cement, while the shales and clays necessary to complete the mixture are found in every county in the state. The cement resources of this state are discussed by Dr. Eugene A. Smith, state geologist, in a paper that is included in Bulletin 225 of the United States geological survey, entitled "Contributions to Economic Geology, 1903." The bulletin is published for gratuitious distribution.

Between northern Alabama and central and southern Alabama there is a marked geologic as well as geographic distinction, and Dr. Smith accordingly discusses the two portions of the state separately.

The raw materials for the manufacture of Portland cement are found in northern Alabama. These materials have not yet been utilized for this purpose in Alabama, but similar ones have been so employed in other states, and there is no reason to doubt that the future will witness their utilization in Alabama.

Dr. Smith gives a detailed account of outcrops of limestone of suitable quality for cement manufacture that occur at various points in the northern part of the state. A similar minute description is given of suitable clay beds found in the coal measures in the same parts.

In central and southern Alabama the raw materials suitable for the manufacture of Portland cement are purer limestones and clays. The limestones that are suitable for use as cement materials occur mainly at two horizons—the Selma chalk, or rotten limestone, and the St. Stephens formation. The clays available are residual clays derived from the decomposition of these two limestone formations, the stratified clays of the grand gulf formation and the alluvial clays that are found in the river and creek bottoms. It is further possible that later investigation may show that some of the other stratified clays are suitable for cement making.

Inasmuch as material that is well adapted to the manufacture of cement can be had in practically unlimited quantity all along the outcrop of the purer limestones, the location of plants for the manufacture of this product will be determined by other considerations than the quality of the rock. Chief among these will be facilities for transportation, cheapness of fuel and the price of labor. Examinations have heretofore been confined to those localities which appear to be most favorable in these respects, and especially to such as are on navigable streams or on north-south railroad lines or on both. Mr. Smith enumerates available sites and discusses their respective merits.

IT WAS NOT ROBBERY.

Some Other Motive Must be Found for Murder of Miss Roberts.

The death of Miss Bessie Roberts, of Anniston, is involved in deeper mystery than ever.

All along it has been thought that the young woman was murdered for robbery, but with the finding of her purse and rings it seems that robbery was not the intent of the murderer. The purse was found in the alley in the rear of the dwelling under which the wounded young lady was found, and this came in possession of the police along with the rings she wore.

The rings had been in the possession of a negress who assisted in bathing Miss Roberts when she was taken to the city hall.

It has developed that a negress saw the young woman and an apparently drunken man three blocks from the place of the finding of the body. This was on Monday evening and the police followed the course over which she was thought to have passed and found many who saw the couple about the same time.

It is thought that the young lady quarreled with some former sweetheart from her home in Texas and he beat her while in a drunken condition

The strikes in the mines of Colorado have been the means of dropping nearly $30,000,000 of that state's and other people's money.

Lieut. Turc, of the French "Military Marine," has invented a new type of ship which does not roll or pitch. The hull is entirely submerged like a submarine, and it supports two vertical walls, on which are built the decks, or ship proper, with engines and living accommodations.

From June 12 to 18, 1905, is the period set for the session of the International Botanical Congress of Vienna.

HIGGINS FOR GOVERNOR

New York Republicans Nominate Their State Ticket.

M. LINN BRUCE IN SECOND PLACE

After a Short Convention at Saratoga the Party Adopts Its Platform—Synopsis of the Resolutions—The Career of the Gubernatorial Candidate — The Proceedings in Brief.

Saratoga, N. Y. — The Republican State Convention, meeting in the convention hall at Saratoga, adjourned after unanimously nominating the following State ticket:

For Governor—Frank W. Higgins, of Cattaraugus.

For Lieutenant-Governor — M. Linn Bruce, of New York.

For Secretary of State — John F. O'Brien, of Clinton.

For Attorney-General — Julius M. Mayer, of New York.

For Controller—Otto Kelsey, of Livingston.

For State Treasurer—John G. Wallenmeier, of Erie.

For State Engineer and Surveyor—Henry A. Van Alstyne, of Columbia.

For Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals—Edgar M. Cullen (Democrat), of Kings.

For Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals—William E. Werner (Republican), of Monroe.

Timothy L. Woodruff withdrew as a candidate for Governor just as the roll of delegates was to be called and after the nominating speeches had been made.

The platform indorses the administrations of President Roosevelt and Governor Odell, and approves the declaration of principles adopted by the Republican National Convention.

It was nearly noon when J. Sloat Fassett, the temporary chairman, called the convention to order, and, after dispatching routine business, made way for the nomination and election of Senator George R. Malby, of St. Lawrence County, as permanent chairman. Escorted by Congressman Sereno E. Payne and Senator John Raines, the chairman went to the platform and at once proceeded to his speech, which was well received, and when at its climax Senator Malby mentioned the name of the President there was a demonstration.

Then John A. Sleicher, of New York, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, read the platform prepared by Edward Lauterbach.

After the report of the committee had been adopted, nominations for Governor were declared in order by Chairman Malby, and Assemblyman Arthur C. Wade, of Chautauqua, made the nominating speech for Senator Higgins.

William A. Prendergast, of Brooklyn, then presented the name of former Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff.

Assemblyman James T. Rogers, Republican leader in the lower house of the Legislature, then took the platform to second Woodruff's nomination. W. W. Niles, of New York, followed Mr. Rogers and seconded the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor Higgins. F. R. Hazard, of Syracuse, also seconded the nomination of Mr. Higgins. Mr. Hazard was the first speaker to speak from his place in the delegation.

Chairman Malby then announced the roll call, but Mr. Woodruff interrupted. He announced that he would withdraw from the candidacy and would commit the Kings County delegation to greater effort than ever before for the success of the ticket. He moved that the secretary cast one ballot for the selection of Mr. Higgins as a candidate for Governor. The motion was carried, and Secretary Fox obeyed it.

"Hail to the Chief" was played by the band, and the delegates rose and gave three cheers for Higgins.

Abe Gruber nominated M. Linn Bruce for Lieutenant-Governor. "I second the nomination of Mr. Bruce!" roared a delegate from Delaware County, where Mr. Bruce was born, and Secretary Fox, on motion of Senator Raines, cast a single ballot, which nominated Mr. Bruce by acclamation.

Senator Depew nominated John F. O'Brien for Secretary of State. Mr. O'Brien's nomination was made by acclamation, and so were all the others as follows:

Otto Kelsey was nominated by Representative James W. Wadsworth, of Geneseo, for the office of Controller; John G. Wallenmeier was nominated for State Treasurer by Deputy State Controller Timmerman, of Buffalo; Julius M. Mayer was nominated for Attorney-General by Assemblyman Josiah T. Newcomb; Henry A. Van Alstyne was nominated for State Engineer and Surveyor by William P. Rudd, of Albany.

There was not even the semblance of a speech in nominating Chief Judge Edgar M. Cullen for that place. Senator Raines merely moved that the Secretary cast the ballot of the convention for Chief Judge Cullen. On motion of James G. Cutler, of Rochester, similar action was taken in nominating William E. Werner as Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

The State committee was authorized by the convention to fill all vacancies in its ranks and to provide for all State nominations that may be necessary next year. The nominees of the convention will be formally notified of their selection by a committee made up of one member from each Congress district, with Senator Malby as chairman. The convention then at 2.30 p. m. adjourned.

Mayor and Sheriff Indicted.

The Grand Jury at Huntsville, Ala., indicted the Mayor and Sheriff for dereliction of duty in not preventing the lynching of Horace Maples, and ten of the mob of lynchers. Great excitement prevailed, and militia was ordered to Huntsville from Birmingham.

Later Maine Reports.

Later reports of the election show that Maine gave 27,000 Republican plurality, Democrats making gains in both branches of the Legislature.

The Platform in Brief.

The platform adopted, although brief, was not of such record-breaking brevity as had been announced, consisting of more than 1000 instead of 600 words.

After referring to the fifty years of the Republican party's life, congratulating the country on the results of the recent elections, indorsing President Roosevelt and approving the National platform adopted in Chicago, it deals with State issues as follows:

"We commend the firm reason, abiding common sense and strict integrity, unmoved by assaults from enemies or pleas from friends, with which Governor Odell has conducted the affairs of this State and safeguarded with zealous care its vast and complicated interests.

"We believe in the policy of raising revenues for State maintenance by indirect taxation. The effective measures of the Republican party in this direction constitute the greatest step taken in the history of our commonwealth for the relief of taxpayers. If any taxes heretofore levied, especially such as affect the savings of the people, appear to be unjust or unnecessary, we favor such revision of the tax laws as will correct such condition.

"The people of the State have decreed that the canals shall be improved, and we reaffirm the position heretofore taken by the party in regard to good roads, for the construction of which the State has already paid or appropriated over $3,250,000.

"We believe in increasing the effectiveness of the school system, greater appropriations for common schools and the extension of free tuition in high schools, and we favor the still further building up of the State's educational facilities wherever practicable.

"We claim credit for the legislation which unified the State Educational Departments and completely removed State educational activities from the field of politics.

"We believe in maintaining the laws for safeguarding the interests of labor as well as of capital, and in extending such laws whenever additional safeguards may be necessary.

"We believe in the further purchase and preservation of forest lands in the Adirondack and Catskill parks by the State and adequate appropriations therefor. We congratulate the people of this commonwealth on the satisfactory condition of the State treasury. National as well as State policies are involved in the outcome of our State election, and we commend to every citizen the faithful performance of his patriotic duty."

Frank Wayland Higgins, for two years Lieutenant-Governor, and before that State Senator for nine years, was born at Rushford, Allegany County, N. Y., August 18, 1856. His father was a successful business man and his grandfather a physician. The education of the youth was secured at Rushford Academy and the Riverview Military Academy, in Poughkeepsie, from which he was graduated in 1873. After a year of commercial college training and another year spent in travel at the age of nineteen he embarked in business for himself in Stanton, Mich., and became interested in mines and timber lands. While there he was married in 1878 to Miss Kate C. Noble, of Sparta, Mich. The following year he returned to New York State, took charge of the extensive grocery business of Higgins, Blodgett & Co., in Olean, N. Y., of which his father was senior partner. It was in 1893 that he was first elected a State Senator in the old Thirty-second District, comprising Cattaraugus, Allegany and Chautauqua counties. In 1902 Senator Higgins was nominated by the Republican convention in Saratoga to succeed Timothy L. Woodruff as Lieutenant-Governor, and was elected. Lieutenant-Governor Higgins has a fine home in Olean, N. Y. His business interests include the management of pine lands in Wisconsin, iron lands in the Mesaba region, lumber tracts in Oregon, shares in the banks and electric light company of Olean, an interest in glass works there and in steamers on the great lakes. He had the reputation at Albany of being the best dressed man in the Senate.

DEMOCRATS NAME BLACK.

Candidate is Nominated by Acclamation—Platform Adopted.

Trenton, N. J.—Charles C. Black, of Hudson County, a member of the State Board of Taxation, was nominated by acclamation as the Democratic candidate for Governor.

The platform makes a vigorous attack on the State and national administrations of the Republicans.

Lay Off Seven Thousand Men.

The immense Pullman car works at Pullman, Ill., are shut down and practically every one of the company's 7000 employes is idle. The workmen were told to take their tools with them when they left the works, and from this infer that a long period of idleness confronts them.

Field Marshal Oyama reported the total number of Russians buried at Liaoyang as 3100.

KILLED IN FLORIDA FEUD

Bloody Battle in Front of a House at Night.

First Engagement Was on a Train—Both Parties Are Followers in Private War—Troops Called Out.

Baxter, Fla. — The Duncan-Altman feud, which began in a fight on a train the other day, led to a battle in which two more men were killed and over half a dozen were wounded.

The State authorities sent Wilson's Battery, of Jacksonville, to the scene of hostilities. It arrived at 5 o'clock, and has gone into camp.

The battle resulted from an attack on the house of William Duncan, which has been garrisoned nightly by a posse since the outbreak of the disorder. In the number was Deputy Sheriff Thrift.

Suddenly and without warning there were as many as twenty-five shots from rifles and pistols fired at the house. The deputy called on his posse to assist him, and as they came from the house there was another volley of shots.

Thrift was standing in front of the house. He was shot and lived but a few moments.

The others returned the fire and killed Eli Dowling, a member of the Altman faction. The mob withdrew to the home of the Altmans, where they are ready to resist any attempt at arrest.

More than a half dozen were wounded, but their names cannot be obtained.

It was, in response to an appeal by law abiding citizens that Wilson's Battery was sent here, arriving on a special train about 5 o'clock. The troops have cordoned their camp with sentries.

The Altman faction is hostile to the troops, saying the soldiers have been sent here to uphold the Duncans. Governor Jennings is not in the State, and the troops were sent here by the Speaker of the House, Cromwell Gibson, who is Acting Governor in the absence of Jennings.

Shortly before dark Sheriff Herndon and his posse brought in seven prisoners of the Altman faction. These men are stretched out on the floor of a shanty under guard of the Live Oak Rifles, the Wilson Battery of Artillery and the Sheriff's posse.

There are eleven others of the Altman feudists. The men who were sent to see them have just returned and report that they have agreed to surrender themselves, and will come in voluntarily and give themselves up.

The Duncans, who are large turpentine operators, and the Altmans, who maintain a general store at Baxter, have been in a quarrel for months. The majority of the people in this section of Baxter County took sides with the Altmans, as the Duncans had made enemies in their turpentine operations.

Although the quarrel was a bitter one no overt act occurred until the Duncans with a number of their negro employes boarded an excursion train on the Georgia Southern and Florida. The Altmans and several of their friends were on board and a quarrel soon arose.

The Altmans stabbed a Duncan negro to death, and when the Duncans interfered the Altmans killed James Duncan. The fight became general, and the train was turned into a shambles.

This riot occurred just over the Georgia line, and for that reason Sheriff Herndon, of Baker County, refused to arrest the alleged slayers of Duncan and the negro. Since then Baxter and the surrounding county have been divided into two hostile camps.

CONSUL REMOVED FROM OFFICE.

Roosevelt Acts on Charges and Recalls Consul McWade.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—President Roosevelt ordered the indictment of McWade, United States Consul at Canton, China, on general charges of extortion and of issuing fraudulent certificates to Chinese immigrants.

Complaints and charges against McWade have been reaching the State Department for about a year. Several months ago Secretary Hay sent Assistant Secretary Pierce to the Orient to investigate. On his return Mr. Pierce made a report unfavorable to McWade.

A temporary successor will be appointed immediately.

WILL PAY OUT $31,000,000.

Royal Bank of Canada Cuba's Agent in Paying Soldiers.

New York City.—It was announced in Wall Street that the Royal Bank of Canada in Havana has been selected by the Cuban Government to disburse $31,000,000, recently raised by a bond issue, to the soldiers of the revolution. It is said that about $10,000,000 of the claims have passed into the hands of speculators in the United States.

The disbursement will be made in Havana, Santiago and other Cuban cities.

The recent heavy shipments of gold from the United States to Cuba were to provide the bank with funds to meet the warrants.

To Pay Cuban Claims.

President Palma has set October 1 for the beginning of the payment of one-half of the claims of the Cuban revolutionary forces.

To Increase German Army.

The German Government will ask the Reichstag to increase the army, probably by 30,000 or 40,000 men.

Compare the Men.

Judge Longshore's reflection upon Hon. E. S. Lyman, in his speech at Gurnee, will not make the Judge any votes in the coming election by any means. On the other hand it will cost Judge Longshore more than one vote. In all of his speeches thus far in the campaign in none of them has Judge Longshore referred to the anti-boycott bill passed by the last Legislature except in his speech at Gurnee, and he did it there for no other purpose than to curry favor with the miners at Gurnee. He charged Mr. Lyman with having voted for that bill, and tried to make a mountain of iniquity out of it. But his position is so inconsistent in this matter that posing at Gurnee as a great friend of organized labor is the rankest of demagoguery on the part of Judge Longshore. In the court house caucus, when the hyphenated ticket was formulated, a coal operator in this county who has been fighting the miners' union for nearly three years was one of the counsellors and dictators in that caucus. When the name of a Republican in the south end of the county, and who, we are told, is a member of the miners' union, was mentioned for Clerk on the mixed ticket, this coal operator said no, and no it stood. Judge Longshore was also a conferee in that caucus and acquiesced in all that was done. He will sit in conference with one who is doing all he can to disrupt the miners' union, and then go before an audience composed chiefly of miners, pose as their friend, and belittle a man who voted as his conscience dictated.

Mr. Lyman is man whose every day life, whose honor and integrity and whose every action shows his belief in right to triumph over wrong has won the highest regard and deepest respect of all who know him, and when one impugns his motives it is strongly resented. Ed. Lyman voted as his conscience dictated on the anti-boycott bill and he has never denied his vote as recorded. He has the courage of his convictions at all times. The House Journal records Judge Longshore with having voted for the Anniston, Gadsden and Decatur City Court bills. Does he stand by that House Record? Oh, no! He denies the whole business. Why? Because his chief argument why McMillan should not be elected is because the latter worked with others to establish a city court in Shelby county. Judge McMillan does not deny this, but he did not vote for any City Court bill. The House Journal, however, records Judge Longshore with having voted, while in the Legislature, for three City Court bills with exactly the same provisions as the one that was desired for this place. The Judge does not like to be told of his votes on these City Court bills, as they show his position now to be anything but consistent.

Another Jolly.

"Not only in Shelby county are the populist gang ground but the party's flourishing and growing throughout the United States, and State tickets will be elected in many states of the Union on November 8."—Advocate.

The above is just another little jolly on the part of the Advocate to keep up its courage.

Yes, there will be a number of State tickets elected in November, but every man with ordinary common sense knows that the populist party will not be part nor parcel thereof. That party has no more hopes of electing a State ticket than it has of electing Tom Watson to the presidency. Besides, you know, the populist leaders here, while in the court house caucus, pledged the vote of their party in this county to Roosevelt. Such things will leak out, you know.

Tom Watson on Roesevelt.

"With the convictions which I hold, Roosevelt represents the thing that I would fight from morning to night every opportunity I got, every day of my life from now until the folding of these hands across my bereast."—Extract from Tom Watson's speech, made at Nashville, Sept. 8, 1904.

The Wily Fisherman.

Montevallo, Sept. 14th.

Mr. Sentinel:—The Prohibitionists, as usual, are not having much to say say in this campaign; but I think it not amiss, in view of the humor of the thing, to say something about Judge Longshore's angling for them in Montevallo, yesterday. He opened his speech by lauding the Prohibitionists to the skies. He took the position that the Prohibition ticket ought to be elected; that it represented the moral sentiment of this great country, and it would be the best thing for the country if they could get control, etc.; but unfortunately, although they were right, and represented the only pure, moral politics of the country, they are too weak as a party to accomplish anything just yet, and would have to educate the people up to their high plane.

One could not help thinking that, if they were numerically strong enough, he would be seeking office on their platform. Now, the Judge was plainly fishing for the few prohibition voters in his audience; but he ought to have known that they are not suckers. They vote from principle and not with the crowd. They have no use for the man who merely wants to get on the biggest side, and that for his own selfish purposes. Besides, they no more believe in dispensaries, such as Judge Longshore helped to get established, and the maintainance of which he continues to advocate in Columbiana, then they do in bar-rooms and grogeries. Then, too, they have some recollection that McMillan opposed it. In connection with the position of the two men in this matter, I am reminded of the biblical injunction: "By their acts shall ye know them."

No; Judge Longshore threw the wrong bait, and the fish have shied.

Yours truly,
PROHIB.

After the Banner.

Vincent, Sept. 19, 1904.

Editor Sentinel, Columbiana:

For a number of years Beat 4 has been the banner Democratic beat in Shelby county, but this year the Democrats of Beat 16 are going to try and take the banner away from our friends in Beat 4. We are going to run our majority above a hundred, and if we do this the Democrats of the county will turn their eyes to Beat 16 as the one entitled to the banner. Just watch us on November 8th.

JEFFERSONIAN.

Judge Longshore gives it out that the Democrats in this county will carry Beats 3, 4, 6 and 16; "these four and no more." The Judge always has been rather extravagant in his statements, and in November it will be found that he is talking now to build up his waning hopes.

Roosevelt is going into South Africa with his Big Stick because the self-respecting white people refuse to recognize the negro as a social equal. The pugnacity of the chief executive at Washington will bring war upon this country yet.
